contracts ("the contracts")." (Exhibit PAC/JU/3/SSD0/Doc/4 refers).

75. On the 23rd September 2018 Cornelio wrote, "Attached is a letter which may be of use to the GoG in order to proceed with the new platform we have offered them." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCJL/7 refers).

76. By the 27th December 2018 Cornelio was concerned that the Chief Minister would not be transferring the contract to 36 Norh. In response Levy wrote, "I don't think he will transfer the contracts back to 36N. We have to work on alternatives. I am happy to help …" (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCJL/7 refers).

77. On the 18th February 2019 he wrote to Levy saying, "Any merit in me writing to the CM directly to request he meet with me. I miss my contracts." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCJL/11 refers).

78. On the 26th March 2019 he wrote, "Perhaps CM would be willing to put the National Security system out for tender next month." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCJL/12 refers).

79. On the 27th March 2019 Cornelio again asked, "Do you think there is any chance of getting national security contract back at some point?" Despite his answer on the 27th December 2018 Levy responded, "Yes." (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCJL/9 refers).

80. On the 3rd May 2018 Cornelio wrote again saying, "Dear James, the national security system [redacted]. Can I email the CM once again to meet me? He cannot allow this to continue." (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCJL/14 refers).

[redacted]

85. On the 22nd December 2018 Cornelio wrote to Perez, "After xmas break u are going to have to push with john Rodriguez." (Exhibit PAC/MG/PHONE/1/WHATSAPP/17 refers).

86. On the 3rd January 2019 Cornelio wrote, "We need some positive news." Perez responded, "We are good. Did not want to push JR etc. Will do so on Mon. The 7th." (Exhibit PAC/MG/PHONE/1/WHATSAPP/19 refers).

87. On the 8th January 2019 Cornelio wrote to Perez, "Anything from John Rodriguez?" Perez responded, "No. You enjoy and let me focus on this." (Exhibit PAC/MG/PHONE/1/WHATSAPP/21 refers).

88. On the 11th February 2019 Cornelio wrote, "Also we need to speak to John, Aaron and Caine. I think the timing is good for us to put a fresh proposal in to renew all national security." (Exhibit PAC/MG/PHONE/1/WHATSAPP/26 refers).

89. On the 1st March 2019 Cornelio enquired, "U called Aaron or JR? Al ke mete pressure otherwise the current position is taken for granted." (Exhibit PAC/MG/PHONE/1/WHATSAPP/29 refers).

90. On the 12th March 2019 Cornelio wrote to Perez, "Spoke to JL. Can u speak to John Rodriguez this morning." Perez replied, "I will call him this morning." Cornelio continued, "Yep now is the time to attack heavily. We have the upper hand. Use ur network" (Exhibit PAC/MG/PHONE/1/WHATSAPP/30 refers).

91. On the 21st March 2019 Cornelio texted, "We need our old system back. These bastards cannot win. Call Aaron mate, this we need to take away from them ya." (Exhibit PAC/MG/PHONE/1/WHATSAPP/31 refers).

[redacted]

94. Paragraphs 55 to 93 (above) clearly show that Cornelio, together with Perez and Levy, attempted to dishonestly apply pressure on HMGoG in order to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

Computer Misuse Offences - Cornelio

95. In furtherance of the agreement to obtain the NSCIS platform maintenance contract Cornelio committed numerous computer misuse offences. These offences were primarily designed to directly or indirectly disrupt the NSICS platform, and thereby bring into question the ability of Bland to maintain the said platform. As a direct consequence of his actions Cornelio compromised the national security of Gibraltar.

96. Paragraphs 168 to 272 (below) set out the evidence in support of these offences.

NSCIS Report for Sanchez - Cornelio

97. On the 4th October 2018, Peter Canessa wrote to Caine Sanchez on behalf of the Chief Minister. In an email he wrote, "Further to my email below, and following further discussion with the CM, and to avoid any ambiguity, the instructions from the CM are that Bland Ltd is to be provided full control of the management, maintenance and support of the NSCIS platform … Once the handover process is completed Tommy Cornelio nor any 3rd party are to have access to the platform." (Exhibits PC/01 and PC/02 refer).

98. On the 5th October 2018 Sanchez contacted Cornelio and passed on these instructions. (Exhibit PAC/JV/LAPTOP/1/EMAIL/1 refers).

99. On the 9th October 2018 Cornelio sent an email to Sanchez (with James Gaggero copied in) in which he confirmed that he would no longer access the NSCIS platform as well as writing, "In fact, as you are aware, our provision of support ended on 31 August 2018 and neither iCode Limited nor Thomas Cornelio have ongoing responsibilities to support these platforms." (Exhibit PAC/JV/LAPTOP/1/EMAIL/1 refers).

100. After the 31st August 2018, and subsequent to the instructions from the Chief Minister on the 4th October 2018, Cornelio was not authorised to access the NSCIS platform.

101. Contrary to these instructions, between 2216 hours on the 11th April 2019 and 0013 hours on the 13th April 2019 Cornelio accessed the NSCIS platform using the credentials of Sanchez. (Exhibits JOG/10, JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/29 and JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/30 refer).

102. Cornelio thereby accessed a national security platform without authority, for the purpose of undermining Bland, and obtaining the NSCIS platform maintenance contract. (Charge 2 – Unauthorised access to computer material – contrary to section 362 Crimes Act 2011).

103. On the 11th April 2019 Cornelio wrote to Levy, "We are going to have a field day on the national security report..just wait until you see it. For now I am reviewing every single module 1 by 1. [redacted]."

104. The full facts of this offence are set out in paragraphs 308 to 323 below. (Caine Sanchez – The NSCIS report).

108. On the 30th August, and immediately prior to Cornelio terminating his consultancy, Levy wrote to Perez, "John I just rang you to tell you everything is under control. I've been working with Tommy on the relevant letters. I am very confident that we will bring this to a close in a successful manner very shortly. You can rest assured I will do my best to help you in every way. I have great Respect and admiration for your ability and hard work. Do not worry if there is an attack I will help you to defend and to counter-attack. You're a military man so I'm writing to you in military terms." (Exhibit JC/CHAT/JPJL/5 refers).

109. Together with Levy and Cornelio, Perez was involved in the planning to appropriate the business commenced by Bland for the benefit of 36 North. In part, this is evidenced by the Letter of intent addressed to Levy and the subsequent setting up of 36 North. (Exhibits JC/Emails/36North).

110. Paragraphs 48 to 53 are repeated (Cornelio – Appropriation of Business Commenced by Bland).

111. In addition, on the 6th July 2018, Perez discussed one of these projects, namely Carnival Cruises, with Levy, despite not having resigned from Bland. He wrote, "James we have just finished with Carnival after a long day of negotiations. We have been successful and now moving to the pilot phase. Flying back tomorrow." (Exhibit JC/CHAT/JPJL/2 refers).

112. On the 7th September 2018, and in respect of Sao Tome, Perez wrote to Levy, "James this week we will be receiving a contract from São Tomé and Príncipe for review. With regards to dropping Fabian a note, let's give him a bit more time. As the pressure will naturally surface through his law enforcement heads." (Exhibit JC/CHAT/JPJL/7 refers).

Knowledge of Computer Misuse Offences - Perez

116. Evidence suggests that Perez was made aware of the computer misuse offences committed by Cornelio. (Paragraphs 168 to 272 refer).

117. On the 19th October 2018 Cornelio wrote to Perez saying, "Spoke to James ref forensic team confidentially. Spoke to him on the phone. Call me and I can discuss. He says not to worry. I am very concerned they will try to prove I have acted to sabotage the system in any way etc." (Exhibit JC/CHAT/JPJL/6 refers).

118. On the 12th October 2018 Perez had a meeting with the Commissioner of Police. During this meeting he informed the Commissioner that they no longer had any involvement with the NSCIS platform but [redacted] When asked how he knew this information if they no longer exercised control he replied, "Tommy is a wizard."

NSCIS Report for Sanchez - Perez

119. Paragraphs 97 – 104 are repeated. (NSCIS Report for Sanchez – Cornelio)

120. Despite no longer having access to the NSCIS platform, Perez assisted Cornelio as he was writing the NSCIS report for Sanchez.

121. On the 13th April 2019, a day after Cornelio had accessed the platform, he wrote to Perez, "I have done my NSCIS bit. I will type it up later tonight." (Exhibit PAC/MG/Phone/1/Whatsapp/36 refers).

122. On the 14th April 2019, Cornelio wrote to Perez, "I'm doing the report for Caine now." Perez later wrote, "Ok. Once done send it by email. Can view better on the lap top." (Exhibit PAC/MG/Phone/1/Whatsapp/37 refers).

JAIME LEVY – CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD ([Joint] Charge 1)

123. During the course of 2018 Levy planned, together with Cornelio and Perez, to obtain the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

Planning / Preparation to Obtain the NSCIS Platform Maintenance Contract - Levy

124. Together with Perez and Cornelio, Levy was involved in the planning to dishonestly appropriate the NSCIS maintenance contract.

125. Paragraphs 35 to 47 are repeated. (Cornelio - Planning / Preparation to Obtain the NSCIS Platform Maintenance Contract).

Appropriation of business commenced by Bland - Levy

126. Together with Perez and Cornelio, Levy was involved in planning to dishonestly appropriate the business commenced by Bland.

127. Paragraphs 48 to 53 are repeated (Cornelio – Appropriation of Business Commenced by Bland).

128. Paragraphs 109 to 112 are repeated (Perez – Appropriation of Business Commenced by Bland).

Pressure on HM Government of Gibraltar - Levy

129. Levy assisted both Perez and Cornelio to apply pressure to HMGoG with the intention that the NSICS maintenance contract would be transferred to 36 North.

130. Paragraphs 72 to 80 are repeated (Cornelio – Pressure on HM Government of Gibraltar).

131. Paragraph 115 is repeated (Perez – Pressure on HM Government of Gibraltar).

Knowledge of Computer Misuse Offences - Levy

132. On the 19th October 2018 Cornelio wrote to Levy saying, "Morning James. Very confidential. Note Gaggero has brought in a forensic team of six to look at anything John and I may have done to tamper with the system etc. Gaggero is going all out it seems. (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCJL/5 refers).

133. In a text to Perez the same day Cornelio stated that he had spoken to Levy and was told not to worry. (Exhibit PAC/MG/Phone/1/Whatsapp/4 refers).

134. The evidence indicates that Levy discussed the forensic team with Cornelio and that he had given him advice about the situation.

NSCIS Report for Sanchez - Levy

135. By 2019 Levy was in no doubt that Cornelio and 36 North had not been contracted to maintain the NSCIS platform. Despite this fact, he did not question Cornelio accessing the system in April 2019.

136. On the 11th April 2019 Cornelio wrote to Levy, "I am preparing a report for Caine/Albert Mena with regards to the failures of the National Security platform of which [redacted] Lesley is preparing a legal letter for your review in an attempt to speed up the process. This is ok?" (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCJL/10 refers). He went on to say, "We are going to have a field day on the national security report..just wait until you see it. For now I am reviewing every single module 1 by 1. [redacted]."

137. On the 23rd April 2019 he wrote to Levy, "Note I provided Albert Mena with a report on the National Security system. Has he made any comment to you about this? The report would have been delivered to him via Caine." (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCJL/1 refers).

CAINE SANCHEZ – CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD ([Joint] Charge 1)

138. The evidence in support of Sanchez conspiring with Cornelio, Perez and Levy, to defraud Bland by dishonestly appropriating the NSCIS platform maintenance contract for the benefit of 36 North Limited is contained in paragraphs 274 to 324 below.

AARON CHIPOL – (Charge 3 - Misconduct in Public Office)

139. Evidence of misconduct by Chipol can be arranged into the following sub-headings:

a. Attempts to undermine Blands in favour of 36 North;
b. Encouraging Cornelio to access the NSCIS system without authority;
c. Knowledge of unauthorised access to the NSCIS platform by Cornelio;
d. Disclosing sensitive information to Cornelio regarding the NSCIS platform;
e. Offering government funding to 36 North.

Attempts to undermine Blands in favour of 36 North

140. Between September 2018 and May 2019 both Cornelio and Chipol communicated on an almost daily basis. The exchanges predominantly revolved around the NSCIS platform and attempts to undermine Blands as the provider of such. Chipol appeared to be willing to place pressure upon the government in order to assist Cornelio [and thereby 36 North] in obtaining the NSCIS platform maintenance contract. On a number of occasions Chipol accepted drafts from Cornelio which he agreed to send on as complaints [as if he had written them himself].

141. On 14th September 2018 Cornelio sent Chipol a draft email as part of a Whatsapp chat in relation to ID Scanners to send on to Caine Sanchez. (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCAC/1 refers).

142. On 17th September 2018 Chipol sent this email to Caine Sanchez as if it was himself who wrote it. This was shortly after Chipol was promoted to CEO of BCA. (Exhibit JC/EMAIL/ACCS/2 refers)

143. On 17th September 2018 Cornelio informed Chipol "Aaron...[redacted]" Chipol replied "Wow" and "are you able to fix it". Cornelio then sent Chipol a draft of an email to forward to Caine Sanchez. (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCAC/2 refers)

144. On 18th September 2018 Chipol sent an amended version of this email to Sanchez stating "Yesterday I had a conversation with Tommy Cornelio who informed me of the following:" The email sent by Chipol was less direct. (Exhibit JC/EMAIL/ACCS/1 refers)

145. On 18th October 2018 Cornelio asked Chipol "Did you put pressure on them?" and "Maybe an email to CM letting him know about the meeting and that they are asking for more time" Chipol replied "I did Claro". (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/4 refers).

146. On 23rd October 2018 Cornelio and Chipol discussed the platform. Cornelio wrote, "They are being very reckless pretending that they can work on the system." Chipol replied "ya". He later stated "More pressure the better". (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/5 refers).

147. On 30th October 2018, the conversations continued. Chipol informed Cornelio who he and other users of the system were directing their complaints to. Cornelio wrote "As long as u copy in caine or cm i am sure the cm will sort out next week" Chipol replied, "Yep caine copied in all complaints" (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/7 refers).

148. On 22nd November 2018, Cornelio asked Chipol to send a "strong email" copying in Caine and CM. (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/8 refers). From analysis of Chipol's emails this was not sent on.

149. On 5th December 2018, Cornelio drafted an email for Chipol to send to Sanchez. (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/9 refers). From analysis of Chipol's emails this was not sent on.

150. On 11th December 2018, Cornelio stated "Aaron thx...Caine said he got ur email". (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/10 refers). From analysis of Chipols emails, this was never sent however an email was sent on 11th December 2018 by Joseph Molinari (BCA Head of Immigration) to Sanchez. This is likely to be what Cornelio was referring to.

151. On 20th March 2019, Cornelio and Chipol discussed the APIS platform and a forthcoming meeting with the Chief Minister Chipol was due to attend. Cornelio asked to meet Chipol prior to this meeting. (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/11 refers).

152. On 23rd April 2019, Cornelio drafted a further email for Chipol to send onto Sanchez. This email was in relation to the Twitter Feed and Frontier Queue times. From analysis of Chipol's emails, this was not sent on. (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/12 refers)

153. On 5th May 2019, Cornelio asked Chipol if he wanted him to prepare a paragraph regarding the queue issue. Chipol replied "Would be useful". Cornelio later sent a draft in relation to NSCIS and that it should be brought down. (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/13 refers). From analysis of Chipol's emails, this was not sent on.

154. The evidence in paragraphs 140 to 153 show that Chipol and Cornelio continued to discuss the NSCIS platform after Cornelio had left the employment of Bland. The language used suggests that he was supportive of Cornelio. However, whilst Chipol sent on an initial email that had been drafted by Cornelio, and amended a second, there is no evidence that he complied with further requests.

Encouraging Cornelio to access the NSCIS system without authority

155. On the 27th July 2018 Cornelio advised Chipol, following a request to check a registration number, that he would be 'out' as of the 10th August and that it would be more difficult in future. Chipol replied "Really happy for you." (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/14 refers).

156. By the 31st August 2018 Cornelio had left Blands, and had terminated his consultancy period. He wrote to Chipol on the 7th September 2018 "We need CM to move everything over to us officially asap" Chipol replied "Yep". (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/15 refers). The evidence suggests that Chipol was aware that Cornelio had left Bland after this date.

157. Despite the above, there are two occasions where Chipol encouraged Cornelio to access the system:

a. On 17th September 2018, Cornelio informed him that there were 15 entries to be appended. Chipol replied "Wow" "You able to fix it". (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/16 refers).

b. On 28th September 2018, Chipol wrote to Cornelio "Tommy I need to give access to an officer to see statistics". Cornelio replied "Sure np". Chipol then asks "not here can you do". (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/17 refers).

158. The evidence is paragraphs 155 to 157 suggest that Chipol encouraged Cornelio to access the national security platform.

Knowledge of unauthorised access to the NSCIS platform by Cornelio

159. Chipol was aware Cornelio should not have accessed the system after September 2018. Despite this, he failed to take action when Cornelio confirmed he was obtaining unauthorised access.

[redacted]

161. On the 11th October Chipol made it clear that Cornelio should not be involved in NSCIS. In response to an offer from Cornelio to access the system he stated, "As Caine doesn't want you involved let me speak to moli as he should know [redacted]." In turn, at 1246 hours, Cornelio confirmed that he had looked at the system [redacted] (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/20 refers).

162. On 23rd April 2019, Cornelio sends Chipol a message "aaron...take a look...top secret for your eyes only ok" followed by an attachment. Cornelio wrote "that is a full report into the system as commissioned by Albert Mena. Do not tell anyone i sent to you ok" (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/22 refers)

Disclosing Sensitive Information to Cornelio Regarding the NSCIS Platform

163. In addition to knowing Cornelio was accessing the NSCIS platform, Chipol periodically updated Cornelio concerning deficiencies / problems with the system. In doing so he contravened his statutory duties under the section 2 of the Official Secrets Act 1911.

1[redacted]

165. On 24th October 2018, [redacted], Chipol confirmed to Cornelio that that elements of the security platform [redacted]. (JC/CHAT/TCAC/23 refers) Chipol subsequently asked Cornelio to "Please keep to yourself lol." (JC/CHAT/TCAC/24 refers)

166. On 5th December 2018, Cornelio confirmed, "14th August was my last day at Blands" Despite this, Chipol went on to state "I am logged in going through everything". On the same date Cornelio asked Chipol to check a number of the NSCIS functions such as vehicle search, maritime data, suspicious persons etc. Chipol provided information about the status of the NSCIS platform to Cornelio. (Exhibits JC/CHAT/TCAC/25 and JOG/122 refer)

Offering Government Funding to 36 North

167. On the 1st November 2018 Chipol wrote to Cornelio and confirmed that he retained some of the BCA budget pending an anticipated transfer of the NSCIS maintenance contract to 36 North. (Exhibit JC/CHAT/TCAC/27 refers).

COMPUTER MISUSE OFFENCES

168. In furtherance of the conspiracy to defraud Bland of the NSCIS platform maintenance agreement Cornelio committed a number of computer related offences. A number of these offences were initially discovered by PwC, who were engaged by Bland, in October 2018, following numerous performance issues associated with the system.

WAVETECX EMAIL ACCOUNTS

169. The Wavetecx email accounts were the property of Bland Limited.

170. On the 27th July 2018, without authority, and while still an employee of Bland (in his notice period), Cornelio logged onto the Wavetecx email server and exported all the data, including user mailboxes and data files from all Wavetecx email accounts. These included the email accounts of Perez and Cornelio.

171. On the same date, and without authority, Cornelio deleted all Wavetecx mailboxes and data files from the Wavetecx server. The email accounts included evidence of the intent of Perez and Cornelio to appropriate the NSCIS maintenance contract (Exhibit JG/22 refers), as well as potential customers of the NSCIS platform and communications with HMGoG relating to the NSCIS platform. (Exhibits JOG/11 & JOG/15 refer).

172. These actions were performed from IP addresses attributed to Cornelio. (Exhibits JOG/12,PAC/JC/Tablet/1/IP/1, PAC/JU/3/SSD0/IP/1, PAC/JU/3/SSD0/Doc/9 and PAC/JU/3/SSD0/IP/2 refer).

173. Cornelio exported and deleted these mailboxes in the belief that these mailboxes could not be recovered. (Exhibit JC/Whatsapp/Ateam/1, JC/Whatsapp/Ateam/2 and JC/Whatsapp/Ateam/3 refers). (Charge 4 - Unauthorised acts with intent to impair the operation of a computer – section 364(1) as read with s.364(2)(b) Crimes Act 2011). Despite his belief that they could not be retrieved, the content of these mailboxes were later recovered.

174. These actions were consistent with the agreement to undermine Bland Limited and appropriate the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

PREVENTING MICROSOFT AZURE ACCESS

175. On the 16th May 2018, being the same date on which ICode Limited was incorporated by Cornelio, the login credentials of Jonathan Galliano (Bland Head of IT and Infrastructure), in respect of the Bland Microsoft Azure account failed to work.

176. Cornelio persistently failed to restore the access despite repeated requests to do so on the 16th May 2018, 9th July 2018, 24th July 2018, 25th July 2018, 26th July 2018, 31st July 2018, 2nd August 2018, 6th August 2018 and 10th August 2018. (Exhibit JOG/17 refers). (Charges 5 to 13 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011).

177. The login issues were due to Cornelio blocking the Microsoft Azure account of Galliano, as he was the only person authorised to do so.

178. These actions prevented Galliano, and thereby Bland, from accessing the NSCIS Azure resources, which hindered the ability of Bland to identify, diagnose, administer and repair issues associated with the NSCIS platform.

179. It further prevented Galliano (and thereby Bland) from accessing the Azure Management Portal activity logs, which would have identified actions carried out by Cornelio on the Microsoft Azure account.

180. These actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland Limited and appropriate the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

TERMINATION OF CONSULTANCY PERIOD

181. On the 1st September 2018 Cornelio terminated the consultancy period with Bland. In an email to James Gaggero, dated the 30th August 2018 he wrote, "Please let this email serve as official notice that as of 00:00 on 1st September 2018 I will no longer be supporting the NSCIS platform in any capacity." (Exhibit JG/29 refers).

182. On the 9th October 2018 Cornelio sent an email to Sanchez (with James Gaggero copied in) in which he wrote, "In fact, as you are aware, our provision of support ended on 31 August 2018 and neither iCode Limited nor Thomas Cornelio have ongoing responsibilities to support these platforms." (Exhibit JG/28 refers).

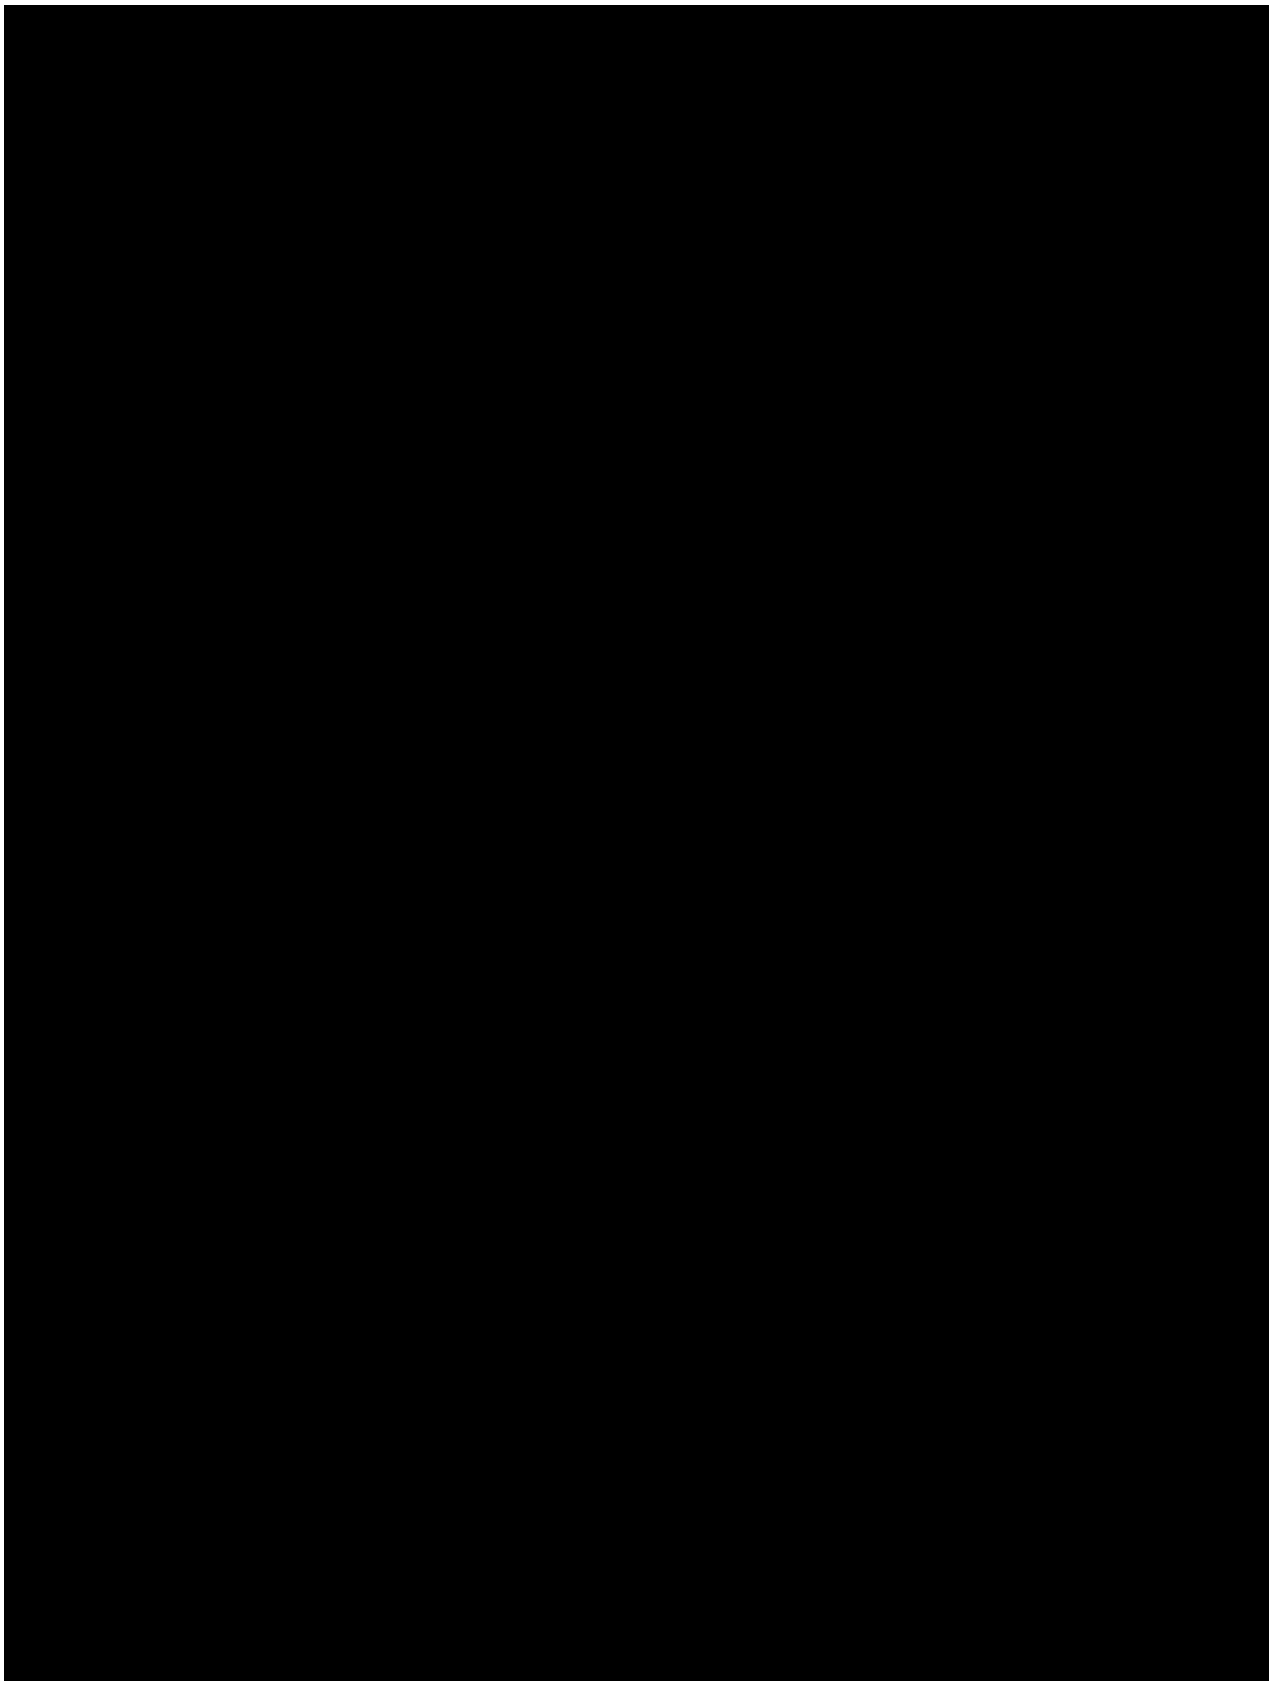
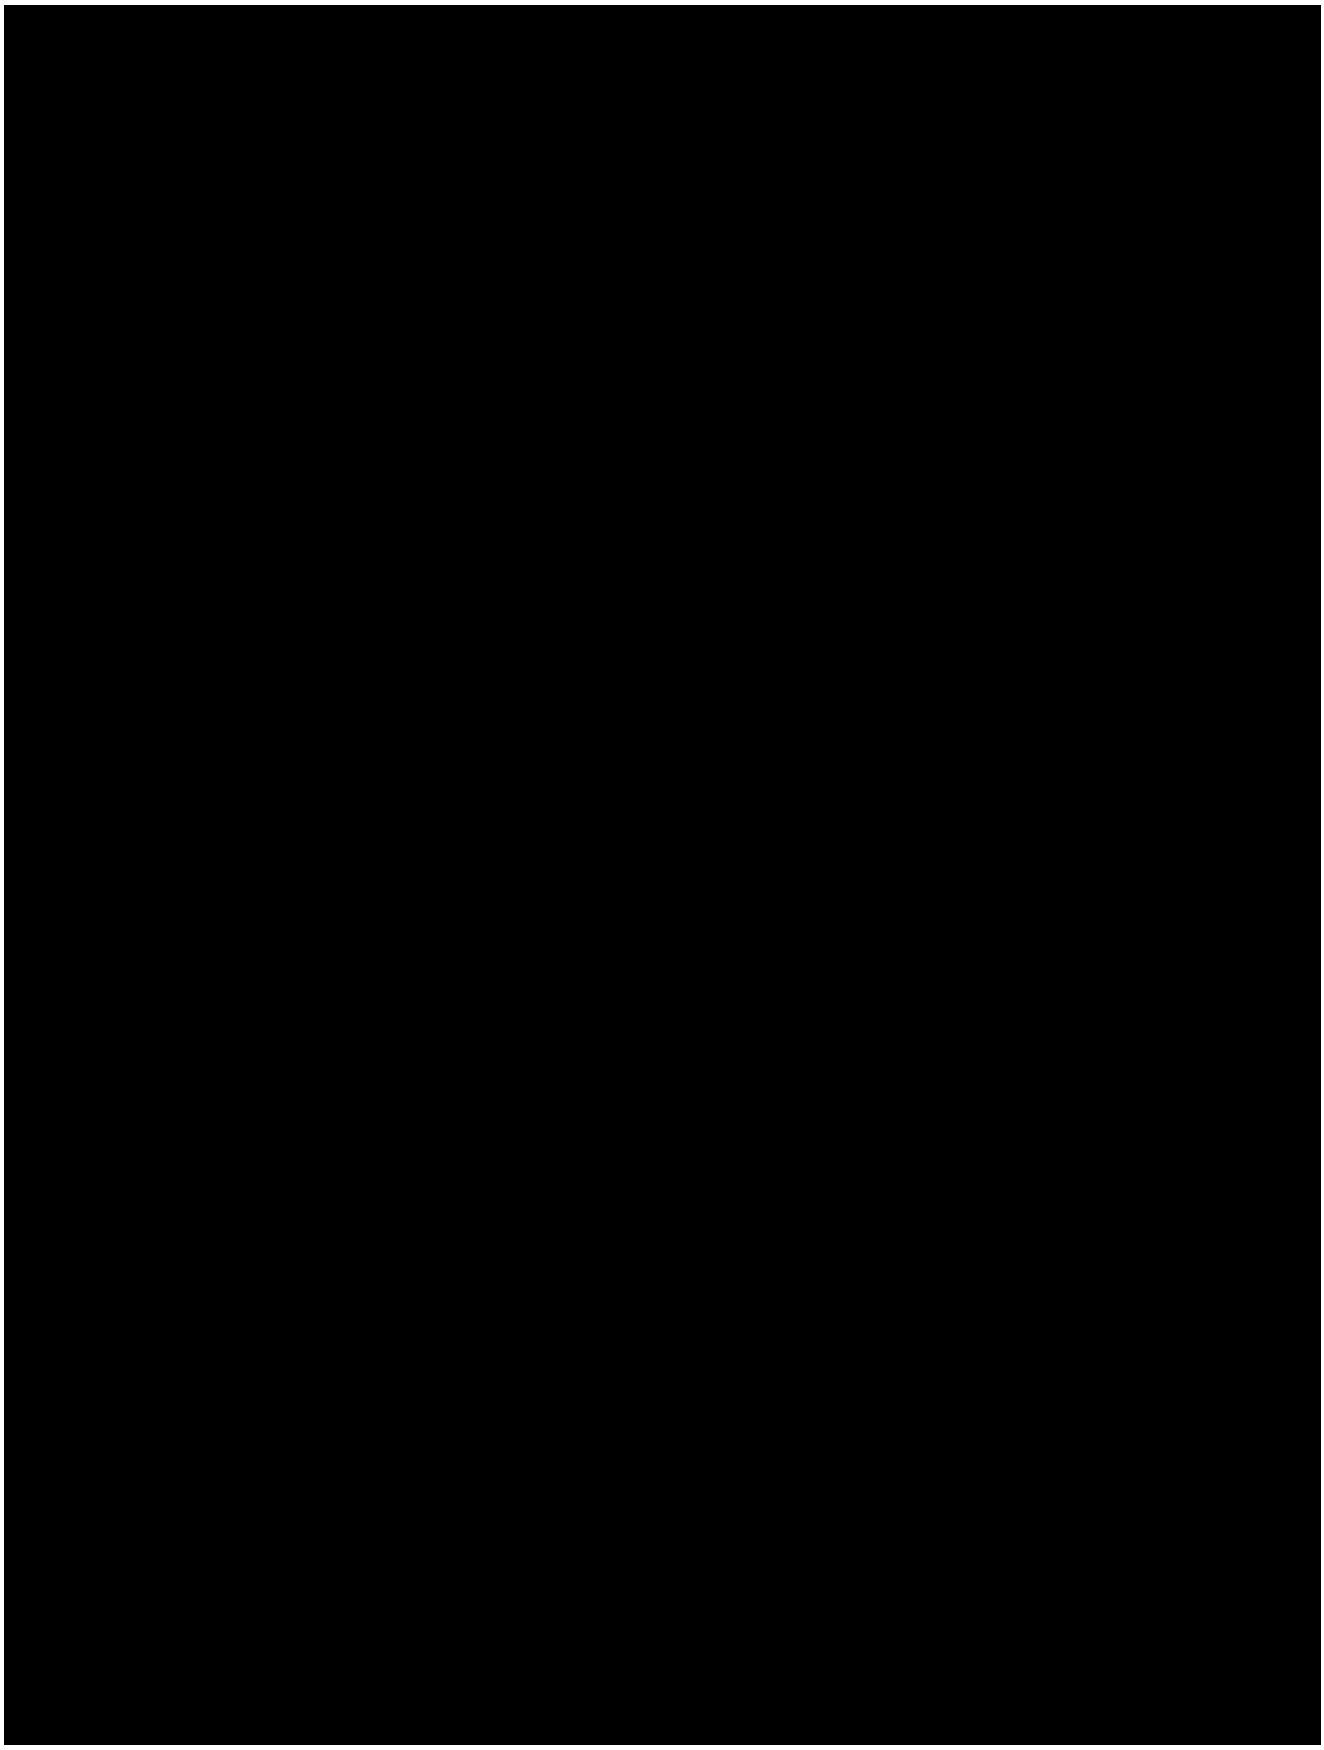
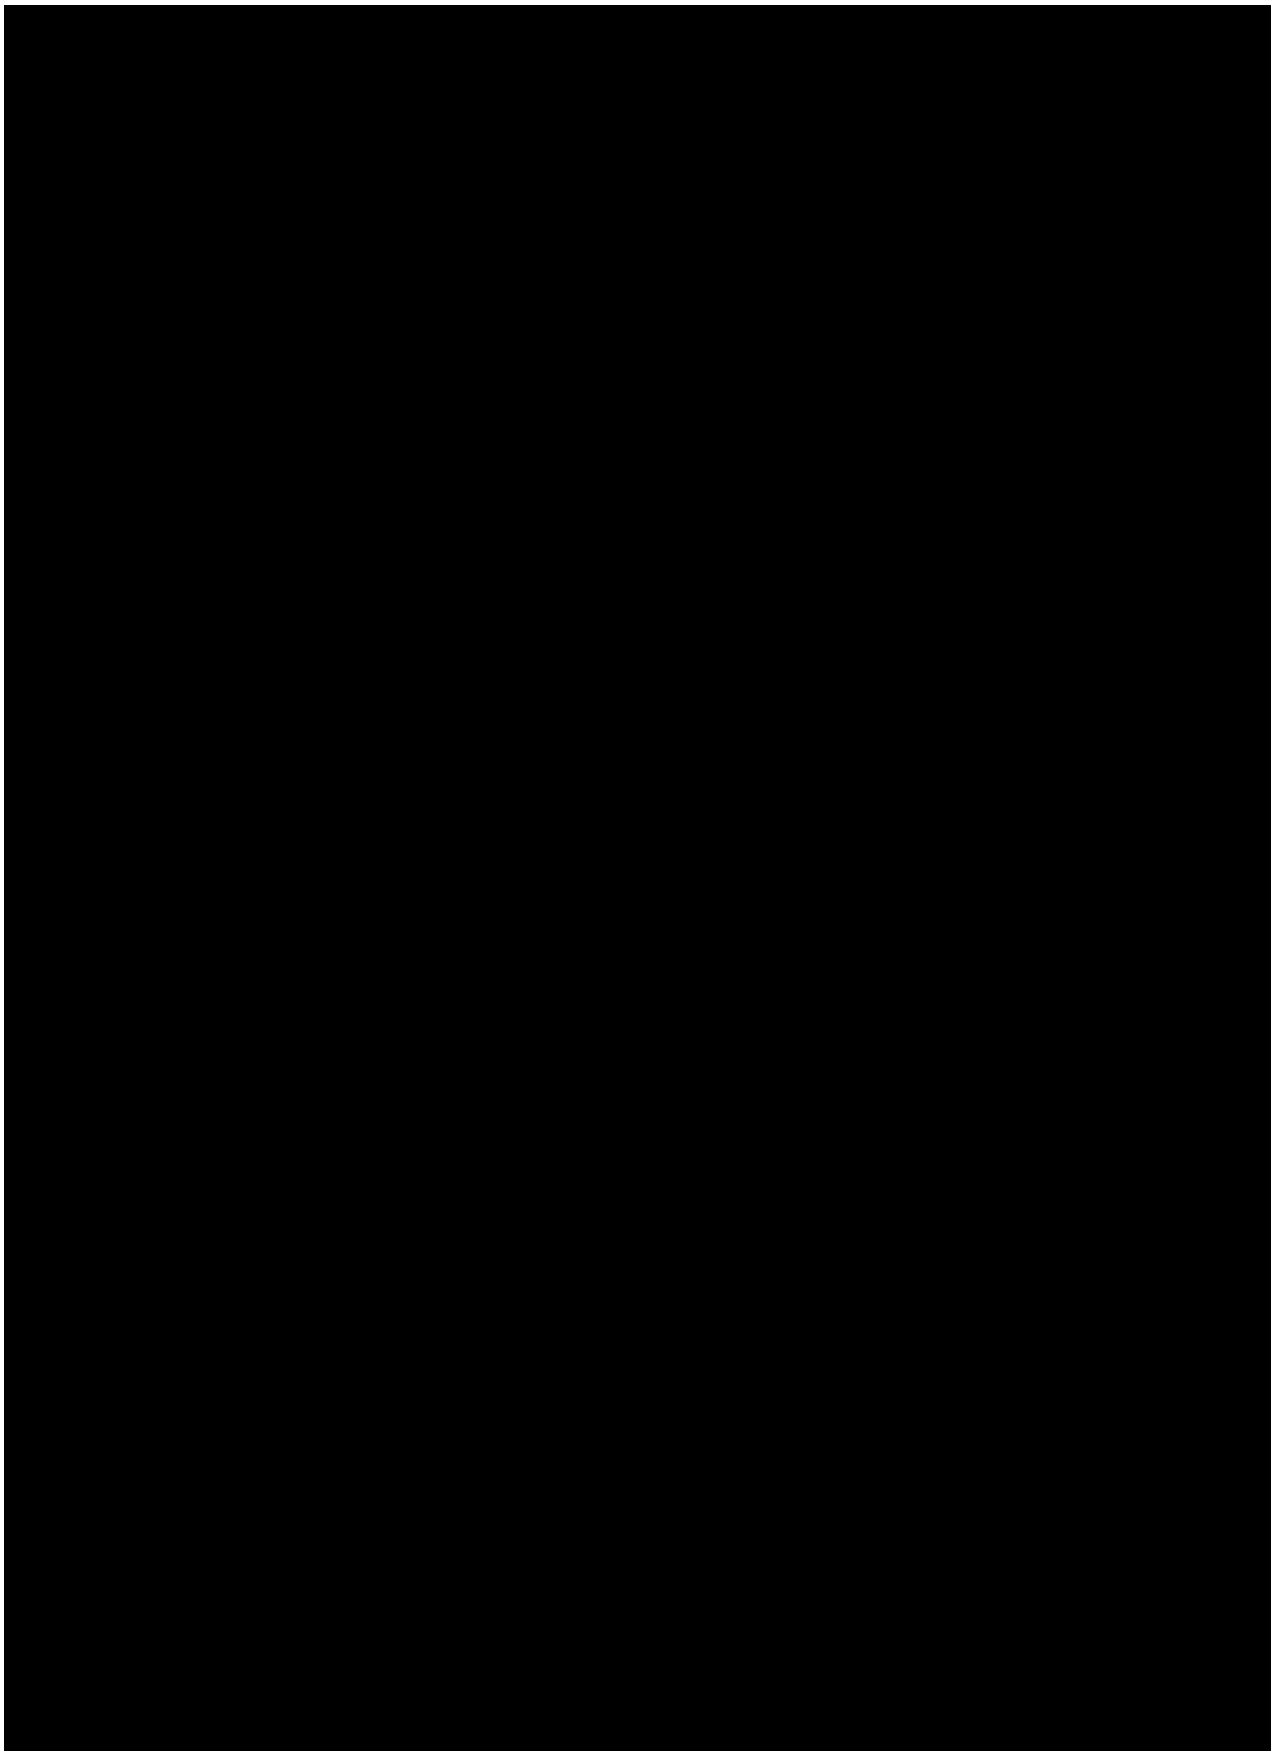
183. As of the 1st September 2018 Cornelio was no longer authorised by Bland to access the NSCIS platform.

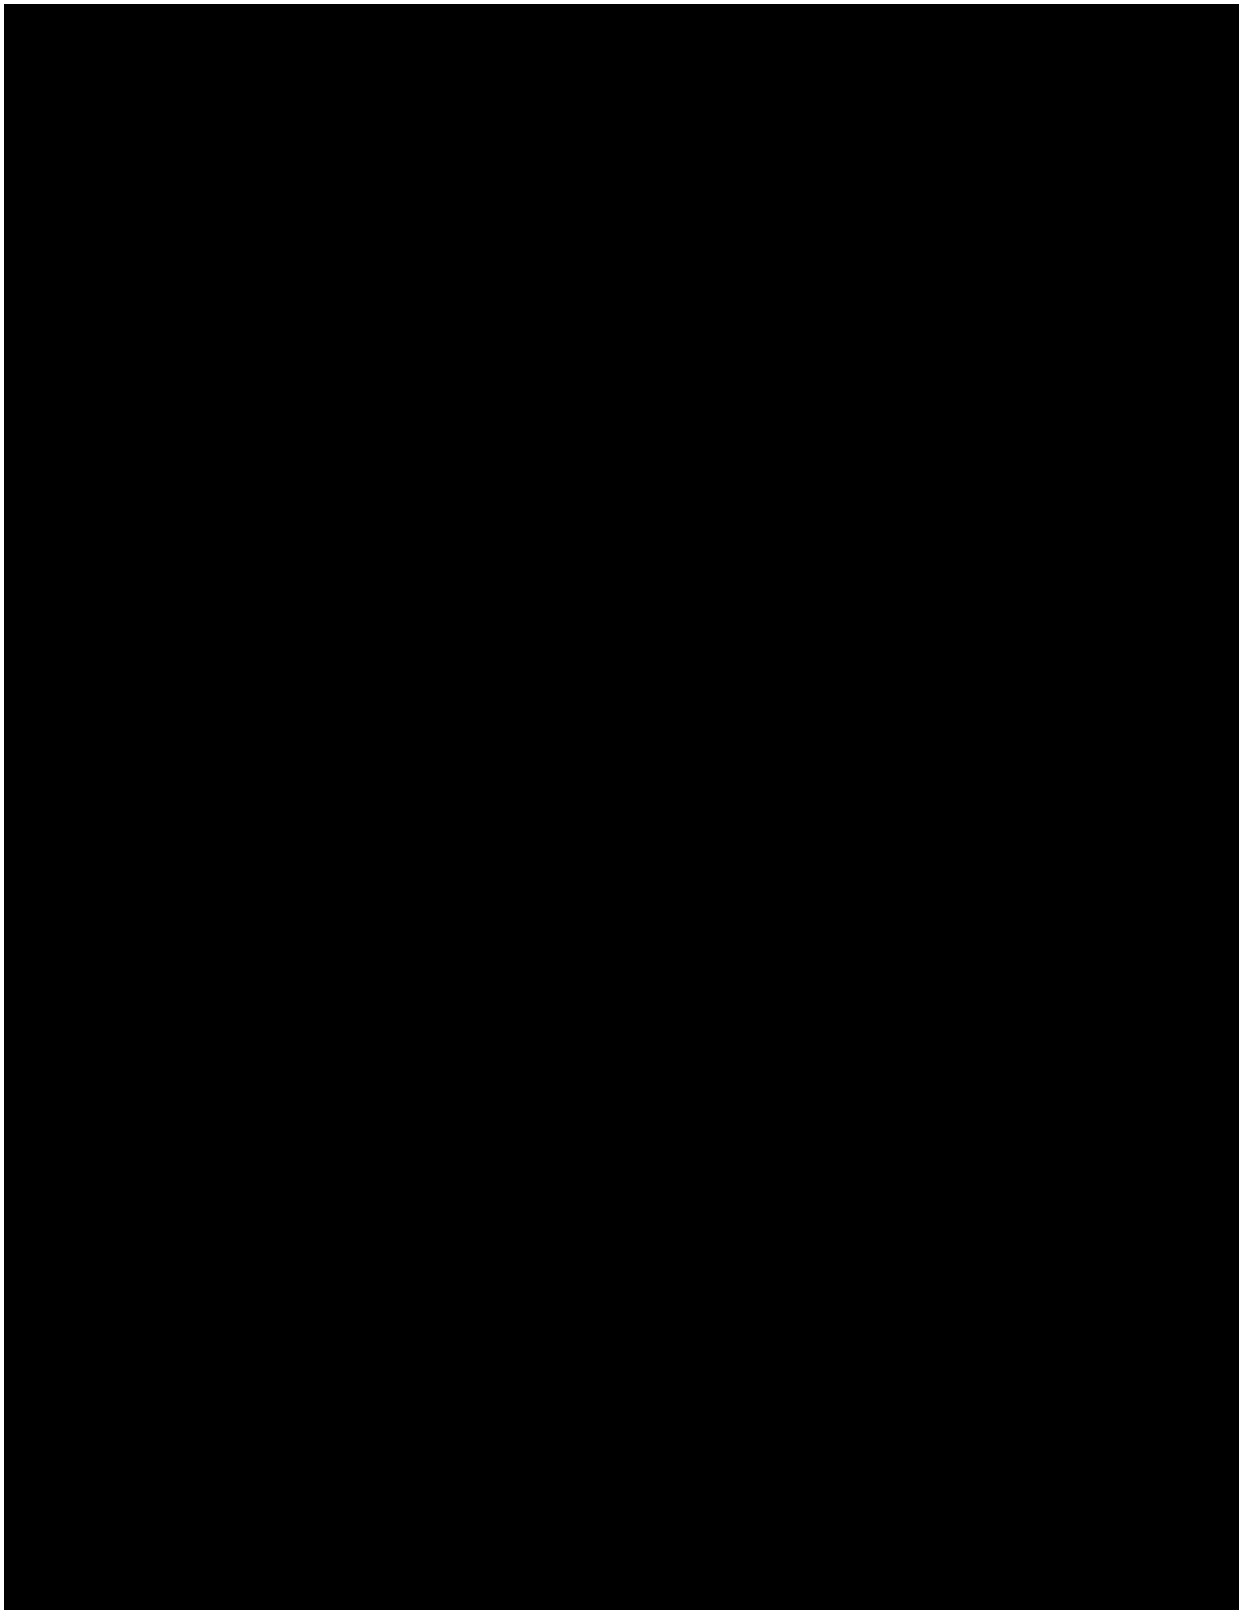
184. However, Microsoft Azure logs revealed that Cornelio had logged on using his account [redacted] on numerous occasions after the 31st August 2018 (Exhibit JOG/26 refers).

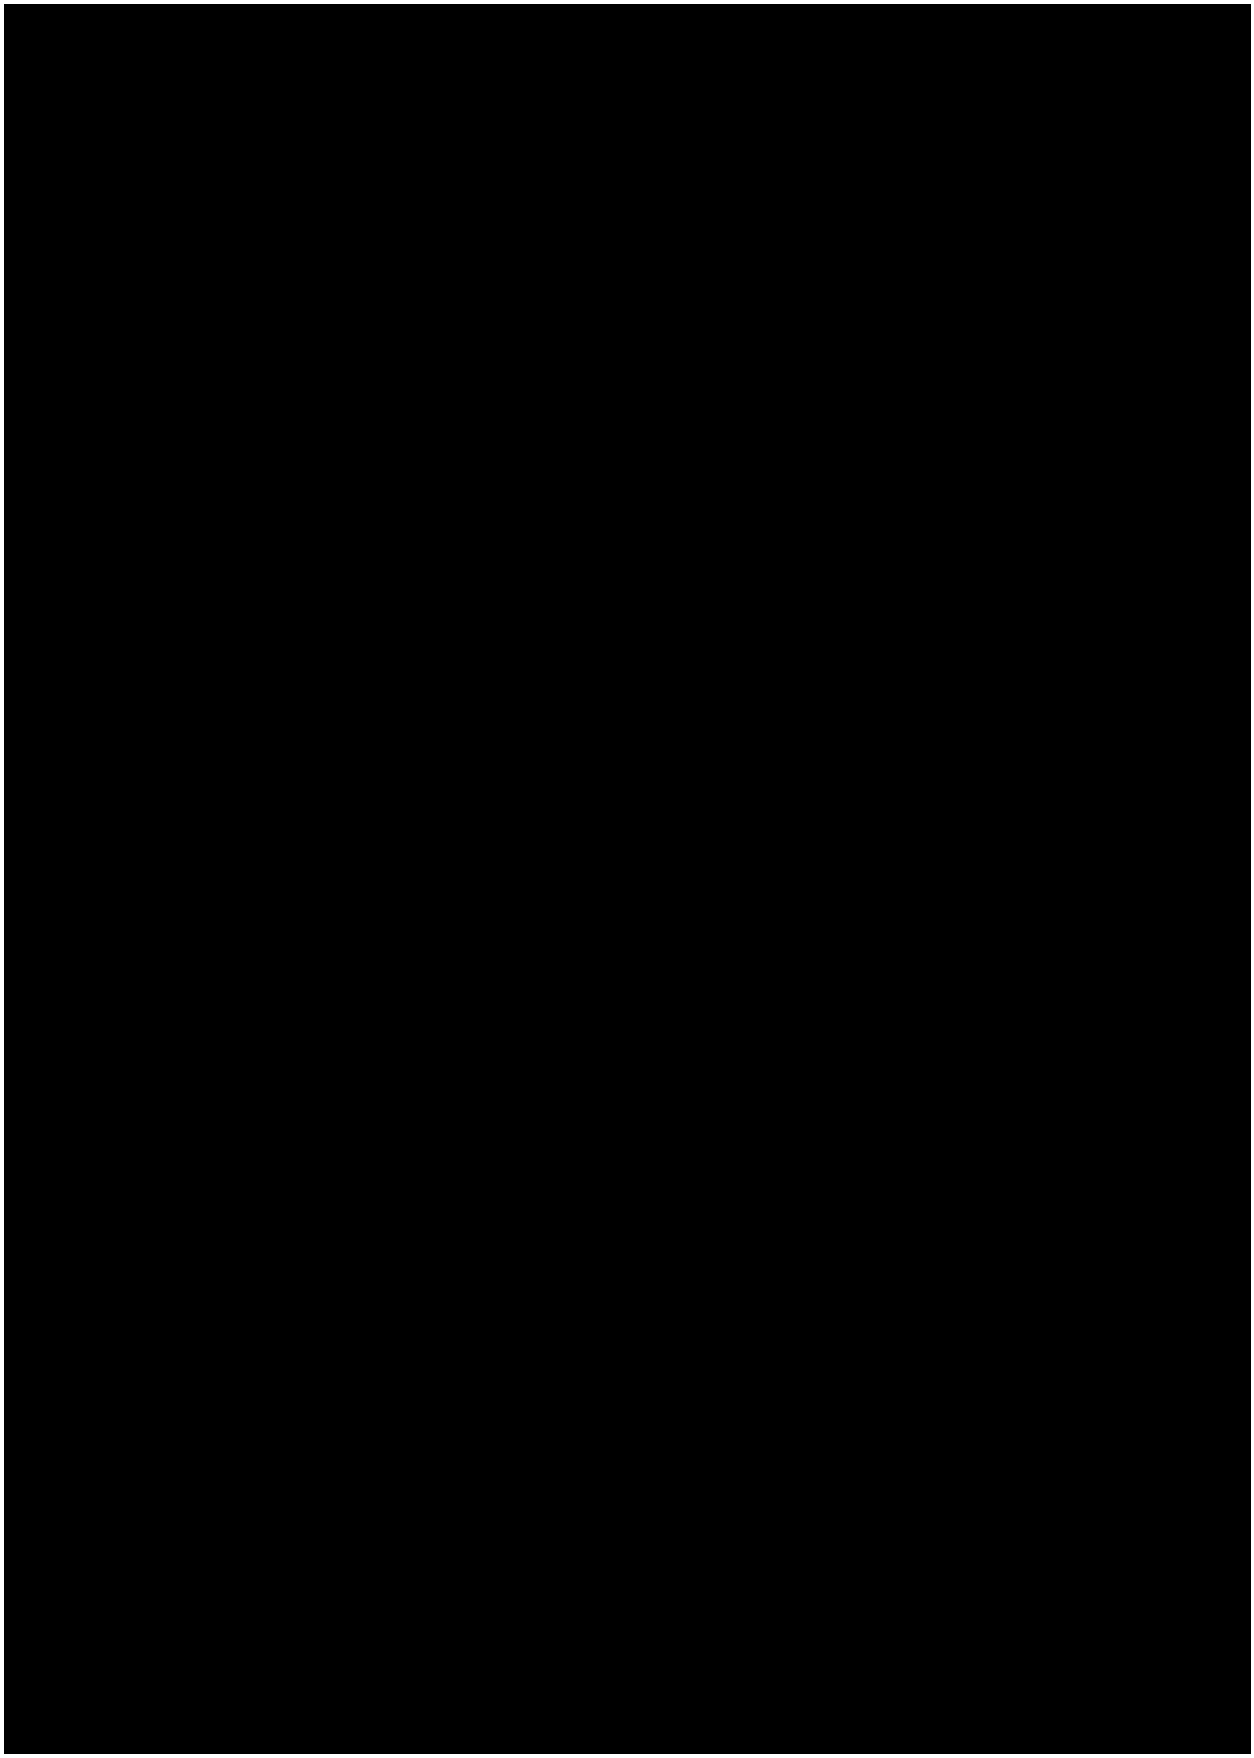
[redacted]

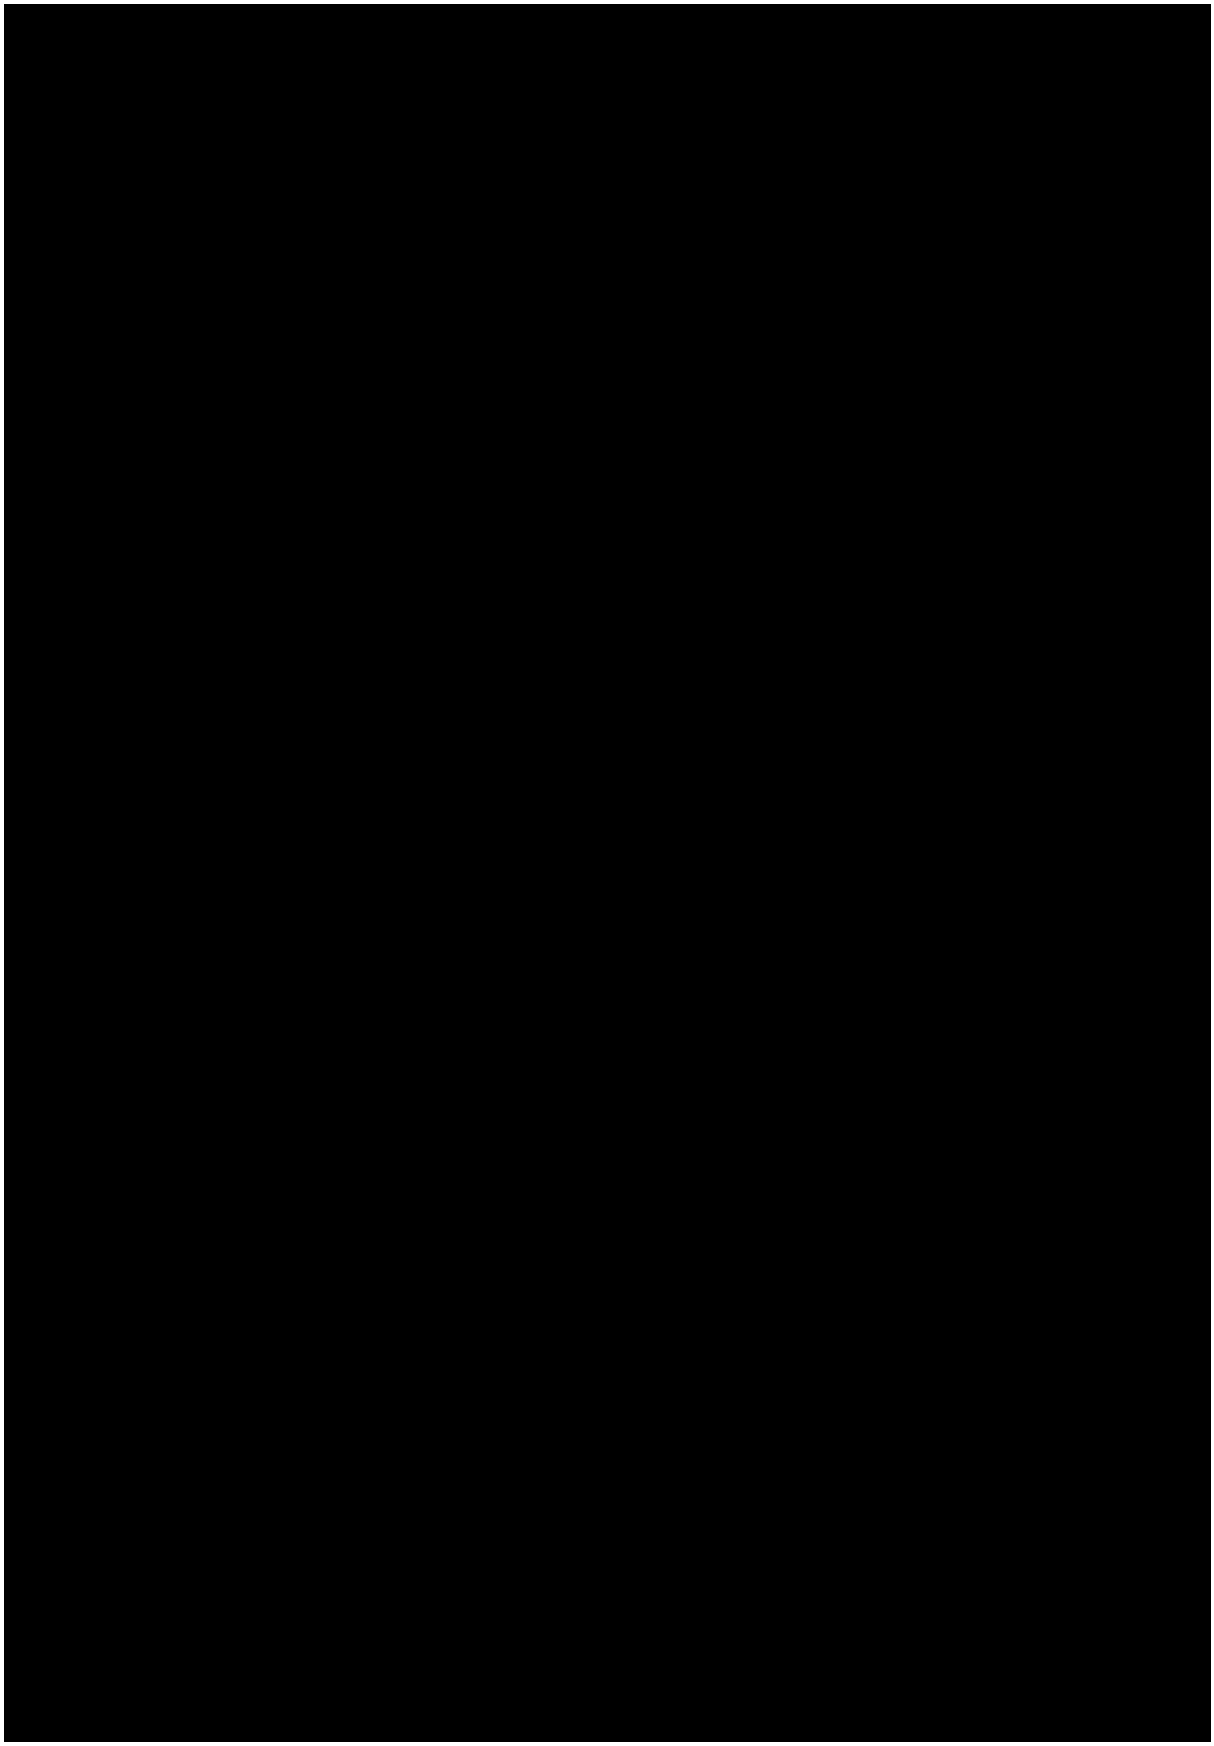


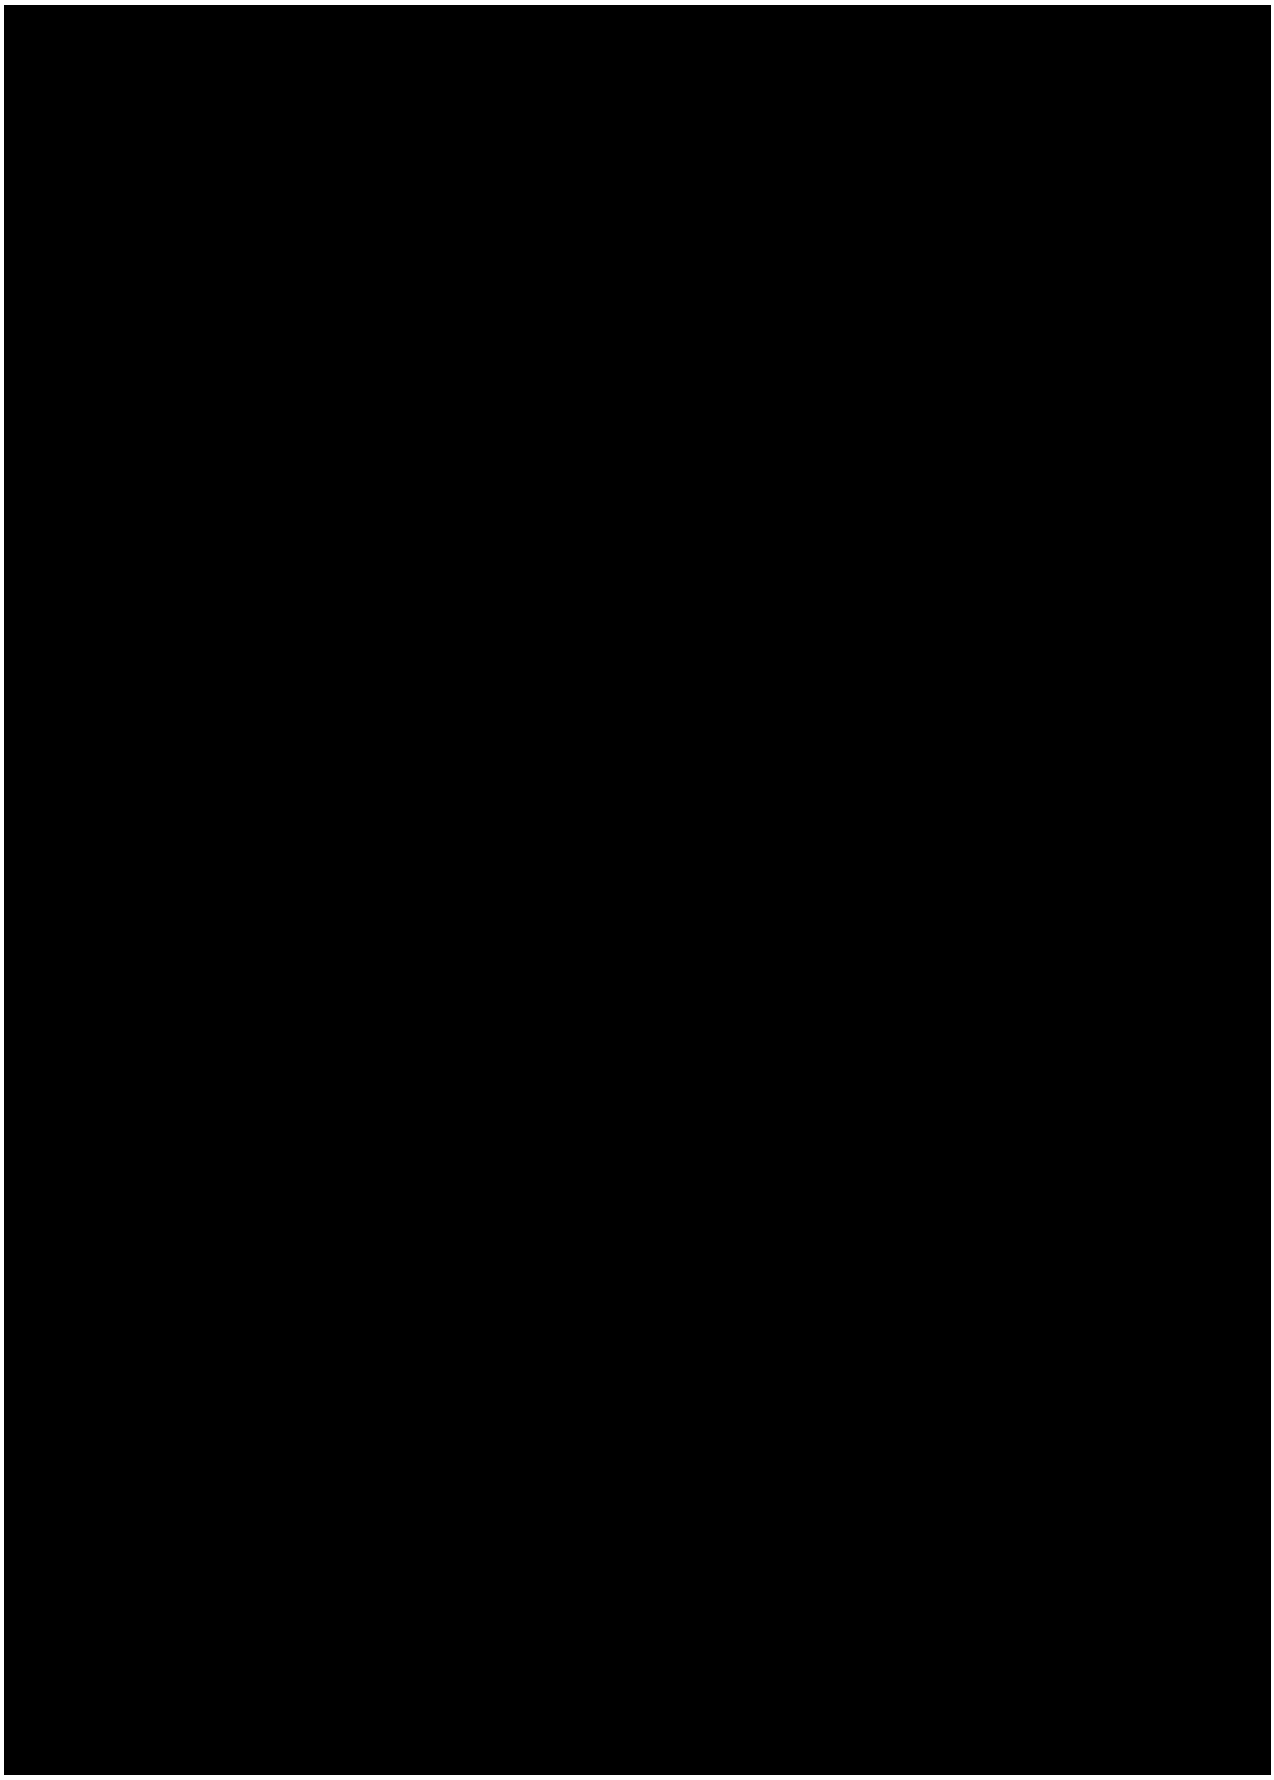


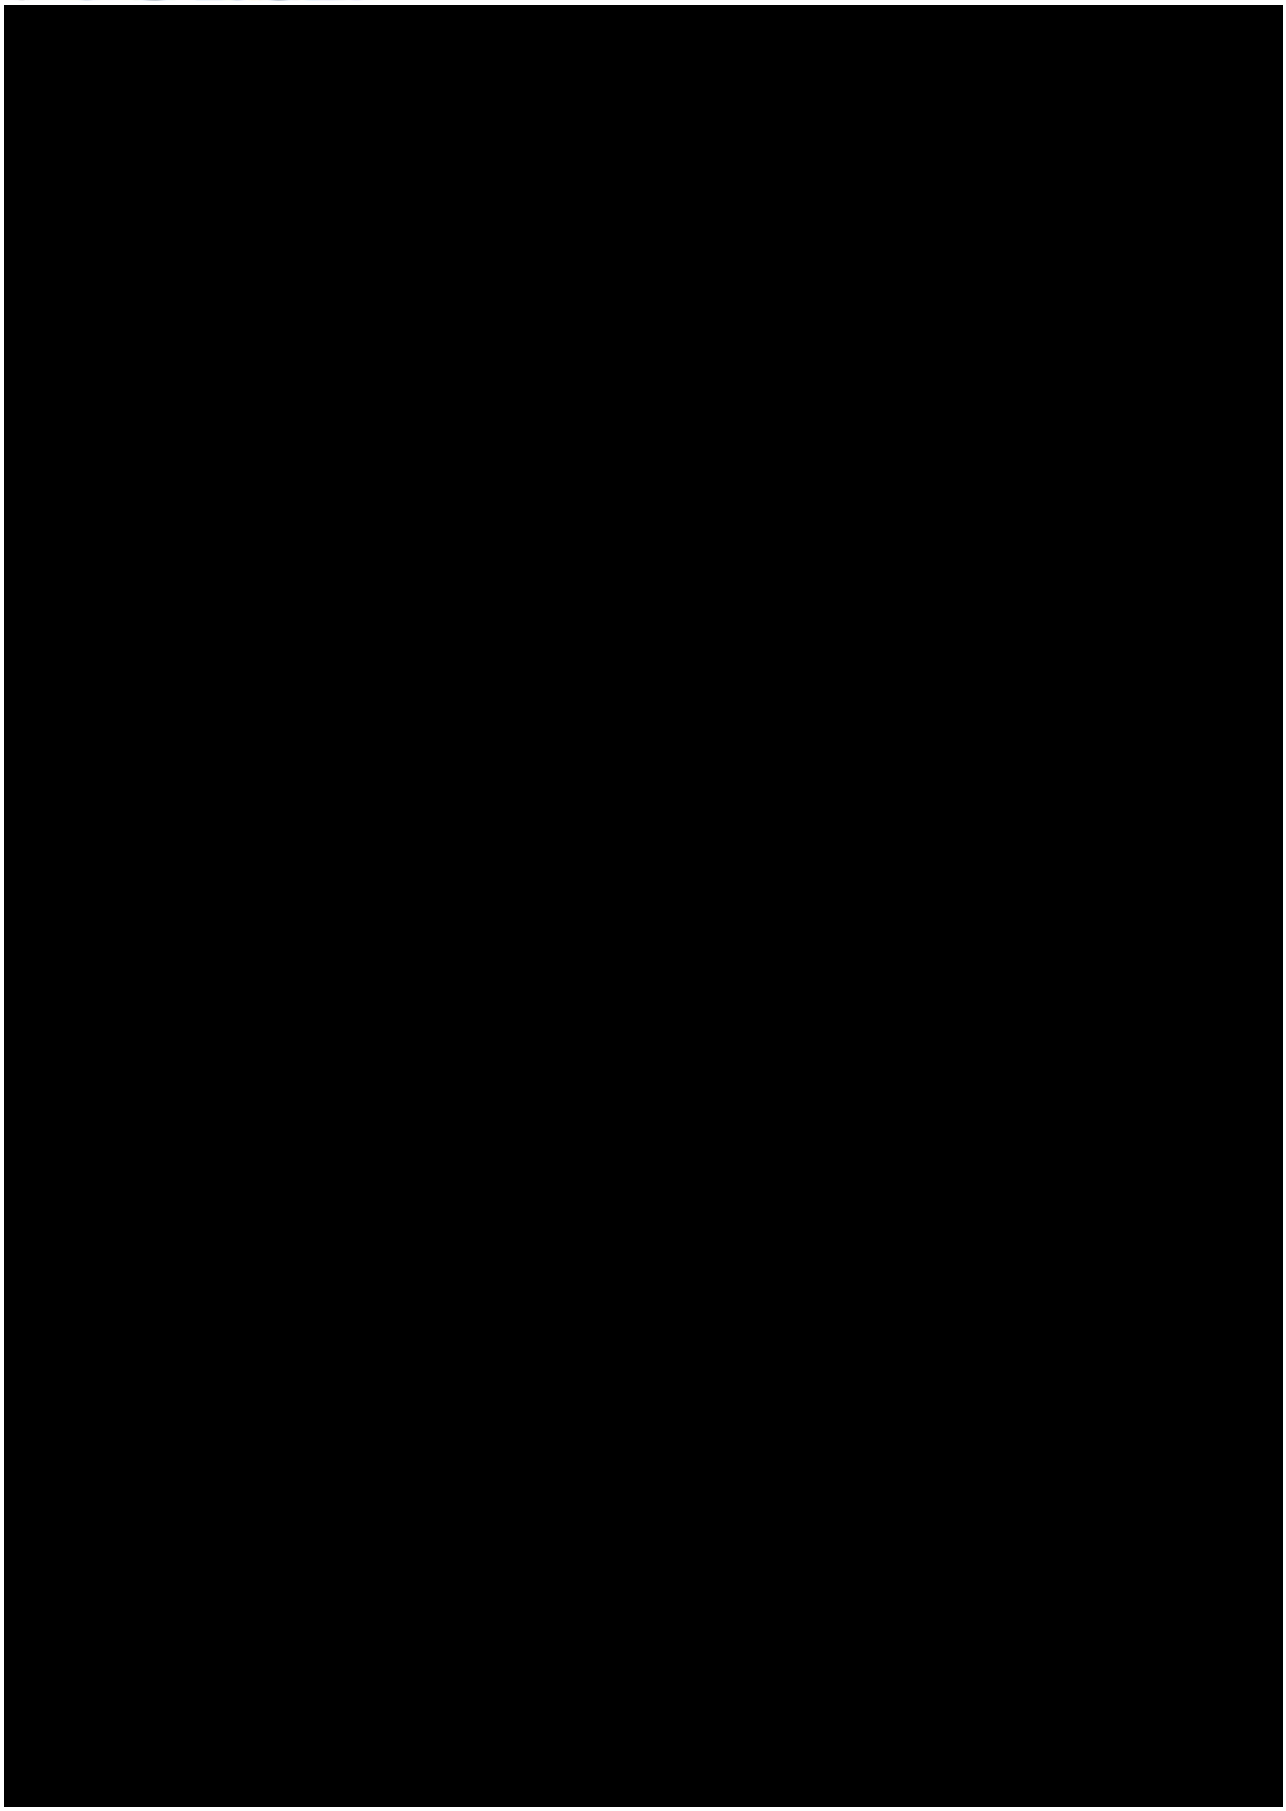


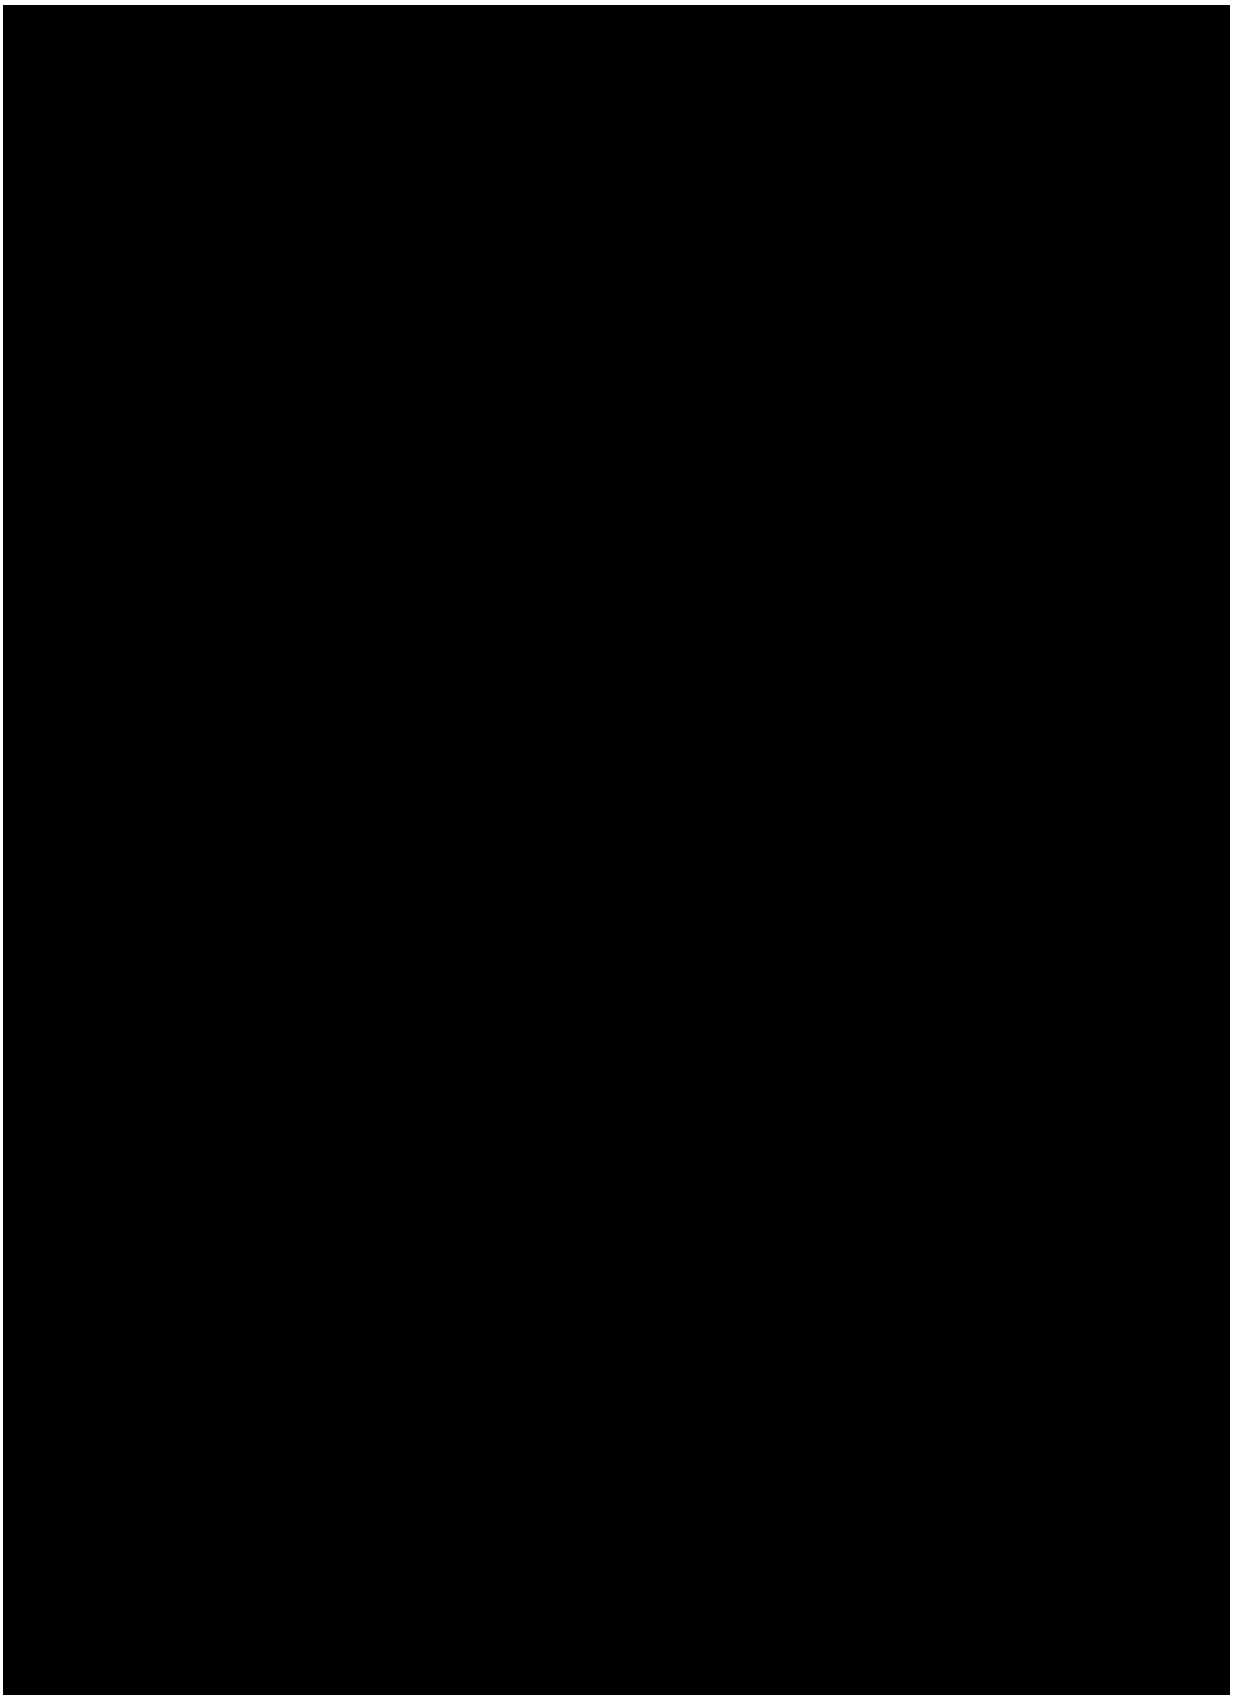


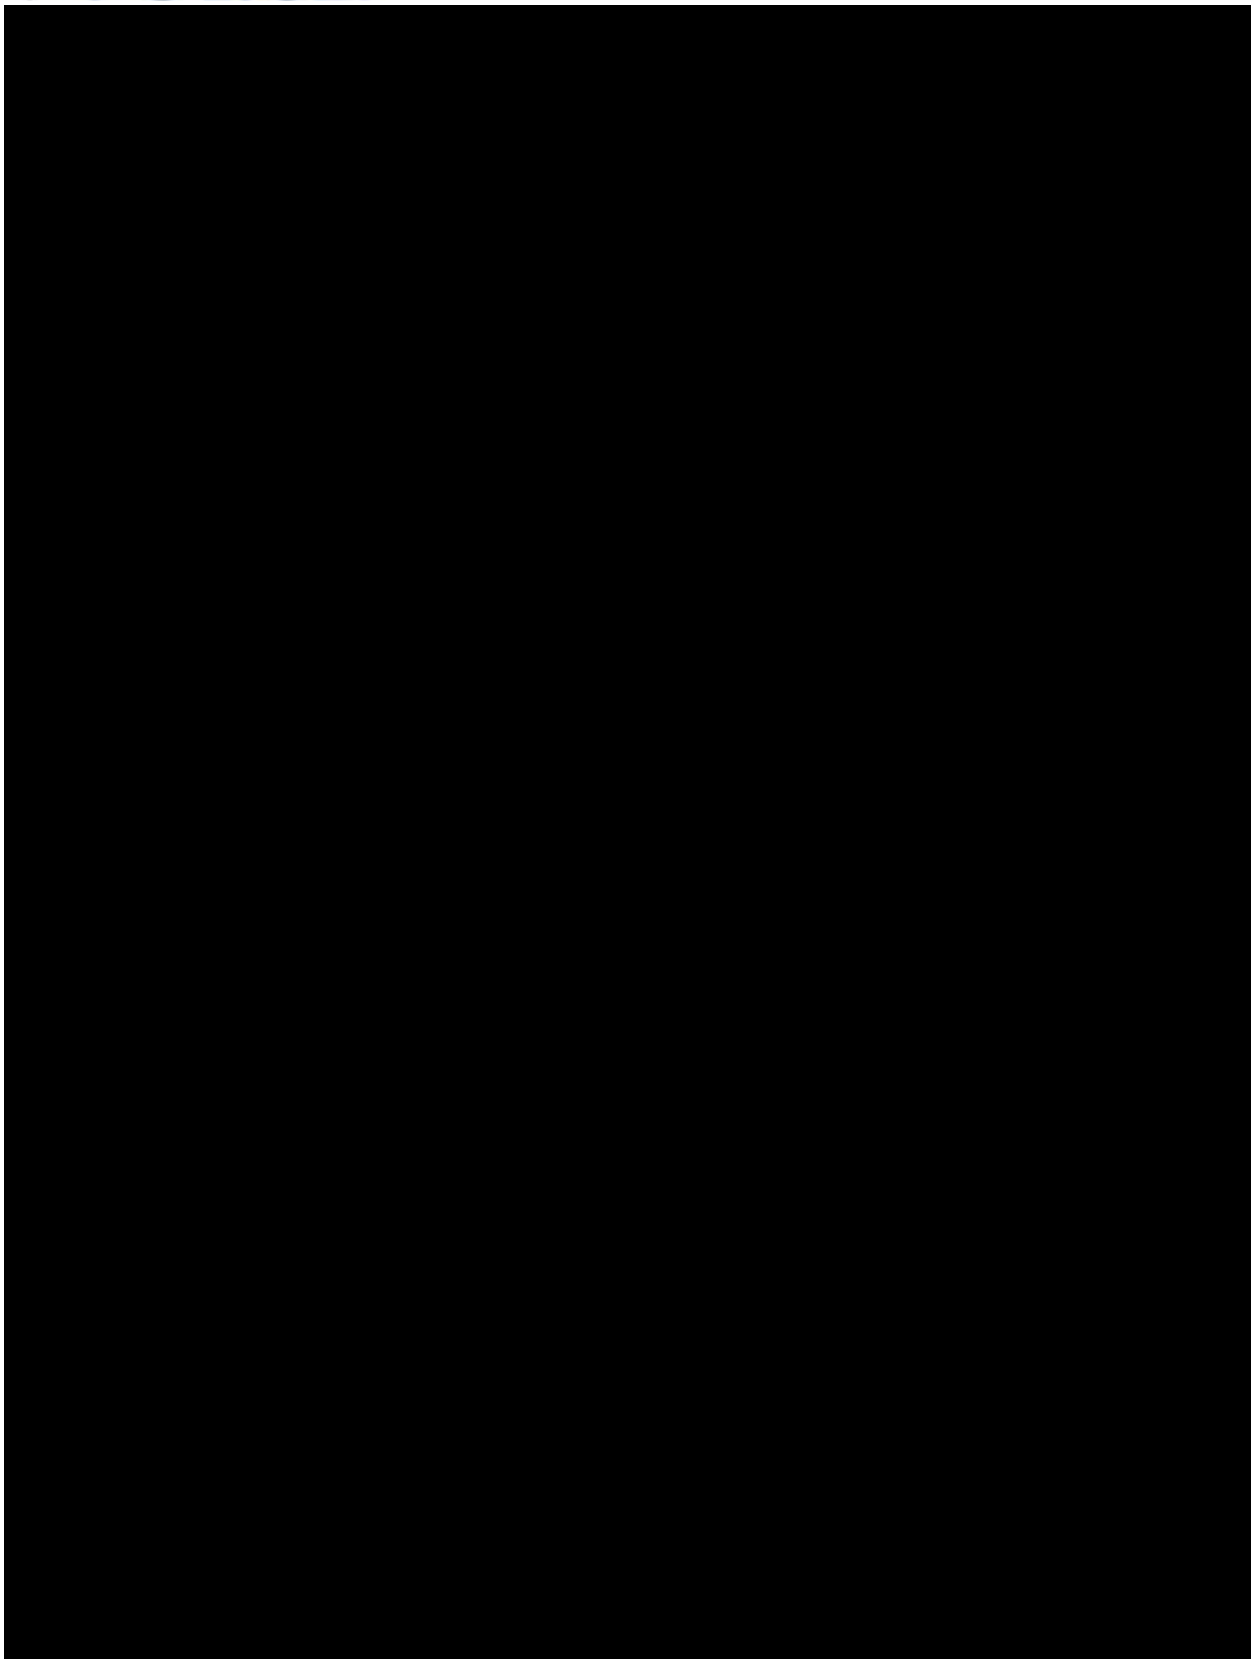


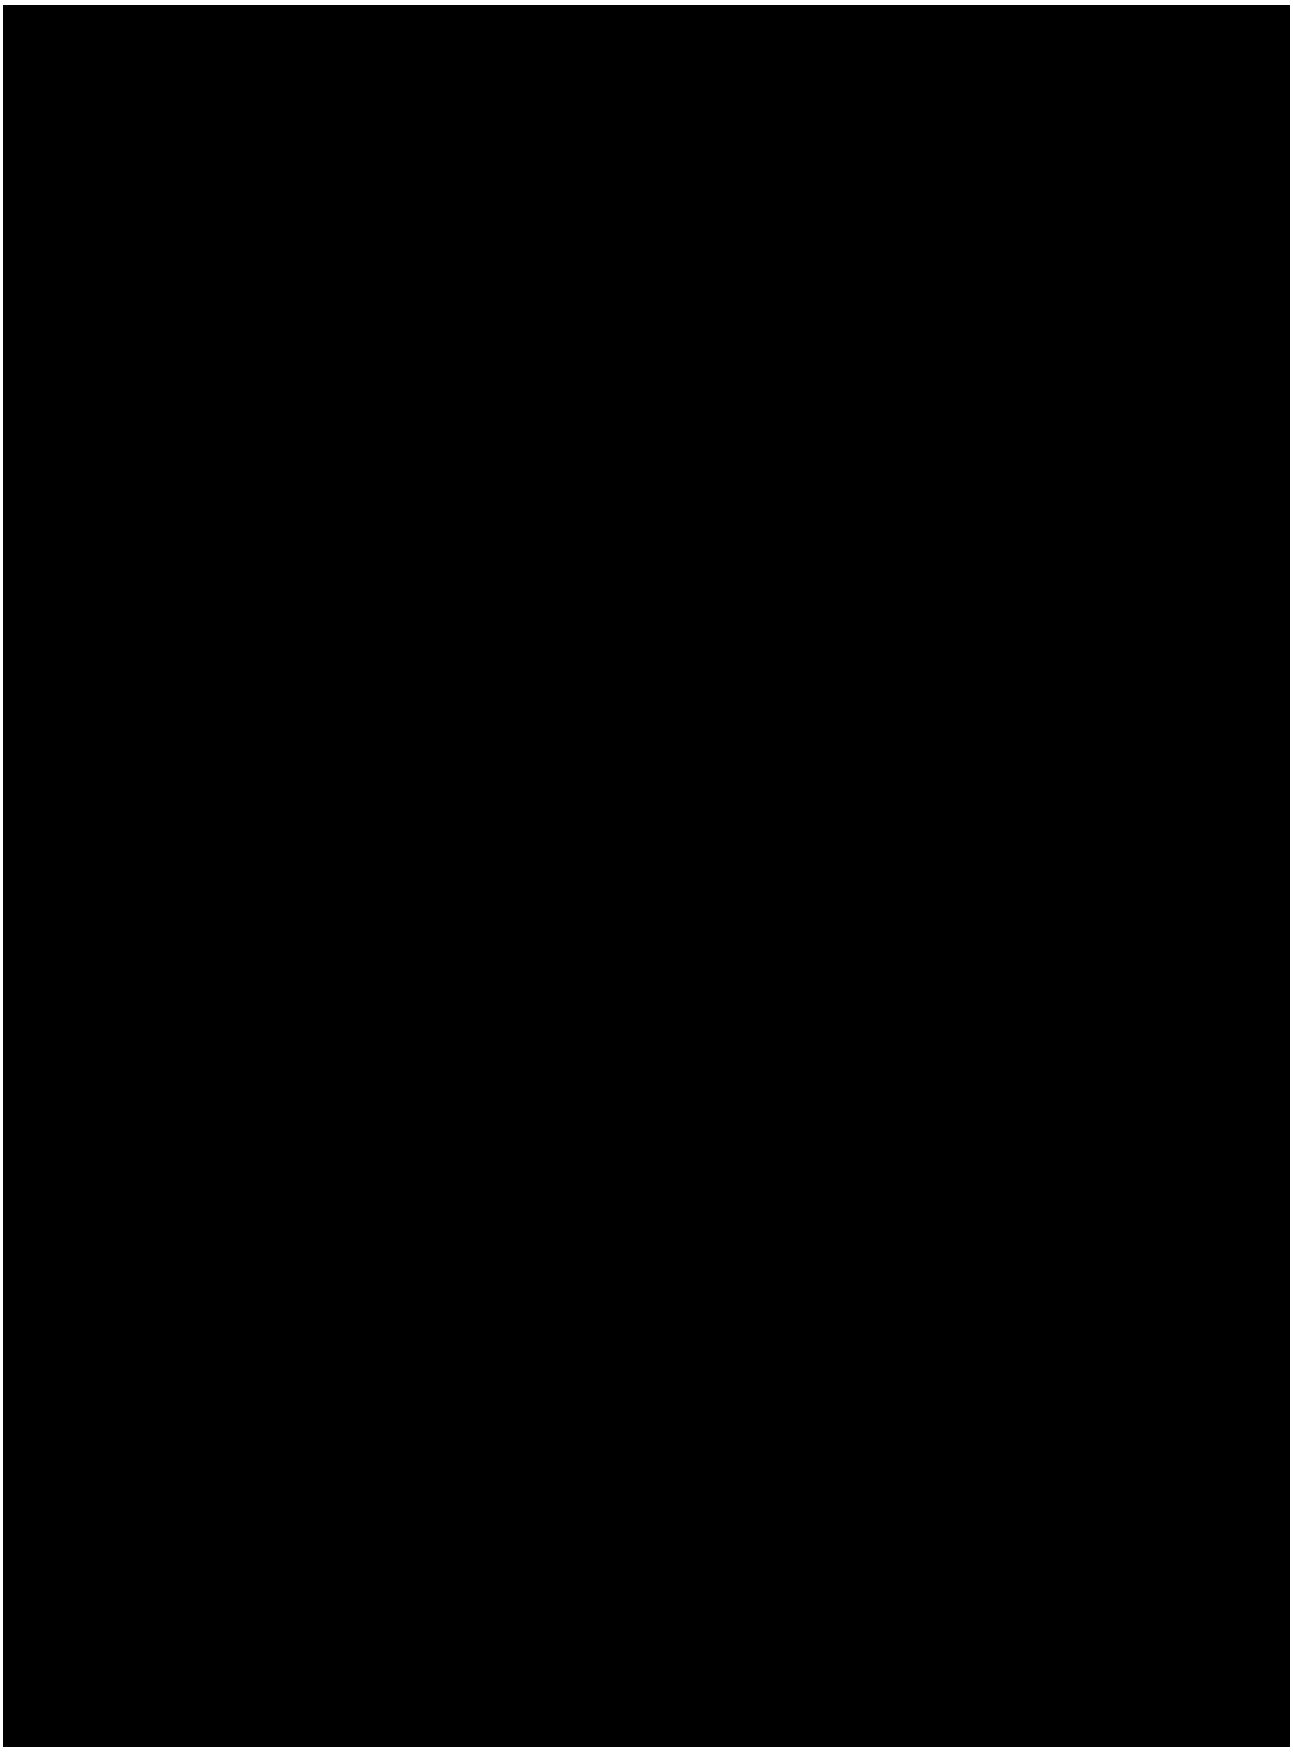


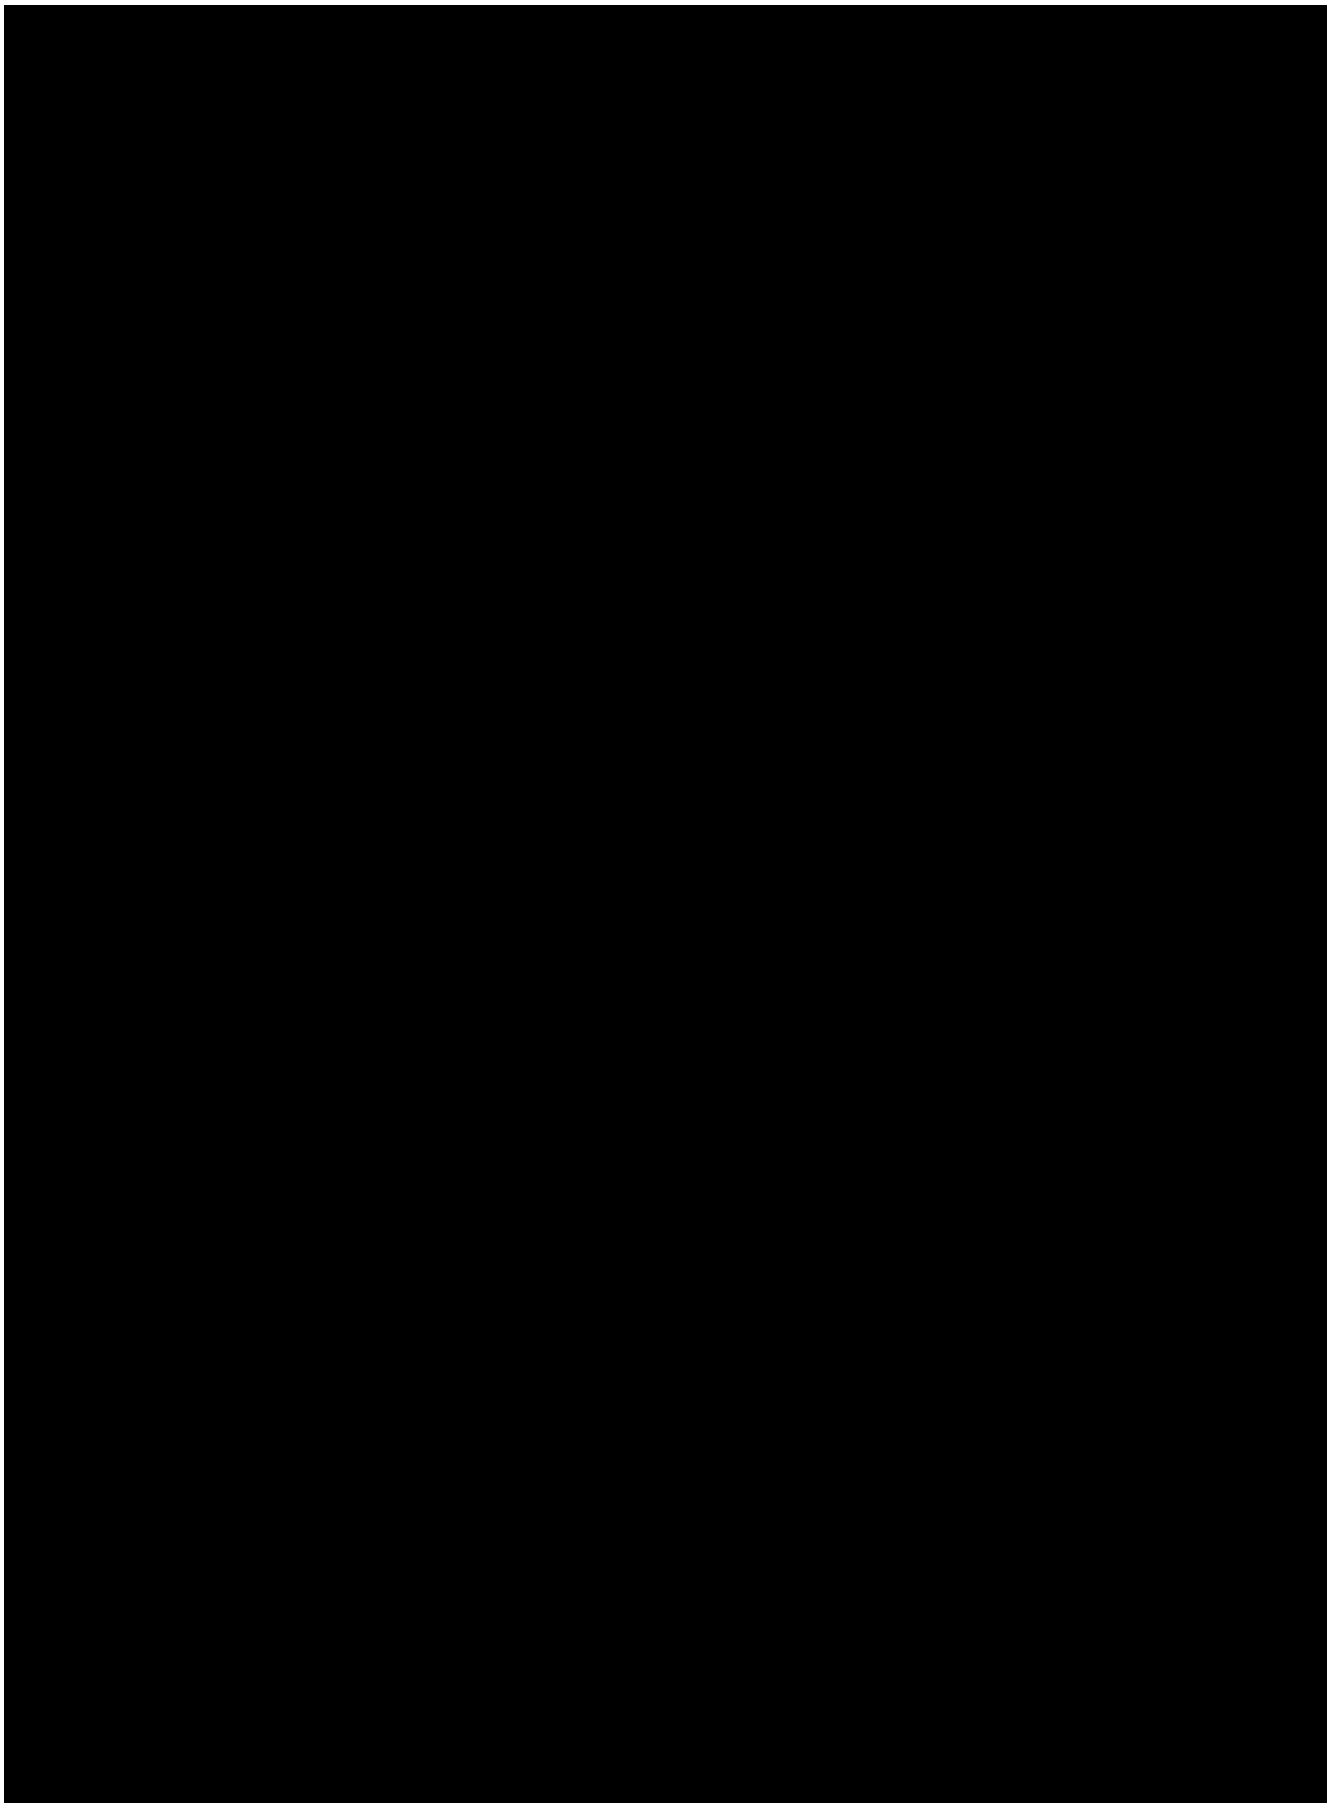


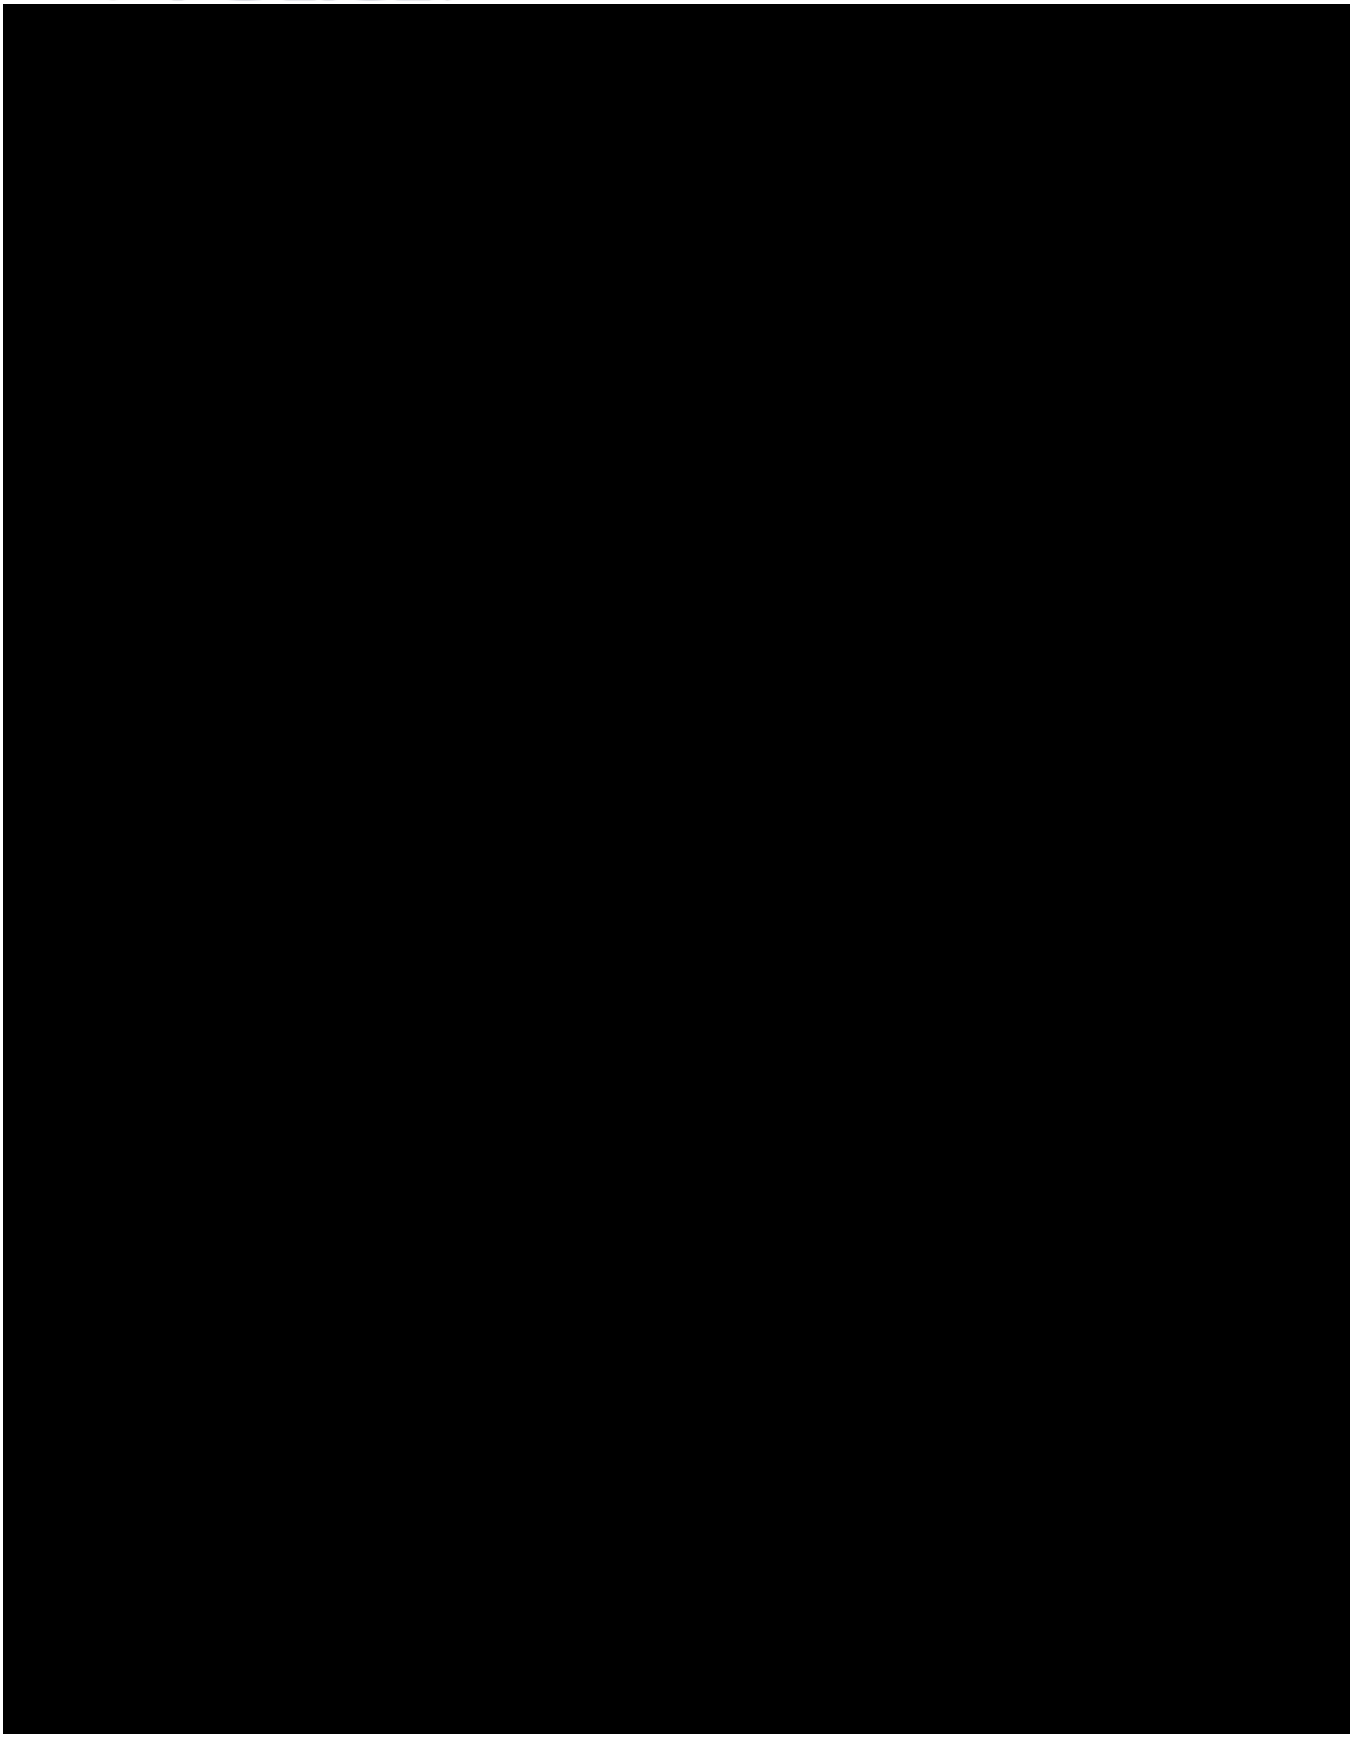


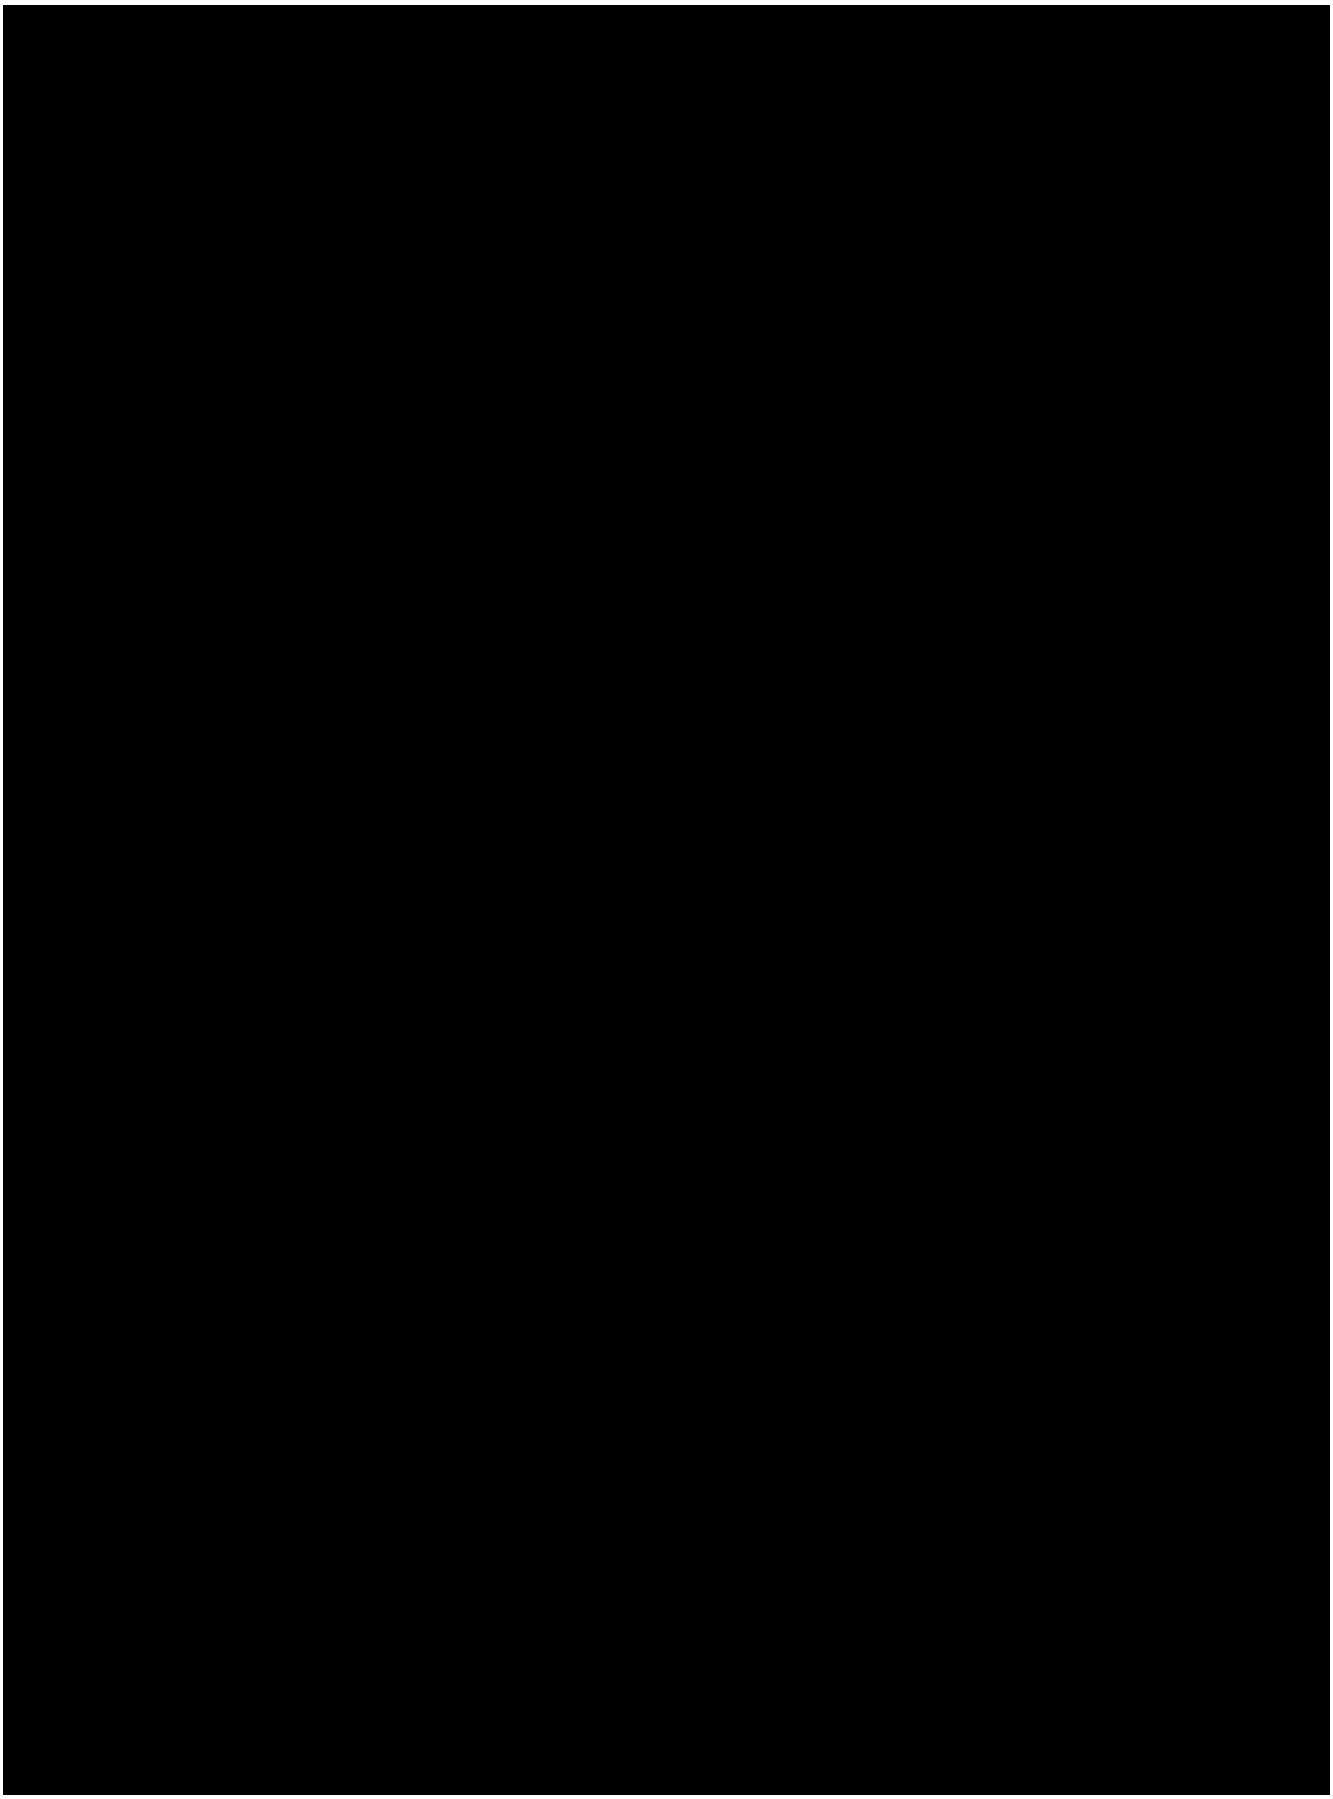


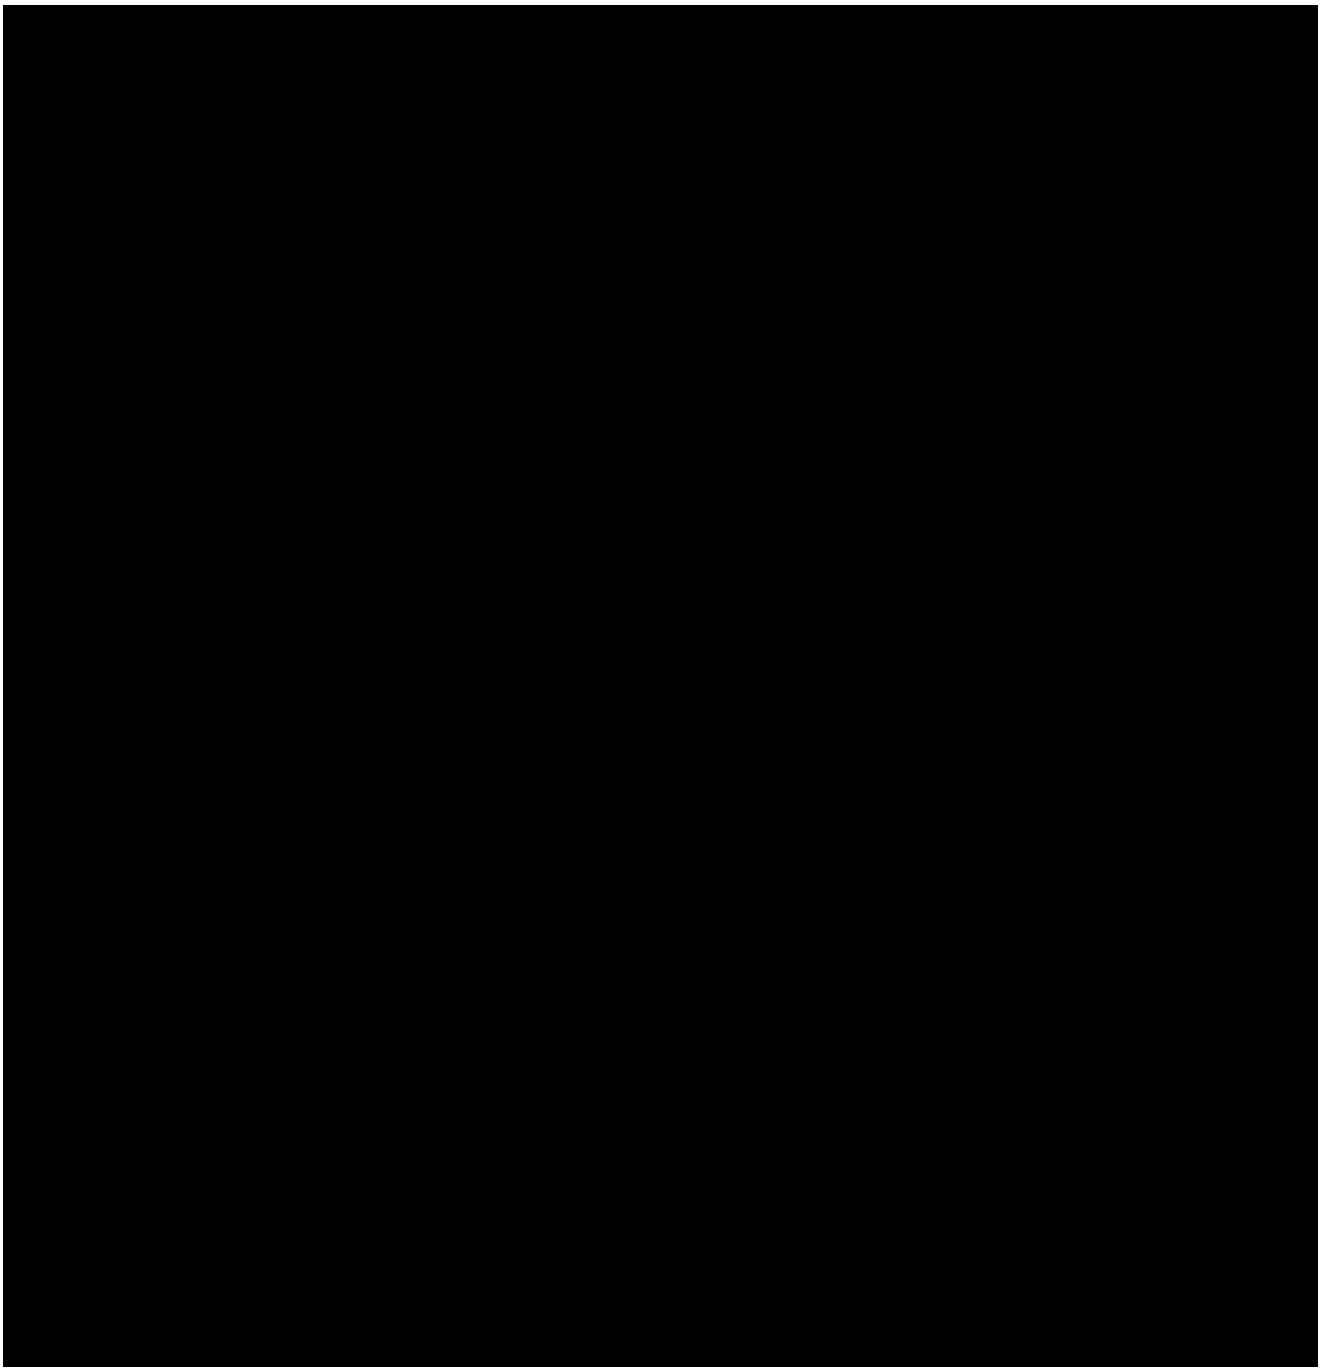












FRONTIER QUEUE HOTLINE

267. On the 8th August 2018, that is, 2 days before he resigned from Bland, Cornelio requested that the Frontier Queue Hotline phone number 20042777 be forwarded on to UK phone number +44 7428310899, and that voicemail on phone number 20042777 be disabled. (Exhibit JOG/98 refers) capabilities. The number +44 7428310899 is a number held on a Messagebird account however it was not transferred by Cornelio to the Bland account. It was therefore not accessible by them.

268. Bland hold an account with Messagebird, a third-party service provider. Bland use their services extensively within the NSCIS platform for voice and SMS

269. The new UK number required the development of a new Windows service to update the new phone line with the frontier queue times. On the 9th August Cornelio wrote that the physical server at Cloister Building, which hosted the Frontier Queue Hotline, was redundant. This confirmed that the new Frontier Queue Hotline windows service had been relocated to a server not known to Bland. (Exhibit JOG/100 refers)

270. On the 5th October, that is, the day on which Cornelio was officially informed that he was no longer to access the NSCIS platform, the Frontier Queue Hotline was disabled or failed. Bland was unable to remedy this as they had no knowledge of which server the Widows service was running from. (Charge 74 - Fraud by failing to disclose information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011).

271. In order to restore the service a new Frontier Queue Hotline service had to be developed. This was further hindered by the fact that the source code provided by Cornelio on the 7th September 2018 (Exhibit JOG/22 refers) did not contain the most up to date version of the Windows service.

272. As a result, the Frontier Queue Hotline service was not operating for a total of 26 days.

273. The actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland Limited and to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract to 36 North.

CAINE SANCHEZ – (Charge 75 - Misconduct In Public Office)

Business with Cornelio - Sanchez

274. Although a public officer, Sanchez sought to get involved in private business ventures involving Levy / Cornelio.

275. As early as February 2017, Sanchez wrote to Levy, "James I need to give you an update on several issues. Also need to talk to you on John Perez and the national security programme." (Exhibit JC/TEXT/CSJL/1 refers).

276. In January 2018 he wrote to Levy, "James I have a good proposal for investment. I think you will like this." (Exhibit JC/TEXT/CSJL/2 refers).

277. During 2018 Sanchez sought to go into business with Cornelio.

278. On the 9th October 2018 Cornelio wrote to Sanchez, "Tonight crypto … let's see […] E.g. right now can make £80 every 20 min using $12,000. $1440 a day. With 448,000 $5760 a day. $180,000 per month." Sanchez replied, "Good. This would cover all costs. Concentrate on this." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/1 refers).

279. On the 10th October 2018 Sanchez wrote, "Have you checked the license requirements. If not needed lets aim to go live in one month with small investment." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/2 refers).

280. On the 12th October 2018, and in response to Cornelio stating that people were not buying or selling cryptocurrency Sanchez wrote, "We need a plan B then. Keep developing this and will think of something." Cornelio replied, "Our new improved platform was plan b." He subsequently wrote, "…this was a good base to give me the freedom to come up with the next big thing to sort us all out." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/4 refers). Sanchez stood to benefit from 36 North acquiring the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

281. On the same date Sanchez wrote, "We can also look at the hassans client account as they need safe and cheap ways to transfer money on different currencies and right now it costs them quite a lot. We could use crypto to make the transfers." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/5 refers).

282. On the 7th November 2018 Cornelio wrote to Sanchez in relation to setting up a cryptocurrency account, "We will have £1m in ur account shortly :)" (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/8 refers).

283. On the 8th November 2018 Cornelio wrote, "Algorithm just successfully simulated a transaction that would have made £20k in 1 second :)" Sanchez replied, "Good, no more simulations." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/10 refers).

284. Based on paragraphs 274 to 283 despite being a public official, Sanchez sought to go into business with Cornelio for financial gain. This included benefitting from 36 North acquiring the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

Assistance to 36 North - Sanchez

285. During the course of 2018 Sanchez abused his position as a public official, and Government lead for the NSCIS platform, to actively assist 36 North in acquiring the NSCIS platform maintenance contract, for the benefit of 36 North and to the detriment of Bland.

286. In January 2018 Sanchez contacted Levy regarding potential business with Wavetecx. From his personal email account (cdjsanchez@yahoo.co.uk) he wrote, "YITU – (a) security company on AI. Europe director to propose to move services from London to Gibraltar (b) interested in a joint venture with Wavetech (John Perez) (c) YITU to negotiate deal with them and deal to remove company from Blands." (Exhibit PAC/PR/Toshiba/01/Email/3 refers). Sanchez intended to assist in taking business away from Bland.

287. In April and May of 2018 Perez discussed with Sanchez business regarding Carnival Cruises and a facial recognition system for Banco Santander. Carnival Cruises was a prospective client of Bland. (Exhibits ADR/MG/PHONE/1 whats app 3 and ADR/MG/PHONE/1 whats app 4 refer).

288. On the 23rd July 2018, Sanchez sent an official email to Cornelio in which he thanked him for his service to the government. In the same email Sanchez indicated that he would be assessing whether Bland should continue to take the national security platform forward. (Exhibit PAC/PR/Toshiba/01/Email/9 refers).

289. Despite his role as a government official, and a duty to remain impartial, Sanchez was actively involved with 36 North. In a text message between Sanchez and Levy, dated the 24th July 2018, he said, "James I received a call from James Gaggero last night reference the security programme. I have discussed it with John and emailed the CM. It may be wise for us to meet and maybe include David Weber to go over some aspects of the conversation." (Exhibit JC/TEXT/CSJL/3 refers).

290. In a further text, dated the 14th August 2018, he stated, "James just got John Perez company their Insurance broker. Everything is going well with this. Just drafted letter to send to James Gaggero and waiting for CM to approve. I have also urged them to sign the international agreement and they are moving forward with this." (Exhibit PAC/JV/Phone/1/SMS/1 refers). Sanchez was advising 36 North in a business capacity. He was not independent of 36 North and unable to make an impartial decision regarding the NSCIS security platform.

291. On the 13th August 2018 a business document named "Phoenix Border Management System Project Proposal" was prepared for Sanchez from 36 North Limited. The proposal was for the Phoenix platform to take over from the NSCIS platform at a cost to HMGoG of £65,892.50 per month (Exhibit PAC/JU/3/SSD0/Doc/7 refers).

292. On the same date Perez wrote to Sanchez saying, "Remember we can deploy a new platform. They will play the sympathy approach with Payas …. To mount pressure on the CM. Good luck Caine we cannot thank you enough for what you have done." (Exhibit ADR/MG/PHONE/1whats app 9 refers). The following day the Phoenix Border Management System proposal was officially sent to Sanchez by Cornelio. (Exhibit PAC/CT/Laptop/1/Letter/1 refers).

293. In an interview under caution, dated the 17th July 2019, Sanchez read a prepared statement in which he stated, "If, as it is being alleged, I engaged in conduct for the benefit of a specific party, why would I repeatedly emphasise the need to go to tender?" (Exhibits MW/DVD/CS/2A and 2C refer).

294. Despite his statement regarding the tender process, on the 15th August 2018, one day after the Phoenix Border Management System proposal (Exhibit PAC/CT/Laptop/1/Letter/1 refers), Sanchez wrote a draft letter to James Gaggero. He wrote, "Thank you for your meeting on the 13th August with the Chief Minister, which was eye opening. In view of the urgency to resolve the maintenance and liability matters, HM Government of Gibraltar has taken the following position … National Security platform – HM Government of Gibraltar has taken the decision to move away from the current platform and go with a new platform …" Sanchez made a decision to transfer the NSCIS maintenance contract away from Bland a day after the 36 North proposal and without any tender process. (Exhibit PAC/PR/Toshiba/01/Doc/1 refers).

295. The same date, Sanchez wrote to the Chief Minster seeking to persuade him of his decision to transfer the NSCIS platform to 36 North. He stated, "With regards to the Security platform the cleanest way to get out of this is to source another programme that will interact with our hardware." (Exhibit PAC/PR/Toshiba/01/Email/7 refers).

296. Around August 2018 Sanchez was asked by the Chief Minister to maintain confidential information, and not to disclose it to Perez. He was subsequently alleged to have breached confidentiality. In an email to the Chief Minister he denied having leaked information stating, "I can categorically deny this. Specifically you instructed me not to relay any information to Mr Perez and that I did." In the same email he urged the Chief Minister to make a decision on the platforms [including the NSCIS platform]. (Exhibit PAC/PR/Toshiba/01/Email/5 refers).

297. The statement made in the email sent to the Chief Minister was untrue. On the 17th August 2018 he texted Perez stating, "John please if the CM asks you I have not spoken to you about the meeting between him and Gaggero. His lawyer has accused me of this." (Exhibit ADR/MG/PHONE/1 whats app 11 refers). Sanchez breached confidentiality, and gave information provided to him in confidence owing to his position within HMGoG to a person not authorised to receive it. He thereby breached his statutory duty under section 2 of the Official Secrets Act 1911. (Exhibit DG/2 refers).

298. On the 29th August 2018 Sanchez drafted a letter to James Gaggero on behalf of 36 North in which he stated, "… please note that as of the 1st September 2018 I will no longer be in a position to continue to support Bland Limited GoG platforms. Kind Regards Tommy." (Exhibit PAC/JV/Phone/1/Email/1 refers). This email was sent from his private email address cdjsanchez@yahoo.co.uk to the same account. It was intended to be a draft for Cornelio to terminate his consultancy period. On the same date Perez wrote to Sanchez saying, "Tommy does not think our plan is good as he will seek alternative support to maintain it." (Exhibit ADR/MG/PHONE/1 whats app 15 refers). Sanchez had knowledge of / and assisted 36 North to place additional pressure on Bland. In doing so, he knew, suspected or was reckless at to the effect this may have had on the national security of Gibraltar.

299. On the 9th September 2018 Perez continued to update Sanchez on the business of 36 North. He texted, "I will be receiving the São Tomé and Principe contract on Tuesday for review I am also closing in on Equatorial Guinea. I will push forward with theses [sic] to contracts with our new platform." (Exhibit ADR/MG/PHONE/1whats app 17 refers).

300. On the 9th October 2018, during the period of database re-indexing, and denial of service attacks by Cornelio (paragraphs 198 to 210 refer), he sent a text to Sanchez stating, "If you can send them a formal email giving them 48 hrs to sort everything out that you put them under significant pressure." On the same date Cornelio wrote, in respect of the Chief Minister, "Abe he has a great opportunity now – [redacted]" (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/13 refers).

301. On the 10th October 2018, Sanchez proposed that 36 North should employ Jonathan Galliano. Cornelio wrote, "Lets see will speak to him, but we don't need him though. It's an added cost." Sanchez responded, "It may be the way to get back the system quickly. Speak to him then decide." He subsequently stated, "Anyways I will speak to JL on this as it may be a good quick solution if he quits." When Cornelio argued that there may not be much profit left if he was hired Sanchez responded, "Yes but then all of JG aspirations will fall. I am sure you can make up to the shortfalls. But it is a good plan." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/CCS/13 refers). He later wrote, "If you xan [sic] entice Jonathan all this does to rest." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/CCS/14 refers). In making this proposal Sanchez deliberately sought to further reduce the ability of Bland to maintain the NSCIS platform.

302. By September 2018 Cornelio, together with two other software engineers had resigned from Bland, significantly reducing their IT capabilities. (Exhibit PAC/PR/Toshiba/01/Email/9 refers). Furthermore, by the 10th October 2018, Sanchez was aware of the instruction that Bland alone should maintain the NSCIS security platform and that neither Cornelio nor 36 North were to access the system. (Exhibits PC/1 and PC/2 refer). In attempting to recruit Jonathan Galliano, he deliberately sought to undermine the ability of Bland to maintain the national security system, for the commercial / financial benefit of 36 North, and in doing so knew, suspected or was reckless as to whether national security of Gibraltar would be compromised.

303. On the same date, Cornelio wrote to Sanchez and pointed out a way to further reduce the capability of Bland to maintain the system. "Note I do not believe Krishan signed the secrets act with govt and he would be the only one working with the system." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/15 refers).

304. Sanchez acted upon this suggestion the same day by writing to Jonathan Galliano. He wrote, "I don't know if Krishan has signed the Government's official secrets act. Please ask him and let me know as I don't have his on record." Again Sanchez deliberately sought to undermine the ability of Bland to maintain the national security system, for the commercial / financial benefit of 36 North, and in doing so knew, suspected or was reckless as to whether national security of Gibraltar would be compromised. (Exhibit JC/Email/1 refers).

305. Despite having been informed, on the 4th October, that Cornelio was no longer to access the NSCIS platform, (Exhibits PC/01 and PC/02 refer) he failed to act when Cornelio was clearly accessing the system on the 11th October 2018. (Exhibit JC/WHAPTSAPP/TCCS/15 refers).

306. Cornelio wrote on the 20th November 2018, "Does the CM need any more complaints to be sent to him? …" Sanchez replied, "They need to send him more if not inform me that they are [redacted] the system." He continued, "If you talk to them ask them to inform me that theu [sic] [redacted] the system." (Exhibit JC/WHAPTSAPP/TCCS/22 refers). Sanchez continued to assist 36 North.

307. On the 11th December 2018 he continued to discuss the national security platform, and thereby national security matters with Cornelio, regardless of the fact that by this date he was not employed / contracted to deal with the NSCIS platform (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/24 refers).

308. Based on paragraphs 285 to 307 Sanchez abused his position within the government as a public officer, and dishonestly sought to transfer the NSCIS maintenance contract, worth £65,892.50 per month, away from Bland and for the benefit of 36 North. In doing so he misconducted himself by:

a. Breaching his statutory duties under the Official Secrets Act 1911;
b. Actively assisting 36 North to obtain the NSCIS platform;
c. Failing to act on information that Cornelio was unlawfully accessing the platform;
d. Attempting to undermine Bland's ability to maintain the platform; and
e. Knowing, suspecting or being reckless as to whether the national security of Gibraltar would be put at risk.

The NSCIS Report

309. On the 4th October 2018, Peter Canessa wrote to Caine Sanchez on behalf of the Chief Minister. In his first email, timed at 1130 hours, he wrote, "The Chief Minister has instructed that access to our "Azure" system be given to Jonathan Galliano at Bland / OSG immediately." In a subsequent email, timed at 1342 hours, he wrote, "Further to my email below, and following further discussion with the CM, and to avoid any ambiguity, the instructions from the CM are that Bland Ltd is to be provided full control of the management, maintenance and support of the NSCIS platform … Once the handover process is completed Tommy Cornelio nor any 3rd party are to have access to the platform." Sanchez confirmed that he had received these instructions the same day. (Exhibits PC/01 and PC/02 refer). Given that this was an instruction from the Chief Minister, Sanchez was required to comply with it.

310. In around February or March 2019, Albert Mena, the Financial Secretary for HMGoG, was advised that Sanchez had been withholding payments to Bland for a period of approximately six months. Mena described this decision as "unusual."

311. The matter was discussed with Sanchez who advised it was on the basis of a decline in the performance of the services provided by Bland. In a meeting with Sanchez, Mena explained that it was not acceptable to withhold the entirety of the service fee and that a reduced payment of £50,000 [from £66,000] would be fair in the circumstances. Despite having previously withdrawn payment, Sanchez agreed with this figure.

312. Mena subsequently informed Sanchez that he intended to carry out an independent assessment of the NSCIS platform. It was made clear to Sanchez that Mena intended to appoint one of the large accounting firms in order to obtain an unbiased report.

313. On the 9th April 2019, Sanchez requested the assistance of Cornelio in assessing the NSCIS platform. (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/28 refers). In doing so he contravened the planned approach that had been made clear to him by Mena.

314. Between the 9th April 2019 and 11th April 2019 (inclusive) Sanchez provided his own personal NSICS credentials to Cornelio for the purpose of accessing the NSCIS platform. This was in contravention of his statutory obligation under the Official Secrets Act 1911 and with intent to cause a loss of property to Bland / derive an economic benefit for 36 North (Exhibit DG/2 refers). (Charge 76 – Unauthorised acts with intent to impair, or with recklessness as to impairing, operation of computer etc – contrary to s.364(1) as read with s.364(e) and s.364(f) of the Crimes Act 2011).

315. This was also in contravention of the HMGoG ITLD Interim Guide to Security (Exhibit JPG/01 refers) and the Government of Gibraltar Information Technology Security Policy (Exhibit JPG/02 refers) which prohibit the disclosure of personal passwords and the sharing of accounts. The Technology Security Policy states that "This document must be read and interpreted (both literally and in spirit) with the Official Secrets Act …"

316. The access to the NSCIS platform was also in contravention of the instructions given to Sanchez from the Chief Minister on the 4th October 2018 (Exhibits PC/01 and PC/02 refer).

320. On the 12th April 2019, and in knowledge of the fact that he should not have been accessing the NSICS platform, Cornelio wrote, "Note if asked, the tests were carried out by yourself at home on the evening of the 11/04/2019 and 12/04/2019." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/30 refers). Sanchez responded, "No problem."

321. On the 14th April 2019 Cornelio sent Sanchez a review of the NSCIS platform called NSCIS Review April 2019.docx (Exhibit JV/4 refers). Upon sending the document, and in knowledge of the fact that he should not have been accessing the system, Cornelio wrote, "If you use anything that's there copy to a new blank word file ok :)" Sanchez replied, "Will do thanks." (Exhibit JC/WHATSAPP/TCCS/31 refers).

322. On the 16[redacted] April 2019 Sanchez sent an email to Mena in which he stated, "As per our last conversation I performed a full review of the system[redacted]." Attached to the email was a copy of the report compiled by Cornelio. (Exhibit AAM/1 refers).

323. In a subsequent email Mena wrote, "This is NOT how I wanted this to be carried out, and frankly given your history puts you precisely where I would not put myself. You should NOT have carried out these test [sic] albeit they need to be carried out." In reply Sanchez stated that these were functions to which he already had access but dishonestly failed to disclose that the test was carried out by Cornelio. Mena further responded, "That's not the point. We agreed to do this in a coordinated manner …" He finished his email, "In addition your results (which are concerning) are completely at odds with the reports we (Peter, Javier and I) have received back from the services …"

324. Based on paragraphs 309 to 323 Sanchez abused his position within the government as a public officer, and dishonestly sought to transfer the NSCIS maintenance contract, worth £65,892.50 per month, away from Bland and for the benefit of 36 North. In doing so he misconducted himself by:

a. Breaching his statutory duties under the Official Secrets Act 1911;
b. Breaching the HMGoG ITLD Interim Guide to Security and the Government of Gibraltar Information Technology Security Policy;
c. Contravening the planned approach set by the Financial Secretary;
d. Contravening the instructions of the Chief Minister;
e. Dishonestly purporting that he had created the NSCIS review document; and
f. Allowing [unsupervised] access to the NSCIS platform to Cornelio knowing, suspecting or being reckless as to whether the national security of Gibraltar would be put at risk.

SEARCH WARRANTS AND ARRESTS

325. On 10th May 2019, the RGP executed search warrants at the home addresses of Cornelio, Perez, Asquez, and the offices of 36 North. A large number of electronic and documentary exhibits were seized.

326. Cornelio, Perez and Asquez were arrested during these search warrants.

327. On 14th May 2019, the RGP executed search warrants at the home address and office of Sanchez. A number of electronic and documentary exhibits were seized.

328. Sanchez was arrested the same day at Gibraltar Airport as he had been in London.

329. On 24th July 2019, the RGP executed search warrants at the home address and office of Aaron Chipol. A number of electronic and documentary exhibits were seized.

330. Chipol was not arrested at this time however he voluntary attended New Mole House Police Station.

331. Jaime Levy has not yet been subject to Police Intervention.

SUBJECT INTERVIEWS

332. Cornelio was interviewed on three occasions on 10th May 2019;

a. Cornelio gave no comment to all questions asked of him. (Exhibit NZ/TC/DVD/1C refers).

b. Cornelio predominantly gave no comment to questions asked of him however, he asked for questions to be clearer and for the interviewing officers to be more clear. I.e. what part of the system had failed and questioning the accuracy of the data and accusations put to him. (Exhibit NZ/TC/DVD/2C refers).

c. In his final interview of the day, Cornelio read a prepared statement (Exhibit NZ/TC/Statement/1 refers). He denied accessing the system after 5th October 2018 until April 2019 when Sanchez requested he compile a report. Sanchez allowed him access to the system using Sanchez's credentials. (Exhibit NZ/TC/DVD/3C refers).

d. On 26th July 2019, Cornelio sent a voluntary statement to Police. He denied all offences put to him and stated at all times he was acting on authority of Sanchez to maintain the NSCIS platform. (Exhibit PAC/TC/Statement/1 refers).

333. Perez was interviewed on four occasions on 10th May 2019;

a. Perez gave no comment to all questions asked of him. (Exhibit MW/JP/DVD/1C refers).

b. Perez again gave no comment to all questions asked of him. He stated "When I feel the time is right then I'll advise accordingly." (Exhibit MW/JP/DVD/2C refers).

c. Perez again gave no comment to all questions put to him. The interview was ended as Perez requested further consultation with his legal advisor. (Exhibit MW/JP/DVD/3C refers).

d. Perez's legal advisor read a prepared statement stating Perez had received a report from Cornelio which he was asked to write for the Gibraltar Government. (Exhibit MW/JP/DVD/4C refers).

e. On 26th July 2019, Perez sent a voluntary statement to Police. He denied all offences put to him and stated at all times Cornelio was acting on authority of Sanchez to maintain the NSCIS platform. (Exhibit PAC/JP/Statement/1 refers).

334. Asquez was interviewed once on 10th May 2019;

a. Asquez stated he was Compliance Manager with Blands since 2010. He confirmed Perez was CEO. He then gave no comment to questions asked of him. (Exhibit MW/EA/DVD/1C refers).

335. Caine Sanchez was interviewed on two occasions;

a. 14th May 2019 – During this interview Sanchez confirmed his role within HMGoG. He confirmed he was the main person who dealt with the National Security Programme. After approximately 10 minutes into the interview, he requested further consultation. After this, he gave no comment to each question asked of him. The prepared statement by Cornelio in relation to the report in April 2019 (Exhibit NZ/TC/Statement/1 refers) was shown to Sanchez. Sanchez continued to give no comment to each question put to him. (Exhibit PAC/CS/DVD/1C refers).

b. 17th July 2019 – During this interview, Sanchez read a prepared statement. This explains the tender process (paragraph 293 refers), and the government withholding payment if the system did not work. He stated he was controller and systems administrator of NSCIS. He stated he authorised Cornelio to make the report however he did not refer to providing Cornelio with his access details. He stated the National Security of Gibraltar is his utmost concern. (Exhibit MW/DVD/CS/2C refers).

336. Aaron Chipol was interviewed on four occasions;

a. 24th July 2019 – Chipol did not answer any questions during this interview and none were put to him as his legal advisor requested he be interviewed at a later date/time. (Exhibit MW/DVD/AC/1C refers).

b. 2nd August 2019 – A large amount of this interview was in relation to a Visa Waiver Chipol completed as a favour for Perez. This is an unrelated matter. Chipol confirmed he is CEO of BCA. He confirmed he was a user of NSCIS and that it is used for the purpose of National Security. He stated Cornelio was the person who made the program and knew more than anybody else. It was for this reason, he suggested, that he spoke to him about the platform and about improvements / deficiencies. He maintains that this was done solely for the benefit of the BCA, and in accordance with his role as the Head of the organisation however he admits their relationship became personal stating "TOMMY is friends with me, we used to… that's probably my fault," He knew Cornelio was setting up a company to rival Bland. He stated Cornelio would have already known the information he provided to him in relation to the platform. This interview was stopped after 75 minutes. (Exhibit MW/DVD/AC/2C refers).

c. 3rd September 2019 – Again, the first hour of this interview was in relation to a Visa Waiver. He stated he was taking advice about the system from Cornelio. He admits sending the first email to Caine Sanchez which Cornelio drafted. He stated that the others were proposals but that he did not send them on. He maintained he was not dishonest and argued that he did not know that Cornelio could not access the NSCIS platform as September and October 2018 "was a grey area" and "n*obody knew*." He re-iterated that because Cornelio made the system he would have been aware of the errors. (Exhibit MW/DVD/AC/3C refers).

d. 24th October 2019 – He was asked about providing Cornelio information on 5th December 2018. He stated "I don't think I actually went and, I don't know if I say no records but it's a long time on the system, I don't know if I did." He was then asked about offering funding to 36 North. He stated the authorisation for funding is not his decision. (Exhibit MW/DVD/AC/4C refers).

Mark,

Please check for accuracy and revert.

Sir,

Re: Commissioner's briefing Note - DPP's Advice OP Delhi

Date Wednesday 8th April 2020
Time 1548
Duration 19' 20"
Participating DPP C Rocca, D/Supt Richardson DI Wyan

- DPP had discussed matter with CC Mark Zammitt and they were comfortable to run the case of the basis of the summary of evidence provided.
- There were no grounds at this stage for him to pull any prosecution but mentioned that the AG would be speaking to COP.
- There was sufficient evidence to lead a jury to a realistic prospect of conviction with regard to the conspiracy to defraud charges, DPP had always been comfortable with the Computer Misuse Offences.
- Re: the need to interview JL – there are reasonable grounds to question him under caution. If we did not there a lingering doubt about him would remain.
- There is a need to drill down in to the detail as to the ownership of the platform to determine which charges should go ahead – there may be a need to revise (lessen) the number of charges.
- The rationale for not arresting Chipol was discussed and this was explained in the same terms as the rationale proposed for dealing with JL. It was agreed that it may be better for AC to testify for the crown.
- JL – Needs looking at – the ownership of the platform may not be critical but may direct who is charged and with what,
- Public Interest – DPP was not pulling this and AG in full agreement danger that names may come out public at a later stage.
- If we need to pull in JL then so be it.

Date Monday 24th April 2020
Time 1551
Duration 12"
Participating DPP C Rocca, D/Supt Richardson

- Sought DPP's advice as to MW's interpretation of the Magistrates' Court Corona Virus Rules regarding urgent matters that would be put before the Court. Our view had been that the matter was not urgent and therefore the Court would not hear a matter that did not that criterion. DPP advised that Court must accept the first appearance following arrest and that the urgency issue does not arise in this case.

- DPP had had sight of CPS advice re social distancing during current crisis and if RF chooses to challenge the decision to rebail at judicial review then so be it. Our position is:
    - We are ready to charge – if pushed but would make no sense to rush now as:
        - Need to bottom out platform ownership as this will inform charging process (who and with what)
        - Need to explore JL's involvement
        - US Enquiries stalled due to Corona virus
        - Need to maintain social distancing for safety
        - Interview participation through remote means are being explored
        - Senseless to charge at the moment
- SPP had advised on:
    - Realistic prospect of conviction on the offences proposed
    - Application of Covid 19 regs to criminal proceedings
    - Matter of Bail – for POLICE ONLY – but was happy with our rationale and would support it if challenged.

Kind regards

Paul

Dear Mark,

Thank you for your email below.

I have revised my statement to remove all highlight and also to correct the email timings. Please note that one of my emails was indeed sent at 09:45 and this is the time stamp on my email. I appreciate that Caine's immediate reply shows my email being sent at 09:44, however I must be guided by the timestamp on my own email.

HMGoG would have had the right to use the system either through its ownership of the system having received a direct assignment from OSG or by way of some form of licence from OSG. Having a right to use the system, HMGoG would also be able to direct third parties to use the system. I therefore feel that is not necessary for me to give a view as to any dispute regarding ownership of the system nor do I consider this the appropriate forum to air any differences.

I trust that you will find this statement duly signed. I am sending you a hard copy by hand. I am grateful if you would kindly confirm receipt.

Dear Mr Mena,

RE: RGP Statement

Thank you for providing a draft copy of your statement. I have now had the opportunity to review the document and have made very minor changes [in particular regarding the times of the emails] which I have highlighted in yellow. I have also transferred the text onto a police witness statement form (see attached).

The only matter that I would ask you to consider is the asserted ownership of the NSCIS platform by HMGoG. So far all of our evidence [in respect of ownership] is based upon statements provided by Bland Limited. This is at odds with the contention [made by the suspects] that the platform was Government owned, and that acting on instructions from Mr Sanchez, they were authorised to carry out various acts. In this interests of fairness to the suspects, and for the sake of clarity, I would be grateful if you would consider outlining HMGoG's position in this regard. You may wish to simply add a brief sentence to paragraph 5 explaining that ownership is disputed.

Kind Regards,

Dear Albert,

Re: Op Delhi - Hacking of NSCIS platform

Amidst the current pandemic crisis, we find ourselves having to also deal with a host of 'normal' matters and it is on this note that I write to you to try resolve and a key issue concerning an on-going investigation the RGP is conducting.

You will recall the investigation the RGP commenced in late December 2018 into an alleged attempt to defraud Bland Limited of the National Security Central Intelligence System ("the NSCIS platform") maintenance contract and computer hacking related offences. In furtherance of this, former employees of Bland Limited, John Perez, Thomas Cornelio and Edward Asquez were arrested on the 10th May 2019.

On the 13th May 2019, you and I attended a meeting with the Chief Minster, together with Minister Costa (the then MoJ), the Director of Public Prosecutions, Mr Rocca, the Chief Secretary, Mr Grech, and Superintendent Richardson. During this meeting I outlined our suspicion that Caine Sanchez may have committed criminal offences and of our intent to arrest him. The Chief Minister mentioned his belief that the ownership of the NSCIS platform was in dispute and that HMGoG should be the complainant in this matter.

On the 17th July 2019 you met with Detective Inspector Wyan and Detective Sergeant Clarke of our Crime Division with regards to a witness statement in support of the investigation. One of the lines of enquiry we needed to close was that of the ownership of the platform, an issue which was discussed at this meeting. On the 17th October 2019 you provided a draft copy of your statement, however, the issue of ownership was not covered. As a result, on the 22nd October, DI Wyan sought clarification as to whether you would consider outlining the position of HMGoG in this regard. You responded on the 27th October 2019, stating that you did not feel it necessary to give a view on ownership, nor that it was the appropriate forum to air any differences. A copy of your response is attached.

During the course of this investigation Bland Limited have made clear the legal basis on which they assert ownership as well providing evidence in support. This includes a master software development and maintenance agreement, which although unsigned, reflected their understanding of the terms and conditions upon which the NSCIS platform was provided to HMGoG. This is further corroborated by monthly payments made by HMGoG to Bland Limited (in respect of the NSCIS platform) under the head "Software Licence Fee." They have also provided additional evidence by way of correspondence in support of their position including correspondence with Caine Sanchez.

The Director of Public Prosecutions has advised that the issue of ownership of the platform is integral to the prosecution of this case. This is based, in part, on statements made on 26th July 2019 by two of the subjects under investigation that the platform is owned by HMGoG. You will appreciate that this point needs clarification in fairness to the accused.

Those arrested continue on police bail. The RGP finds itself in an awkward position - in the absence of a definitive response, and by this I mean a witness statement by HMGoG as to the ownership of the NSCIS platform, we will have to rely upon the evidence provided by Bland Limited, who have emphatically asserted their ownership of the platform from the onset of this investigation and on whose evidence we have based all our activity.

I look forward to hearing from you at your earliest convenience.

Dear Commissioner,

I refer to your letter of today, for which I thank you.

I would like to clarify from the outset that, as Financial Secretary, my involvement in this matter, as is clear from the Witness Statement I have provided, is in relation to financial matters, as indeed it is for all financial matters concerning HM Government of Gibraltar.

In my reply of 25 October 2019 to Detective Inspective Wyan's email of 22 October 2019 I sought to confine myself to the financial matters that were in issue. I did not, and still do not, consider it appropriate for me to make statements on matters that go beyond that, especially in the context of a matter that I had not been involved in from the beginning. So it was with a view to being cautious and proper that I confined myself in my reply to state what I considered was relevant for me to state and within my capacity as Financial Secretary.

I did go to see the Chief Secretary upon receiving Detective Inspective Wyan's email and discussed it with him. I assumed that the question of ownership would then be addressed to or by him, as the relevant competent officer within the Government.

As it transpires, the RGP never received a reply from the Government to the question as to whether the Government asserts ownership of the NSCIC platform.

I have brought this matter to the attention of the Chief Secretary who will be replying to you separately.

I would like to thank you for the opportunity to explain the nature of my reply of 25 October 2019.

Yours sincerely,

Albert Mena

Dear Commissioner

The Financial Secretary has brought to my attention the email and letter that he has received today from you.

He has also shown me the reply that he will be sending to you.

In my capacity as Chief Secretary of HM Government of Gibraltar I can confirm that ownership of the NSCIC platform is contested between the Government and Bland Limited.

It is the Government's firm view that it has ownership over the said platform.

Indeed, the Government has always viewed ownership of the platform as forming an integral part of the services for which it pays a considerable amount of money to Bland Limited under the arrangements that have existed.

In your letter to the Financial Secretary you have asked for a Witness Statement on the question of ownership of the platform. I am sending this letter now in order to clarify the Government's position immediately. I will provide you with the Witness Statement during the course of next week. I trust this will be acceptable.

Furthermore, I would be grateful if any further questions that the RGP may have on this matter are addressed directly to me as the single interlocutor for the RGP.

Your sincerely

Dear Darren,

Re: Op Delhi – Hacking of NSCIS Platform

Thank you for your response to my letter and for clarifying the position of HMGoG asserting ownership of the NSCIS platform.

With regards to the witness statement, the investigating team will require as much detail as possible on the subject of ownership. This will necessitate not only the assertion that HMGoG are the legal owners of the platform, but also the basis of that belief, as well as any evidence in support of that position. My officers will assist you if you have any questions about the statement. In this regard please contact Detective Inspector Mark Wyan mark.wyan@royalgib.police.gi

As the police investigation comes to a close, we now have a much clearer picture of the role played by Caine Sanchez and evidence that the investigators argue amounts to criminal misconduct, a view which is shared by the Director of Public Prosecutions. Given the extent of his apparent criminality I would be happy to meet with you and outline the evidence against him. This may assist should there be a need to the issue of interdiction.

I should be grateful if were able to have your statement by the end of this week please.

Yours,

Ian McGrail

Handed over by CoP at 11:20. 13.5.20. Sept.

SUPPLEMENTARY WITNESS STATEMENT

This statement (consisting of 7 pages each signed by me) is true to the best of my knowledge and belief and I make it knowing that if it is tendered in evidence I shall be liable to prosecution if I have wilfully stated in it anything which I know to be false or do not believe to be true.

My name is Darren Grech. I am currently employed as Chief Secretary by Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar (HMGoG).

I am making this Supplementary Witness Statement further to the first Witness Statement I made dated 21 January 2020.

This Supplementary Witness is made pursuant to a letter I received from the Commissioner of Police, Mr Ian McGrail OTM MSc, dated 14 April 2020. I now tender in evidence "Exhibit DG/3" a copy of the said letter.

In that letter, the Commissioner has requested that I provide "as much detail as possible on the subject of ownership" of the NSCIS platform. The Commissioner stated that this "will necessitate not only the assertion that HMGoG are the legal owners of the platform, but also the basis of that belief, as well as any evidence in support of that position".

Office of the Chief Secretary
t +350 20051752 f +350 20040922 e darren.grech@gibraltar.gov.gi w gibraltar.gov.gi

The purpose of this Supplementary Witness Statement is to provide such information.

I would like to state from the outset, that ever since receiving the Commissioner's letter, I have asked for a search to be carried out of all relevant documents and material that may be held by HMGoG on this matter. I have, for now, refrained from contacting Mr Caine Sanchez for this purpose. Those documents and material are still being amassed for me and I expect to have them shortly. I therefore produce this Supplementary Witness Statement on the basis of the information which I have been able to obtain thus far. I reserve my position to complement this information once any further material is provided to me.

In light of the foregoing, in answer to the Commissioner's request I can say the following:

The Bland Group has a wide commercial relationship with HMGoG. This includes an arrangement for the provision of reporting and security services by OSG Limited, a company in the Bland Group, at the various entry points into Gibraltar (the "Services"). That arrangement existed before I took office as Chief Secretary. To the best of my knowledge it has existed for around five to six years.

I have asked to be shown a copy of the written contract between HMGoG and OSG Limited/Bland Group pursuant to which the latter provides the Services to the former. I have been informed that no such contract exists and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true.

It appears to me to be relevant to start by saying that both parties agree that there is a dispute as to the ownership of the NSCIS platform. For instance, in an email dated as recently as Monday 2 March 2020 sent at 20:02 hrs by HMGoG's Financial Secretary to Mr Nicholas Gaggero of the Bland Group, the Financial Secretary stated as follows:

> "As you know at present there is a level of dispute between us as to ownership of the NSCIC system that has been developed for Government. I prefer not to go into the detail save to say that agreeing to the statement of work would effectively signify our agreement with the ownership of the Intellectual Property. This would have an impact not just on this module of work but by extension to the whole NSCIS system".

Mr Gaggero replied almost immediately, at 20:35 hrs, as follows:

> "I understand. Let me take this offline and come back to you tomorrow with a proposal to overcome this issue".

That exchange originated in an email sent by Mr Gaggero to the Financial Secretary dated Thursday 20 February 2020 in which Mr Gaggero made a proposal for the provision by the Bland Group of a further service to HMGoG, namely, a mobile passport scanning application for Gibraltar's law enforcement agencies. Attached to Mr Gaggero's email was a draft Statement of Work which had a proposed clause on "Intellectual Property" which provided that "[t]he compiled final system as well as the source code will remain the intellectual property of Bland Group". It is this that the Financial Secretary contested, and which Mr Gaggero accepted as being contested, in their email exchange of Monday 2 March 2020.

I now tender in evidence "Exhibit DG/4" a copy of the said emails of Thursday 20 February 2020 and Monday 2 March 2020.

Two matters appear to me to be clear from the foregoing:

- there is no written contract between HMGoG and OSG/Bland Group that could have clarified the question of ownership of the NSCIC platform; and
- there is a very clear disagreement between the parties on the question of ownership.

Thus, although there has clearly been an arrangement between HMGoG and OSG/Bland Group whereby the latter has been providing the Services to the former, and even if one were to consider that that arrangement constitutes an implied or oral agreement between the parties, on which I do not express any view, the stark reality is that, as the exchange of emails of Monday 2 March 2020 between the Financial Secretary and Mr Nicholas Gaggero shows, both parties agree that there exists a dispute as to the ownership of the NSCIS platform.

I would like to point out that HMGoG officials I have consulted are unanimous in the view that they never had any doubt that HMGoG was indeed the owner of the NSCIS platform.

For instance, I have been informed and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true, that in or around September 2013 HMGoG purchased from the Bland Group the so-called "Frontier Monitoring Project" or "FMP" system. This consisted of a CCTV and ANPR system to monitor movements at the border which was required by HMGoG for the purposes of compiling data on queuing times at the border. This was for the purposes of an investigation being conducted by the European Commission on border delays applied by Spain. The FMP system captured data on flow at the border. That arrangement was subsequently extended to cover other entry points in Gibraltar. This led to an iterative process whereby the system was repeatedly expanded and redesigned and became what is in place today, namely, the NSCIS system. In particular, I have been informed and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true, that HMGoG was intrinsically involved in the redesign and development of the platform; that all key decisions in relation to the platform were taken by HMGoG; that the decisions concerning the addition of users of the platform were taken by HMGoG; that the cameras used for the collection of the data are all owned by HMGoG; that at all times HMGoG has had complete control over the data; that the data was being used by HMGoG, and that OSG knew fully well that the data was being used by HMGoG, for sharing with third parties including law enforcement agencies in Gibraltar and elsewhere, and not least the European Commission. Indeed, that was the very purpose for the original need of the platform.

I have further been informed and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true, that HMGoG pays OSG/Bland Group a sum of approximately £66,693.75 per month for the operation of the NCSIS platform. This appears to me to be a very considerable amount of money which, it seems to me, confirms that HMGoG was paying in consideration for, inter alia, full ownership of the NSCIS platform otherwise that sum appears to me to make very little sense.

For the sake of completeness, in an email sent to me dated 25 October 2019, HMGoG's Data Protection Officer, Mr Tito Garro, attached what appears to me a standard template draft contract proposed by the Blands Group in the context of regularising the relationship between HMGoG and the Blands Group for the future. It appears to me that the context of this correspondence was the continued disagreement between the parties on the question of ownership of the NSCIS platform. I now tender in evidence "Exhibit DG/5" a copy of the said template. I do not believe that this template does anything other than, in effect, confirm the existence of such disagreement. Needless to say, HMGoG never accepted or signed it.

I am clearly not privy to what arguments OSG/Bland Group have put forward to the Royal Gibraltar Police to allege ownership of the NSCIS platform, let alone the detail of that argument, the basis of their belief or any evidence that they have put forward to support their assertion. In light of what I truly believe to be the true position on that matter, as set out in this Supplementary Witness Statement, such assertions cannot be based on any written contract nor, indeed, on any written or oral evidence and HMGoG strongly contests such assertions.

Furthermore, I have been advised by the Government Law Offices that, in the absence of a written contract setting out the position on ownership in clear and unambiguous language, it is indeed very difficult for OSG/Bland Group to make such an assertion.

Finally, I would like to place on record that on Thursday 30 April 2020, the Attorney General forwarded to me an email he had received from Mr Robert Fischel QC who is acting for Messrs Cornelio, Perez and Asquez. Mr Fischel's email contains a letter of that same date addressed to the Commissioner and addressing the issue of ownership of the NCSIS platform. I can confirm that I have read that letter but that the contents of this Supplementary Witness Statement, which had been largely drafted before I saw Mr Fischel's letter, have not been influenced by it.

Dear Mr Grech,

Further to my email of the 11th June, I have been contacted by Ms. Corby asking whether you can edit the witness statement yourself. I have confirmed that you may edit the document as you see fit.

Given that HMGoG have now formally asserted ownership of the NSCIS platform, I would respectfully ask you to consider including in your statement a complaint against those who the evidence suggests have committed multiple computer related offences. We understand that some of the suspects are stating that they were authorised to access the NSCIS system by Caine Sanchez (although he has not said this himself and has indicated through his lawyer that he will not provide an explanation in his next police interview). An official complaint and unequivocal assertion that HMGOG does not condone the activity relating to the tampering with the NSCIS platform would be very beneficial to the prosecution.

2. A copy of your statement dated 04/05/20 transposed onto a police witness statement form;
3. Three exhibit label forms corresponding to your tendered exhibits.

I would be very grateful if you could sign the police witness statement form and each of the three exhibit label forms.

The Chief Secretary has asked me to convey the following information:

The witness statement will stand as is, barring the transcription errors which were not of his making, and which did not appear in the original statement he submitted before your request came for reformatting.

Regarding the second point, the Government has already filed a complaint.

Dear Giselle,

My apologies that I wasn't available to take your call. The witness statement was copied directly from the copy provided by Mr Grech on the 4th May so there shouldn't be any inconsistencies. That said, he is perfectly entitled to amend the statement as he sees fit. He was sent a Word version of the statement so it can be edited.

Before you finalise the statement I have realised that there is a point I would like him to consider. Grateful if you could hold off finalising the statement until I have sent him another email. I'll be doing so shortly.

Please feel free to contact me if you need any clarification.

Or does it have to be done from your end?

Exhibit MW84

210.	15/11/2019	PWC considerations including production orders, exhibiting of evidence, PWC report from Gaggero, computer forensics. Plan to go to London to speak with PWC in relation to obtaining evidence of their actions when they forensically examined the NSCIS platform and produced their report. Required in order to support their assertions. The report is hearsay without further evidence / direct evidence of involvement. I proposed that we may wish to consider that there was a conspiracy to deprive Bland of the maintenance contract rather than the NSCIS platform. This is on the basis that the contract is subject to less dispute (as to ownership) and may therefore pose less of an issue in presenting to the jury. SIO discussed financial investigation of Sanchez to determine whether or not there has been any financial benefit accrued beyond his HMGoG salary. Relevance – Line of enquiry regarding computer misuse offences / benefit accrued by Sanchez.

Exhibit MW119

244.	13/01/2020	Review of JOG statements / charge identification. 51 offences identified. To be selected based upon the advice of DPP.

Exhibit MW95

263.	21/01/2020	Meeting with Supt Richardson, CI Field, and DS Clarke. Discussed: • Analysis by NCA (Roisin) • PWC unable to be an expert. Quoted at £35,000 to £50,000 for a statement of fact (likely to be at the upper end). This is without the independence of an expert who could offer opinion. • Charges – Over 50 possible charges identified (predominantly computer misuse). To be refined down. • Asquez – Previously offered to obtain a prepared statement. To interview and possibly obtain a statement if no evidence of criminality.

403.	06/04/2020	Awaiting instructions from DPP as to whether to charge and with what offences. A decision not to release at this point has been made by the SIO. Once instructions are issued we will proceed with interviews etc. The intention is to charge / release as soon as possible in order to limit the time the suspects are on bail. Attempts have been made via IT to try and install software that will allow Live Link facilities in compliance with interviewing instructions issued by CPS in light of the Covid-19 virus. At the moment we may be limited in interviewing owing to the fact that we do not have the facilities to have individuals separated in other rooms.

At Magistrates' Court on Wednesday 6th May 2020.

Your Worship,

1. I am DS 130 Paul CLARKE of the Royal Gibraltar Police.

2. I am investigating offence of

    a. Conspiracy to Defraud contrary to Common Law.

3. My application has been approved by Detective Inspector Craig GOLDWIN

4. The overarching matter of this case is the compromise of the National Security of Gibraltar. This is due to actions performed by the subjects in relation to Computer Misuse by intentionally causing the NSCIS Platform to malfunction and agreements to commit fraud to achieve their objective.

5. This application applies to premises owned or controlled by Jaime Levy namely his home address and the Offices of Hassans International Law Firm.

6. The information below has been obtained via various different sources of information and intelligence available to the Royal Gibraltar Police, and the circumstances of this case are as follows:

    THE SUBJECTS

7. Jaime LEVY CBE QC is a senior partner of law firm Hassans.

8. Caine SANCHEZ is a Senior Civil Servant employed by Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar. He is the Principal Secretary to the Deputy Chief Minister of Gibraltar. Sanchez is the Government of Gibraltar's lead for the NSCIS platform.

9. John PEREZ MBE held the position of Chief Executive Officer of Bland Ltd between the 1st February 2010 and 10th September 2018. He was responsible for running Bland Group's interests in the Western Mediterranean and oversaw the senior management team who reported directly to him.

10. Thomas 'Tommy' CORNELIO held the position of Head of Software Development with Bland Ltd between 19th November 2012 and 10th August 2018. Between 11th – 31st August 2018, he remained with Bland working under a consultancy agreement. Thomas Cornelio was the architect of the NSCIS Platform.

11. Edward ASQUEZ MBE held the position of Operations Director with Bland Ltd between 24th June 2010 and 30th September 2018. He was employed by John Perez as they served together in the Gibraltar Regiment. He was tasked with a number of projects and was the ISO for Bland.

12. Aaron CHIPOL is the Chief Executive Officer of the Borders & Coastguards Agency (BCA). He was promoted to this position in August 2018, prior to this he was deputy head of Immigration.

THE COMPLAINANT

13. James GAGGERO is the Chairman of the Bland Group of Companies. He has held this position since 1997. Between 1987 – 1997, he was managing Director of the Bland Group of Companies. Bland has been in the Gaggero family for over 200 years.

14. HMGoG have laid a claim on the ownership of the NSCIS Platform. The ownership of the Platform is in dispute.

THE COMPANIES

15. Bland Limited ("Bland") is part of the Bland Group of companies which is registered in Gibraltar. Bland Limited trades under a number of entities including Bland Travel (a travel and transport business), Bland DMC (a travel business), The Calpe Lounge (an airport VIP lounges business), Avis (a car hire business), Operational Support Group ("OSG"), Wavetecx (a computer development business) and Gibair (an airport ground handling business).

16. 36 North Limited ("36 North") is a Gibraltar registered company incorporated on the 23rd April 2018. The company carries on business as a computer software and security systems developer. PEREZ and ICode Limited, together with Astelon Limited, are beneficial owners in the company (each having a 33% shareholding). Following their resignations from Bland Ltd, Cornelio and Perez went on to work on a full time basis at 36 North.

17. ICode Limited ("ICode") is a Gibraltar registered company beneficially owned by Cornelio and incorporated on the 16th May 2018 for the purpose of holding shares in 36 North.

18. Astelon Limited ("Astelon") is a Gibraltar registered company beneficially owned by Hassans International Law Firm and incorporated on the 29th March 2018 for the purpose of holding shares in 36 North. The company has a 33% shareholding in 36 North.

19. Hassans International Law Firm is a Gibraltar based international law firm. Jaime Levy is a senior partner of Hassans.

THE NSCIS PLATFORM

20. The National Security Central Intelligence System ("the NSCIS platform") is a modular, centralised IT software system developed and utilised for the collection, monitoring, background checking, and flagging of people and vehicle movements in and out of Gibraltar, via land, sea and air.

21. Thomas Cornelio, during the course of his employment with Bland, developed this system. The NSCIS Platform was first launched in December 2014 under the Frontier Management Project (FMP) and was subsequently developed over a number of years.

22. The NSCIS platform collects sensitive personal information from members of the public upon entry to and exit from Gibraltar. It is a key tool for law enforcement agencies in the protection of the National Security of Gibraltar.

23. Bland Limited state they own the NSCIS platform, the source code, object code and all database structures which form the platform. However this is contested by HMGoG.

24. The NSCIS platform is provided to HMGoG on the basis of an ongoing software license, for which HMGoG pay Bland a license fee. In addition, Bland provides continuing support and maintenance for the platform.

THIRD PARTY ACCOUNTS

25. Being the developer, Cornelio had an intimate knowledge of the NSCIS platform. [redacted]

[redacted]

THE NSCIS PLATFORM AND WAVETECX

26. The contract for the NSCIS platform commenced under the Bland security company Operational Support Group ("OSG"). Bland later set up a separate company to develop, brand, market and commercially exploit the NSCIS platform abroad ("Wavetecx").

27. Wavetecx was set up around January 2017 and headed by Perez as CEO. He was assisted by Cornelio.

28. Cornelio managed Wavetecx on a day-to-day basis in his capacity as the Head of Software Development. Two Software Developers worked for Wavetecx – Joseph (Joey) Benrimoj and Marius Zalkaukas.

36 NORTH LIMITED

29. 36 North Limited is a private company limited by shares, with a registered office at 57/63 Line Wall Road, Gibraltar.

30. 36 North was incorporated on the 23rd April 2018. Whilst still employees of Bland, Perez and Cornelio were appointed directors of the company.

31. On the 22nd June 2018, Perez, ICode (beneficially owned by Cornelio) and Astelon Limited (beneficially owned by Hassans) each acquired a 33% shareholding in 36 North. Levy, having a 32% shareholding in Hassans, was therefore a 10% beneficial owner of 36 North [with the other partners each having a smaller share according to their respective interests in Hassans]. Perez and Cornelio were still employees of Bland.

32. There continued to be changes to the company formation during the proceeding months. However, the ultimate beneficial owners of 36 North remained as Perez, Cornelio and Hassans Law Firm [with Levy owning 10% beneficial share in the company owing to his 32% share in Hassans].

ALLEGATION

33. In October 2018, James GAGGERO engaged the assistance of Pricewaterhouse Cooper (PwC) and Red Maple (formerly Infosec Consulting) to regain control of the NSCIS Platform. Following the departure of Tommy Cornelio and John Perez, the platform malfunctioned. Gaggero reported this to the Commissioner of Police as he believed Tommy Cornelio and John Perez were responsible for this.

SEARCH WARRANTS AND ARRESTS

34. On 10th May 2019, the RGP executed search warrants at the home addresses of Cornelio, Perez, Asquez, and the offices of 36 North. A large number of electronic and documentary exhibits were seized.

35. Cornelio, Perez and Asquez were arrested during these search warrants.

36. On 14th May 2019, the RGP executed search warrants at the home address and office of Sanchez. A number of electronic and documentary exhibits were seized.

37. Sanchez was arrested the same day at Gibraltar Airport as he had been in London.

38. On 24th July 2019, the RGP executed search warrants at the home address and office of Aaron Chipol. A number of electronic and documentary exhibits were seized.

39. Chipol was not arrested at this time however he voluntary attended New Mole House Police Station.

40. Jaime Levy has not yet been subject to Police Intervention.

BACKGROUND

41. Jaime Levy is extremely influential in Gibraltar with very close connections to the Chief Minister and other HMGoG ministers. He is a senior partner of Hassans and has significant financial capabilities available to him.

CONSPIRACY TO DISHONESTLY OBTAIN THE NSCIS PLATFORM MAINTENANCE AGREEMENT

42. During the course of their employment with Bland, Perez and Cornelio, together with Levy, conspired to defraud Bland by dishonestly appropriating the NSCIS platform maintenance contract for their own benefit, via their company 36 North Limited.

43. They were assisted in attempting to obtain the NSCIS platform contract by Sanchez and to a lesser degree, Chipol both of whom are Senior Government officials.

44. The evidence in support of this offence can be divided into the following:

    a. Planning / Preparation to Obtain the NSCIS Platform (agreement / dishonesty);
    b. Appropriation of business commenced by Bland (dishonesty);
    c. Pressure and Government Officials / Undermining Bland (dishonesty);
    d. Computer Misuse Offences / Knowledge of Computer Misuse Offences (dishonesty); and
    e. NSCIS Report for Caine Sanchez (dishonesty).

Planning / Preparation to Obtain the NSCIS Platform Maintenance Contract

45. Prior to 36 North being created and during the inception, Sanchez and Levy discussed a joint venture. In January 2018, Sanchez wrote from his personal email account "YITU – (a) security company on AI. Europe director to propose to move services from London to Gibraltar (b) interested in a joint venture with Wavetech (John Perez) (c) YITU to negotiate deal with them and deal to remove company from Blands."

46. In a text message between Sanchez and Levy, dated the 24th July 2018, Sanchez wrote "James I received a call from James Gaggero last night reference the security programme. I have discussed it with John and emailed the CM. It may be wise for us to meet and maybe include David Weber to go over some aspects of the conversation."

47. In a further text, dated the 14th August 2018, he stated, "James just got John Perez company their Insurance broker. Everything is going well with this. Just drafted letter to send to James Gaggero and waiting for CM to approve. I have also urged them to sign the international agreement and they are moving forward with this." Sanchez was advising 36 North in a business capacity. He was not independent of 36 North and unable to make an impartial decision regarding the NSCIS security platform.

48. During the course of 2018 Cornelio, Perez and Levy planned to obtain the NSCIS platform maintenance contract. This contract was the property of Bland and worth over £60,000 a month.

49. In an email sent from Perez to Cornelio, dated the 24th February 2018, (and whilst still employees of Bland) Perez attached a "Letter of Intent". This letter purported that 36 North already had an existing contract with HMGoG for the NSICIS platform. This proposal evidenced the intent of the suspects to obtain the contract for the benefit of their company, 36 North.

50. Between 23rd April 2018 and 22nd June 2018, the company 36 North Limited was incorporated, with Cornelio, Perez and Hassans each being 33% beneficial owners. It is believed the company was incorporated with the intent that it would obtain the benefit of the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

51. In an email exchange dated the 20th June 2018, and whilst still employed by Bland, Perez sent an email to Cornelio called, "36 North Cash Flow". The document showed a forecasted revenue in favour of 36 North which included the NSCIS platform (Global invoice) for £62,519 per month.

52. This evidence is consistent with an agreement between the suspects to appropriate the NSICS platform maintenance contract, the property of Bland.

53. In addition to preparing to take the NSCIS platform maintenance contract, Cornelio and Perez dishonestly planned to hinder the ability of Bland to carry out their contractual obligations.

54. As part of this preparation, the suspects engineered a situation whereby they, together with a number of software engineers, would resign from the company at the same time.

55. Without prior notification, on the 10th July 2018, Perez and Cornelio handed in their resignations from Bland. In accordance with their respective contracts, the resignation of Perez was to take effect on the 9th September 2018 and the resignation of Cornelio was to take effect from the 10th August 2018.

56. On the 19th July 2018 both software engineers sent a text to Cornelio in which they presented draft resignations. On the same date Cornelio wrote to the engineers, "Marius ok give me a while to review and don't send email out until I confirm with John now ok."

57. On the 20th July 2018, Cornelio wrote on the same chat, "Remember to stick to the story when chairman calls Joey. He has already written to John and he is denying having known."

58. On the 20th July 2018, the software developers resigned from their employment with Bland to join 36 North. The resulting loss of staff undermined the ability of Bland to fulfil their NSCIS contractual obligations following the departure of Perez and Cornelio from the company.

59. On the 2nd August 2018 Cornelio wrote to one of the developers regarding Gaggero attempting to retain Bland projects saying, "In order to keep things smooth we all need to leave asap, leaving him no option." He wrote on the same date, "You will need to make it clear that after the 20th you are finished with Blands. That will ensure that they can't buy time."

60. These actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland, by diminishing their IT capabilities [and thereby their ability to maintain the platform] and appropriate the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

61. On the 10th June 2018 Perez wrote to Levy, "Preparing for our departure on 29th June. Everything else is now almost in place. John."

62. On the 30th August, and immediately prior to Cornelio terminating his consultancy, Levy wrote to Perez, "John I just rang you to tell you everything is under control. I've been working with Tommy on the relevant letters. I am very confident that we will bring this to a close in a successful manner very shortly. You can rest assured I will do my best to help you in every way. I have great Respect and admiration for your ability and hard work. Do not worry if there is an attack I will help you to defend and to counter-attack. You're a military man so I'm writing to you in military terms."

Appropriation of Business Commenced by Bland

63. During the course of their employment with Bland Cornelio and Perez were involved in a number of projects. These included:

    a. A proposal for the Carnival Corporation for a "Centralised Vessel Security Management System"; and
    b. A "Ministry of Defence and Public Security Border Management Proposal" for Sao Tome and Principe.

64. In an email sent from Perez to Cornelio, dated the 24th February 2018, (and whilst still employees of Bland) Perez attached a "Letter of Intent". This letter purported that 36 North already had existing international contracts including Carnival Cruises and Sao Tome and Principe. These were in fact contracts that were being negotiated on behalf of Bland.

65. In respect of Sao Tome, the proposal stated, "Contract about to be signed for 7 years. Contract worth 1.6m euros with a forecast 20% increase by year 3. Contract starts in Feb 18." Under the heading "Carnival Cruise Lines" is stated, "Currently negotiating an APIS maritime system with Carnival who dominates 70% of the Cruise liner industry. A pilot platform has already been designed and discussed with Carnival CEO. A visit by Carnival's Head of Security and International representative will be visiting us in Mar 2018. Negotiation ongoing. Contract worth £175k per year."

66. It is clear that Cornelio and Perez intended to dishonestly appropriate the business of Bland commenced by them as employees of Bland and obtain the benefits for 36 North.

67. On the 6th July 2018, Perez discussed one of these projects, namely Carnival Cruises, with Levy, despite not having resigned from Bland. He wrote, "James we have just finished with Carnival after a long day of negotiations. We have been successful and now moving to the pilot phase. Flying back tomorrow."

68. In respect of the Sao Tome and Principe agreement, Cornelio specifically ensured that any signature would take place after he had resigned from Bland when he stated on the 24th July 2018, "We can agree on timeline and agree a date to sign contract. After the 10th August"

69. Both Sao Tome and Principe and the Carnival Security Management System continued to appear on the Agenda for 36 North after both Perez and Cornelio had left Bland.

70. On the 7th September 2018, and in respect of Sao Tome, Perez wrote to Levy, "James this week we will be receiving a contract from São Tomé and Príncipe for review. The commercial elements of the contract have already been agreed in principle. We are also closing in on Equatorial Guinea."

Pressure on HM Government of Gibraltar

71. Following his departure from Bland and termination of the consultancy period, Cornelio sought to apply pressure on HMGoG to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract. In particular he used connections with Chipol, Levy and John Rodriguez, the Collector of Customs.

72. Between September 2018 – May 2019, Cornelio sent Chipol numerous messages regarding the NSCIS platform. Cornelio made various requests to Chipol, as head of BCA, during this period to undermine Bland in the favour of 36 North. These requests involved sending emails purporting to be from Chipol which Cornelio had drafted and speaking to Government officials.

73. The below paragraphs refer to communications between Cornelio and Levy.

74. On the 21st August, whilst still in the consultancy period, Cornelio wrote, "Dear James, would it be possible to sit down with you or the CM to try and move forward with out projects? I currently have a lot of work on hold pending this decision."

75. On the 29th August 2018 he similarly wrote, "Dear James, please try and get me a 10 min slot for me to meet the CM. I believe I am best placed to explain the entire situation and advise the best technical solution possible."

76. On the 12th September 2018 Cornelio wrote to Levy and attached a letter to be used by the Chief Minister to terminate the Bland contracts. This letter was addressed to James Gaggero of Bland and was titled "Termination of NSCIS, DSS, BCA, ETB and Education contracts ("the contracts")." It explained, "Bland Limited has failed to perform its obligations under the Contracts and is therefore in repudiatory breach… In the circumstances, please accept this letter as HMGOG's termination of the Contracts with immediate effect."

77. On the 23rd September 2018 Cornelio wrote, "Attached is a letter which may be of use to the GoG in order to proceed with the new platform we have offered them."

78. By the 27th December 2018 Cornelio was concerned that the Chief Minister would not be transferring the contract to 36 North. In response Levy wrote, "I don't think he will transfer the contracts back to 36N. We have to work on alternatives. I am happy to help …"

79. On the 18th February 2019 he wrote to Levy saying, "Any merit in me writing to the CM directly to request he meet with me. I miss my contracts."

80. On the 26th March 2019 he wrote, "Perhaps CM would be willing to put the National Security system out for tender next month."

81. On the 27th March 2019 Cornelio again asked, "Do you think there is any chance of getting national security contract back at some point?" Despite his answer on the 27th December 2018 Levy responded, "Yes."

82. On the 3rd May 2018 Cornelio wrote again saying, "Dear James, the national security system [redacted]. Can I email the CM once again to meet me? He cannot allow this to continue."

83. On the 9th October 2018 Perez wrote to Levy stating, "James thank you so much for this morning. I am sure our sessions will become more enjoyable as we set of in our journey. With regards to dropping Fabian a note, let's give him a bit more time. As the pressure will naturally surface through his law enforcement heads."

84. These messages demonstrate the relationship between Levy and 36 North.

85. The Below Paragraphs are a sample of the communications between Cornelio and Perez.

[redacted]th [redacted]

87. On the 12th March 2019 Cornelio wrote to Perez, "Spoke to JL. Can u speak to John Rodriguez this morning." Perez replied, "I will call him this morning." Cornelio continued, "Yep now is the time to attack heavily. We have the upper hand. Use ur network"

88. On the 21st March 2019 Cornelio texted, "We need our old system back. These bastards cannot win. Call Aaron mate, this we need to take away from them ya."

89. The above clearly show that Cornelio, together with Perez and Levy, attempted to dishonestly apply pressure on HMGoG in order to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

Computer Misuse Offences

90. In furtherance of the agreement to obtain the NSCIS platform maintenance contract Cornelio committed numerous computer misuse offences. These offences were primarily designed to directly or indirectly disrupt the NSICS platform, and thereby bring into question the ability of Bland to maintain the said platform. As a direct consequence of his actions Cornelio compromised the national security of Gibraltar.

91. The Computer Misuse Offences are further detailed below.

NSCIS Report for Sanchez

92. On the 4th October 2018, Peter Canessa wrote to Caine Sanchez on behalf of the Chief Minister. In an email he wrote, "Further to my email below, and following further discussion with the CM, and to avoid any ambiguity, the instructions from the CM are that Bland Ltd is to be provided full control of the management, maintenance and support of the NSCIS platform … Once the handover process is completed Tommy Cornelio nor any 3rd party are to have access to the platform."

93. On the 5th October 2018 Sanchez contacted Cornelio and passed on these instructions.

94. On the 9th October 2018 Cornelio sent an email to Sanchez (with James Gaggero copied in) in which he confirmed that he would no longer access the NSCIS platform as well as writing, "In fact, as you are aware, our provision of support ended on 31 August 2018 and neither iCode Limited nor Thomas Cornelio have ongoing responsibilities to support these platforms."

95. After the 31st August 2018, and subsequent to the instructions from the Chief Minister on the 4th October 2018, Cornelio was not authorised to access the NSCIS platform.

96. Contrary to these instructions, between 2216 hours on the 11th April 2019 and 0013 hours on the 12th April 2019 Cornelio accessed the NSCIS platform using the credentials of Sanchez.
97. Cornelio thereby accessed a national security platform without authority, for the purpose of undermining Bland, and obtaining the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

98. On the 11th April 2019 Cornelio wrote to Levy, "We are going to have a field day on the national security report..just wait until you see it. For now I am reviewing every single module 1 by 1. [redacted]."

Knowledge of Computer Misuse Offences - Levy

99. On the 19th October 2018 Cornelio wrote to Levy saying, "Morning James. Very confidential. Note Gaggero has brought in a forensic team of six to look at anything John and I may have done to tamper with the system etc. Gaggero is going all out it seems.

100. On the same day Cornelio wrote to Perez saying, "Spoke to James ref forensic team confidentially. Spoke to him on the phone. Call me and I can discuss. He says not to worry. I am very concerned they will try to prove I have acted to sabotage the system in any way etc."

101. The evidence indicates that Levy discussed the forensic team with Cornelio and that he had given him advice about the situation.

COMPUTER MISUSE OFFENCES

102. In furtherance of the agreement to obtain the NSCIS platform maintenance contract Cornelio committed numerous computer misuse offences. These offences were primarily designed to directly or indirectly disrupt the NSCIS platform, and thereby bring into question the ability of Bland to maintain the said platform. As a direct consequence of his actions Cornelio compromised the national security of Gibraltar. A number of these offences were initially discovered by PwC, who were appointed by Bland, in October 2018, following numerous performance issues associated with the system.

156. Instance 31 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

157. On the 16th May 2018, being the same date on which ICode Limited was incorporated by Cornelio, the login credentials of Jonathan Galliano (Bland Head of IT and Infrastructure), in respect of the Bland Microsoft Azure account failed to work.

158. Cornelio persistently failed to restore the access despite repeated requests to do so. On 16th May 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access. The login issues were due to Cornelio blocking the Microsoft Azure account of Galliano, as he was the only person authorised to do so.

159. These actions prevented Galliano, and thereby Bland, from accessing the NSCIS Azure resources, which hindered the ability of Bland to identify, diagnose, administer and repair issues associated with the NSCIS platform.

160. It further prevented Galliano (and thereby Bland) from accessing the Azure Management Portal activity logs, which would have identified actions carried out by Cornelio on the Microsoft Azure account.

161. These actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland Limited and appropriate the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

CHANGE OF MS AZURE BILLING DETAILS

162. The Bland Microsoft Azure account was originally set up on 24th July 2016 under the billing address "Cloister Building, Irish Town, Gibraltar, Cadiz, Spain". The account was paid for via Bland Group company credit cards. The account owner email address was specified as being tommy@wavetecx.com.

163. Instance 32 - Unauthorised acts with intent to impair the operation of a computer – section 364(1) as read with s.364(2)(b) Crimes Act 2011 –

164. Between 25th May 2018 and 25th June 2018, and without authority, the address on the account was changed by Cornelio (account administrator [redacted]) to "[redacted]. This address was Spanish property belonging to Cornelio.

165. On the 5th July 2018 the Bland Limited mobile phone numbers [redacted] (used by Perez) and [redacted] (used by Cornelio) were removed from the Bland Limited Gibtelecom account without authority.

166. On the 27th July 2018, and without authority, Cornelio deleted all Wavetecx mailboxes and data files from the Wavetecx server, including the email address tommy@wavetecx.com . Cornelio deleted this mailbox in the belief that it could not be recovered.

167. On the 17th October 2018, and with the assistance of InfoSec Consulting (subsequently Red Maple Technologies), Bland attempted to remove Cornelio as the default owner of the entire MS Azure account (Azure Account Administrator / Azure Service Administrator).

168. InfoSec initially attempted to remove Cornelio with the use of phone number support arrangements offered by Microsoft. The corporate Bland phone used by Cornelio as a backup device for account password recovery could not be located.

169. Microsoft support in the form of a Microsoft Enterprise Agreement was subsequently requested. This was substantially frustrated by the change of address, meaning that Bland found it difficult to prove that they were the valid owner of the account.

170. The actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland Limited and to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract to 36 North.

171. Instance 33 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

172. On 9th July 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account.

[redacted]

179. These actions were consistent with an agreement undermine Bland Limited and dishonestly appropriate the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

180. Instance 35 - Unauthorised acts with intent to impair the operation of a computer – section 364(1) as read with s.364(2)(b) Crimes Act 2011).

181. Once Wavetecx were incorporated, Cornelio, Perez and Asquez used '@wavetecx.com' email addresses. These Wavetecx email accounts were the property of Bland Limited.

182. Between 23rd - 28th July 2018, without authority, and while still an employee of Bland (in his notice period), Cornelio logged onto the Wavetecx email server and exported all the data including user mailboxes and data files from all Wavetecx email accounts. These included the email accounts of Perez and Cornelio.

183. On the same date, and without authority, Cornelio deleted all Wavetecx mailboxes and data files from the Wavetecx server. The email accounts included evidence of the intent of Perez and Cornelio to appropriate the NSCIS maintenance contract, as well as potential customers of the NSCIS platform and communications with HMGoG relating to the NSCIS platform.

184. These actions were performed from IP addresses attributed to Cornelio.

185. Cornelio exported and deleted these mailboxes in the belief that these mailboxes could not be recovered.

186. Despite his belief that they could not be retrieved, the content of these mailboxes were later recovered by Bland.

187. These actions were consistent with the agreement to undermine Bland Limited and appropriate the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

188. Instance 36 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

189. On 24th July 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account.

190. Instance 37 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

191. On 25th July 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account.

192. Instance 38 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

193. On 26th July 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account.

194. Instance 39 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

195. On 31st July 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account. (Exhibit JOG/17 refers).

196. Instance 40 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

197. On 2nd August 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account.

198. Instance 41 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

199. On 6th August 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account.

DELETION OF NSCIS BACKOFFICE AUDIT LOGS

200. The NSCIS backoffice audit log is a sequential counter that increases by one when each action by a user is logged.

201. Instance 42 - Unauthorised acts with intent to impair the operation of a computer – section 364(1) as read with s.364(2)(b) Crimes Act 2011 -

202. Between 7th August 2018 [2 days before Cornelio terminated at Bland] and 8th October 2018 [the day after Cornelio logged onto the NSCIS backoffice] a total of 340 log entries were deleted on 60 separate occasions.

203. A total of 31 logged actions were deleted between the 7th October 2018 at 1657 hours and the 8th October 2018 at 0716 hours.

204. The deletions coincided with the time when Cornelio was accessing the NSCIS backoffice and the initiation of the database re-indexing.

205. A log can only be deleted manually on the NSCIS production Azure SQL database and not through the NSCIS Back Application. To delete logs it would require an in-depth knowledge of:

a. What database server the database is stored in;
b. Database credentials to access and log in to the said database;
c. What tables the audit logs reside in;
d. What type of information is audited and when; and
e. The SQL code required to delete these entries manually to achieve this.

206. The actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland Limited and to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract to 36 North.

TERMINATION OF CONSULTANCY PERIOD

207. On the 1st September 2018 Cornelio terminated the consultancy period with Bland. In an email to James Gaggero, dated the 30th August 2018 he wrote, "Please let this email serve as official notice that as of 00:00 on 1st September 2018 I will no longer be supporting the NSCIS platform in any capacity."

208. On the 9th October 2018 Cornelio sent an email to Sanchez (with James Gaggero copied in) in which he wrote, "In fact, as you are aware, our provision of support ended on 31 August 2018 and neither iCode Limited nor Thomas Cornelio have ongoing responsibilities to support these platforms."

209. As of the 1st September 2018 Cornelio was no longer authorised by Bland to access the NSCIS platform.

210. However, Microsoft Azure logs revealed that Cornelio had logged on using his account [redacted] on numerous occasions after the 31st August 2018.

[redacted]

UNAUTHORISED ACCESS – "NSCISBLOBS"

220. Instance 46 - Unauthorised access to computer material – section 362 Crimes Act 2011

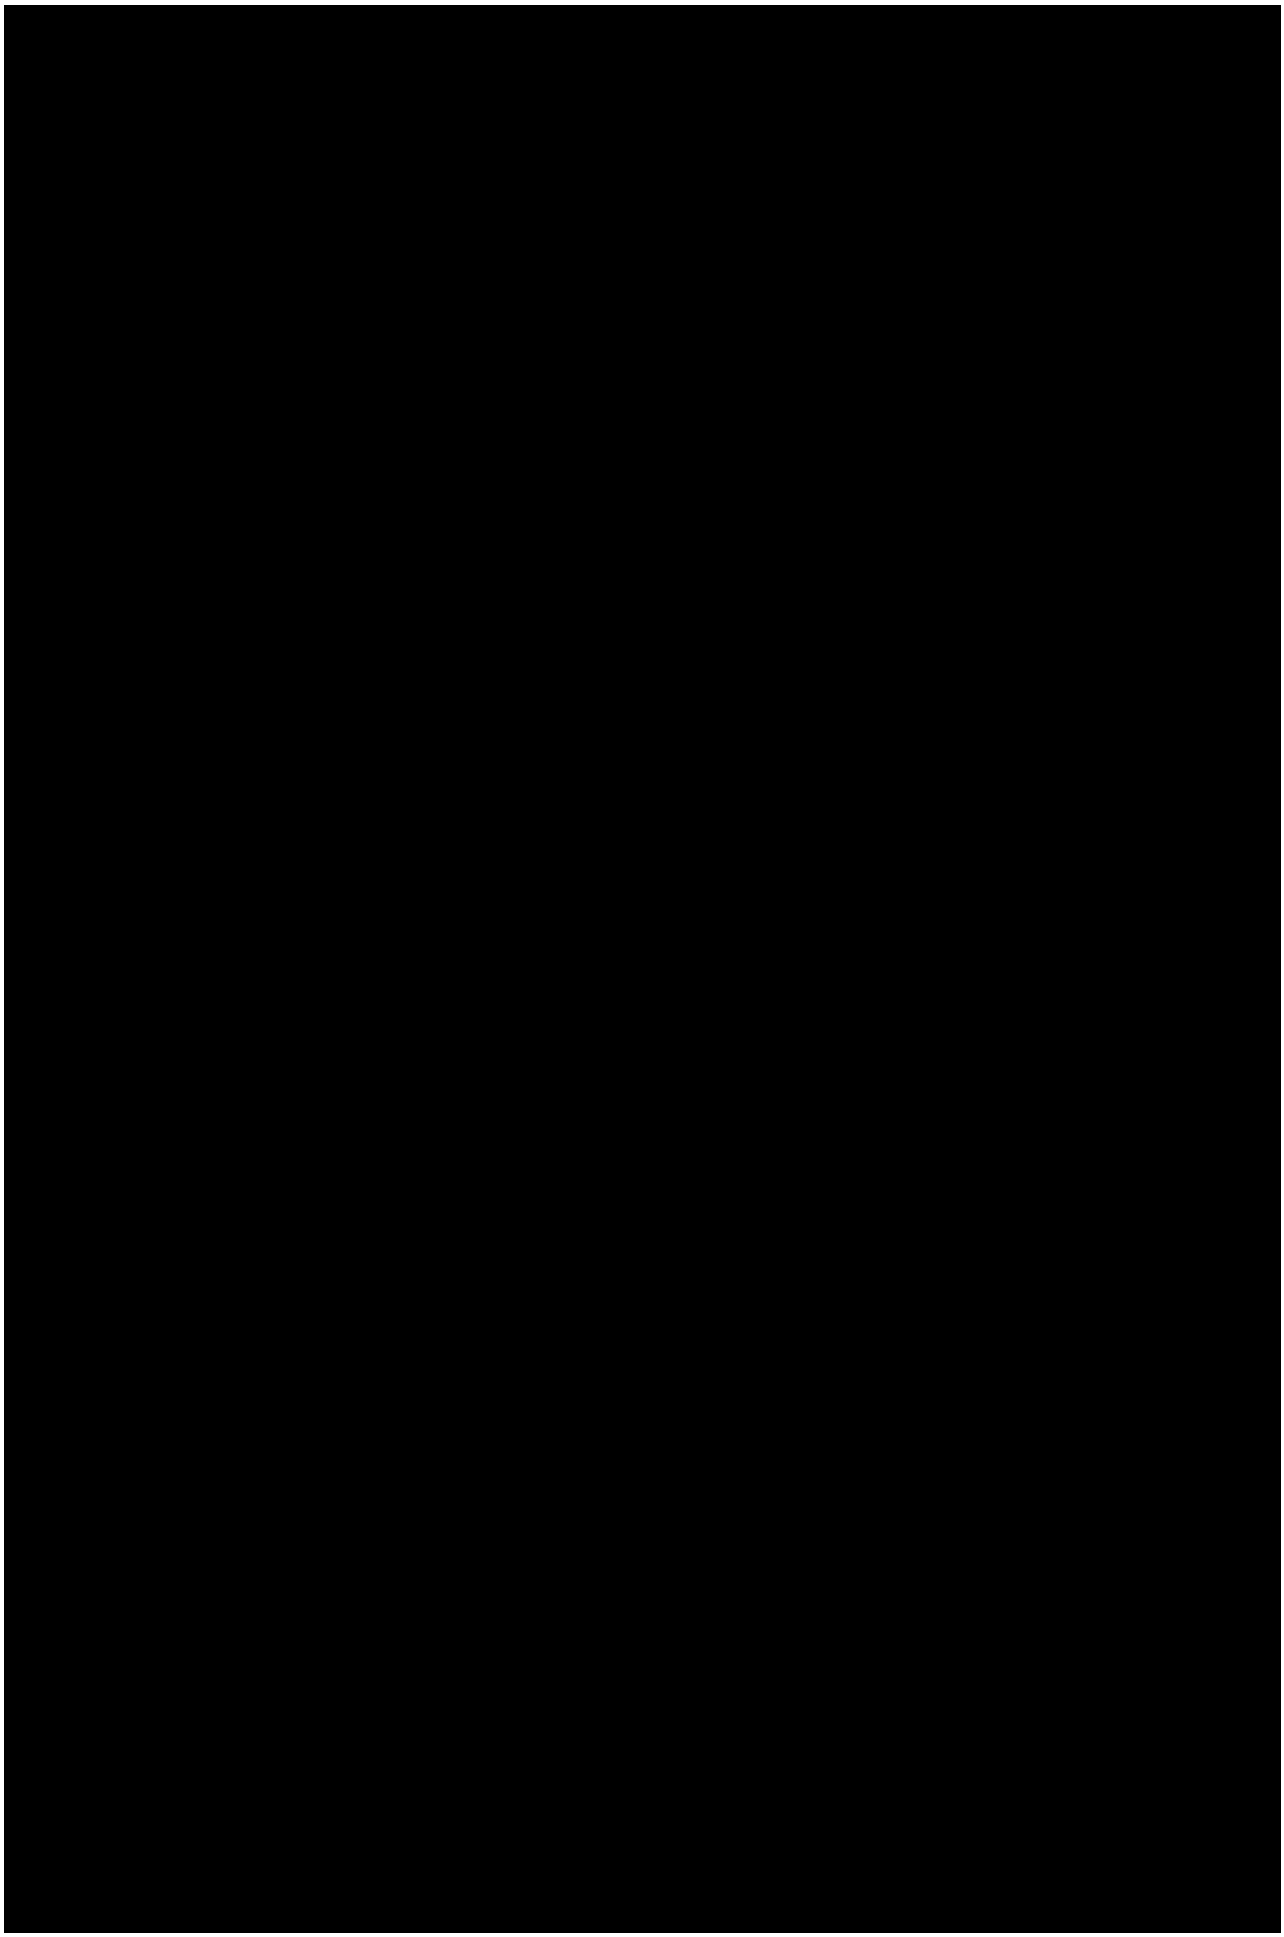
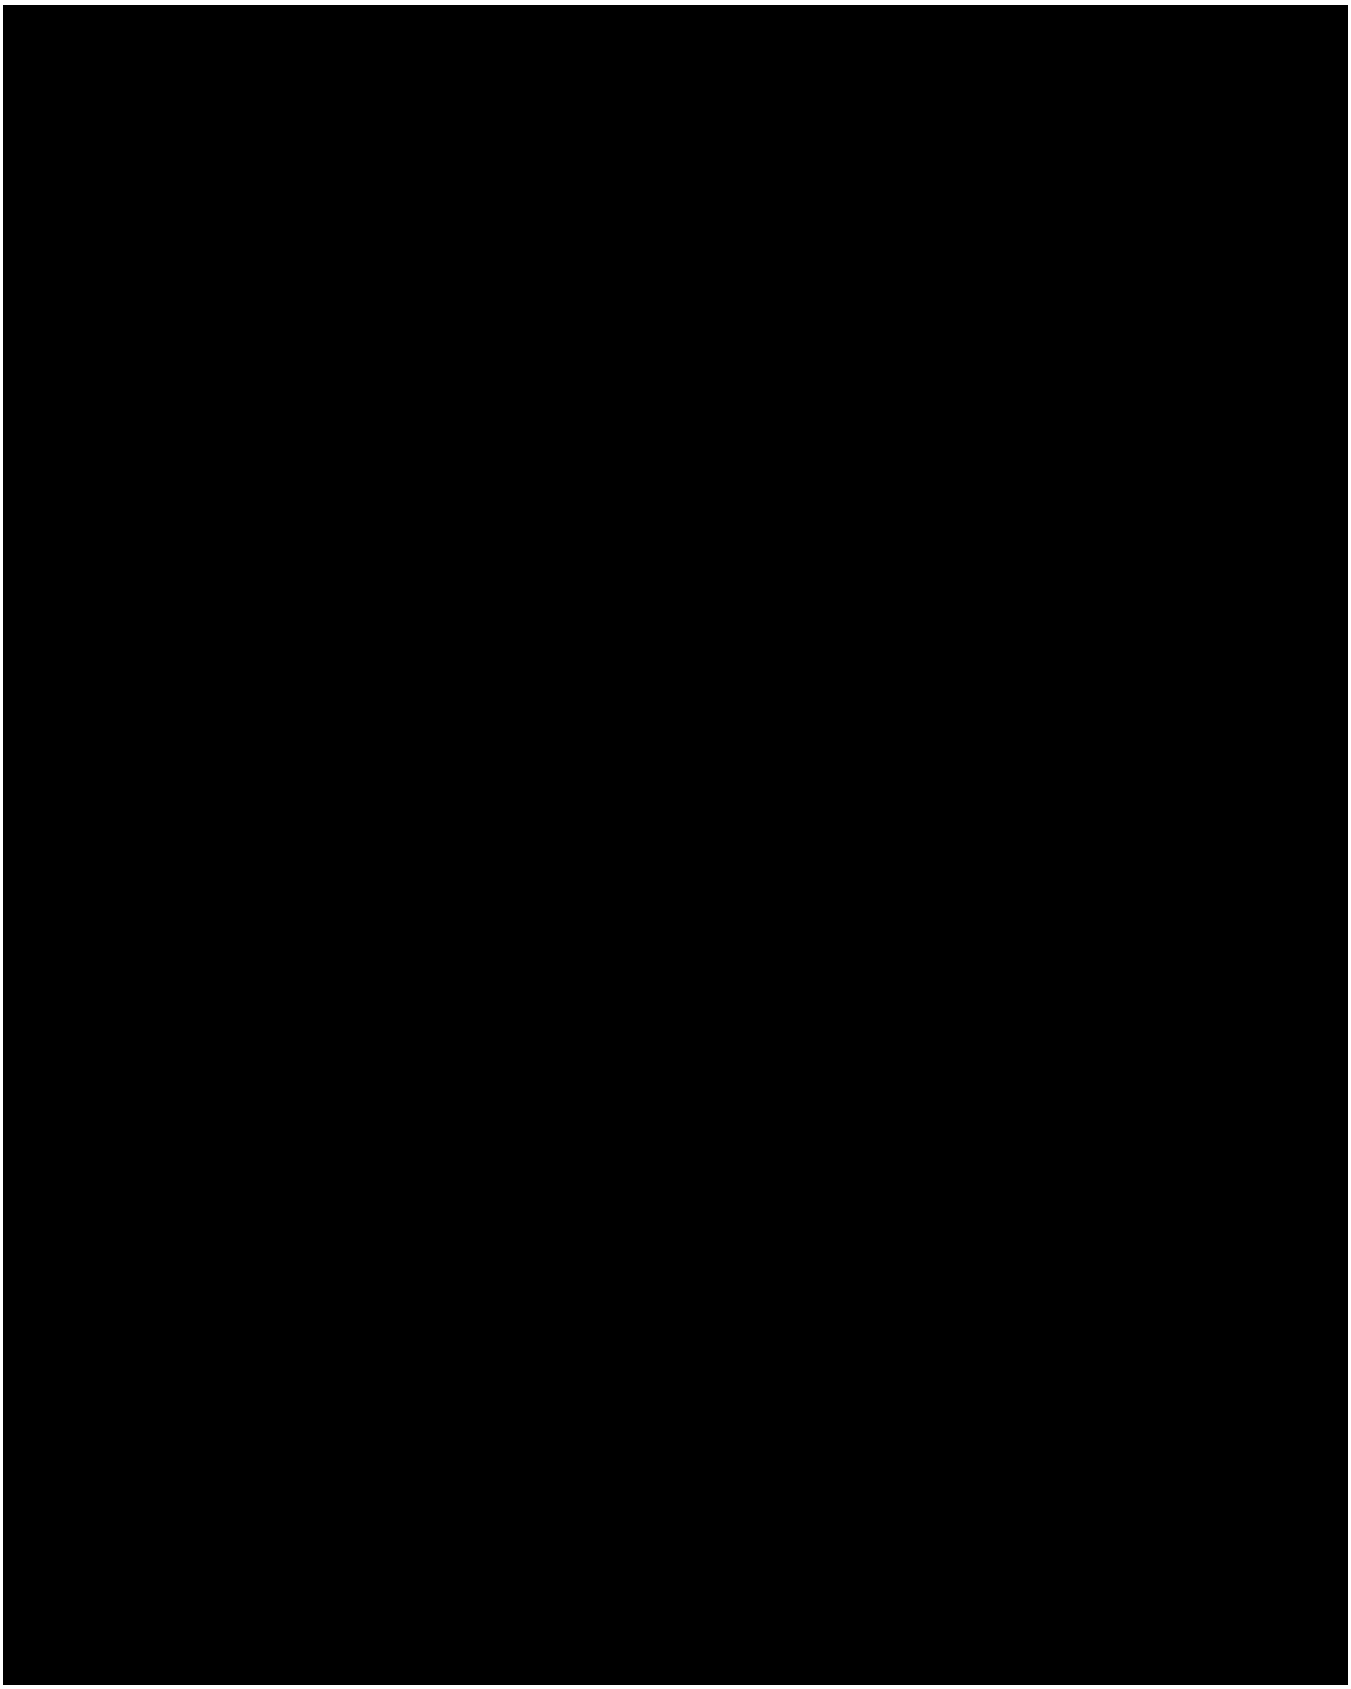
221. On 6th September 2018, that is, after the termination of the consultancy period, Cornelio logged onto the NSCIS Azure Blob Storage account "nscisblobs", using his Azure account [redacted].

229. The actions were consistent with the agreement of Cornelio and Sanchez to undermine Bland Limited and appropriate the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.





TWITTER

256. Up until the 4th October 2018, that is, the day on which the Chief Minister gave instructions for the NSCIS platform not to be accessed by Cornelio, tweets of border queuing images were being posted by Bland to Twitter handle @gibraltarborder.

257. At that time Cornelio was the sole owner and administrator of both the Twitter handle @gibraltarborder and linked Twitter account (ID 2535097143). This account is owned by Bland and was administered by Cornelio during the course of his employment. The account had over 4400 followers, subscribers, and tweet history.

258. Linked to this account was the personal Twitter developer account of Cornelio.

259. As a result of the failure on the 4th October, Bland recreated the Twitter Windows service and software library source code. The Windows service had to be restored from the source code retrieved on the 19th July 2018 [and unknown to Cornelio]. The Twitter Windows service and software library was not present in the source code provided by Cornelio on the 7th September 2018.

260. This was put into operation on the 5th October 2018 at 1355 hours. The new Twitter service successfully posted tweets between 1355 hours and 1935 hours on the same day.

261. After 1935 hours the Twitter Windows service failed to post tweets due to an invalid or expired key token. Cornelio, as the administrator of his personal Twitter developer account was the only person able to change tokens required to access and post tweets to @gibraltarborder.

262. Instance 62 - Fraud by failing to disclose information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011 –

263. On 4th October, Cornelio failed to disclose to Bland, the location of the Twitter Windows service posting to Twitter account number 2535097143.

264. Instance 63 - Fraud by failing to disclose information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011 -

265. Between the 5th and 7th October 2018, immediately after the Chief Minister gave an instruction for Cornelio to no longer access NSCIS, Cornelio changed the twitter handle from @gibraltarborder to @gibraltarbord. In doing so he retained all of the original followers, subscribers and tweets associated with ID 2535097143.

266. At 1924 hours on the 7th October 2018 Cornelio created a new Twitter account (ID 10489875235226139904) with the now free handle @gibraltarborder from an IP address associated with his home address. He then provided the administrator credentials to this new account to Bland in an email.

267. Cornelio thereby retained the Bland Twitter account (ID 2535097143) and failed to disclose the administrator access to Bland on 8th October 2018.

268. The actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland Limited and to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract to 36 North.

269. Between April – December 2019, approximately 6600 tweets were deleted from the Twitter Handle @Gibraltarbord.

FRONTIER QUEUE HOTLINE

270. On the 8th August 2018, that is, 2 days before he resigned from Bland, Cornelio requested that the Frontier Queue Hotline phone number 20042777 be forwarded on to UK phone number +44 7428310899, and that voicemail on phone number 20042777 be disabled.

271. Bland hold an account with Messagebird, a third-party service provider. Bland use their services extensively within the NSCIS platform for voice and SMS capabilities. The number +44 7428310899 is a number held on a Messagebird account however it was not transferred by Cornelio to the Bland account. It was therefore not accessible by them.

272. The new UK number required the development of a new Windows service to update the new phone line with the frontier queue times. On the 9th August Cornelio wrote that the physical server at Cloister Building, which hosted the Frontier Queue Hotline, was redundant. This confirmed that the new Frontier Queue Hotline windows service had been relocated to a server not known to Bland.

273. Instance 64 - Fraud by failing to disclose information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011 -

274. On the 5th October, that is, the day on which Cornelio was officially informed that he was no longer to access the NSCIS platform, the Frontier Queue Hotline was disabled or failed. Bland was unable to remedy this as they had no knowledge of which server the Widows service was running from.

275. In order to restore the service a new Frontier Queue Hotline service had to be developed. This was further hindered by the fact that the source code provided by Cornelio on the 7th September 2018 did not contain the most up to date version of the Windows service.

276. As a result, the Frontier Queue Hotline service was not operating for a total of 26 days.

277. The actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland Limited and to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract to 36 North.

278. Instance 65 - Fraud by failing to disclose information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011 -

279. On the 7th October when requested to, did not disclose to Bland the location of the server on which the Frontier Queue Hotline Windows Service associated with Messagebird Number +447428310899 was running from.

UNAUTHORISED ACCESS - NSCIS BACKOFFICE

280. On the 4th October 2018, Peter Canessa wrote to Caine Sanchez on behalf of the Chief Minister. In an email he wrote, "Further to my email below, and following further discussion with the CM, and to avoid any ambiguity, the instructions from the CM are that Bland Ltd is to be provided full control of the management, maintenance and support of the NSCIS platform … Once the handover process is completed Tommy Cornelio nor any 3rd party are to have access to the platform."

281. On the 5th October 2018 Sanchez contacted Cornelio and passed on these instructions.

282. On the 9th October 2018 Cornelio sent an email to Sanchez (with James Gaggero copied in) in which he confirmed that he would no longer access the NSCIS platform as well as writing, "In fact, as you are aware, our provision of support ended on 31 August 2018 and neither iCode Limited nor Thomas Cornelio have ongoing responsibilities to support these platforms."

283. Instance 66 - Unauthorised access to computer material – section 362 Crimes Act 2011 -

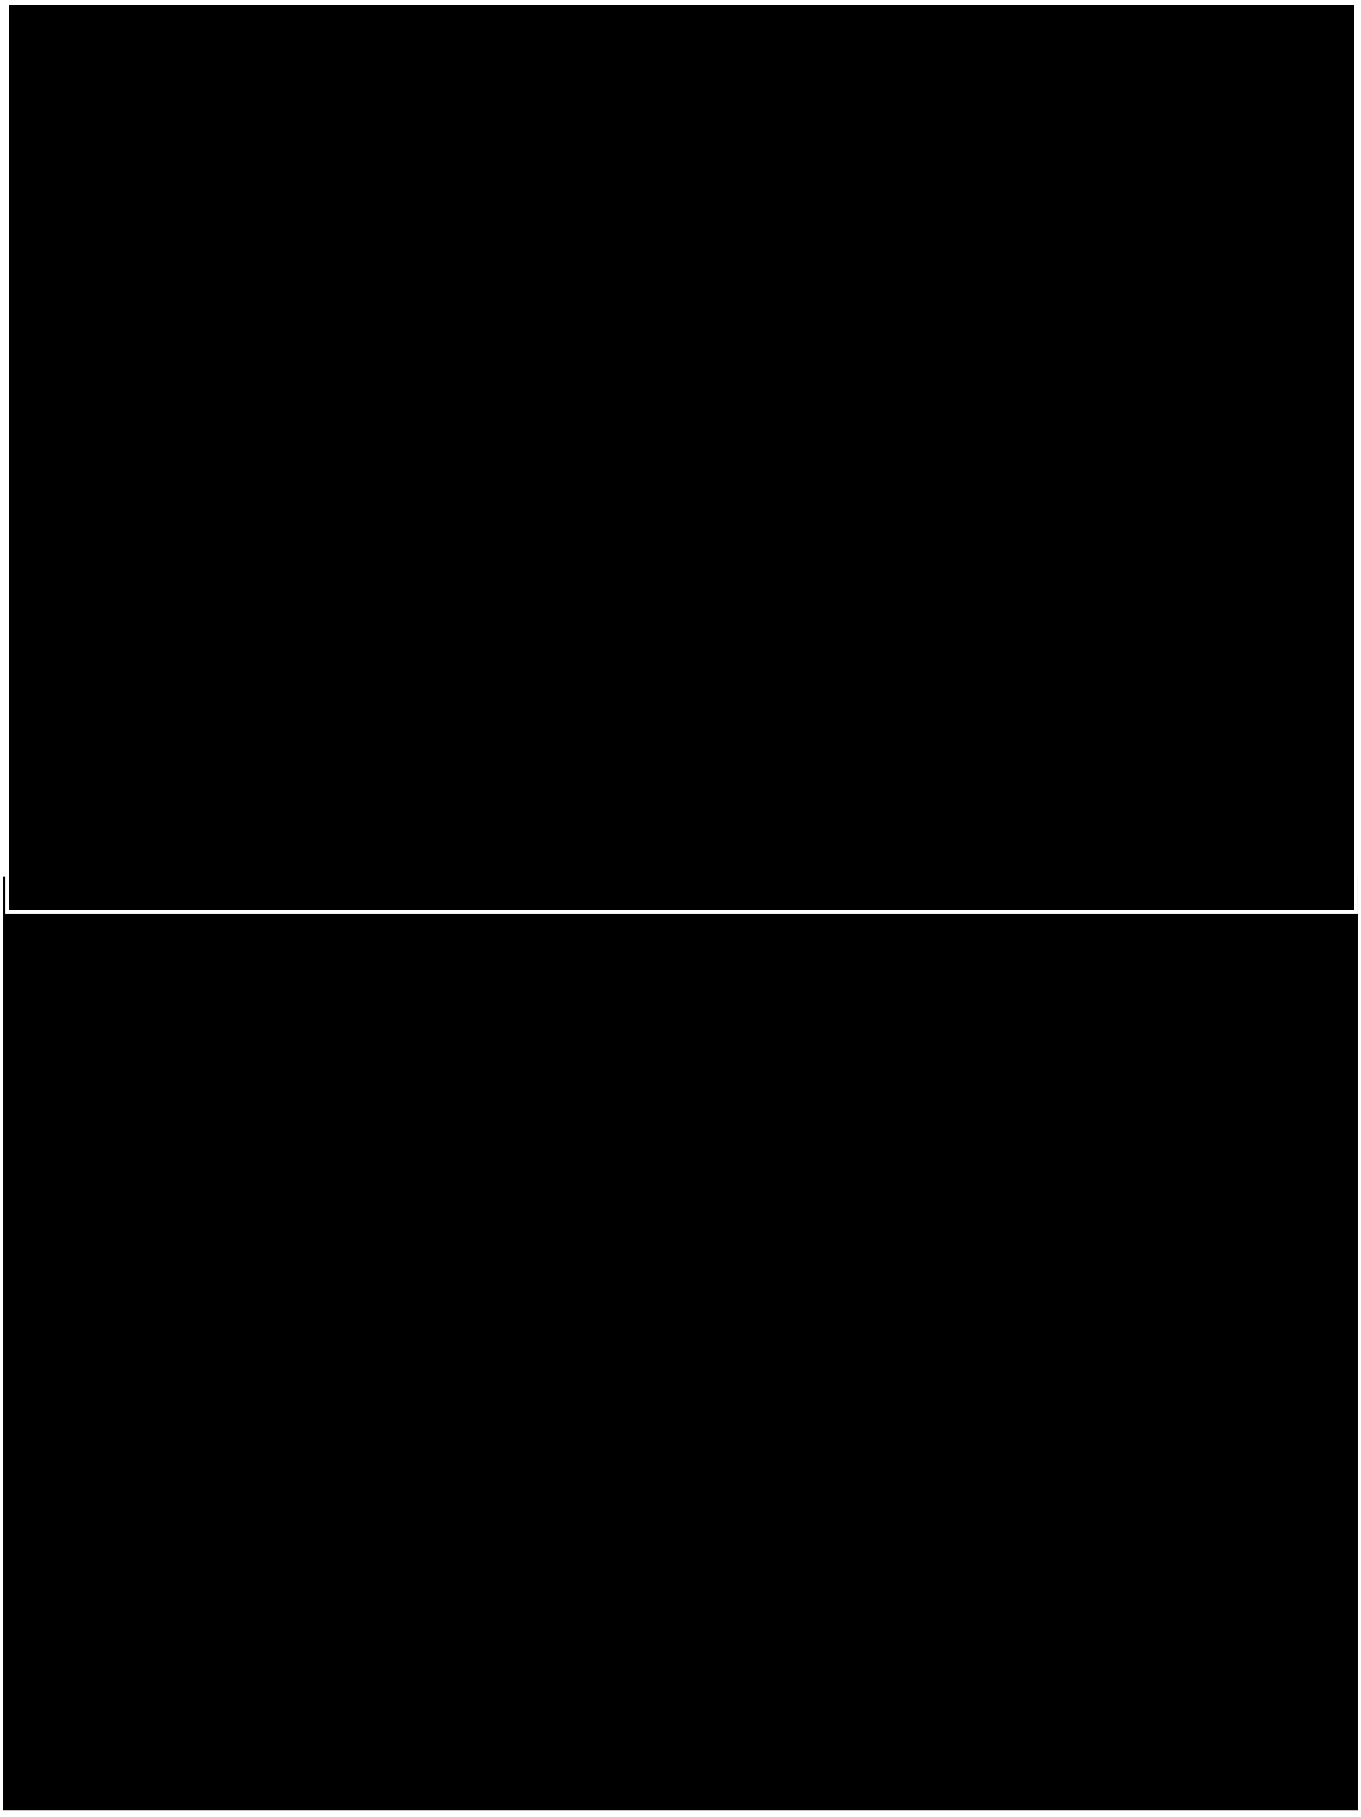
284. In contravention of the instructions, on the 7th October 2018 Cornelio accessed the NSCIS back office using his Bland group email tommy.cornelio@blandgroup.com. The access was obtained from an IP address directly associated with Cornelio.



305. These actions were carried out from an IP address connected to Cornelio.

[redacted]

308. The actions of Cornelio between 7th – 11th October 2018 posed a serious and credible risk to the National Security of Gibraltar.

309. Instance 76 - Unauthorised access to computer material – section 362 Crimes Act 2011

310. On 17th October 2018, that is, after the termination of the consultancy period, Cornelio logged onto the NSCIS Azure Blob Storage account "nscisblobs", using his Azure account [redacted].

NSCIS REPORT FOR SANCHEZ

311. On the 4th October 2018, Peter Canessa wrote to Caine Sanchez on behalf of the Chief Minister. In an email he wrote, "Further to my email below, and following further discussion with the CM, and to avoid any ambiguity, the instructions from the CM are that Bland Ltd is to be provided full control of the management, maintenance and support of the NSCIS platform … Once the handover process is completed Tommy Cornelio nor any 3rd party are to have access to the platform."

312. On the 5th October 2018 Sanchez contacted Cornelio and passed on these instructions.

313. On the 9th October 2018 Cornelio sent an email to Sanchez (cc. James Gaggero) in which he confirmed that he would no longer access the NSCIS platform as well as writing, "In fact, as you are aware, our provision of support ended on 31 August 2018 and neither iCode Limited nor Thomas Cornelio have ongoing responsibilities to support these platforms."

314. Post 31st August 2018, Cornelio was not authorised to access the NSCIS platform. This was re-enforced by the instructions from the Chief Minister on the 4th October 2018.

315. Instance 77 – Unauthorised access to computer material – contrary to section 362 Crimes Act 2011 -

316. Contrary to these instructions, between 2216 hours on the 11th April 2019 and 0013 hours on the 12th April 2019 Cornelio accessed the NSCIS platform using the credentials of Sanchez which were provided to Cornelio by Sanchez.

317. Cornelio thereby accessed a national security platform without authority, for the purpose of undermining Bland, and obtaining the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

318. On the 11th April 2019 Cornelio wrote to Levy, "We are going to have a field day on the national security report..just wait until you see it. For now I am reviewing every single module 1 by 1. [redacted]."

LEVY'S INVOLVEMENT

319. The above paragraphs demonstrate Levy was involved in the plan to remove the NSCIS contract from Bland at an early stage;

a. Messages between Levy and Sanchez show communication discussing moving the contract away from Bland in early 2018. (Paras 45 to 47)

b. Levy was instrumental in the creation of 36 North. Firstly, by being owning 32% of shares of Astelon Ltd, who in turn own 33% of shares of 36 North. (Paras 31 to 32) On behalf of Hassans, he injected a large sum of money into 36 North.

c. He was using his influence with the Chief Minister to the advantage of 36 North.

d. He was regularly contacting both Cornelio and Perez in relation to 36 North whilst they were still employed by Blands and following their resignations. (Paras 61 to 89).

e. Communications show he was aware of the Computer Misuse Offences committed by Cornelio. (Paras 99 to 100).

320. I now seek to recover –

Electronic devices (including but not limited to mobile telephones, laptop computers, servers) capable of sending and receiving text messages, instant messages and/or electronic mails, owned and/or used by Jaime Levy and any device capable of storing any of the aforementioned messages.

I submit to your Worship that there are reasonable grounds for believing that:

321. Indictable offences have been committed;

Conspiracy to Defraud contrary to Common Law.

322. There is material that consists of special procedure material or includes special procedure material and does not also include excluded material on premises specified in the application.

Data has been created or acquired in the course of the business of Hassans International Law Firm, of which the subject is a senior partner. As a law firm, this data is held under an express or implied duty of confidence the company owes to their clients.

The material sought does not include any Excluded Material (i.e. it's not medical records or journalistic material or material held under secrecy imposed by a specific enactment such as the Official Secrets Act).

E.g. the material sought consists of communications between the subjects of this application. This would not be classified as legally privileged material. This material does not however consist of anything which could be regarded as Excluded material - i.e. medical records, records relating to counselling or welfare assistance, or journalistic material. The material sought is not, and does not contain any Legal Privilege Material however it is understood legally privileged material may be present on digital devices which will be seized. All digital devices will be reviewed by an appointed independent legal representative prior to the OIC being given access to any material.

The material sought does not contain any Legal Privilege material.

323. The material is likely to be of substantial value to the investigation and is likely to be relevant evidence.

a. The material will assist to prove or disprove the subject's involvement in the offences stated. The material sought will show to what level the subject was involved with 36 North.

b. This information is relevant because it will identify to the OIC if the suspected offence has been committed by the subject.

I also ask your Worship to consider the following points;

324. Other methods of obtaining the material have not been tried because it appeared they were bound to fail.

The material sought is held by a subject in this case and it is feared if notice was given to the subject to provide this material to the OIC, the subject would destroy, alter, deface or conceal the material sought.

325. It is in the public interest that access to the material sought should be given, having regard to the benefit likely to accrue to the investigation if the material is obtained and to the circumstances under which the person in possession of the material holds it.

a. The offence is of a serious nature and the material sought is likely to be valuable evidence that cannot be obtained from any other source.

b. If access to the material sought is obtained under the power of the warrant I apply for, any professional or ethical duties of confidentiality which may exist between the subject and Hassans and those persons or business to whom the material refers will be preserved.

326. Service of notice of an application for a Production Order or der under Para 4 Schedule 1 CPE Act may seriously prejudice the investigation.

A key subject in this case is the person I would serve a Production Order for the material sought. In the circumstances it is highly likely that they would destroy, alter, deface or conceal the material sought because it is evidence sought by the OIC which may prove their involvement in the offence.

327. For these reasons I ask your Worship to grant the search warrant(s) I apply for.

John,

DI Wyan, Jamie and I have been put back onto 8-4 as we are swamped with work for Op Delhi. Tomorrow I am applying for very sensitive search warrants which will be executed early next week. We have a lot of work to prep before the execution of these.

DI Wyan is also currently self-isolating pending his Covid-19 test result as he has symptoms.

Due to this I am unfortunately extremely reluctant to release Jamie for any longer than absolutely necessary.

Many Thanks and Kind Regards,

Paul

Exhibit MW89

8.	07/05/2019	Meeting with James Gaggero, Insp Zammitt, Supt Richardson and CI Finlayson. Mr Gaggero provided an overview of the allegations. Necessary to better understand the nature of the allegations.

Exhibit MW90

141.	04/09/19	Consideration of legal issues and advice to be sought from DPP. In particular: 1) Asquez statement – Consideration of whether there would be a conflict for Mr Fischel to act on behalf of Cornelio / Perez and represent Asquez in providing a full account? 2) Webber – Keyword search has recovered correspondence with David Webber who appears to be involved in setting up the 36N business. Consideration of whether this is legally privileged or simply business actions. Note that he is working for Levy / Hassans and is arguably not a lawyer / client relationship. If it is, how do we proceed moving forward? 3) The platform is related to national security. See for example the evidence of Insp Chipolina. What level of detail is required for the purpose of section 366A? If detail is required, can any special measures be introduced to protect this public interest? 4) Consideration of Official Secrets act offence (section 2 of 1911). Is it defence to disclose the information to a person if you honestly believed the person was authorised to receive it (even if they were not)? Is misdemeanour offence tried in Supreme? 5) Conspiracy to defraud – Does the agreement to take the NSCIS contract from Bland amount to a conspiracy to defraud? Consideration to the term 'by dishonesty.' Or is it simply a commercial dispute, and civil action is appropriate? Relevance – Legal advice sought in respect of the ongoing investigation.
142.	04/09/2019	Meeting with CI Finlayson and DPP regarding legal matters including: • Asquez statement • Webber status • Security related information • Official Secrets Act • Conspiracy to Defraud Itinerary created for the meeting.

Information supplied in support of application for search warrant: Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act 2011, Schedule 1 – First set of access conditions

(Criminal Procedure Rules, rr.47.26 & 47.30; s.13 & paragraphs 2 & 12 of Schedule 1, Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act 2011)

At Magistrates' Court on Thursday 7th May 2020.

Your Worship,

1. I am DS 130 Paul CLARKE of the Royal Gibraltar Police.

2. I am investigating offence of

    a. Conspiracy to Defraud contrary to Common Law.

3. My application has been approved by Detective Inspector Craig GOLDWIN

4. The overarching matter of this case is the compromise of the National Security of Gibraltar. This is due to actions performed by the subjects in relation to Computer Misuse by intentionally causing the NSCIS Platform to malfunction and agreements to commit fraud to achieve their objective.

5. This application applies to premises owned or controlled by Haim Levy namely his home address and the Offices of Hassans International Law Firm.

6. The information below has been obtained via various different sources of information and intelligence available to the Royal Gibraltar Police, and the circumstances of this case are as follows:

14. HMGoG have laid a claim on the ownership of the NSCIS Platform. The ownership of the Platform is in dispute.

THE COMPANIES

15. Bland Limited ("Bland") is part of the Bland Group of companies which is registered in Gibraltar. Bland Limited trades under a number of entities including Bland Travel (a travel and transport business), Bland DMC (a travel business), The Calpe Lounge (an airport VIP lounges business), Avis (a car hire business), Operational Support Group ("OSG"), Wavetecx (a computer development business) and Gibair (an airport ground handling business).

16. 36 North Limited ("36 North") is a Gibraltar registered company incorporated on the 23rd April 2018. The company carries on business as a computer software and security systems developer. PEREZ and ICode Limited, together with Astelon Limited, are beneficial owners in the company (each having a 33% shareholding). Following their resignations from Bland Ltd, Cornelio and Perez went on to work on a full time basis at 36 North.

17. ICode Limited ("ICode") is a Gibraltar registered company beneficially owned by Cornelio and incorporated on the 16th May 2018 for the purpose of holding shares in 36 North.

18. Astelon Limited ("Astelon") is a Gibraltar registered company beneficially owned by Hassans International Law Firm and incorporated on the 29th March 2018 for the purpose of holding shares in 36 North. The company has a 33% shareholding in 36 North.

19. Hassans International Law Firm is a Gibraltar based international law firm. Haim Levy is a senior partner of Hassans.

THE NSCIS PLATFORM

20. The National Security Central Intelligence System ("the NSCIS platform") is a modular, centralised IT software system developed and utilised for the collection, monitoring, background checking, and flagging of people and vehicle movements in and out of Gibraltar, via land, sea and air.

21. Thomas Cornelio, during the course of his employment with Bland, developed this system. The NSCIS Platform was first launched in December 2014 under the Frontier Management Project (FMP) and was subsequently developed over a number of years.

22. The NSCIS platform collects sensitive personal information from members of the public upon entry to and exit from Gibraltar. It is a key tool for law enforcement agencies in the protection of the National Security of Gibraltar.

23. Bland Limited state they own the NSCIS platform, the source code, object code and all database structures which form the platform. However this is contested by HMGoG.

24. The NSCIS platform is provided to HMGoG on the basis of an ongoing software license, for which HMGoG pay Bland a license fee. In addition, Bland provides continuing support and maintenance for the platform.

THIRD PARTY ACCOUNTS

25. Being the developer, Cornelio had an intimate knowledge of the NSCIS platform. [redacted]

c. [redacted]

THE NSCIS PLATFORM AND WAVETECX

26. The contract for the NSCIS platform commenced under the Bland security company Operational Support Group ("OSG"). Bland later set up a separate company to develop, brand, market and commercially exploit the NSCIS platform abroad ("Wavetecx").

27. Wavetecx was set up around January 2017 and headed by Perez as CEO. He was assisted by Cornelio.

28. Cornelio managed Wavetecx on a day-to-day basis in his capacity as the Head of Software Development. Two Software Developers worked for Wavetecx – Joseph (Joey) Benrimoj and Marius Zalkaukas.

36 NORTH LIMITED

29. 36 North Limited is a private company limited by shares, with a registered office at 57/63 Line Wall Road, Gibraltar.

30. 36 North was incorporated on the 23rd April 2018. Whilst still employees of Bland, Perez and Cornelio were appointed directors of the company.

31. On the 22nd June 2018, Perez, ICode (beneficially owned by Cornelio) and Astelon Limited (beneficially owned by Hassans) each acquired a 33% shareholding in 36 North. Levy, having a 32% shareholding in Hassans, was therefore a 10% beneficial owner of 36 North [with the other partners each having a smaller share according to their respective interests in Hassans]. Perez and Cornelio were still employees of Bland.

32. There continued to be changes to the company formation during the proceeding months. However, the ultimate beneficial owners of 36 North remained as Perez, Cornelio and Hassans Law Firm [with Levy owning 10% beneficial share in the company owing to his 32% share in Hassans].

ALLEGATION

33. In October 2018, James GAGGERO engaged the assistance of Pricewaterhouse Cooper (PwC) and Red Maple (formerly Infosec Consulting) to regain control of the NSCIS Platform. Following the departure of Tommy Cornelio and John Perez, the platform malfunctioned. Gaggero reported this to the Commissioner of Police as he believed Tommy Cornelio and John Perez were responsible for this.

SEARCH WARRANTS AND ARRESTS

34. On 10th May 2019, the RGP executed search warrants at the home addresses of Cornelio, Perez, Asquez, and the offices of 36 North. A large number of electronic and documentary exhibits were seized.

35. Cornelio, Perez and Asquez were arrested during these search warrants.

36. On 14th May 2019, the RGP executed search warrants at the home address and office of Sanchez. A number of electronic and documentary exhibits were seized.

37. Sanchez was arrested the same day at Gibraltar Airport as he had been in London.

38. On 24th July 2019, the RGP executed search warrants at the home address and office of Aaron Chipol. A number of electronic and documentary exhibits were seized.

39. Chipol was not arrested at this time however he voluntary attended New Mole House Police Station.

40. Haim Levy has not yet been subject to Police Intervention.

BACKGROUND

41. Haim Levy is extremely influential in Gibraltar with very close connections to the Chief Minister and other HMGoG ministers. He is a senior partner of Hassans and has significant financial capabilities available to him.

CONSPIRACY TO DISHONESTLY OBTAIN THE NSCIS PLATFORM MAINTENANCE AGREEMENT

42. During the course of their employment with Bland, Perez and Cornelio, together with Levy, conspired to defraud Bland by dishonestly appropriating the NSCIS platform maintenance contract for their own benefit, via their company 36 North Limited.

43. They were assisted in attempting to obtain the NSCIS platform contract by Sanchez and to a lesser degree, Chipol both of whom are Senior Government officials.

44. The evidence in support of this offence can be divided into the following:

    a. Planning / Preparation to Obtain the NSCIS Platform (agreement / dishonesty);
    b. Appropriation of business commenced by Bland (dishonesty);
    c. Pressure and Government Officials / Undermining Bland (dishonesty);
    d. Computer Misuse Offences / Knowledge of Computer Misuse Offences (dishonesty); and
    e. NSCIS Report for Caine Sanchez (dishonesty).

Planning / Preparation to Obtain the NSCIS Platform Maintenance Contract

45. Prior to 36 North being created and during the inception, Sanchez and Levy discussed a joint venture. In January 2018, Sanchez wrote from his personal email account "YITU – (a) security company on AI. Europe director to propose to move services from London to Gibraltar (b) interested in a joint venture with Wavetech (John Perez) (c) YITU to negotiate deal with them and deal to remove company from Blands."

46. In a text message between Sanchez and Levy, dated the 24th July 2018, Sanchez wrote "James I received a call from James Gaggero last night reference the security programme. I have discussed it with John and emailed the CM. It may be wise for us to meet and maybe include David Weber to go over some aspects of the conversation."

47. In a further text, dated the 14th August 2018, he stated, "James just got John Perez company their Insurance broker. Everything is going well with this. Just drafted letter to send to James Gaggero and waiting for CM to approve. I have also urged them to sign the international agreement and they are moving forward with this." Sanchez was advising 36 North in a business capacity. He was not independent of 36 North and unable to make an impartial decision regarding the NSCIS security platform.

48. During the course of 2018 Cornelio, Perez and Levy planned to obtain the NSCIS platform maintenance contract. This contract was the property of Bland and worth over £60,000 a month.

49. In an email sent from Perez to Cornelio, dated the 24th February 2018, (and whilst still employees of Bland) Perez attached a "Letter of Intent". This letter purported that 36 North already had an existing contract with HMGoG for the NSICIS platform. This proposal evidenced the intent of the suspects to obtain the contract for the benefit of their company, 36 North.

50. Between 23rd April 2018 and 22nd June 2018, the company 36 North Limited was incorporated, with Cornelio, Perez and Hassans each being 33% beneficial owners. It is believed the company was incorporated with the intent that it would obtain the benefit of the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

51. In an email exchange dated the 20th June 2018, and whilst still employed by Bland, Perez sent an email to Cornelio called, "36 North Cash Flow". The document showed a forecasted revenue in favour of 36 North which included the NSCIS platform (Global invoice) for £62,519 per month.

52. This evidence is consistent with an agreement between the suspects to appropriate the NSICS platform maintenance contract, the property of Bland.

53. In addition to preparing to take the NSCIS platform maintenance contract, Cornelio and Perez dishonestly planned to hinder the ability of Bland to carry out their contractual obligations.

54. As part of this preparation, the suspects engineered a situation whereby they, together with a number of software engineers, would resign from the company at the same time.

55. Without prior notification, on the 10th July 2018, Perez and Cornelio handed in their resignations from Bland. In accordance with their respective contracts, the resignation of Perez was to take effect on the 9th September 2018 and the resignation of Cornelio was to take effect from the 10th August 2018.

56. On the 19th July 2018 both software engineers sent a text to Cornelio in which they presented draft resignations. On the same date Cornelio wrote to the engineers, "Marius ok give me a while to review and don't send email out until I confirm with John now ok."

57. On the 20th July 2018, Cornelio wrote on the same chat, "Remember to stick to the story when chairman calls Joey. He has already written to John and he is denying having known."

58. On the 20th July 2018, the software developers resigned from their employment with Bland to join 36 North. The resulting loss of staff undermined the ability of Bland to fulfil their NSCIS contractual obligations following the departure of Perez and Cornelio from the company.

59. On the 2nd August 2018 Cornelio wrote to one of the developers regarding Gaggero attempting to retain Bland projects saying, "In order to keep things smooth we all need to leave asap, leaving him no option." He wrote on the same date, "You will need to make it clear that after the 20th you are finished with Blands. That will ensure that they can't buy time."

60. These actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland, by diminishing their IT capabilities [and thereby their ability to maintain the platform] and appropriate the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

61. On the 10th June 2018 Perez wrote to Levy, "Preparing for our departure on 29th June. Everything else is now almost in place. John."

62. On the 30th August, and immediately prior to Cornelio terminating his consultancy, Levy wrote to Perez, "John I just rang you to tell you everything is under control. I've been working with Tommy on the relevant letters. I am very confident that we will bring this to a close in a successful manner very shortly. You can rest assured I will do my best to help you in every way. I have great Respect and admiration for your ability and hard work. Do not worry if there is an attack I will help you to defend and to counter-attack. You're a military man so I'm writing to you in military terms."

Appropriation of Business Commenced by Bland

63. During the course of their employment with Bland Cornelio and Perez were involved in a number of projects. These included:

    a. A proposal for the Carnival Corporation for a "Centralised Vessel Security Management System"; and
    b. A "Ministry of Defence and Public Security Border Management Proposal" for Sao Tome and Principe.

64. In an email sent from Perez to Cornelio, dated the 24th February 2018, (and whilst still employees of Bland) Perez attached a "Letter of Intent". This letter purported that 36 North already had existing international contracts including Carnival Cruises and Sao Tome and Principe. These were in fact contracts that were being negotiated on behalf of Bland.

65. In respect of Sao Tome, the proposal stated, "Contract about to be signed for 7 years. Contract worth 1.6m euros with a forecast 20% increase by year 3. Contract starts in Feb 18." Under the heading "Carnival Cruise Lines" is stated, "Currently negotiating an APIS maritime system with Carnival who dominates 70% of the Cruise liner industry. A pilot platform has already been designed and discussed with Carnival CEO. A visit by Carnival's Head of Security and International representative will be visiting us in Mar 2018. Negotiation ongoing. Contract worth £175k per year."

66. It is clear that Cornelio and Perez intended to dishonestly appropriate the business of Bland commenced by them as employees of Bland and obtain the benefits for 36 North.

67. On the 6th July 2018, Perez discussed one of these projects, namely Carnival Cruises, with Levy, despite not having resigned from Bland. He wrote, "James we have just finished with Carnival after a long day of negotiations. We have been successful and now moving to the pilot phase. Flying back tomorrow."

68. In respect of the Sao Tome and Principe agreement, Cornelio specifically ensured that any signature would take place after he had resigned from Bland when he stated on the 24th July 2018, "We can agree on timeline and agree a date to sign contract. After the 10th August"

69. Both Sao Tome and Principe and the Carnival Security Management System continued to appear on the Agenda for 36 North after both Perez and Cornelio had left Bland.

70. On the 7th September 2018, and in respect of Sao Tome, Perez wrote to Levy, "James this week we will be receiving a contract from São Tomé and Príncipe for review. The commercial elements of the contract have already been agreed in principle. We are also closing in on Equatorial Guinea."

71. Following his departure from Bland and termination of the consultancy period, Cornelio sought to apply pressure on HMGoG to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract. In particular he used connections with Chipol, Levy and John Rodriguez, the Collector of Customs.

72. Between September 2018 – May 2019, Cornelio sent Chipol numerous messages regarding the NSCIS platform. Cornelio made various requests to Chipol, as head of BCA, during this period to undermine Bland in the favour of 36 North. These requests involved sending emails purporting to be from Chipol which Cornelio had drafted and speaking to Government officials.

73. The below paragraphs refer to communications between Cornelio and Levy.

74. On the 21st August, whilst still in the consultancy period, Cornelio wrote, "Dear James, would it be possible to sit down with you or the CM to try and move forward with out projects? I currently have a lot of work on hold pending this decision."

75. On the 29th August 2018 he similarly wrote, "Dear James, please try and get me a 10 min slot for me to meet the CM. I believe I am best placed to explain the entire situation and advise the best technical solution possible."

76. On the 12th September 2018 Cornelio wrote to Levy and attached a letter to be used by the Chief Minister to terminate the Bland contracts. This letter was addressed to James Gaggero of Bland and was titled "Termination of NSCIS, DSS, BCA, ETB and Education contracts ("the contracts")." It explained, "Bland Limited has failed to perform its obligations under the Contracts and is therefore in repudiatory breach… In the circumstances, please accept this letter as HMGOG's termination of the Contracts with immediate effect."

77. On the 23rd September 2018 Cornelio wrote, "Attached is a letter which may be of use to the GoG in order to proceed with the new platform we have offered them."

78. By the 27th December 2018 Cornelio was concerned that the Chief Minister would not be transferring the contract to 36 North. In response Levy wrote, "I don't think he will transfer the contracts back to 36N. We have to work on alternatives. I am happy to help …"

79. On the 18th February 2019 he wrote to Levy saying, "Any merit in me writing to the CM directly to request he meet with me. I miss my contracts."

80. On the 26th March 2019 he wrote, "Perhaps CM would be willing to put the National Security system out for tender next month."

81. On the 27th March 2019 Cornelio again asked, "Do you think there is any chance of getting national security contract back at some point?" Despite his answer on the 27th December 2018 Levy responded, "Yes."

82. On the 3rd May 2018 Cornelio wrote again saying, "Dear James, the national security system [redacted] . Can I email the CM once again to meet me? He cannot allow this to continue."

83. On the 9th October 2018 Perez wrote to Levy stating, "James thank you so much for this morning. I am sure our sessions will become more enjoyable as we set of in our journey. With regards to dropping Fabian a note, let's give him a bit more time. As the pressure will naturally surface through his law enforcement heads."

84. These messages demonstrate the relationship between Levy and 36 North.

85. The Below Paragraphs are a sample of the communications between Cornelio and Perez.

86 [redacted]

87. On the 12th March 2019 Cornelio wrote to Perez, "Spoke to JL. Can u speak to John Rodriguez this morning." Perez replied, "I will call him this morning." Cornelio continued, "Yep now is the time to attack heavily. We have the upper hand. Use ur network"

88. On the 21st March 2019 Cornelio texted, "We need our old system back. These bastards cannot win. Call Aaron mate, this we need to take away from them ya."

89. The above clearly show that Cornelio, together with Perez and Levy, attempted to dishonestly apply pressure on HMGoG in order to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

Computer Misuse Offences

90. In furtherance of the agreement to obtain the NSCIS platform maintenance contract Cornelio committed numerous computer misuse offences. These offences were primarily designed to directly or indirectly disrupt the NSICS platform, and thereby bring into question the ability of Bland to maintain the said platform. As a direct consequence of his actions Cornelio compromised the national security of Gibraltar.

91. The Computer Misuse Offences are further detailed below.

NSCIS Report for Sanchez

92. On the 4th October 2018, Peter Canessa wrote to Caine Sanchez on behalf of the Chief Minister. In an email he wrote, "Further to my email below, and following further discussion with the CM, and to avoid any ambiguity, the instructions from the CM are that Bland Ltd is to be provided full control of the management, maintenance and support of the NSCIS platform … Once the handover process is completed Tommy Cornelio nor any 3rd party are to have access to the platform."

93. On the 5th October 2018 Sanchez contacted Cornelio and passed on these instructions.

94. On the 9th October 2018 Cornelio sent an email to Sanchez (with James Gaggero copied in) in which he confirmed that he would no longer access the NSCIS platform as well as writing, "In fact, as you are aware, our provision of support ended on 31 August 2018 and neither iCode Limited nor Thomas Cornelio have ongoing responsibilities to support these platforms."

95. After the 31st August 2018, and subsequent to the instructions from the Chief Minister on the 4th October 2018, Cornelio was not authorised to access the NSCIS platform.

96. Contrary to these instructions, between 2216 hours on the 11th April 2019 and 0013 hours on the 12th April 2019 Cornelio accessed the NSCIS platform using the credentials of Sanchez.
97. Cornelio thereby accessed a national security platform without authority, for the purpose of undermining Bland, and obtaining the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

98. On the 11th April 2019 Cornelio wrote to Levy, "We are going to have a field day on the national security report..just wait until you see it. For now I am reviewing every single module 1 by 1. [redacted]."

Knowledge of Computer Misuse Offences - Levy

99. On the 19th October 2018 Cornelio wrote to Levy saying, "Morning James. Very confidential. Note Gaggero has brought in a forensic team of six to look at anything John and I may have done to tamper with the system etc. Gaggero is going all out it seems.

100. On the same day Cornelio wrote to Perez saying, "Spoke to James ref forensic team confidentially. Spoke to him on the phone. Call me and I can discuss. He says not to worry. I am very concerned they will try to prove I have acted to sabotage the system in any way etc."

101. The evidence indicates that Levy discussed the forensic team with Cornelio and that he had given him advice about the situation.

COMPUTER MISUSE OFFENCES

102. In furtherance of the agreement to obtain the NSCIS platform maintenance contract Cornelio committed numerous computer misuse offences. These offences were primarily designed to directly or indirectly disrupt the NSCIS platform, and thereby bring into question the ability of Bland to maintain the said platform. [redacted]

[redacted]

[redacted]

156. Instance 31 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

157. On the 16th May 2018, being the same date on which ICode Limited was incorporated by Cornelio, the login credentials of Jonathan Galliano (Bland Head of IT and Infrastructure), in respect of the Bland Microsoft Azure account failed to work.

158. Cornelio persistently failed to restore the access despite repeated requests to do so. On 16th May 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access. The login issues were due to Cornelio blocking the Microsoft Azure account of Galliano, as he was the only person authorised to do so.

159. These actions prevented Galliano, and thereby Bland, from accessing the NSCIS Azure resources, which hindered the ability of Bland to identify, diagnose, administer and repair issues associated with the NSCIS platform.

160. It further prevented Galliano (and thereby Bland) from accessing the Azure Management Portal activity logs, which would have identified actions carried out by Cornelio on the Microsoft Azure account.

161. These actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland Limited and appropriate the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

CHANGE OF MS AZURE BILLING DETAILS

162. The Bland Microsoft Azure account was originally set up on 24th July 2016 under the billing address "Cloister Building, Irish Town, Gibraltar, Cadiz, Spain". The account was paid for via Bland Group company credit cards. The account owner email address was specified as being tommy@wavetecx.com.

163. Instance 32 - Unauthorised acts with intent to impair the operation of a computer – section 364(1) as read with s.364(2)(b) Crimes Act 2011 –

164. Between 25th May 2018 and 25th June 2018, and without authority, the address on the account was changed by Cornelio (account administrator [redacted]) to "Urbanización Nueva Alcaidesa 2, Complejo 6 Bloque 3 Entrada 2 Bajo, 11360 SAN ROQUE Cádiz, Spain". This address was Spanish property belonging to Cornelio.

165. On the 5th July 2018 the Bland Limited mobile phone numbers [redacted] (used by Perez) and [redacted] (used by Cornelio) were removed from the Bland Limited Gibtelecom account without authority.

166. On the 27th July 2018, and without authority, Cornelio deleted all Wavetecx mailboxes and data files from the Wavetecx server, including the email address tommy@wavetecx.com . Cornelio deleted this mailbox in the belief that it could not be recovered.

167. On the 17th October 2018, and with the assistance of InfoSec Consulting (subsequently Red Maple Technologies), Bland attempted to remove Cornelio as the default owner of the entire MS Azure account (Azure Account Administrator / Azure Service Administrator).

168. InfoSec initially attempted to remove Cornelio with the use of phone number support arrangements offered by Microsoft. The corporate Bland phone used by Cornelio as a backup device for account password recovery could not be located.

169. Microsoft support in the form of a Microsoft Enterprise Agreement was subsequently requested. This was substantially frustrated by the change of address, meaning that Bland found it difficult to prove that they were the valid owner of the account.

170. The actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland Limited and to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract to 36 North.

171. Instance 33 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

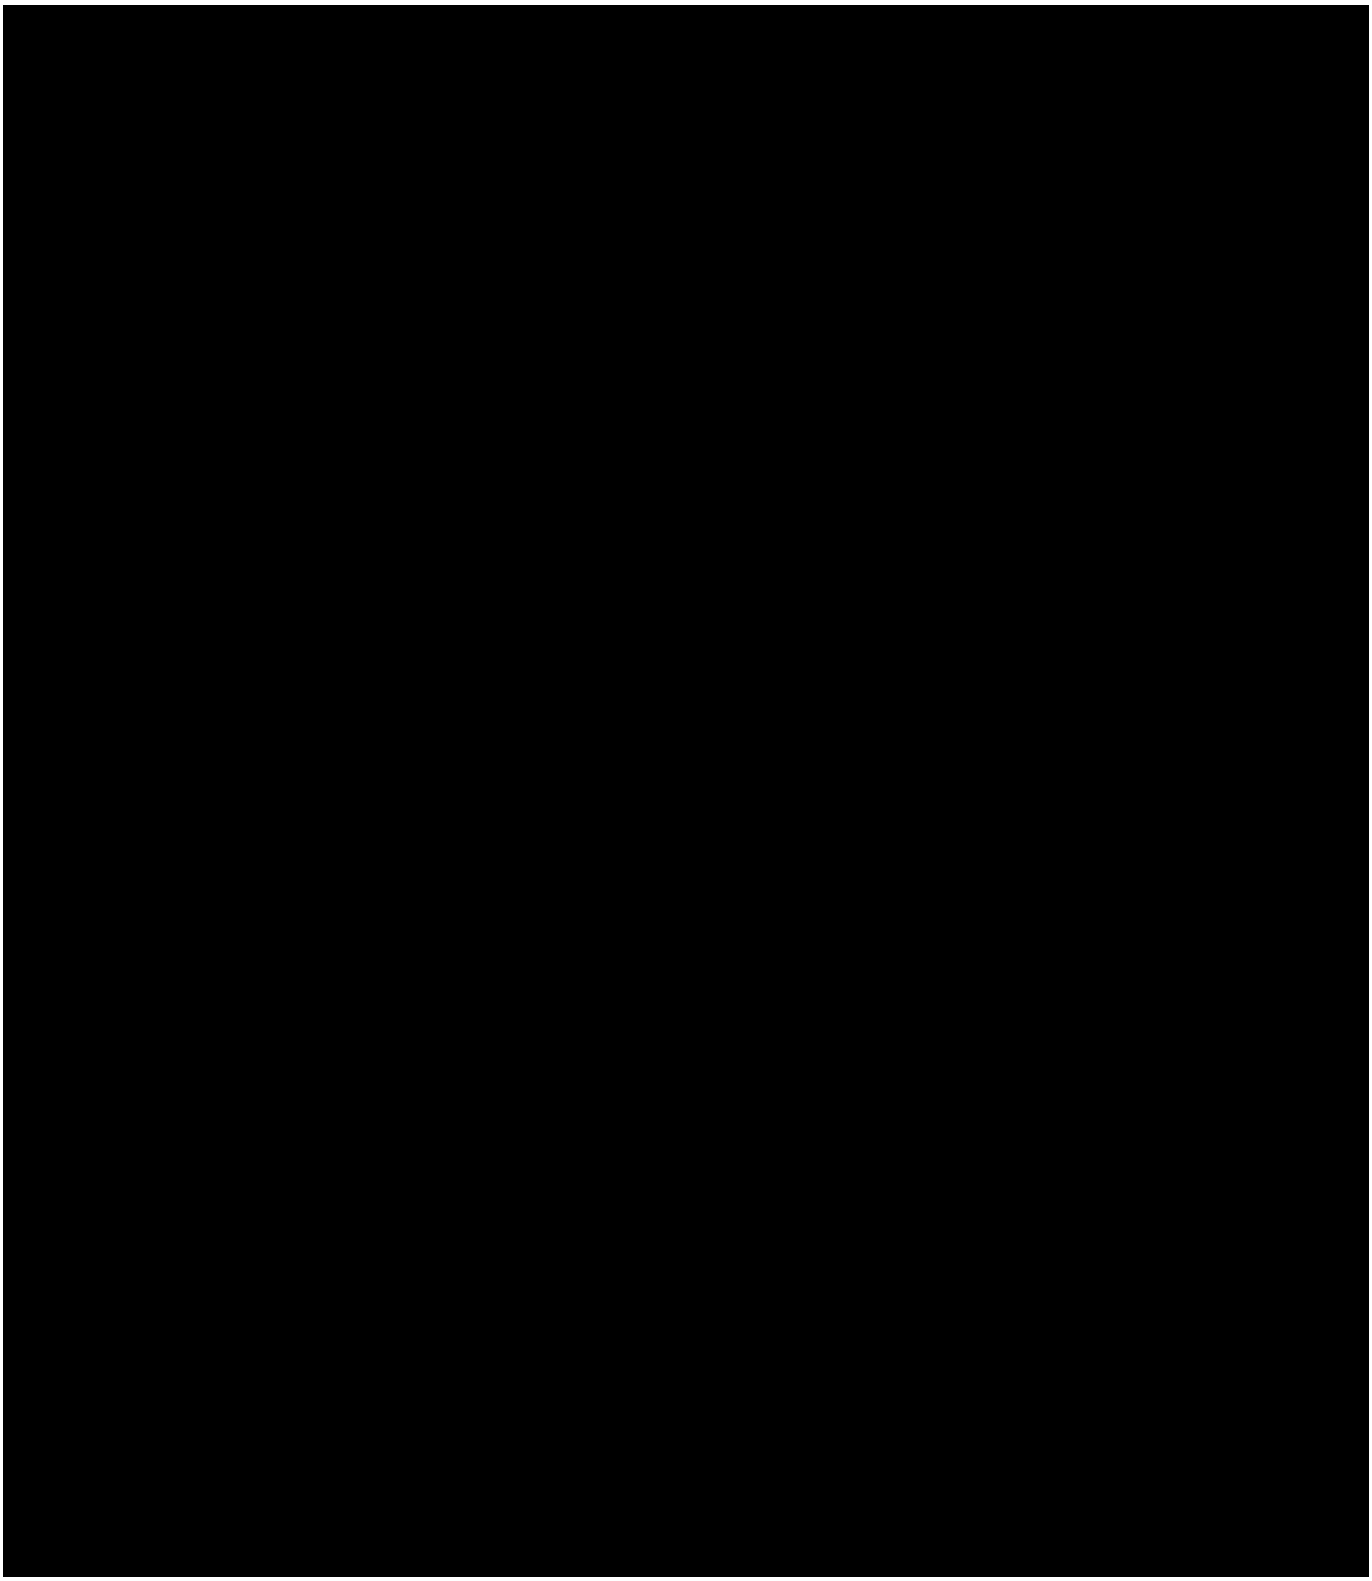
172. On 9th July 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account.



179. These actions were consistent with an agreement undermine Bland Limited and dishonestly appropriate the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

180. Instance 35 - Unauthorised acts with intent to impair the operation of a computer – section 364(1) as read with s.364(2)(b) Crimes Act 2011).

181. Once Wavetecx were incorporated, Cornelio, Perez and Asquez used '@wavetecx.com' email addresses. These Wavetecx email accounts were the property of Bland Limited.

182. Between 23rd - 28th July 2018, without authority, and while still an employee of Bland (in his notice period), Cornelio logged onto the Wavetecx email server and exported all the data including user mailboxes and data files from all Wavetecx email accounts. These included the email accounts of Perez and Cornelio.

183. On the same date, and without authority, Cornelio deleted all Wavetecx mailboxes and data files from the Wavetecx server. The email accounts included evidence of the intent of Perez and Cornelio to appropriate the NSCIS maintenance contract, as well as potential customers of the NSCIS platform and communications with HMGoG relating to the NSCIS platform.

184. These actions were performed from IP addresses attributed to Cornelio.

185. Cornelio exported and deleted these mailboxes in the belief that these mailboxes could not be recovered.

186. Despite his belief that they could not be retrieved, the content of these mailboxes were later recovered by Bland.

187. These actions were consistent with the agreement to undermine Bland Limited and appropriate the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

188. Instance 36 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

189. On 24th July 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account.

190. Instance 37 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

191. On 25th July 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account.

192. Instance 38 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

193. On 26th July 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account.

194. Instance 39 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

195. On 31st July 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account. (Exhibit JOG/17 refers).

196. Instance 40 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

197. On 2nd August 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account.

198. Instance 41 – Fraud by Failing to Disclose Information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011.

199. On 6th August 2018 he refused to grant Jonathan Galliano access to the Bland Microsoft Azure account.

DELETION OF NSCIS BACKOFFICE AUDIT LOGS

200. The NSCIS backoffice audit log is a sequential counter that increases by one when each action by a user is logged.

201. Instance 42 - Unauthorised acts with intent to impair the operation of a computer – section 364(1) as read with s.364(2)(b) Crimes Act 2011 -

202. Between 7th August 2018 [2 days before Cornelio terminated at Bland] and 8th October 2018 [the day after Cornelio logged onto the NSCIS backoffice] a total of 340 log entries were deleted on 60 separate occasions.

203. A total of 31 logged actions were deleted between the 7th October 2018 at 1657 hours and the 8th October 2018 at 0716 hours.

204. The deletions coincided with the time when Cornelio was accessing the NSCIS backoffice and the initiation of the database re-indexing.

205. A log can only be deleted manually on the NSCIS production Azure SQL database and not through the NSCIS Back Application. To delete logs it would require an in-depth knowledge of:

a. What database server the database is stored in;
b. Database credentials to access and log in to the said database;
c. What tables the audit logs reside in;
d. What type of information is audited and when; and
e. The SQL code required to delete these entries manually to achieve this.

206. The actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland Limited and to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract to 36 North.

TERMINATION OF CONSULTANCY PERIOD

207. On the 1st September 2018 Cornelio terminated the consultancy period with Bland. In an email to James Gaggero, dated the 30th August 2018 he wrote, "Please let this email serve as official notice that as of 00:00 on 1st September 2018 I will no longer be supporting the NSCIS platform in any capacity."

208. On the 9th October 2018 Cornelio sent an email to Sanchez (with James Gaggero copied in) in which he wrote, "In fact, as you are aware, our provision of support ended on 31 August 2018 and neither iCode Limited nor Thomas Cornelio have ongoing responsibilities to support these platforms."

209. As of the 1st September 2018 Cornelio was no longer authorised by Bland to access the NSCIS platform.

210. However, Microsoft Azure logs revealed that Cornelio had logged on using his account [redacted] on numerous occasions after the 31st August 2018.

255. On 4th October 2018, Cornelio logged onto the NSCIS Azure account using his Azure account [redacted] and made firewall rule changes.

TWITTER

256. Up until the 4th October 2018, that is, the day on which the Chief Minister gave instructions for the NSCIS platform not to be accessed by Cornelio, tweets of border queuing images were being posted by Bland to Twitter handle @gibraltarborder.

257. At that time Cornelio was the sole owner and administrator of both the Twitter handle @gibraltarborder and linked Twitter account (ID 2535097143). This account is owned by Bland and was administered by Cornelio during the course of his employment. The account had over 4400 followers, subscribers, and tweet history.

258. Linked to this account was the personal Twitter developer account of Cornelio.

259. As a result of the failure on the 4th October, Bland recreated the Twitter Windows service and software library source code. The Windows service had to be restored from the source code retrieved on the 19th July 2018 [and unknown to Cornelio]. The Twitter Windows service and software library was not present in the source code provided by Cornelio on the 7th September 2018.

260. This was put into operation on the 5th October 2018 at 1355 hours. The new Twitter service successfully posted tweets between 1355 hours and 1935 hours on the same day.

261. After 1935 hours the Twitter Windows service failed to post tweets due to an invalid or expired key token. Cornelio, as the administrator of his personal Twitter developer account was the only person able to change tokens required to access and post tweets to @gibraltarborder.

262. Instance 62 - Fraud by failing to disclose information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011 –

263. On 4th October, Cornelio failed to disclose to Bland, the location of the Twitter Windows service posting to Twitter account number 2535097143.

264. Instance 63 - Fraud by failing to disclose information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011 -

265. Between the 5th and 7th October 2018, immediately after the Chief Minister gave an instruction for Cornelio to no longer access NSCIS, Cornelio changed the twitter handle from @gibraltarborder to @gibraltarbord. In doing so he retained all of the original followers, subscribers and tweets associated with ID 2535097143.

266. At 1924 hours on the 7th October 2018 Cornelio created a new Twitter account (ID 10489875235226139904) with the now free handle @gibraltarborder from an IP address associated with his home address. He then provided the administrator credentials to this new account to Bland in an email.

267. Cornelio thereby retained the Bland Twitter account (ID 2535097143) and failed to disclose the administrator access to Bland on 8th October 2018.

268. The actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland Limited and to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract to 36 North.

269. Between April – December 2019, approximately 6600 tweets were deleted from the Twitter Handle @Gibraltarbord.

FRONTIER QUEUE HOTLINE

270. On the 8th August 2018, that is, 2 days before he resigned from Bland, Cornelio requested that the Frontier Queue Hotline phone number 20042777 be forwarded on to UK phone number +44 7428310899, and that voicemail on phone number 20042777 be disabled.

271. Bland hold an account with Messagebird, a third-party service provider. Bland use their services extensively within the NSCIS platform for voice and SMS capabilities. The number +44 7428310899 is a number held on a Messagebird account however it was not transferred by Cornelio to the Bland account. It was therefore not accessible by them.

272. The new UK number required the development of a new Windows service to update the new phone line with the frontier queue times. On the 9th August Cornelio wrote that the physical server at Cloister Building, which hosted the Frontier Queue Hotline, was redundant. This confirmed that the new Frontier Queue Hotline windows service had been relocated to a server not known to Bland.

273. Instance 64 - Fraud by failing to disclose information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011 -

274. On the 5th October, that is, the day on which Cornelio was officially informed that he was no longer to access the NSCIS platform, the Frontier Queue Hotline was disabled or failed. Bland was unable to remedy this as they had no knowledge of which server the Widows service was running from.

275. In order to restore the service a new Frontier Queue Hotline service had to be developed. This was further hindered by the fact that the source code provided by Cornelio on the 7th September 2018 did not contain the most up to date version of the Windows service.

276. As a result, the Frontier Queue Hotline service was not operating for a total of 26 days.

277. The actions were consistent with an agreement to undermine Bland Limited and to transfer the NSCIS platform maintenance contract to 36 North.

278. Instance 65 - Fraud by failing to disclose information – contrary to section 417 Crimes Act 2011 -

279. On the 7th October when requested to, did not disclose to Bland the location of the server on which the Frontier Queue Hotline Windows Service associated with Messagebird Number +447428310899 was running from.

UNAUTHORISED ACCESS - NSCIS BACKOFFICE

280. On the 4th October 2018, Peter Canessa wrote to Caine Sanchez on behalf of the Chief Minister. In an email he wrote, "Further to my email below, and following further discussion with the CM, and to avoid any ambiguity, the instructions from the CM are that Bland Ltd is to be provided full control of the management, maintenance and support of the NSCIS platform … Once the handover process is completed Tommy Cornelio nor any 3rd party are to have access to the platform."

281. On the 5th October 2018 Sanchez contacted Cornelio and passed on these instructions.

282. On the 9th October 2018 Cornelio sent an email to Sanchez (with James Gaggero copied in) in which he confirmed that he would no longer access the NSCIS platform as well as writing, "In fact, as you are aware, our provision of support ended on 31 August 2018 and neither iCode Limited nor Thomas Cornelio have ongoing responsibilities to support these platforms."

283. Instance 66 - Unauthorised access to computer material – section 362 Crimes Act 2011 -

284. In contravention of the instructions, on the 7th October 2018 Cornelio accessed the NSCIS back office using his Bland group email tommy.cornelio@blandgroup.com. The access was obtained from an IP address directly associated with Cornelio.

DATABASE REINDEXING

Online Database Reindexing

285. Database indexing is a method used to optimize a database. Carrying out index maintenance operations will affect access to data in a database. Online index builds will slow down system response times as the database can still be queried by a user. Online index builds are therefore typically carried out outside peak database hours.

286. Instances 66 to 71 - Unauthorised acts causing, or creating risk of serious dam age – section 366A(1) as read with s 366A(2)(d) Crimes Act 2011.

287. On the 7th October 2018, that is, after the termination of the consultancy period, Cornelio logged onto Microsoft Azure using his username [redacted]. Between 1547-1548 hours he initiated the creation of six recommended indexes on the NSCIS Azure SQL databases for ANPR, APIS Air, APIS Maritime, Facial Recognition, and Passport Scanning modules.

288. Instances 72 and 73 - Unauthorised acts causing, or creating risk of serious dam age – section 366A(1) as read with s 366A(2)(d) Crimes Act 2011.

289. Whilst logged onto Microsoft Azure, at 1546 hours, on the 7th October 2018, Cornelio twice enabled auto database tuning. This led to eight further re-indexing tasks being created, which were automatically initiated.

290. These actions were carried out from an IP addresses directly connected to Cornelio

291. As a result of the database re-indexing, by about 1600 hours on the 11th October 2018, [redacted] In addition, [redacted]

292. On the evening of the 11th October 2018 a decision was made to undo the index online operations initiated by Cornelio. The index operations were still running at the time with no indication of when they would be completed.

[redacted]

[redacted]

Offline Database Reindexing

301. Offline index builds lock the system database until the process is completed. Users are thereby prevented from storing or retrieving information from the database during this time.

302. Instance 75 - Unauthorised acts causing, or creating risk of serious damage – section 366A(1) as read with s. 366A(2)(d).

303. By the 12th October 2018, despite successfully reversing the online database index operations, the system continued to consume high levels of resources, and as a result NSCIS Windows services were unable to collect, process and insert data into the NSCIS Azure SQL databases.

304. Investigations revealed that at about 2037 hours local-time on the 11th October 2018, Cornelio logged onto an external server, whose name mimicked the NSCIS server [NSCISVM], and initiated offline database re-indexing from Microsoft SQL Server Management Studio. [redacted].

305. These actions were carried out from an IP address connected to Cornelio.

[redacted]

308. The actions of Cornelio between 7th – 11th October 2018 posed a serious and credible risk to the National Security of Gibraltar.

309. Instance 76 - Unauthorised access to computer material – section 362 Crimes Act 2011

310. On 17th October 2018, that is, after the termination of the consultancy period, Cornelio logged onto the NSCIS Azure Blob Storage account "nscisblobs", using his Azure account [redacted].

NSCIS REPORT FOR SANCHEZ

311. On the 4th October 2018, Peter Canessa wrote to Caine Sanchez on behalf of the Chief Minister. In an email he wrote, "Further to my email below, and following further discussion with the CM, and to avoid any ambiguity, the instructions from the CM are that Bland Ltd is to be provided full control of the management, maintenance and support of the NSCIS platform … Once the handover process is completed Tommy Cornelio nor any 3rd party are to have access to the platform."

312. On the 5th October 2018 Sanchez contacted Cornelio and passed on these instructions.

313. On the 9th October 2018 Cornelio sent an email to Sanchez (cc. James Gaggero) in which he confirmed that he would no longer access the NSCIS platform as well as writing, "In fact, as you are aware, our provision of support ended on 31 August 2018 and neither iCode Limited nor Thomas Cornelio have ongoing responsibilities to support these platforms."

314. Post 31st August 2018, Cornelio was not authorised to access the NSCIS platform. This was re-enforced by the instructions from the Chief Minister on the 4th October 2018.

315. Instance 77 – Unauthorised access to computer material – contrary to section 362 Crimes Act 2011 -

316. Contrary to these instructions, between 2216 hours on the 11th April 2019 and 0013 hours on the 12th April 2019 Cornelio accessed the NSCIS platform using the credentials of Sanchez which were provided to Cornelio by Sanchez.

317. Cornelio thereby accessed a national security platform without authority, for the purpose of undermining Bland, and obtaining the NSCIS platform maintenance contract.

318. On the 11th April 2019 Cornelio wrote to Levy, "We are going to have a field day on the national security report..just wait until you see it. For now I am reviewing every single module 1 by 1. [redacted]."

LEVY'S INVOLVEMENT

319. The above paragraphs demonstrate Levy was involved in the plan to remove the NSCIS contract from Bland at an early stage;

a. Messages between Levy and Sanchez show communication discussing moving the contract away from Bland in early 2018. (Paras 45 to 47)

b. Levy was instrumental in the creation of 36 North. Firstly, by being owning 32% of shares of Astelon Ltd, who in turn own 33% of shares of 36 North. (Paras 31 to 32) On behalf of Hassans, he injected a large sum of money into 36 North.

c. He was using his influence with the Chief Minister to the advantage of 36 North.

d. He was regularly contacting both Cornelio and Perez in relation to 36 North whilst they were still employed by Blands and following their resignations. (Paras 61 to 89).

e. Communications show he was aware of the Computer Misuse Offences committed by Cornelio. (Paras 99 to 100).

320. I now seek to recover –

1. Electronic devices (including but not limited to mobile telephones and computers,) capable of sending and receiving text messages, instant messages and/or electronic mail, owned and/or used by Haim Levy and any device capable of storing any of the aforementioned communications.

2. Any documentation relating to 36 North Limited, Astelon Limited and/or Icode Limited whether held digitally or otherwise.

I submit to your Worship that there are reasonable grounds for believing that:

321. Indictable offences have been committed;

Conspiracy to Defraud contrary to Common Law.

322. There is material that consists of special procedure material or includes special procedure material and does not also include excluded material on premises specified in the application.

Data has been created or acquired in the course of the business of Hassans International Law Firm, of which the subject is a senior partner. As a law firm, this data is held under an express or implied duty of confidence the company owes to their clients.

The material sought does not include any Excluded Material (i.e. it's not medical records or journalistic material or material held under secrecy imposed by a specific enactment such as the Official Secrets Act).

E.g. the material sought consists of communications between the subjects of this application. This would not be classified as legally privileged material. This material does not however consist of anything which could be regarded as Excluded material - i.e. medical records, records relating to counselling or welfare assistance, or journalistic material. The material sought is not, and does not contain any Legal Privilege Material however it is understood legally privileged material may be present on digital devices which will be seized. All digital devices will be reviewed by an appointed independent legal representative prior to the OIC being given access to any material.

The material sought does not contain any Legal Privilege material.

323. The material is likely to be of substantial value to the investigation and is likely to be relevant evidence.

a. The material will assist to prove or disprove the subject's involvement in the offences stated. The material sought will show to what level the subject was involved with 36 North.

b. This information is relevant because it will identify to the OIC if the suspected offence has been committed by the subject.

I also ask your Worship to consider the following points;

324. Other methods of obtaining the material have not been tried because it appeared they were bound to fail.

The material sought is held by a subject in this case and it is feared if notice was given to the subject to provide this material to the OIC, the subject would destroy, alter, deface or conceal the material sought.

325. It is in the public interest that access to the material sought should be given, having regard to the benefit likely to accrue to the investigation if the material is obtained and to the circumstances under which the person in possession of the material holds it.

a. The offence is of a serious nature and the material sought is likely to be valuable evidence that cannot be obtained from any other source.

b. If access to the material sought is obtained under the power of the warrant I apply for, any professional or ethical duties of confidentiality which may exist between the subject and Hassans and those persons or business to whom the material refers will be preserved.

326. Service of notice of an application for a Production Order or der under Para 4 Schedule 1 CPE Act may seriously prejudice the investigation.

A key subject in this case is the person I would serve a Production Order for the material sought. In the circumstances it is highly likely that they would destroy, alter, deface or conceal the material sought because it is evidence sought by the OIC which may prove their involvement in the offence.

327. For these reasons I ask your Worship to grant the search warrant(s) I apply for.

Good morning Mr Rocca,

Please refer to the attached letter addressed to the Magistrates' Court by Lewis Baglietto QC on behalf of James Levy QC.

Having considered the matter within the very limited time available the reasons that we wish to object to this application are as follows:

1. Any release of the information to Mr Levy before he is formally interviewed would seriously prejudice this criminal investigation and any other on which the police rely on the obtaining of a search warrant prior to an interview. This is scheduled for 1000hrs on Monday 18th May 2020. The Commissioner of Police has undertaken to Mr Baglietto in writing that he will not to break the seals on the exhibit bags containing those devices for a period of 7 days. This is in order to allow Mr Baglietto to challenge the decision made to examine the devices in question. It appears clear to me that the real intention in accessing the material laid before the Magistrate is to place Mr Levy at an unfair advantage in advance of his interview. In my view the arms of the prosecution and defence are already out of balance in Gibraltar as there is no right for a court to draw an inference in certain circumstances, this is not the case in the United Kingdom who chose to amend their law precisely to address this imbalance. To allow the defence access to material that clearly articulates the full basis on which a suspicion on of criminal activity is based before the police have an opportunity to put those facts to a suspect in a formal interview would in my view make a mockery of the legal system and thereby contrary to the interests of justice.

2) Any release of the said information may, in addition, further prejudice this criminal investigation given that a number of other suspects continue on police bail. It is the intention of the investigating team to interview these suspects at length in the near future. A release of the information used to obtain the search warrant would therefore be out of the control of the RGP. We are already aware that there has been communication between Mr Levy and Mr Fischel as Mr Levy said so whilst we were at his office earlier this week. The information used as the basis of the application was detailed and referred to exhibits on which the RGP will seek to rely in any future proceedings.

3) In any event, it is argued that the devices obtained from Mr Levy were not obtained under the powers conferred by the said search warrant. The devices were voluntarily handed over by Mr Levy without the need to execute the warrant. Any argument as to the lawfulness of the warrant is, in my view, irrelevant in the circumstances. Given that they were handed over, any decision regarding the lawfulness of the application is incapable of having any impact upon this matter.

Kind regards

Paul

Dear Sir

Re: James Levy QC - Search Warrant issued on or about 11 May 2020

Further to our letter of 13 May, we would bring to your attention the following extracts of English authorities, which make plain that a person who is seeking to challenge the lawfulness of a search warrant granted in his absence is entitled, as a matter of trite natural justice, to know what the court was told in his absence and thus to a note or transcript of the hearing. This accords with principles applicable to any ex parte application, which apply with even greater rigour in relation to remedies as intrusive as search warrants.

We have underlined the relevant parts of those extracts for ease of reference.

> "27. Turning to the material which was adduced in support of the application for the warrant (including the letters of request), the solicitors acting for EFT sought access to that material on 7 July 2004, and repeatedly thereafter, but were not granted it in any form. So, on 13 October 2004 they made an application for disclosure. That eventually resulted in a letter from the Treasury Solicitor dated 1 December 2004 (just over a week before the application was due to be heard) which disclosed the letters of request and, as Mr Downes concedes, enough information about the contents of the information and the proceedings before the district judge to enable EFT to take advice and to conduct these proceedings. In my judgment there is no adequate excuse for the delay in providing the information set out in the letter of 1 December 2004, and the solicitors should never have been put in the position of having to issue an application for disclosure in order to obtain it. That is why, as we indicated during the hearing, we have concluded that EFT are entitled to the costs of that application. It is no sufficient answer to say that in this case EFT knew the nature of the allegations in Bosnia and Herzegovina and had made representations in relation to them, including the production of a report prepared by KPMG. They still have the right to be satisfied as to what had happened before the district judge.

A list of Partners is available for inspection at our offices

> "25 (2) When an application for judicial review is launched seeking to quash the grant of a search warrant, it is, again, in some respects, akin to the "return date" for Marevas , Anthony Pillers and Restraint Orders . Ordinarily, the expectation will be that the party challenging the grant of the warrant must be entitled to know the basis upon which the warrant was obtained."

R (Faisaltex Ltd) v Crown Court at Preston [2008] EWHC 2832 (Admin)

> "35. It is, of course, commendable that a party should seek to resolve an issue about the return of certain documents without the need for litigation. But while we can understand that this might have avoided, at least in part, a claim for excessive seizure of materials, it has little bearing on some of the main grounds of challenge now advanced, namely that the search warrants were themselves invalid and consequently all the seizures of property unlawful. Those grounds, as will be seen, include contentions that the warrants were too widely drafted and also that the material specified in them was, in part, incapable of being relevant evidence as required by the statute. It is right that some of the other grounds of challenge to the warrants could only have been advanced once the claimants' advisers had obtained copies of the informations put before the judge and the transcripts of the ex parte proceedings. But here again, it was not until 27 May 2008, nearly two months after the execution of the warrants, that solicitors for the claimants sought copies of the informations from the court. That was not acting promptly."

We would also refer you to the following extract from R (S) v Chief Constable of the British Transport Police and another [2013] EWHC 2189 (Admin) in relation to the importance for persons against whom a search warrant is issued ex parte to know what was said to and by the court:

> [46] We would also re-emphasise two further points. First, as a matter of practice all hearings for a search warrant, whether for a warrant under s 8 of PACE or of the 'special procedure' type, must be recorded so that there can be no dispute about what was or was not said to and by the judge.

We look forward to hearing from you as a matter of urgency, as our client is entitled to and requires to know what transpired in court, as well as the reason's for the Stipendiary Magistrate's decision, in order to vindicate his rights.

Yours faithfully

Lewis Baglietto

Mr Lewis Baglietto QC
PO Box 199
Madison Building

Dear Sir,

I have been forwarded a copy of your letter addressed to Detective Superintendent Paul Richardson dated 13 May 2020 the contents of which have been noted.

I have been fully briefed as to the conduct of the investigation and given the seriousness of the allegations made and the matters raised. I have seen fit to respond directly.

At the outset I must point out that the sequence of events are not as you have described and I do not agree with you that there were reasonable grounds to believe that Mr Levy would have simply handed over his devices and documents.

Notwithstanding the fact the police attended with a search warrant issued by the Magistrates Court, an attempt was made to try and deal with the matter by consent. This involved Mr Levy consulting with 'senior silk' in private and informing the officers that he would consent to handing over the items sought as long as the interests of his clients were protected. Once the means in which they would be achieved was clear Mr Levy signed the relevant form after reading it and consulting with Mr Chincotta. Accordingly the search warrant was not executed but rather Mr Levy chose to hand over his devices voluntarily, albeit after some time and after extensive consultation.

I do not agree with you that warrant was excessive, unjustified or unlawful and in my view the action taken was both legitimate and proportionate in the circumstances. I do not think it would serve any purpose to enter into a discussion on the use of Productions Orders as opposed to a Search Warrant.

In relation to the items that you have requested I have attached a copy of the search warrant to this email. I am unable at this time to comply with your request for a copy of the application for the search warrant or any other written evidence as this could potentially compromise an ongoing investigation as Mr Levy has yet to be interviewed. The same applies to point 4 (any notes taken by the RGP of the hearing). The only order or ruling that I am aware of made by the Stipendiary Magistrate was the warrant itself. Although the DPP has been consulted on various non-operational issues concerning this investigation including the status of various parties he has not provided advice on the application of a search warrant which remains an operational matter.

Please rest assured that the RGP has not copied or downloaded any material so far and in fact the devices remain sealed and I have assumed safe custody of them. I remain convinced of the legality of our course of conduct but undertake to postpone their submission to be examined for seven days from the date of this letter in the event that you may wish to make any legal challenge to this decision.

I would also ask you to please note that it is not a question of me refusing to meet with you and the Attorney General, but rather I view it as inappropriate given the circumstances in which we find ourselves which I trust you understand.

I enclose a copy of a notice regarding voluntary attendance for police interview. This sets out the topic areas which we seek to explore in the formal police interview. I should point that we have not shared this document with any other party. It would be very helpful if Mr Levy brings any material with him that may support his account or provide it in advance of his attendance. Additionally, as would be normal practice counsel will be provided with a pre-interview briefing

Finally, as you will no doubt be aware, Mr Levy undertook to voluntarily extract the relevant emails and other documents from Hassans servers and provide these to police along with all files concerning Astelon Ltd and 36 North Ltd. Grateful if you advise when these will be supplied to assist with our investigation.

Yours faithfully

Dear Sir,

I have been forwarded a copy of your letter addressed to Detective Superintendent Paul Richardson dated 13 May 2020 the contents of which have been noted.

I have been fully briefed as to the conduct of the investigation and given the seriousness of the allegations made and the matters raised. I have seen fit to respond directly.

At the outset I must point out that the sequence of events are not as you have described and I do not agree with you that there were reasonable grounds to believe that Mr Levy would have simply handed over his devices and documents.

Notwithstanding the fact the police attended with a search warrant issued by the Magistrates Court, an attempt was made to try and deal with the matter by consent. This involved Mr Levy consulting with 'senior silk' in private and informing the officers that he would consent to handing over the items sought as long as the interests of his clients were protected. Once the means in which they would be achieved was clear Mr Levy signed the relevant form after reading it and consulting with Mr Chincotta. Accordingly the search warrant was not executed but rather Mr Levy chose to hand over his devices voluntarily, albeit after some time and after extensive consultation.

I do not agree with you that warrant was excessive, unjustified or unlawful and in my view the action taken was both legitimate and proportionate in the circumstances. I do not think it would serve any purpose to enter into a discussion on the use of Productions Orders as opposed to a Search Warrant.

In relation to the items that you have requested I have attached a copy of the search warrant to this email. I am unable at this time to comply with your request for a copy of the application for the search warrant or any other written evidence as this could potentially compromise an ongoing investigation as Mr Levy has yet to be interviewed. The same applies to point 4 (any notes taken by the RGP of the hearing). The only order or ruling that I am aware of made by the Stipendiary Magistrate was the warrant itself. Although the DPP has been consulted on various non-operational issues concerning this investigation including the status of various parties he has not provided advice on the application of a search warrant which remains an operational matter.

Please rest assured that the RGP has not copied or downloaded any material so far and in fact the devices remain sealed and I have assumed safe custody of them. I remain convinced of the legality of our course of conduct but undertake to postpone their submission to be examined for seven days from the date of this letter in the event that you may wish to make any legal challenge to this decision.

I would also ask you to please note that it is not a question of me refusing to meet with you and the Attorney General, but rather I view it as inappropriate given the circumstances in which we find ourselves which I trust you understand.

I enclose a copy of a notice regarding voluntary attendance for police interview. This sets out the topic areas which we seek to explore in the formal police interview. I should point that we have not shared this document with any other party. It would be very helpful if Mr Levy brings any material with him that may support his account or provide it in advance of his attendance. Additionally, as would be normal practice counsel will be provided with a pre-interview briefing

Finally, as you will no doubt be aware, Mr Levy undertook to voluntarily extract the relevant emails and other documents from Hassans servers and provide these to police along with all files concerning Astelon Ltd and 36 North Ltd. Grateful if you advise when these will be supplied to assist with our investigation.

Yours faithfully

Dear Attorney

Schedule 1 paragraph 12 Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act 2011 search warrants granted on 7 May 2020 in respect of premises at [redacted] and Hassans International Law Firm Madison Building

We refer to our earlier correspondence with you in this matter, dated 12 May 2020, and to the Commissioner of Police's attached letter dated 14th May in reply to our letter to Superintendent Richardson dated 13th May, which we copied to you. We are copying this letter to the Commissioner of Police.

Introduction

We set out in outline below the reasons why there are very good grounds for believing that the warrants were improperly procured and wrongfully granted (in the course of an ex parte hearing), and why the RGP officers acted unlawfully in attending the premises and using the threat that they would execute the warrants to obtain from Mr Levy QC the material that they sought.

As we have stated in my earlier letter, it is extraordinary that the RGP should have thought it appropriate to resort to the draconian route of Schedule 1 paragraph 12 search warrants, and no less extraordinary that the Stipendiary Magistrate should have thought it right and appropriate to grant the two applications. There were serious and multiple breaches of the statutory requirements and wholesale departures from best practice. There can be little surprise that, as we believe is the case, the DPP advised the Commissioner against the making of these applications.

The issue of the warrants was unnecessary and oppressive, and the threat to use them highly distressing. Their issue directly impugned, as we have stated, Mr Levy's reputation and dignity as an officer of the court, the senior partner of Gibraltar's largest law firm and as a highly respected member of the local community.

It was also a gross abuse of power for RGP to have threatened the use of previously obtained search warrants to secure compelled and involuntary consent to enter the two premises and seize materials. Indeed, the very fact that Mr Levy QC was prepared to allow the officers entry (notwithstanding the non-execution of the warrants) belies RGP's unsupported assertion to the Magistrate that there were reasonable grounds for believing that "other methods of obtaining the material have not been tried because it appeared that they were bound to fail" (Schedule 1, paragraph 2(b)(ii)) and that there was a basis upon which he could be additionally satisfied that "(b) it is practicable to communicate with a person entitled to grant entry to the premises, but not practicable to communicate with any person entitled to grant access to the material" or "(d) service of notice of an application for an order under paragraph 4 may seriously prejudice the investigation" (Schedule 1, paragraphs 14(b) and (d)). Either the warrants were needed and justified, or they were not, and it is simply not correct for the Commissioner to state, as he does in his letter of 14th May 2020, that the items sought were handed over consensually, thereby rendering the RGP action 'legitimate and proportionate'.

The Commissioner has, so far, unlawfully refused to provide any detail of the basis upon which the applications for the warrants was made. Indeed, on 12 May 2020, following the events in question, the RGP provided Mr Levy QC with a misleading proforma which wrongly suggested that the search powers were being exercised under the section 21 "Entry for the purposes of arrest etc" power.

The Commissioner's refusal to provide a copy of the applications for the issue of the warrants that were made by his officers, or of any evidence adduced in support, or of any notes made by the RGP during the ex parte Magistrates' Court hearing, on the basis this could 'potentially undermine an ongoing investigation as Mr Levy has yet to be interviewed' is perverse and wrong in law, and provides a further basis for a potential challenge.

There exists a stand-alone obligation on the ex parte applicant for a warrant, and on the court that granted it, to provide all relevant material adduced in support of the application: R(Energy Financing Team Ltd) v Bow Street Magistrates' Court [2005] EWHC 1626 (Admin) at para 27; R(Gittins) v Central Criminal Court [2011] EWHC 131 (Admin, at para 25(2); R(Faisaltex) v Crown Court at Preston [2008] EWHC 2832 (Admin) at para 35; R(S) v Chief Constable of the BTP [2013] EWHC 2189 at para 46.

The person who is seeking to challenge the grant of a warrant is entitled to know the basis upon which it was granted, and the case law simply does not provide, in the absence of a properly formulated application by the body that obtained the warrant for relevant information to be withheld on the basis that its disclosure would seriously prejudice the public interest: R (Haralambous) v Crown Court at St Albans & Anor [2018] UKSC 1, for refusal on any lesser basis.

In the absence of proper disclosure of the basis upon which the applications were made, it is not possible to be certain as to what transpired in the Magistrates' Court. The 'information' in support of both applications should have set out in writing, by direct reference to the particular facts of the investigation and the belief of the investigating officer(s), why the statutory requirements were met. They did not.

Instead, with the exception of a single reference in each information to the indictable offence said to be believed to have been committed, 'namely conspiracy to defraud' (which words are in a different font to the rest of the information), they are wholly silent, and contain only a bare rehearsal of the statutory criteria. In the absence of a record of what DS Clarke, the officer who made the applications, told the court orally, it is impossible to know what information, if any, the court was given any in support of the applications. It is also impossible to know if he properly discharged the plain duty upon him of making plain any information or material that weighed against the application.

Moreover, in the absence of any ruling (the Commissioner in his letter has confirmed that the Magistrate gave no ruling), the reasons for the grant of the warrants are completely unknown. It is difficult to avoid the conclusion that, rather than seeking authorisation to obtain material in relation to genuinely suspected offences, instead the police were on "a fishing expedition in the hope of finding some material upon which the charge can be hung": Williams v. Summerfield [1972] 2 QB 512, per Lord Widgery CJ at 518.

The illegality of the process, and the unlawfulness of the warrants, would appear to be clearly established on the following grounds.

Statutory provisions

In order for a warrant to have been properly issued pursuant to Paragraph 12 of Schedule 1, the Magistrate must have needed to be satisfied:

(a) that

(i) either set of access conditions is fulfilled; and

(ii) any of the further conditions set out in Paragraph 14 is also fulfilled;

OR

(b) that –

(i) the second set of access conditions is fulfilled; and

(ii) an Order under Paragraph 4 in relation to the material has not been complied with.

It is clear from the warrants that the police relied on the first set of access conditions, namely:

"2. The first set of access conditions is fulfilled if -

(a) that there are reasonable grounds for believing that-

(i) an indictable offence has been committed;

(ii) there is material which consists of special procedure material or also includes special procedure material and does not also include excluded material on premises specified in the application, or on premises occupied or controlled by a person specified in the application;

(iii) the material is likely to be of substantial value (whether by itself or together with other material) to the investigation in connection with which the application is made; and

(iv) the material is likely to be relevant evidence;

(b) other methods of obtaining the material have –

(i) been tried without success; or

(ii) not been tried because it appeared that they were bound to fail; and

(c) it is in the public interest, having regard to –

(i) the benefit likely to accrue to the investigation if the material is obtained; and

(ii) the circumstances under which the person in possession of the material holds it, that the material should be produced or that access to it should be given."

The further conditions set out in Paragraph 14 are as follows:

"14. The further conditions mentioned in Paragraph 12(a)(ii) are that –

(a) it is not practicable to communicate with any person entitled to grant entry to the premises;

(b) it is practicable to communicate with a person entitled to grant entry to the premises, but not practicable to communicate with any person entitled to grant access to the material;

(c) the material contains information which –

(i) is subject to a restriction or obligation such as is mentioned in section 15(2)(b); and

(ii) is likely to be disclosed in breach of it if a warrant is not issued;

(d) service of notice of an application for an order under paragraph 4 may seriously prejudice the investigation."

The informations stated that the requirements of Paragraphs 2 and 14(b) and (d) of Schedule 1 were fulfilled: "The further conditions at b & d above apply"

First set of Access conditions (Schedule 1, paragraph 2, and 12(a)(i))

First, in the absence of any information, it is not known on what basis the Stipendiary Magistrate had reasonable grounds for believing that an indictable offence had been committed (let alone in relation to Mr Levy QC, whose premises were the subject of the applications).

Paragraph 2 requires that the constable has reasonable grounds for believing the matters set out in paragraph 2(a). It is plain that a belief is more than a suspicion and that the need to have reasonable grounds for a belief imposes a higher threshold than the need to have reasonable grounds for a suspicion: R(S) (supra) at [61]; R (Eastenders Cash and Carry plc) v South Western Magistrates' Court [2011] 2 Cr App R 123. A mere assertion cannot suffice.

We do not know on what basis the court was persuaded that this requirement was met. In any event, it is a matter that the duty of candour, which rests upon an ex parte applicant (In re Stanford International Bank Limited and Another [2010] EWCA Civ 137; [2010] 3

W.L.R. 941 at para 191), absolutely demanded be brought to the attention of the Magistrate. It is far from clear that it was.

We also note the basis of RGP's apparent beliefs have altered since the warrants were obtained. In the note 'Voluntary Attendance for Police Interview under Caution", a copy of which was given to Mr Levy QC on 12 May 2020, the RGP referred, at point 9 of the topic areas which they wished to explore in interview under caution, to 'Communication with the Chief Minister in relation to any of the above'. In the otherwise identical version provided under cover of the Commissioner's letter of 14 May 2020, that phrase has been removed.

Second, whilst it is plain from the warrants and from the informations in support, that the material sought consisted of or included Special Procedure Material, there appears to be no basis upon which the Magistrate could have had reasonable grounds for believing that there would be no "excluded material" on the premises.

As made clear in R(S) at [33] and [57], paragraph 2(a)(ii) is only fulfilled if the Court is satisfied with evidence that the items to be seized do not also contain "excluded material". As stated in R(S) at [57], a lawyer's mobile or laptop would certainly include 'special procedure material' and could possibly also comprise "excluded material". It is not clear on what basis DS Clarke satisfied the court that the devices would not contain "excluded material".

Third, the court had to be satisfied that the material sought would be of substantial value to the investigation and likely to be relevant evidence. Again, there is nothing to suggest that the police or court considered the balancing exercise which appraises, on the one hand, the benefit to the investigation of obtaining the information against, on the other hand, the seizure with the possibility that it would contain in it a mass of "excluded material" and/or material subject to LPP, which was not concerned with the investigation and the seizure of which might well cause considerable professional disruption: R(S) (supra). The court's attention should have been drawn to this point with an explanation as to why this balancing exercise should be resolved in favour of the police.

Taking into account that the investigation has, we understand, been ongoing for over 18 months, and that the other suspects have already been searched and questioned, it is not at all clear how this could have been demonstrated. Was it likely that material sought so belatedly would be of 'substantial value'? Seeking further evidence identical to what had already been obtained would not meet the statutory requirement.

Fourth, in relation to the requirements of paragraph 2(b), we note that the informations allege that other methods of obtaining the material had not been tried because it appeared that they were bound to fail. The court had to be satisfied of two things: that other methods of obtaining the material had not, in fact, been tried; and that DS Clarke believed any other method was bound to fail (R v CCBTP at [34]).

No basis upon which the court could have been so satisfied is provided in either information, and it is wholly implausible that any proper basis could have been advanced. The notion that Mr Levy QC, as an officer of the court and Queen's Counsel, would have refused a request is absurd and, of course, as noted above, the very fact that the police did obtain the material in the way they did (following the threat to execute the warrants and the clear misrepresentation that the warrants had been applied for on the advice of the DPP) supports this. As was noted in R(S), a practising solicitor against whom no allegation of dishonesty had previously been made would in the ordinary course of events be expected to comply with a request from the police to hand over a document or at least not to destroy material.

Fifth, the information also purports to deal with the unsubstantiated public interest requirements in 2(c) which we reserve our right to further comment once we have seen any further evidence in support. However, we note that the Magistrate in satisfying himself that the warrant was in the public interest would have had to have regard to two matters: 1. the benefit likely to accrue to the investigation if the material is obtained; and 2. the circumstances under which the person in possession of the material holds it.

Paragraphs 12(a)(ii)/14

The information states that the following further conditions in paragraph 12(a)(ii) of Schedule 1 apply (we take that to mean the conditions in paragraph 14 referred to in 12(a)(ii)), namely:

1. 14(b) - that it is practicable to communicate with a person entitled to grant entry to the premises, but it is not practicable to communicate with any person entitled to grant access to the material; and

2. 14(d) - that service of notice of an application for an Order under Paragraph 4 of Schedule 1 may seriously prejudice the investigation

First, in relation to 14(b), this is plainly untrue. If it was practicable to communicate with Mr Levy as the person entitled to grant entry to his office and home, it was obviously practicable to communicate with him to grant access to the material (as proved to be the case). That such a statement should have been made on oath is nothing short of reckless and misleading.

Second, in relation to 14(d), it is impossible to see how the police could have so believed, or that the Magistrate could have been satisfied. Not only is this serious allegation not substantiated, but there can have been no basis for the notion that service of notice on Mr Levy of an application for an order under paragraph 4 of Schedule 1 risked him prejudicing the investigation (for example, by perverting the course of justice, or destroying or dissipating evidence) pending the hearing of an inter partes application for a production order.

Indeed, there was every reason for believing precisely the contrary. First, Mr Levy QC is the Senior Partner of Gibraltar's largest law firm, a Queen's Counsel, an officer of the Court, and a man of good character. As events transpired, the police themselves could not have believed that he would seriously prejudice the investigation, because they declined to execute the warrants they obtained, and allowed Mr Levy to remove his phone and copy the data before handing it over to them. They also now appear to trust him to provide voluntarily the emails they sought but failed to obtain. Secondly, the investigation has been ongoing for over 18 months, and Hassans acted, initially, for other suspects. The police knew that Mr Levy was aware of the investigation. Had he really wanted to destroy evidence, this could have been done months ago.

Width

The warrants at particular "(1)" sought the seizure of "electronic devices (including but not limited to mobile telephones and computers) capable of sending and receiving text messages, instant messages and/or electronic mail, owned and/or used by Haim Levy and any device storing any of the aforementioned communications".

These apparently unlimited terms were grossly wide. They were without limit in terms of scope or date, and completely failed to state what the sought material had to relate to. The plainly erroneous and inexplicable reference to 'any of the aforementioned communications' (there being no such reference) simply reinforces the point.

It would have been quite impossible, within the four corners of the warrant, for a person executing it, or for the person whose premises are being searched, to be able to identify with any degree of certainty what the warrant authorised by way of seizure: McGrath v. Chief Constable of the Royal Ulster Constabulary [2001] 2 AC 731 at [18]; R (Energy Financing Team Ltd) v. Bow Street Magistrates' Court (supra), at [24] and [37]; Power-Hynes v. Norwich Magistrates' Court [2009] EWHC 1512 (Admin), at [19] and [22]; R (Van der Pijl) v. Kingston Crown Court [2012] EWHC 3745, at [52]-[67]; C v. Nottingham and Newark Magistrates' Court [2013] EWHC 3790, at [48] and [51]. Particular (2) is similarly unrestricted in date range.

It follows that the warrants were grossly deficient on their face. The seizure of the phone and tablet would also necessarily have led to the seizure of a vast amount of irrelevant (and LPP) material that could not, on any view, have had any connection to the investigation and/or was not capable of being seized. The RGP took no steps to sift out this material.

LPP

Not only were the warrants drafted in impermissibly wide terms, but they contained no clear wording taking LPP material outside that which was authorised to be seized (R(A) v. Central Criminal Court [2017] EWHC 70 (Admin), at [81] and [84]). Nor can such an exclusion be implied from the wording of the warrant (cf. Gittins v Central Criminal Court [2011] EWHC 131 (Admin), at [36]-[37]).

A warrant which purports to authorise the seizure of LPP is invalid. See Gittins (above), per Gross LJ at [36(2)]:

> "If on its true construction a warrant extends to material for which there are not reasonable grounds for believing that it does not consist of or include items subject to LPP then the warrant will be quashed, at least unless the offending passages can be severed. Such a warrant cannot be saved by precautions governing its execution on the day, such as, for example, the engagement of independent counsel."

It was obvious that the search warrants would lead to the seizure of LPP material. However, the reality was that no consideration was likely to have been given at all to LPP material when applying for and issuing these search warrants. They are therefore invalid.

Conclusion

On any challenge by way of judicial review, the warrants are overwhelmingly likely to be declared to be unlawful for all or any of the reasons set out above.

We therefore request once again, as we have already requested also in the letter to Superintendent Richardson, that Mr Levy's possessions be returned to him.

We also seek an acknowledgment from RGP that they acted unlawfully in seeking and obtaining these warrants, and in entering Mr Levy's addresses. In this regard, we must record that Mr Levy has serious concerns that the RPG acted illegally, and we reserve his rights in this regard. If, indeed, RGP acted in this way in opposition to advice that it had received to the effect that the applications were inappropriate and unlawful, then it can only be concluded that there has been a gross abuse of executive power. On any basis these events are liable to have led to a serious loss of confidence in the RGP.

We look forward to hearing from you as a matter of urgency.

Yours faithfully

Lewis Baglietto

c.c. Commissioner of Police.

Dear All,
We've had to cancel a command team meeting today as we hadn't yet had a meeting with everyone to finally be able to sign off the agreement or not. Unfortunately Henry is ill and won't be in for the rest of the week. We need however to get this formalised asap so that Henry and I can meet with them early next week.
As we briefly discussed in our last meeting, The COP and SMT have been liaising with a company called AAP which seem to the very reputable in their field. Henry and I have been copied into correspondence in relation to the company. The other thing that has been mentioned by COP is how this will be funded. He has asked if the GPF would be prepared to contribute. Whilst at first that sounds like a bad idea, in a completely personal view, I feel it may be a good idea, depending on costs. The first thing we all become suspicious of is the fact that if the organisation is paying then they'll err on their side. If we are also paying then their loyalty if you are concerned about their integrity is also for the Federation. As I say that is completely personal view and I'll go with majority there.
It clearly states in the working agreement that Terms of reference will jointly be agreed.
If anyone can meet this week please let me know.
Best
Anna

3rd December 2018

Joint working agreement between the Office of Commissioner of Police and the Gibraltar Police Federation

Information;

On June 15, Gibraltar Parliament enacted the Gibraltar Police Federation (GPF) in law as an independent body and it currently represents a high percentage of the Police workforce (94%).

One of their internal tasks was to engage a private entity to provide statistical data to a number of key Police issues that they felt was needed, regarding working conditions and welfare. From 1st August, 2018, to 3rd September 2018, Federation members were given the opportunity to complete an online survey. The result of which were subsequently made public on 24th September 2018.

On 27th September 2018, the Commissioner of Police responded to the Workforce in Force orders 39/18, expressing his commitment to address the issues raised in the online survey together with GPF.

Joint Working Streams;

It is agreed that the Commissioner of Police and his Command Team, and the GPF will continue to work together for everyone's benefit, inclusive of non-members, to address the issues that have been raised in the survey, providing subsequent documented progress made by the Joint Working Group.

The workstreams will focus solely and will include governance in the following areas of concern;

- Human Resources
- Allegations of bullying
- Estates
- IT Infrastructure
- Overworked/work Related Stress and Burnout
- Morale
- Health and Safety

Independent Review;

In consultation, parts of, or all of the work streams, may be subjected to independent review, providing transparency, accountability and good governance. Partners whom are reputable in this field of consultation should be agreed by the Commissioner of Police, Command Team and the Gibraltar Police Federation. Terms of reference should be agreed by all parties and instruction to act should be made jointly.

Review of Progress;

It is agreed between both parties that there will be fortnightly reviews of the different joint working streams.

Media Strategy

It is agreed between both parties that in the interest of maintaining good dialogue and accurate information throughout this process, with their best endeavours and in good faith, only future press releases regarding any matters connected to the survey or the work streams, are agreed before and are jointly released.

ROYAL GIBRALTAR POLICE

Executive Summary

The suggestion that there is bullying and harassment in the Royal Gibraltar Police (RGP) is not new. It has been a matter for occasional debate both internally and publicly in the local media for many years. Various attempts have been made to understand the issues and act; but the suggestion has persisted.

A staff survey prepared and circulated by the new Royal Gibraltar Police Federation (RGPF) was conducted by them for the first time in late 2018 and once again brought the issue to the fore; leading to some differing views between the RGPF and the Commissioner. The findings of that survey, if true, were concerning and led to a number of working groups being established by the Commissioner. The RGPF were invited to these groups.

AAP Associates (AAP) were asked to provide consultancy support to the Commissioner to better understand these issues and to examine the effectiveness of the current approach to dealing with them.

We interviewed about 150 staff members from all RGP departments. These interviews took place individually and in focus groups. In addition, we were also pleased to interview the Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner and all members of the senior management team as well as the former and current chair of the RGPF and members of the RGPF board. During two on site phases we also visited much of the police estate and examined vehicles and personal equipment. In addition, all grievance files, ten personal files and ten evidence files were examined.

We concluded that there was not systematic bullying in the organisation but that there was some evidence of bullying and harassment by a minority of managers, supervisors and peers that was not being reported and consequently not being addressed.

We examined the use of the force grievance procedure and concluded the system was not trusted and hardly used. We have suggested ways in which confidence in the procedure could be improved by a tailored RGP approach with lead supervisors, oversight, independent monitoring and mediation. We emphasise the importance of senior managers being consistent in acknowledging there is some bullying and harassment, as there is in many other organisations.

We also examined concerns expressed by staff about the poor quality of the police estate, some vehicles and information technology but found there to be a sense of pragmatism amongst staff about how quickly improvements could be achieved notwithstanding the negative impact this has on their working lives and their efficiency.

At the core of many staff concerns was not the buildings or equipment but people issues; particularly being treated fairly and having consistent decision-making. We have made suggestions in this report as to how fairness and consistency might be improved in key areas that particularly concerned staff. We recognise that addressing many of these issues is already underway within the seven joint working groups established by the Commissioner, but, for understandable reasons progress in some of these groups has been slower than everybody expected.

We concur with the current rationale for each of these working groups but believe some of these groups will need to merge and be aligned over the next few months as the work picks up pace. The RGPF are members of all the working groups and now that they have newly elected board members, will also be better placed to make an effective and positive contribution. It will also be important to ensure that regular updates are communicated to staff. The Commissioner is monitoring progress of these groups and is keen to ensure positive results.

The RGPF survey proved to be a significant area of debate. We found that although the approach and questions could be improved that nevertheless many staff believed it offered another opportunity to express their views to help improve the service. We found that many of the issues raised in the survey were also raised in our staff interviews, but we were able to gain more detail. In this report we examine the RGPF and the RGP surveys and make suggestions for their further improvement. We have been pleased with the positive view taken by the RGPF in our discussions with them about developing the survey and of the RGP in taking a constructive approach to dealing with many of the issues through the working groups.

The RGP survey also offers a rich source of information about the force but could be further enhanced. We consider that although the time may not currently be right to undertake a joint survey that at the least the RGP and RGPF should work together to coordinate and plan their respective surveys.

The new RGPF Board know it has a significant role to fulfil on behalf of their members in working with the Commissioner and senior managers. To assist their progress, we set out our advice that will help establish the new RGPF board with a structured and evidence approach offering the prospect of effective representation.

We are pleased that the new RGPF board and the Commissioner have expressed a clear intent to work together while recognising their distinctly different roles and responsibilities. We are confident that our findings will contribute towards the future success of that working relationship. We conclude by expressing our thanks for the way in which staff have engaged with this process and to offer our continued support.

1.1 Our commission

On the 4 January 2019 AAP was invited by the RGP to provide independent consultancy support to the Commissioner in order to contextualise the findings of recent surveys, assist RGP and the RGPF to better understand the problems, and to examine the effectiveness of the current approach. The RGPF survey in particular had highlighted a range of important issues including allegations of bullying and harassment and health and safety concerns that would benefit from independent, expert evaluation.

The evaluation was conducted in two phases; the first between the 15 April 2019 and the 18 April 2019 and the second between the 29 May 2019 and the 31 May 2019. The evaluation was undertaken by two AAP Directors with extensive policing experience as senior police officers in England and Wales and as former senior members of Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary and Fire and Rescue Services. In addition, the evaluation was supported by an AAP Associate who was a former senior police officer and long-standing Chair of the Police Federation of England and Wales. This report represents our independent views based on our strategic, operational, police federation and inspection experience.

The terms of reference were agreed as follows: -

"To provide independent support to the RGP Commissioner in order to contextualise the findings of recent surveys, assist RGP and the RGPF to better understand the problems, and to examine the effectiveness of the current approach to dealing with the issues".

1.3 Methodology

We first met with the Assistant Commissioner and RGPF officers in London to detail the requirement and time scales[1]. A comprehensive review of all the documentation provided was undertaken following submission of a document request. This included, but was not limited to, the RGP staff survey, the RGPF survey, related project plans, action plans and proposals, grievance procedures, bullying and harassment policies and information and data about current reporting levels.

We examined the procedures that RGP has in place to prevent workforce bullying and harassment and the procedure to investigate them. This included the RGP policies, procedures, training and ethos against good practice. The effectiveness of the RGP grievance and procedures was also considered and included a review against good practice.

[1] An outline proposal by AAP Associates for Independent support to the Royal Gibraltar Police Commissioner and the Royal Gibraltar Police Federation.

Recent grievance investigations were also examined to assess their effectiveness and fairness. Staff knowledge of the procedures and level of reporting was tested, and an examination undertaken of the awareness and experience of supervisors and the capability of professional standards.

We also conducted a review as to whether there was evidence of systematic bullying and harassment. This involved examining current reporting levels, interviewing staff at all levels, offering opportunities for confidential disclosure and identifying any common themes.

An evaluation of the concerns raised in the RGPF survey about health and safety issues was undertaken. This included interviewing staff, examining personal safety equipment, the records of use, the effectiveness of vehicles and related equipment and assessing relevant policy.

We also undertook a review of the RGP and RGPF surveys in order to offer guidance about the preparation and use of surveys.

During this work programme we interviewed about 150 staff members from all RGP departments. These interviews took place individually and in focus groups. We also listened to staff members who approached us confidentially outside the interview process. In addition, we were also pleased to interview the Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner and all members of the senior management team as well as the former and current chair of the RGPF and members of the RGPF Board. We triangulated evidence with managers, supervisors and peers and where feasible with documentary examination. During the two on site phases we also visited much of the police estate and examined vehicles and personal equipment. In addition, all grievance files, ten personal files and ten evidence files were examined.

The AAP team recognise the inconvenience that any such process can cause and are grateful for the full co-operation and support that were given to us by so many people. We were particularly impressed by the number of staff members that had the courage to discuss personal matters with us and take us into their confidence in order for the organisation to learn and improve. We respect that confidence and focus in this report on the organisational issues those disclosures revealed.

1.4 Overview

Gibraltar is a British Overseas Territory and is home to over 30,000 people, with thousands more commuting daily across the land border with Spain. Located on the southern end of the Iberian Peninsula at the entrance to the Mediterranean Sea, Gibraltar is a major tourism and leisure destination, which receives approximately 10.5 million visitors a year, many of whom arrive on cruise ships. The economy is growing fast with general trade, the provision of financial services, communications, e-gaming, tourism and maritime activities.

The RGP has a unique policing challenge and is responsible for the preservation of the peace; the maintenance of law and order; the prevention and detection of crime; the apprehension and guarding of offenders; and the protection of property. Community expectations of the service are high, with the RGP striving hard to be equal to those expectations.

To enable the RGP to deal with these responsibilities, the force has a budget of 16.167m in 2018/19. This provides for 240 officers and 44 members of support staff. RGP is led by a Commissioner of Police and is overseen by the Gibraltar Police Authority (GPA), an independent body.

Until 2018 police officers were represented by a Police Association but in 2018 the RGPF was established in law[2] in order to represent members of the Force in all matters affecting their welfare and efficiency[3]. It was established as being entirely independent of and unassociated with any body or person outside the Force[4].

On the 22 May 2019 a new Police Federation Board was elected by members; this included a new chair and secretary. Both the new Board and the Commissioner have expressed a clear intent to work together while recognising their distinctly different roles and responsibilities.

1.5 Report Structure

The report is structured around the terms of reference and following this introduction in Chapter One we start with an assessment of the measures in place to prevent workforce bullying and harassment and its procedures to investigate allegations in Chapter Two. The chapter is set out under headings of grievance procedures, professional standards policy and the code of ethics for ease of reference. An examination as to whether there is evidence of systematic bullying and harassment is the subject of Chapter Three. We were also asked to focus upon concerns raised about health and safety issues and the evidence we found forms the content of Chapter Four. Key areas are set out under the respective headings of staffing, workloads and sickness. In Chapter Five we consider the RGPF survey and the RGP survey. The RGPF survey had already proved to be a significant area of debate and we have sought in this chapter to provide a view that moves that debate away from the process and focuses upon the findings. The new Federation Board knows it has a significant role on behalf of their members in working with the Commissioner and to assist this to happen we include our views that might assist the new Police Federation Board. This forms Chapter Six.

[3] There are exceptions including questions of promotion affecting individuals; and questions of discipline although the Police Federation may represent a member of the Force at any stage of disciplinary proceedings brought under regulations made in accordance with section 79.

[4] The Government may, on the recommendation of the GPA authorise RGP or a branch of the RGP to be associated with a person or body outside the police service in such cases and manner, and subject to such conditions, as it may specify; and vary or withdraw an authorisation previously given. (Section 52 (2)

Chapter Two

Assess the measures RGP has in place to prevent workforce bullying and harassment and its procedure to investigate allegations of bullying and harassment.

2.1 The purpose of a grievance policy

A grievance policy is designed to maintain good employee relations by providing a means of dealing with and preventing further grievances in the workplace effectively and expediently. The policy should aim to address grievances that cannot be resolved informally at the appropriate level of management. The procedure should provide the framework by which views can be expressed freely and without prejudice and to have those issues resolved in a fair and equitable manner. It is always best to try to address workplace grievances informally and at as early a stage as possible. However, if a grievance cannot be resolved in this way, then having a formal procedure in place can help avoid later legal action. The effective handling of staff grievances has a positive and productive impact on staff wellbeing. It enhances staff loyalty and reduces absenteeism, undisciplined behaviour and poor work.

2.2 RGP Grievance procedure

RGP introduced a grievance procedure in 2007 which was reviewed and relaunched in 2017. A further review took place in May 2018. The introduction to that procedure states that "This shows the RGP's commitment to equal opportunities for all police officers, support staff, trainees and temporary employees". The policy is that bullying, and harassment should be reported through the grievance procedure.

While the grievance procedure sets out the broad scope, there could be more detail, especially when compared to the grievance procedures used by other forces[5]. It does however set out a four-stage process; an informal stage, a first stage for resolution by a departmental inspector, a second stage for resolution by a divisional chief inspector and a third stage for resolution by the divisional superintendent.

We found that this grievance procedure is not working effectively and that senior managers were seeking to improve the process. There was a slight improvement in 2018 when three grievances were recorded but there were none in 2017. It is clear from the interviews that some staff considered they had a grievance but would not report it. In the absence of a trusted system we found their grievances were often discussed openly and critically with peers, reinforcing perceptions about unfairness and consistency.

[5] Dorset Police grievance procedure is one such example. The Advisory, Conciliation and Arbitration Service (ACAS) code of practice on disciplinary and grievance procedures provides detailed guidance on the process.

2.3 Staff confidence in the RGP grievance procedure

During interviews we explored the reasons for the lack of confidence in the system. A commonly held view by staff members was that the process was akin to a complaint investigation. Many of them referred to the fact that RGP is a relatively small police force where everybody generally knows everybody else and that people have long memories. The consequent starting position for them was that the current system could never be fair. This must be overcome by taking positive action to ensure fairness to gain their confidence. We suggest a way forward in this report.

While there had been briefings when the procedure was introduced, we found that staff and supervisors had limited understanding how it worked in practice although most knew of its existence. A few interviewed knew that if the staff member does not want to discuss their grievance informally with their line manager, they could go direct to the first stage departmental inspector. Even then staff did not consistently consider this to be an action they could legitimately take as they believed it would be viewed negatively by that supervisor. Consequently, the perception was that it would not lead to a resolution but recrimination.

It was also clear from supervisors and managers that they were not consistently clear about how to handle a grievance. We did see an example of a minor matter that should have been dealt with by a first line supervisor being unnecessarily escalated by them rather than dealing with it themselves.

2.4 Building trust in the RGP grievance procedure

The current RGP grievance procedure is modelled on the procedures commonly seen in England and Wales. All England and Wales forces have a greater number of staff and supervisors and have a greater number of options to resolve grievances, such as staff moving departments, areas or police stations where it assists resolution. Due to RGP having one main police station, fewer departments and fewer staff less resolution options are available.

Grievances are best dealt with informally at an early stage, with the immediate line manager. This gives everyone involved a chance to resolve matters effectively before they escalate.

However, where there is a reluctance to report matters to supervisors informally, it becomes important to have a formal procedure for handling grievances. We take the view that the force would benefit from a tailored RGP grievance procedure.

There is a critical need to build trust in the system. An important way in which RGP could consider building that trust is by reviewing who deals with each of the formal grievance stages. Currently all supervisors might have to deal with a grievance. The current policy also directs staff to their own line manager.

2.5 Grievance champions

RGP could consider appointing just a few supervisors as grievance handlers to whom staff from any department or unit could refer their grievances. Supervisors could be selected for their skills and experience and the staff could refer to those in whom they had the most confidence. Managers for stage two grievances could also be selected for their skills and experience. Selection for these posts would be a management decision.

These grievance 'champions' could also have a proactive role in briefing staff on the grievance process. Such a role is intended to enhance, not compromise, supervision and management. In time, when reporting grievances becomes a trusted process, RGP can then decide if more grievance handlers were appropriate, leading to a point where the procedure is the norm and all supervisors have a direct role. Such a process should not stop a member of staff just talking to their supervisor to informally resolve problems. However, if they do not wish to do so or it becomes a grievance then the new process would ensure the matter is dealt with by an experienced grievance handler.

2.6 Oversight

In addition, independent oversight of the grievance process would help to build trust and confidence in the process and to ensure that it remains consistent.

The GPA have the responsibility, among other responsibilities, to secure the maintenance of an efficient and effective police force within the financial resources available to it and on a value for money basis, to ensure high standards of integrity, probity and independence of policing and to establish, operate and supervise the process for investigating complaints against police officers. The GPA has a role in providing that independent oversight and should have anonymised information submitted to them for scrutiny and be provided with relevant statistics alongside other force data.

2.7 Independence

In order to build staff confidence in the grievance procedure it would be helpful if there was an individual who had specific oversight and who could scrutinize the overall progress of cases. The person would not make decisions about the case but have access to the information to ensure that matters were being dealt with expeditiously. There is some logic in an individual member of the police authority having that responsibility – but if not, importantly an individual that is conversant with how grievance procedures should operate and be security vetted. This would be a positive step in gaining staff confidence.

2.8 Mediation

An independent third party or mediator can also be an option to help resolve disciplinary or grievance issues[5]. Individuals could usefully be identified by the force to fulfil this responsibility. Mediation is a voluntary process conducted by an independent third party where the mediator helps two or more people in dispute to attempt to reach an agreement. Any agreement comes from those in dispute, not from the mediator.

The mediator is not there to judge, to say one person is right and the other wrong, or to tell those involved in the mediation what they should do. The mediator oversees the process of seeking to resolve the problem but not the outcome. To be effective both parties need to be committed to reaching a solution. Mediators may be employees trained and accredited by an external mediation service who act as internal mediators in addition to their day jobs. They can be from an external mediation organisation. The RGP could usefully seek potential mediators to be available for appropriate grievance resolutions.

2.9 Learning from experience

Those invoking the grievance procedure could usefully be invited to participate in evaluation to assess its ease of use, overall effectiveness and to identify any potential areas for improvement. Any feedback received would then be considered and if appropriate, incorporated at an annual review. A point to where all feedback goes, either in writing or by e-mail, should be identified for that purpose.

2.10 Managerial ownership

For many staff that we interviewed grievances and complaints are the same in all but name. It is not surprising in a small organisation that this is the case as many of the supervisors and managers involved in the creation and dissemination of the policy have a professional standards background. To build staff confidence there needs to be a separation of managerial ownership of the grievance procedure and those matters investigated by the professional standards department. This extends to having different policy leads.

2.11 A relaunch of the grievance procedure

Once all the developmental points in this report have been considered there should be a relaunch of the new grievance procedure. Even then a new procedure alone will not make it work. The senior management need to ensure they are all in agreement with the importance of addressing bullying and harassment, acknowledging its presence in the workplace and take steps to act. RGPF should positively engage in this process in order to help resolve members grievances.

[5] The Advisory, Conciliation and Arbitration Service (ACAS) Working for everyone guidance on bullying and harassment.

Leadership and setting good examples are critical to success in tackling bullying and harassment in any workplace.

RECOMMENDATION 1

RGP should introduce a grievance procedure that reflects the local needs as outlined in this report. This work should be prioritised, and it is suggested could be the core work for the bullying and harassment working group. It is also suggested that this should be completed in three months.

2.12 Professional Standards Policy

The RGP Professional Standards policy was approved in 2008 and last reviewed in February 2017. It is an overview of some professional standards issues and provides some guidance on how investigations should be conducted. Separately the team did see copies of information and guidance to managers in other documents. The policy aims to set out the organisational vision on professional standards and the mechanisms it will work with to ensure high professional and integrity standards are maintained.

2.13 The investigations

During interviews it was clear that some staff perceived there was a lack of openness and transparency with professional standards investigations and that this caused them anxiety. To an extent some anxiety is to be expected. We frequently heard claims that those investigated are not kept up to date with the progress of investigations and some cases investigations were underway without staff being aware. There will be circumstances when professional standards investigators cannot be as open and transparent about progress as staff would like them to be. However, we were advised senior managers do strive to keep people informed. To bridge this gap and to deal with staff concerns it would assist if senior managers were to place renewed emphasis on continuing to both record and check that staff are being appropriately updated.

2.14 Who deals with investigations?

The professional standards department consists of one chief inspector with direct support from one inspector. Most of the work is reactive with limited time for proactive work such as the monitoring or analysis of corruption triggers. These staff members are committed and deal with a wide spectrum of investigations. Early positive action by a first line supervisor is important in avoiding matters escalating but this is not happening consistently, adding pressure to an already busy department.

During interviews with sergeants and inspectors there was a frequent concern expressed about their not making a mistake. This is not unexpected given that RGP has many new supervisors. Clearly, these supervisors have responsibilities by virtue of the rank but in fulfilling those responsibilities it could usefully be reiterated to them that making a mistake with honest endeavour and intent can be a learning process and not a fault.

2.15 Standards

It was also apparent that staff were not consistently clear about the standards expected of them. Coupled with supervisors having an uncertainty about how to deal with transgressions this leads to inconsistent decision making. it is vital that supervisors set standards and ensure intrusive supervision. The RGP should consider briefings and discussions with staff about standards of behaviour addressing such issues, for example, as the use of social media. This could be reinforced in publications such as the 'Bobby', the official magazine of the RGP.

2.16 Legal requirements

The professional standards department of course have clear legal requirements and policies that guide their investigations.[7] However where interdiction is a consideration there is no option of retaining an officer on duty with a non-public facing role. In addition, there is no effective process for informal resolutions to provide a pathway for early finalisation. Equally there is no effective route for confidential reporting or policy in place to protect whistle blowers.

We found staff generally unaware of the reasons why professional standards investigations must take a particular course and this gave rise to them being regarded by them as heavy handed and unfair. This is notwithstanding that during interviews with the senior managers they confirmed this was never their intent. This is also not reflected in the overall results as we were informed that of 61 complaints in the last 18 months only four cases proceeded to a discipline panel. Information about how the professional standards system works could usefully allay the concerns expressed by staff.

2.17 Awareness

There is a real opportunity now for RGP to deal with these issues by considering an in-Force awareness package that includes standards, the grievance procedure and the professional standards system. By exploring boundaries and providing examples of effective decision making it can only serve to reduce the sense of uncertainty expressed by interviewees.

[7] Police Act 2006, Police Complaints Regulation 2008 and the Code of Professional Standards for Police Officers 2007

RGP should introduce an in-force awareness package that includes standards, grievances and the professional standards system. Particular focus should be on exploring boundaries and providing examples of effective decision making. It is suggested that this could be the core work of the 'Low Morale' working group. It is suggested that the awareness package should be completed in six months.

2.18 Welfare

The force does have a police officer appointed as the welfare officer who has recourse to support from a qualified government welfare officer. She also networks with welfare officers from other departments. However, she is not professionally trained and has other important responsibilities. We raise this point later in discussing staff wellbeing but having continued support available to officers under investigation, particularly those interdicted, would demonstrate that apart from a supervisor maintaining contact, that those officers are still valued and appropriately assisted. In time RGP should consider civilianising this role but in the meantime, they should continue to support this important post.

2.19 Investigation results

When an investigation is concluded other members of staff will learn about the result, but those interviewed say this is usually through word of mouth and other informal channels. Through personal contact they often hear about the circumstances and draw informal conclusions about inconsistency of results and unfairness. The commissioner has taken the initiative and recently posted disciplinary results and further to that it is suggested that RGP could usefully ensure increased efforts are made to circulate relevant learning points to all staff.

2.20 Code of Ethics

The Code of Ethics should underpin every policy, procedure, decision and action in policing today and be an everyday business consideration.

The RGP Code of Ethics was approved in 2015 and is due for review. There are significant variations from the College of Policing code. This includes there being no reference to relationships for sexual gain, responsibilities in relation to business interests' associations and political activity, fitness for work, or a requirement to report action taken for criminal offences in any location against a person.

The College of Policing code sets out the importance of challenging and reporting improper conduct – including protection of whistle-blowers. The RGP code is less specific.

Officers were in the main generally aware about the RGP Code of Ethics but only a handful could highlight specifics, and this included supervisors. We are aware that the RGP Code of Ethics is to be reviewed this year. Such a review could usefully seek the views of staff and the RGPF, as by participating in a discussion about the Code makes it more likely that staff consider they are part of it and consequently adherence to it is more likely.

RECOMMENDATION 3

RGP should bring forward their review of the Code of Ethics and values to ensure that it reflects local circumstances. Action should be taken to ensure there is renewed emphasis on the code through, briefings, publications, news items and other similar methods. It is suggested that this could be the core work of the 'Low Morale' working group. It is suggested that this should be completed in three months.

2.21 Annual Policing Plan

The current Annual Policing Plan makes only brief mention of the Code of Ethics at the outset. Delivery plan number 1 for goal 4 says that the RGP will strictly adhere to its values and Code of Ethics. It also refers to continuing to pursue equality, diversity and inclusivity in the workplace in delivery plan number 14. The RGP could usefully ensure that the Code of Ethics is given a much higher profile in the plan.

2.22 Working Groups

RGP has seven working groups recently established by the Commissioner. These were formed as a positive response to the RGPF survey. It is through these groups that many of the issues identified in this report will be addressed. The working groups are human resources, allegations of bullying, real estate, information technology infrastructure, wellbeing, low morale and health and safety. It is important that these groups are fully utilised to take the initiative to ensure improvement. However, the need for the working groups continued existence should be reviewed to eventually bring the resultant work into the day to day RGP business meetings. This will ensure the momentum is maintained and becomes part of day to day business including formal consultative meetings between the RGPF and the Commissioner.

RECOMMENDATION 4

RGP should review the seven workstreams in order to bring their work into the day to day force business meetings. It is suggested that this should occur not later than 12 months.

Chapter Three

Review whether there is evidence of systematic bullying and harassment.

3.1 Bullying and Harassment

There is some evidence of bullying and harassment in the organisation, but staff consider there is an improving position from the past. During focus groups, individual interviews and informal disclosures staff discussed examples with us. Some of these examples were of what they had seen or heard themselves and others what they had experienced personally. It was evident that there were some cases where bullying and harassment had occurred within the last two years.

We also heard of cases that, if true, amounted to blatant bullying and harassment, but most of these occurred many years ago. Some of these were cases over 10 years old that had been informally dealt with, but the negative experience had stayed with the individuals concerned and still had an impact on them many years later.

Other officers expressed the view that they had no personal experience of bullying or harassment.

It was however common to learn from interview that where bullying and harassment did occur it often involved perceived unfairness and inconsistency. For example, those interviewed say staff in specialised units are sometimes told minor infringements might result in their moving to a shift role. This can only reinforce a perceived view that a response officer shift or posting is not always valued. Equally some staff seeking promotion were told that the same minor infringement would affect their chances.

Equally some staff interviewed considered that some managers and supervisors were just providing strong leadership and that there was a gap between the longer service supervisors and newer recruits with differing expectations about how supervisory orders and instructions should be delivered.

We heard a variety of explanations from about 150 staff. There was a marked lack of clarity and hence understanding as to what amounted to bullying and harassment. The legal position regarding police officers being excluded from bullying at work in Gibraltar means there is an even higher responsibility on the Force to ensure working practices do not exploit staff or allow them to be treated unfairly in the workplace.

We take the view that bullying, and harassment is any unwanted behaviour that makes someone feel intimidated, degraded, humiliated or offended. A strong person shows good interpersonal skills, empathy for others and motivates. A bully lacks empathy for others, ridicules and demotivates others. It is not something that is necessarily always obvious or apparent to others and may happen in the workplace without an employer's awareness. Bullying or harassment can be between two individuals or it may involve groups of people.

It might be obvious, or it might be insidious. It may be persistent or an isolated incident. It can also occur in written communications, by phone or through email, not just face-to-face.[8]

For practical purposes though staff usually define what they mean by bullying or harassment. Something has happened to them that is unwelcome, unwarranted and causes a detrimental effect. If staff are concerned, they are being bullied or harassed, then they have a grievance which must be dealt with regardless of whether or not their complaint accords with a standard definition. There are often grey areas as to what is or is not bullying and harassment. We consider it to be good practise to provide examples to staff of what is considered unacceptable behaviour.

RGP should continue to use a variety of methods to ensure staff are made aware of this but importantly the senior management team should be unequivocal that it has no place in the RGP of today.

We concluded that there was not systematic bullying in the organisation but that there was some evidence of bullying and harassment by a minority of managers, supervisors and peers that was not being reported and consequently not being addressed.

In the United Kingdom surveys of workplaces, employees and health and safety representatives all indicate that there are problems with workplace bullying and ill treatment[9]. It is best prevented by strategies that focus proactively on ensuring worker wellbeing and fostering good relations, giving employees and managers the confidence to engage in early and informal resolution.

We saw no evidence of a separate bullying and harassment policy. The RGP could usefully consider framing such a workplace policy on bullying and harassment and this could be the vehicle that sets out the commitment of senior management[10]. This helps recognise the importance of the issue.

RECOMMENDATION 5

RGP should introduce a clear bullying and harassment policy that sets out the RGP acknowledgement, commitment and expectations. It is suggested that this should be developed in the bullying and harassment working group. It is also suggested that this should be completed in three months.

RGP should not underestimate the importance of including reference to tackling bullying and harassment in public reports and the policing plan. It is important in that it demonstrates an acknowledgement that bullying, and harassment occurs and could set out an intent and willingness to act.

3.2 The acceptability of banter

During interviews the level of what was termed 'acceptable banter' was referred to regularly and the subject of debate. It was apparent that banter was not usually challenged by supervisors. Banter can easily become bullying or harassment. Clearly there is a difference between that and banter that encourages a good inclusive team dynamic. What was apparent though was the degree of acceptable banter we heard about appeared far removed from that we have experienced in England and Wales. Many of those interviewed endeavoured to describe it as cultural but this cannot be the case when it becomes focused upon or against an individual. This cannot be acceptable and will come to the fore with an effective grievance procedure but also in other circumstances given that RGP officers do attend UK courses.

3.3 Joint Learning

It was clear from our interviews that there was a lack of understanding of what is and is not unacceptable behaviour. Some joint learning through the bullying working group around promoting and rewarding the right behaviours could prove helpful.

RECOMMENDATION 6

RGP should adopt good practice and ensure that staff are provided with examples of what is and is not unacceptable behaviour in RGP. It is suggested that examples could be developed in the bullying and harassment working group. It is also suggested that this should be completed in three months.

Chapter Four

Evaluate the concerns raised in the RGPF survey about health and safety issues

4.1 The police estate, vehicles and equipment

During our visit we familiarised ourselves with the police estate, examined personal equipment, checked vehicles and learnt about the information technology available. It was clear that the police estate is in generally poor condition and that investment is badly needed to provide premises fit for a modern police force. We heard about the action being taken and the plans to improve the police estate, information technology and maintain the vehicle fleet.

We also examined the personal equipment issued to police officers and sought their views. Most staff were generally satisfied with their personal equipment. Some staff raised concerns about not having personal radios for major events and senior management explained their approach. However, most staff were pragmatic and understood that the police estate, vehicles and information technology involved long term planning and investment but considered they could be better informed about how this was progressing. This is a key area as many staff just did not know what was happening and in the absence of reliable up to date information considered that there was some inaction or that their concerns were not being heard. We are advised that drop in clinics, force orders and training days are already used to keep staff informed.

It was frequently expressed during staff interviews that other agencies in Gibraltar receive preferential treatment. We did not have the remit to investigate this and therefore cannot validate these comments, but the concerns of staff are genuinely felt. They suggest this makes them feel less valued. RGP and the RGPF clearly have a role in helping to understand these concerns. In some key areas such as police estate and information technology it should be possible for the RGP and RGPF to work together by having a common research goal and evidence-based approach and in doing so helping to either allay these concerns or provide further evidence for business cases.

The RGP currently has separate workstreams for Real Estate, Information Technology and Health and Safety in the workplace. There is a logic in these issues being separated but there is also a need for a clear strategy and approach to resolve the problems. The RGPF are members of each of these working groups and could usefully continue to work closely with the RGP in developing that approach.

RECOMMENDATION 7

RGP and RGPF should work together on the obvious improvements needed to the police estate, information technology and vehicles while recognising their different responsibilities through the relevant workstreams. This is a key area where a joint enterprise is beneficial to success but importantly staff need to be kept apprised with progress. It is suggested that staff should be fully apprised within three months and then ongoing with appropriate information.

4.2 Staffing Issues

The working environment and equipment make a positive contribution to helping staff feel valued and enabling them to do their job effectively, but the predominant issue staff expressed concern about was the need for them and others to be treated fairly and consistently. This extended to the way duties were allocated, staff were selected for posts, how discipline cases were dealt with and how some supervisors operated.

We explored the reason as to why there might be the level of perceived inconsistency referred to by staff.

4.3 Duty planning

We interviewed resource management staff about how they allocate duties including long term event planning. These staff members strive to limit duty changes and for the most part appear to do a good job, but it is clear some departmental line managers do change officers shifts on a regular basis. This should be monitored holistically as for some officers the claim that their shifts are regularly changed is a fact. We are not suggesting single changes are inappropriate or indeed any specific number of changes are inappropriate but senior managers need to know the extent to which some individuals are being affected. By monitoring this centrally and being armed with this information senior managers can ensure some staff are not being unduly affected. It was noted however that where resource management changed staff shifts overtime was paid where it was appropriate to do so.

4.4 Staff Appraisals

An immediate observation is that staff have not had an appraisal in most cases for several years. In the absence of such a system decisions about staff development can be inconsistent even with the best of intent by supervisors. Senior Management recognise this is the case and have been working towards appraisals being included in wider improvements of human resource management. For good reason there have been significant delays in the introduction of a new system amid concerns about bureaucracy.

We would advocate that a staff appraisal system is so important these concerns must be cast aside with the introduction of a straightforward meaningful assessment process at the earliest opportunity. This should not be stand-alone but be central to decision making.

RECOMMENDATION 8

RGP should introduce a new appraisal system for staff. This work should be prioritised, and it is suggested should be the core work of the Human Resources workstream. It is also suggested that this should be completed in six months.

We asked managers and supervisors where they might source information and evidence currently when making decisions. The officer's own application, their personal knowledge, personal files and evidence files were all referred to.

4.5 Personal files and evidence files

RGP has a system where the force centrally retains a personal file for the officer and an evidence file is usually retained by the line supervisor. We examined ten random personal files and evidence files asking the staff member involved if they wished to be present. Two police officers took up that opportunity.

We were told that evidence included in the file should have previously been seen by the officer and noted. We found this did not always take place. Some information was incorrectly filed, in one case information should have been removed and in another case was not appropriate.

The perception of officers was that evidence files were about negative misdemeanours. We did see evidence of this but importantly there was no consistency as to the documents and information included in a personal file or an evidence file. In addition, we could find no evidence of any weeding policy. RGP should consider working towards one file and importantly ensure in the meantime that evidence files retained by supervisors are used for all relevant evidence, be it positive or negative and that is subject to a clear weeding policy.

4.6 Personal development plans

These plans are intended to be used to help a staff member enhance their skills and experiences in their current role or for the next role. Staff perceive that development plans have a negative connotation. It was consistently believed that they were a professional standards improvement plan and not a plan to enhance their career prospects. An effective appraisal system would identify staff development needs, including upskilling for officers who have spent some time in one department. This would lead toward a change in perception. Clarity could usefully be given as to the purpose of these plans, with managers and supervisors leading by example with their own personal use of developmental plans.

4.7 Promotions and transfers

The staff perceived there was unfairness in the promotion and transfer system. We did not examine all selection and promotion processes but when we made enquiries about particular cases found that for the most part managers and supervisors work hard to ensure they are fair and that the selection rationale was honestly made with the best intent. However, many staff believe that the requirements for the posts and closing dates are not consistently applied. We found this led to the perception of unfairness in the system. Dealing with this perception is important. During any process there might be variations but if this is the case additional effort needs to be given to ensuring all candidates are aware of the rationale.

Clearly, the selection processes can only be enhanced by effective staff appraisals and improving the available information.

4.8 Staff Workloads

We do not have the remit to scrutinise shift patterns or allocation of resources, but concerns were raised in staff interviews about the demands placed upon them, the impact of sickness on workloads and the link these additional pressures have on some cases of bullying and harassment.

We asked senior managers about the plans that might improve the demand upon officers. We learnt that the RGP has taken positive steps supported by the GPA in striving to improve their understanding of demand in the organisation by using integrated information in the CYCLOPS system. This is a computer database that includes management of calls, crime, cases, intelligence and incidents with other databases being added for full integration. This remains work in progress and although integration of systems is proceeding at the time of our visit the full benefits had yet to be realised.

We also asked senior managers for examples of where action was being taken on specific issues It is evident that RGP have taken some action to reduce the demand on officers. One such example is the Commissioners policy decision to remove the need for police involvement in minor traffic incidents that could more appropriately be dealt with by insurance companies.

There have also been some positive steps to maximize resources with an RGP business case being accepted by the Gibraltar Government for the appointment of civilian custody detention officers rather than sworn police officers. Given the Commissioner has also seen recent success in the bid for additional police officers it bodes well that that there will be an increase of 25 police officers in addition to those released by civilianising police posts.

Staff interviewed suggested several other areas where workloads could be reduced. One point featuring regularly that we checked was that there is a high level of unnecessary paperwork caused by the requirement for a prosecution file to provide all the evidence, whether for a minor case or a serious crime. Others pointed to supervisors sending them to deal with minor matters such as non-crime problems with cats and placement of plant pots. Staff perceived there was an inconsistency between supervisors' requirements about incident attendance, notwithstanding there was a policy in place. Supervisors could usefully be reminded of that policy. All these matters were readily disclosed by staff but there will be others and their ideas should continue to be openly sought.

It was also clear from the interviews that many supervisors did not have a grip on the workload of their staff. It is important that supervisors know this and act appropriately to ensure the fair allocation of work. In the absence of this happening an inherent sense of unfairness can develop.

We have read the report commissioned by the Gibraltar Police Authority in 2016[11] and agree with the strategic findings in relation to demand and resources. At the next level there is more that can be done to communicate with staff about what the Force is doing, what is expected of them and how they can help. This can only enhance their wider understanding of the action the Force is taking and help reduce their concerns about unfairness and inconsistency.

RECOMMENDATION 9

RGP should ensure they continue to focus upon initiatives to understand workloads and reduce demand. These initiatives should be grouped as an RGP approach and communicated to staff. Identifying new initiatives could usefully be identified as the core work of the 'Wellbeing workstream' and it is suggested a first tranche identified in three months.

4.9 Sickness and wellbeing

An effective sickness management policy aims to provide a framework to support staff who are unable to work due to illness, assist them back to work as quickly as possible and to reduce the impact on other staff who are covering for them. It is best considered as part of a broader staff wellbeing programme.

We found there was a need for improvement as although the RGP monitored sickness it was less able to manage it. It was pleasing to note from our interviews however that when a staff member or a direct family member is seriously sick or injured, they felt fully supported by managers, supervisors and peers.

However overall sickness and the impact on the remaining staff was a regular point raised by staff during our interviews. Staff who had to provide cover were encouraging more action to appropriately manage sick leave. There have been recent attempts to analyse sickness but at present force managers concur that sickness management could be improved. Return to work forms exist but are usually marked no further action, if completed, and make no contribution to the understanding of the problem. There is also no link between performance appraisal and sickness. Most staff regarded the ten days uncertified sick leave as a benefit. This is understood to be a common cultural view in Gibraltar.

We heard about work that was ongoing within the resource management team to develop an effective sickness management policy. This has been set back while the departmental Inspector is temporarily assigned to an external investigation but is a policy that warrants early development. The force does have a welfare officer post as previously discussed. An effective sickness management policy should be supported by the force welfare officer and have a strong focus on officer wellbeing.

RECOMMENDATION 10

RGP should introduce a new sickness management policy. This should be supported by a welfare officer that is afforded the time and training to fulfil the responsibilities effectively. It is suggested that the sickness management policy should be prioritised and taken forward by the 'Wellbeing' workstream. It is suggested this policy should be prepared in three months.

4.10 Civilian Staff

We noted that civilian staff feel valued, have annual assessments and those interviewed have been working for the force for many years. They are very positive about the organisation. These staff have an extensive and detailed knowledge of the force and how it works. Their value should not be underestimated in adding a useful perspective in the RGP work-streams.

Chapter Five

Review RGP and RGPF surveys and provide advice with guidance about the preparation and use of surveys

5.1 RGPF Survey

In 2018 the then newly established RGPF decided to undertake a survey of all federated staff members. The survey results were released internally and to the media and a response published by the Commissioner about the findings. We have not sought to analyse the events leading up to publication but instead have concentrated on providing our views about the use of such a survey. However, we do make comment that as the RGPF establish their new responsibilities it is important that they have a plan as to how they seek to use and publish the survey results. We would encourage the RGPF to do so in a way that also helps build trust with management. In that way the survey can make an effective contribution to force improvement.

5.2 Staff view

We found staff considered that the RGPF survey added a perspective to the discussion. One staff member, not directly involved in the planning for the survey, explained that he saw it "as another way of us having a voice to improve the force by saying what needs to be done and what is going well" That was a consistent view expressed by staff members.

However, the survey was not without some criticism. Staff expressed concerns about ensuring anonymity, the survey not being refined and some officers viewing it as not being entirely fair by asking a broad question that they sought to expand upon but with no avenue to do so.

5.3 Our view

We take the view that conducting such a survey is a positive step in an open and learning organisation. The attempt to gain a clear picture of the matters affecting RGPF members is helpful. It is only by identifying both areas of strength and weakness than improvements to policing can be assisted through the consultative mechanisms. However, the first survey can be improved upon and we consider it important RGPF now pause to review the next survey so as to enhance its future evidential value.

The information obtained from an effective survey can be used to assist an evidence-based approach to inform the RGPF in future discussions and negotiation with management. With a sound evidence base there is a stronger likelihood that the RGPF will be able to be successful in meeting their responsibilities.

5.4 Avoiding problems and pitfalls.

That said, it is important to recognise that there are some inherent problems and potential pitfalls from solely relying on the results gained from any survey. Survey results potentially offer an important view at a given time but if the survey results are to be used in business cases RGPF should take care to support the findings with other evidence.

In conducting research work it is of critical importance to ensure the correct methodological approach and some essential precautions are taken to be certain that the conclusions reached are the correct ones. The RGPF has elected to use what is termed a 'self-completion questionnaire' (SCQ) to gather the views of its membership. The use of the SCQ approach clearly has several advantages for the type of research being conducted by the RGPF. But with these advantages come a few caveats regarding its use.

People filling them in must understand exactly what is being asked of them. Instructions must be clear, and questions must be unambiguous to ensure different people do not interpret the questions in different ways. This is particularly the case when carrying out attitudinal surveys where feelings or beliefs are being tested.

There are specific precautions well documented in research literature, aimed at minimising the difficulties that badly worded questions or imprecise terms can cause. These include consistent trialling and re-editing of questionnaires in the light of field-testing. RGPF would find it adds validity to the process by taking such steps.

Any survey should aim to minimise the factors that might interfere with the validity of the information gathered from its user. These can be sources of either conscious or unconscious bias on the part of respondents when completing them. Often a trained interviewer can respond to potential bias as it emerges but a SCQ relies on identification of such potential bias and constructing questions to avoid them emerging.

5.5 Memory

One of the most common causes of bias in questionnaires about people's experiences are those caused by memory. One source is what is termed 'telescoping'. With this phenomenon, the respondent may genuinely believe that a very vivid or emotional event was a lot more recent than it actually is. In policing terms, victims of assault, sometimes believe that the assault happened far more recently than it actually did.

Researchers have recognised the value of what are termed 'anchor points'' to help people properly judge when an experience actually happened as opposed to when they may imagine them to have occurred. Sign-postings such as "since last Christmas" or "since last summer" have been found to significantly help the ordering of remembered events.

It is important to have these anchor points in time otherwise the respondents may include information from outside the period envisaged. For example, we spoke to a staff member who had 20 years police service and who had initial doubts about joining the police service who was now content with their role. We also spoke to a staff member who had recently thought about leaving the RGP. The current RGPF survey in asking "Are you or have you contemplated leaving the RGP" could place them both in the same category. RGPF could usefully review their survey to ensure there are relevant anchor points.

5.6 Social desirability

Another consideration when completing any survey is about how 'social desirability' might influence the results – the person completing the questionnaire being inadvertently drawn into providing the answers or comments that they believe are being looked for or will better conform to the social expectations around them. In the context of this survey, officers completing many of the questions posed were very familiar with what their colleagues or federation representatives might say if asked these questions publicly. Examples of this are "do you feel overworked" or "with the current minimum manning levels set by management, how safe do you feel carrying out your operational duties"?

As with many police forces it came as no surprise to us to find significant numbers within the survey were answering that these were current issues for them. However, RGPF care should take care when using such responses as evidence given the way the bias of 'social desirability' might work.

In any survey questions should be drawn up, tested and modified rigorously to ensure the truest possible answer is achieved and that there is no influencing of the respondent in any way. Without this care, a biased or distorted set of responses could be obtained. We advise RGPF to ensure that such tests are undertaken in order to enhance future surveys.

5.7 Types of questions

There is considerable guidance on question construction in the research about questionnaires, such as about leading questions or vague questions. A leading question is one that suggests an answer to the respondent. Its use in a questionnaire can make it less reliable. We would suggest that with the experience gained this year RGPF should review the leading questions in the survey.

A vague question is obviously one that includes vague words or phrases, whose meaning is not clear or commonly understood. Morale is an example. The issue with such a question is perhaps best summarised by one of the individuals who commented within the questionnaire itself, when they pointed out' "As per perception of morale, depending who you are and who you know reflects on the morale of the individual."

Similarly, the survey refers to bullying and victimisation in three separate questions and sets out the legal definition. These questions rely on staff members having a collective understanding and common interpretation of what constitutes bullying and harassment. Interestingly we found during our interviews that there is a lack of such clarity amongst staff about what these terms mean. By RGPF leaving it open to the respondent to make the judgement, there is the risk, for example, that episodes of robust management are interpreted and included as acts of bullying and harassment.

5.8 Survey comments

We have read the comments made by staff members in the survey and had the opportunity to hear some similar points from a few people during interview. The written survey responses expressed concerns about a wide range of issues. We studied this further. When the comments in the survey are clustered according to the numbered identifier of the respondent it became immediately noticeable that a relatively small cohort of individuals make the majority of these negative remarks. These individuals appear to contribute on almost every supplementary question posed in the questionnaire. This is in contrast to the majority of respondents. Most people, who make comments at all, are moved into adding the occasional comment on what could be termed "big ticket items." In this case it could be that a small group of RGP officers feel particularly badly affected by the operation of the force and they voice their concerns in a consistent and cohesive way. There may of course be other explanations, but the comments are not common to all staff. They are an indication of how some staff feel but may not necessarily be representative.

5.9 Survey opportunities

On the strength of the material available, the survey used by the RGPF has produced some interesting insights into the views of their members, but the results need to be taken in perspective. These areas are now the subjects of further research in the working groups established by the Commissioner aimed at organisational improvements.

The RGPF survey offers an opportunity to source valuable information from staff. It was pleasing to note that some of the responses in the survey reflect a desire for positive organisational change which we also found during our interviews. This could be the subject of further exploration as by engaging in new initiatives staff could make an effective contribution and gain a sense of ownership.

In addition, by continuing to review and improve this survey, the overall level of confidence will be enhanced and consequently the responses will help provide a rich source of evidence to assist organisational improvement. As discussed previously there must be clarity in advance about how this and other information is to be shared, particularly with members, senior management and the commissioner. In our last chapter, focused upon assisting the RGPF, we make suggestions about formal meetings and suggest this is one important matter that would be included on the agenda.

5.10 RGP (Management) Staff Survey

The RGP staff survey is not online and has limitations in that staff members doubt the level of anonymity afforded to them. The findings of the survey are shared on force orders, but senior managers could also consider using them by way of "you said – we did" circulations. The results do reflect that staff consider they are not always treated fairly and are reluctant to speak up. The RGP survey has proved to be a useful and positive tool and another source of information to support management action. The RGP will be aware of the importance of question setting in much the same way as in the RGPF survey.

The survey is very short when compared to surveys of England and Wales forces or to Guernsey or Jersey. It is particularly notable that there are no questions about bullying and harassment in it, although it does include some graded questions that help the SMT understand staff perceptions of fairness and respect. These are:

- I enjoy working within my organisation
- I feel everyone is treated fairly and consistently with regard to opportunities
- The organisation provides good support to help me balance work and home responsibilities
- I feel everyone is treated equally with regard to their domestic commitments

It also includes questions to elicit whether the workforce feel involved in decision making and empowered to challenge how things are done.

- If I want to put forward new ideas or suggestions for improvement,
- I am confident my ideas or suggestions will be listened to
- I am confident I would get feedback on my ideas and suggestions
- I think it is safe to speak up and comment on the way things are done in this organisation

The RGP Survey covers similar areas to the RGPF survey and there would be a strengthening of both and of the overall evidence base were the surveys to be more in tune.

While it may not be the time to jointly undertake a survey with RGPF it should be possible to ensure the respective surveys are coordinated with questions that can be worked together and the timing of them in order to explore key issues. The way in which the new RGPF could work on this and other issues is considered in the next section.

RECOMMENDATION 11

RGP and the RGPF should work together to ensure that their respective surveys are coordinated and where achievable the questions worked together. It is suggested that how these links occur should be considered in the 'Low Morale' work stream. It is also suggested this takes place prior to the intended publication date of both the next RGPF survey and the RGP survey.

Chapter Six

Police Federation

Until 2018 RGP police officers were represented by a Police Association but in 2018 the RGPF was established in law[12] as having the object of representing members of the Force in all matters affecting their welfare and efficiency[13]. It was established as being entirely independent of and unassociated with anybody or person outside the Force[14].

6.1 The new RGPF board

A new chairman, secretary and board were elected on the 22 May 2019 for a period of four years[15]. These two posts have been given full-time status in order to represent the members effectively. Together with the new board they recognize they now have an opportunity to make a positive difference to the welfare and efficiency of officers in RGP and of the importance of how they first set out on this important responsibility.

They are also keen that they all continue to build their knowledge and skills as federation representatives. They are developing the networks and relationships established previously by the Royal Gibraltar Police Staff Association with police federations and associations throughout the United Kingdom and across Europe. Sharing experiences and identifying good practice will assist in the early days of RGPF. There is an advantage in ensuring that this is a structured approach rather than just having ad hoc contacts. In this way the RGPF can target contacts to assist with specific issues.

Some of the board have also benefitted from training such as for discipline, health and safety, and equality. The officers particularly should continue to hone their representative skills, understanding different negotiating styles and as to how and when to deploy them. They would also benefit from shadowing a branch board chair and secretary or by seeking a mentor.

[13] There are exceptions including questions of promotion affecting individuals; and questions of discipline although the Police Federation may represent a member of the Force at any stage of disciplinary proceedings brought under regulations made in accordance with section 79.

[14] The Government may, on the recommendation of the GPA authorise RGP or a branch of the RGP to be associated with a person or body outside the police service in such cases and manner, and subject to such conditions, as it may specify; and vary or withdraw an authorisation previously given. (Section 52 (2)

[15] There are some exceptions referred to in the Police Federation Regulations 2018 4 (4) including ceasing to be a member of the force

6.2 Federation membership

Not all eligible officers below the rank of superintendent are subscribing members of the RGPF. Members receive a number of benefits including legal support. We heard from a minority of staff that they have joined the RGPF to just have the insurance cover. Equally some staff had not joined who were eligible to do so. The RGPF understands this is the case and are keen to gain the confidence of these members and all eligible staff.

Many officers expressed a desire for the RGPF to establish effective lines of communications with all its members to ensure they are updated on issues affecting members welfare and efficiency. This can only assist staff confidence in the RGPF. The need to improve communications was not confined to the RGPF as a few staff members expressed some concern about communications by senior management. Both parties should strive to enhance their internal communications to keep staff apprised of developments. There will be opportunities to ensure the information flow is coordinated. For example, in each of the working groups[16] the agenda should include an item at the end of each meeting to discuss and agree how to communicate what they have done internally to staff. In that way there will be clarity about the outcome of these important groups.

Where there is a vacancy the board may nominate a member of the federation of the appropriate rank to fill that vacancy until the next election.[17]. Given the close-knit culture of RGP we take the view that although there is a legal entitlement to do so were there to be a vacancy such an appointment at this stage could be problematic. The electorate is small, and we would suggest that the board could consider holding a by-election under those circumstances in order to continue to build staff confidence.

6.3 Federation structure, position and policy statements

A significant minority held strong views about the need for the RGPF to have a clear structure and to develop position and policy statements in addition to representing individual officers. There is some evidence from staff that representation previously had been focused in an ad-hoc way upon individual cases. No matter how effective that was there is an acknowledgement by the new RGPF that they now have an opportunity to be better organised. We agree. Clear position and policy statements and good organisation will go some way to building staff confidence.

6.4 RGPF survey

One of the first steps the RGPF undertook was to conduct a survey aimed at providing an opportunity to evidence, benchmark and prioritise the issues facing members. As indicated in the previous chapter we consider this to be a positive step. We were pleased with the open discussions to improve the structure and content of the survey in order to continue to improve the accuracy of any future survey.

6.5 Relationships with management

During our interviews officers of all ranks spoke about the benefit of, and need for, the RGPF and RGP senior management team to develop a constructive working relationship. In our meetings with both the RGPF and SMT we found more issues that united than divided them; they are both striving to improve policing for the benefit of the community in Gibraltar.

The new status of RGPF provides the senior management team and RGPF with an opportunity to develop a proactive two-way consultative process for all matters affecting officer's welfare and efficiency. Working with the RGPF is new to the senior management team as well. We would encourage both parties to set aside time to explore ways of working effectively together, identifying common goals and developing structures and arrangements. By positively engaging in such meetings it will enable the RGPF to fulfil their statutory responsibilities.

Although it may take time and commitment to establish these working relationships and build trust, the initiative to form working groups with RGPF representation is positive and provides a good vehicle to address many of the issues identified within the force and RGPF surveys. Reports indicate some working groups are more productive than others; it will be important to set and agree action plans for all and communicate progress across the force.

RGPF must recognise the Commissioner has responsibility for the direction and control of the Force, delivering value for money and an efficient administration. Effective communication and pro-active consultation do not remove the right of management to manage but can provide a broader perspective and the potential for better decision making. Custom, practice and research indicates a positive impact on staff well-being where arrangements exist to constructively involve and communicate with staff.[18]

[18] The "Good Workplace": The Role of Joint Consultative Committees, Unions and HR policies in Employee Ratings of Workplaces in Britain, Oct 2018

6.6 RGPF and senior management meeting

Arrangements for meetings between the SMT and RGPF are not currently formalised. While there will be informal meetings between the RGPF officers and the Commissioner there is a benefit in there also being regular meetings between them. These should have an agenda and minutes which are published in force. The agenda should focus on matters related to welfare and efficiency, such as, health and safety, uniform and equipment, grievance handling, resource management, duty planning, sickness, welfare, career development and fairness. We suggest both parties identify issues for discussion.

In England and Wales forces Joint Negotiating and Consultative Committees (JNCC) provide chief officers and staff associations, (police federation, superintendents association, support staff) with a regular forum to discuss matters concerning staff welfare and efficiency. We realise that the superintending ranks and support staff are in a different position to their counterparts in England and Wales. However, a locally tailored JNCC has merit. At present much of this business will be discussed in the working groups and the need for a JNCC option increases in importance as the working groups become business as usual.

Such a meeting would be to secure acceptable outcomes and to establish and promote agreements on matters including health and safety, discipline, fairness, selection procedures, welfare, sickness, duty planning, leave, uniform and equipment. The process can assist with problem solving and provide for escalation where there is disagreement and conciliation for resolution of any disputes. Were the RGP to adopt a similar model membership might include Commissioner, Assistant Commissioner, a superintendent, Chairman and, Secretary of RGPF and a civilian staff representative. This would be a new way of working and given there is no precedent initially RGPF might find it useful in being supported on their responses, evidence and business cases for presentation in such a forum.

6.7 Major event planning

In the United Kingdom it has become recognised good practice to include police federation representation at the planning, briefing and debriefing stages of major events. Involvement at the planning stage has provided operational commanders with an additional perspective which focuses on officer welfare and their efficiency. This currently does not happen in RGP and instead sometimes results in the issues only being discussed after the event. We suggest RGPF representation should take place at planning meetings and would be professionally beneficial if the specific member attending is consistent. Key to this working is the RGPF having a clear focus upon their specific responsibilities.

6.8 RGPF and RGP – a final point

RGPF officers and the board will no doubt have significant challenges to deal with as they become established in the new role. We have set out many of those challenges but importantly it is people that make relationships work. We are pleased that the RGPF have expressed positive intentions, as has the Commissioner and senior management team, to work together while respecting the differing responsibilities.

This will be a learning exercise as to how to work together and from time to time each will be challenged. However, we have confidence in the ability of all concerned to be equal to that challenge.

SUMMARY OF RECOMMENDATIONS

1. RGP should introduce a grievance procedure that reflects the local needs as outlined in this report. This work should be prioritised, and it is suggested could be the core work for the bullying and harassment working group. It is also suggested that this should be completed in three months.
2. RGP should introduce an in-force awareness package that includes standards, grievances and the professional standards system. Particular focus should be on exploring boundaries and providing examples of effective decision making, say, between supervisory action, misconduct and complaints. It is suggested that this could be the core work of the 'Low Morale' working group. It is suggested that the awareness package should be completed in six months.
3. RGP should bring forward their review of the Code of Ethics and values to ensure that it reflects local circumstances. Action should be taken to ensure there is renewed emphasis on the code through, briefings, publications, news items and other similar methods. It is suggested that this could be the core work of the 'Low Morale' working group. It is suggested that this should be completed in three months.
4. RGP should review the seven workstreams in order to bring their work into the day to day force business meetings. It is suggested that this should occur not later than 12 months.
5. RGP should introduce a clear bullying and harassment policy that sets out the RGP acknowledgement, commitment and expectations. It is suggested that this should be developed in the bullying and harassment working group. It is also suggested that this should be completed in three months.
6. RGP should adopt good practice and ensure that staff are provided with examples of what is and is not unacceptable behaviour in RGP. It is suggested that examples could be developed in the bullying and harassment working group. It is also suggested that this should be completed in three months.
7. RGP and RGPF should work together on the obvious improvements needed to the police estate, information technology and vehicles while recognising their different responsibilities through the relevant workstreams. This is a key area where a joint enterprise is beneficial to success but importantly staff need to be kept apprised with progress. It is suggested that staff should be fully apprised within three months and then ongoing with appropriate information.
8. RGP should introduce a new appraisal system for staff. This work should be prioritised, and it is suggested should be the core work of the Human Resources workstream. It is also suggested that this should be completed in six months.

9. RGP should ensure they continue to focus upon initiatives to understand workloads and reduce demand. These initiatives should be grouped as an RGP approach and communicated to staff. Identifying new initiatives could usefully be identified as the core work of the 'Wellbeing workstream' and it is suggested a first tranche identified in three months.
10. RGP should introduce a new sickness management policy. This should be supported by a welfare officer that is afforded the time and training to fulfil the responsibilities effectively. It is suggested that the sickness management policy should be prioritised and taken forward by the 'Wellbeing' workstream. It is suggested this policy should be prepared in three months.
11. RGP and the RGPF should work together to ensure that their respective surveys are coordinated and where achievable the questions worked together. It is suggested that how these links occur should be considered in the 'Low Morale' work stream. It is also suggested this takes place prior to the intended publication date of both the next RGPF survey and the RGP survey.

Dear Sir

Please find attached Joint Working Agreement that we are prepared to sign. We have had various meetings of the Federation board discussing at length the implications of this agreement vis a vis the independency of the Federation.
Although we are still not happy with the media clause, in the spirit of continuing and progressing with this matter and the fact that we are committed to working together as long as there is continued consensus.
We will continue to work and dialogue in our best endeavours, but if after exhaustive representations we do not agree, we reserve the right to withdraw from this clause/agreement.

At board level we discussed about your request for assistance with funding for the independent review from our Federation membership fund but unfortunately this was declined.

Dear Henry - many thanks for your email. I am currently on leave returning to work next Monday. However, I have to nip in to the office on Wednesday so if you can leave two copies (signed/dated by yourself) with the AC then I will sign the documents on Wednesday. I will return one of documents to you for your records once signed.

I again want to reassure the Board that the Command Team is NOT in dispute with the GPF. I offer these repeated reassurances in light of the continued and apparent sense of mistrust held by the Board who regard the Terms of Reference in question as somewhat restrictive and prejudicial for the Board. These are not designed to 'gag' the Board but rather to create an understanding in order to operate in a responsible and mature way to address the work streams contained in the document.

Finally, it is regrettable that the Board has turned down the proposal to contribute to the joint commissioning of independent experts to look at the issues of concern and work with both GPF & Command Team to attempt to contexualize and resolve them. You will recall that it was the GPF that asked for an independent body to be engaged. I take it that the Board, like the Command Team, still feel the need to delve deeper in to the results reaped by the survey so that we look for the so many unanswered questions & provide a qualitative measure & contexualised picture in order to be able to better focus our efforts.

In any case, I will still consider engaging the independent body but for obvious reasons I will discuss with the Command Team what status, if any, the GPF will have in the contractual arrangements with whichever independent body I decide to contract for this work. Notwithstanding, I trust that the Board & GPF are still committed to the process to fully partake and address the issues of concern with whoever I end up engaging. What I do not want is to engage a firm at considerable cost and for the GPF to then decline participation.

Best regards

Subject: New Year's Eve Deployment - Exigency - Meeting Request

Dear Sir

I write as I feel obliged to inform you of the numerous complaints of officers received by board members and to the Federation with respect to New Year's eve deployment.

I have enquired with SMT about the deployment and rationale behind their decision. The following has been the reasoning afforded by SMT.

It was intended by SMT to increase the compliment of shift by 5 extra officers for Policing New Year's Eve.
There are several functions at Casemates and several large dance parties around Gibraltar, apart from the crowds that will be roaming the streets.
I have been informed that they tried to get officers on overtime from the beginning of the month. But this has been refused/ turned down by officers.
Apparently the Response night shift in question has 2 officers on sick leave thus under the required compliment.
This has resulted in the operational decision to redeploy PMB to support shift.
But there are still three shift posts that still require to be filled. SMT have stated that the most fair way to address this is by requesting one officer from the 3 divisions to work.
Thus the decision of "drawing someone form a hat". If not, they would have no option but to force someone to work.
SMT now claim that this is an "exigency" and that they can do this at short notice.

Officers that will be expected to work will be paid double time and will be entitled to an extra eight hours in lieu.

The federation's position is not at all happy with this situation as you may understand that many officers have already made private arrangements for the festive period and unfair and disappointing for officers at the last minute to rearrange their family affairs.
We are of the opinion that poor planning has turned this now into an exigency! SMT should have made an Operations Order informing officers, in September, making provisions well in advance that they would be required to work and not at the 11th hour.
As you may recall , we had a similar situation on National Day where officers did not know their deployment until a few days before.

As you are aware morale in our the force is at rock bottom and matters like this do not help at all.

I understand that you have your opinions of what constitutes an exigency of the force. Though we have the accepted definition of what an "exigency" is, as per guidelines for Policing in England and Wales, we respectfully request for a meeting with you and your Senior Management Team at your earliest convenience to clarify this ambiguity once and for all.

John / Nolan - many thanks for this. I wholeheartedly agree that the GPF will need to be specific when raising these matters with me. I will not be able to entertain issues of this sort in the future unless the specifics are there. It is wholly unjustifiable that so much time and energy is employed to verify what in essence has been in ill-informed complaint.

I am also copying Command Team so they are all in the picture.

Once again my thanks and to extent my apologies too for making this request. Certainly another lesson learnt.

I will address the Convenors accordingly so that they in turn revert to the 'complainants'.

Subject: OFFICIAL - Response to GPF e-mail

Dear all –

It is with regret and not a little sadness that I find myself writing to you all to rebut in their entirety, the misleading assertions contained in the email sent out by the Chair of the Gibraltar Police Federation (GPF) earlier today.

In the email the Command Team is accused of poor planning that has led to conducting a draw that has further led to three officers drawing the short straw and having, at the eleventh hour to work New Year's Eve. The Command Team is further accused of abusing the term 'exigency of the service'.

Please allow me to explain the Command Team's [factual] version of events as explained to the GPF Chair by CI Romero yesterday and again by CI Field this morning. On both occasions, the Chair expressed satisfaction and understanding with the actions taken by the Operations Division Command Team. I repeated our rationale to him at an emergency meeting this afternoon at which, once again he accepted our rationale. The facts are as follows:

Planning for this [and with most policing events] started months ago and the assessed required resource levels were determined at the beginning of December. At this point, in a bid to avoid exercising my right to change officers' Rest Days given the date in question we decided to seek volunteers on overtime. At the time, there was an assessed requirement for five (5) officers above complement. Given the duty shift had projected one above minimum manning levels there was only a need for four (4) volunteers. Regrettably, and, I accept understandably so, none chose to work.

Despite this setback, the Operations Division Command Team chose to, reluctantly redeploy the PMB to town in support of their colleagues as opposed to change Rest Days, which they were perfectly entitled to do. Still reluctant to spoil officers' New Year's Eve plans, the planners elected to accept the risk of operating with four (4) above complement as opposed to the original five (5).

This was followed by an additional event being communicated to the RGP on Friday the 14th December, the resignation of one officer and the sickness of another. This meant that despite the fact that they had redeployed the PMB they now found that the duty shift would, for circumstances beyond the planners' control, be left with just two (2) officers above complement and required to police an additional unscheduled event.

It was only then that the Operations Division Command Team decided to arrange, in the interests of fairness, for a drawing of lots from all three divisions. This has now raised the additional complement to the required five (5) above complement, which satisfies the planners' Health and Safety concerns and assessed policing resource requirements.

All of the above was fully communicated to the GPF Chair yesterday and again today and on both occasions he expressed satisfaction at the Operations Division Command Team's efforts and rationale for the actions they took. At no time did he intimate any dissatisfaction with the explanations offered, which incidentally were offered and not requested.

The GPF Chair has also alluded to the fact that pre-planned events are not exigencies of the service, he is right and neither are these deemed to be so by me. What he fails to mention is that unforeseen circumstances in the lead up to an event may create exigency situations. For the reasons explained above, my planners assessed these circumstances, which only arose over the past several days as an exigency.

It is regrettable that the GPF has chosen to promulgate inaccurate facts and offer gratuitous comments as to the Command Team's lack of professionalism. I find this totally reprehensible and undermining of the office of Commissioner of Police. It also seriously undermines our ability to jointly address the many important issues that arose from the GPF's and indeed the RGP's staff surveys for the benefit of all, members and non-members.

Ideally, my Command Team and I would wish to resolve matters such as this jointly with the GPF and in a spirit of goodwill however if they choose to challenge us in the courts we stand ready to robustly defend the legal action alluded to in the Chair's email.

I sincerely hope that my Christmas message to you in tomorrow's Force Orders, delivered, as it is, in good faith and openness is not tarnished by the negative impression caused by inaccurate and misleading communications to you.

With best regards

Subject: New Years Eve Deployment
Importance: High

Dear Colleagues

I write due to the numerous complaints received to board members and to the Federation with respect to New Year's eve deployment.

I have enquired with SMT to find out their rationale for this and this has been SMT's reply.

It was intended by SMT to increase the compliment of shift by 5 extra officers for Policing New Year's Eve.
There are several functions at Casemates and several large dance parties around Gibraltar, apart from the crowds that will be roaming the streets.
I have been informed that they tried to get officers on overtime from the beginning of the month. But this has been refused/ turned down by officers.
Apparently the Response night shift in question has 2 officers on sick leave thus under the required compliment.
This has resulted in the operational decision to redeploy PMB to support shift.
But there are still three shift posts that still require to be filled. SMT have stated that the most fair way to address this is by requesting one officer from the 3 divisions to work.
Thus the decision of "drawing someone form a hat". If not, they would have no option but to force someone to work.

SMT now claim that this is an "exigency" and that they can do this at short notice. Officers that will be expected to work will be paid double time and will be entitled to an extra eight hours in lieu.

The federation's position is not at all happy with this situation as many officers have already made private arrangements for the festive period. We will be formally writing to complain to the Commissioner about this.
We are of the opinion that poor planning has turned this into an exigency! SMT should have made an Operations Order informing officers, in September, making provisions well in advance that they would be required to work and not at the 11th hour.

Though we have the accepted definition of what is an "exigency" as per guidelines for Policing in England and Wales, the Gibraltar Police Federation will also be obtaining professional and legal opinions on the firm definition of what is/constitutes an "exigency".
If required we will challenge these through the courts.

Dear Minister –

I refer to the below thread from the Gibraltar Police Federation. They are seeking to replace the two current convenors who are retiring in the next few months. You will recall when we last met that I raised some concerns on the convenors' motivations and you agreed you would be raising these with the CM with the view of considering whether their conditions merited review. I am gently nudging you to remind you of these concerns and that I am happy to discuss these further with you and the CM at your convenience.

Dear CM & MoJ
It is my understanding that the Gibraltar Police Federation Board have already communicated the news to you that they have conducted an election amongst themselves of who the next two full time convenors will be after the retirements of the incumbents Anna Jones and Henry Bautista later on this year (3 & 4 months away respectively).

I refer you to the below email from Henry Bautista to the workforce announcing the appointments.

I have concerns with how they have gone about making this 'designate' selection. In my view the process they have followed is quite shambolic and reeks of nepotism. The transparent thing would have been to wait for Anna Jones and Henry Bautista to retire, replace them with two new board members and then have the new board elect a Chairman and Secretary (the convenors). To compound it Frank Barton, another Board member, has voted and then resigned straight away at the same meeting; so in essence three people out of eight Board members have voted who in my view should not have.

The fact that GPF is independent from the RGP does not allow me any locus in their business - they are practically a creature unto their own and therefore prone to issues and malpractices as the one I have highlighted and with no responsible governance.

I would be grateful if I could meet with you both to discuss the matter further as I have serious concerns with how the GPF is manifesting itself with the detrimental effect this is likely to have on the organisation.

With kind regards

Ian

Subject: RE: GPF Survey working Streams - Designate GPF Chairman & Secretary

Dear Henry -

Many thanks for your two emails of yesterday afternoon where amongst other matters you advise me of the selection of the designate Chairperson and designate Secretary to replace you and Anna on both of your retirements later on this year.
You also ask me to release these two officers as soon as possible so that you can commence a process of handing over.

Having closely read the Police Federation Regulations 2018 I must advise you of expressed concerns that I have in connection with the manner these elections have been carried out. Whilst your view will no doubt be that this is a matter for the GPF and not for myself as Commissioner, I am concerned of the adverse impact this may have on the workforce if they feel unrepresented by the current composition of the Board. I will explain my interpretation of these regulations and where my rationale hinges.
I refer you to regulation 5 which I have pasted below for ease of reference.

5. Chairman and secretary of Board.
(1) At its first meeting after election, the Board shall elect a chairman and secretary from among its members.

As I see it, this refers to the election of a full Board and not a partial one – and therefore it follows that the entire Board should be elected every four years on the completion of tenure of the two convenors. According to the law, the election of the Chairman and Secretary should be conducted after the Board has been elected.

The elections you carried out yesterday included both Anna and yourself, two members of the Board that ethically should not have voted for the positions you will leave vacant on your retirement. In my view and in the interests of fairness and transparency, what should have happened is that the new Board should have been elected, including those two [new] members to replace you and Anna, and it should be this 'new' Board that elects its new Chairperson and Secretary. This is certainly what the Regulation above suggests – otherwise, the two new members would (a) not have had a chance to put them names forward for the Chairmanship or Secretary and (b) they have not had a chance to cast their vote to select any of these two posts. To compound what I view as a flawed process, it is my understanding that Insp Frank Barton voted and then straight away resigned from the Board when in essence what should have happened is the reverse and allow for a new elected member to cast his/her vote.

In sum, the process adopted suggests that 3 of the 8 members of the Board, two of which will no longer be members after they retire and one who has resigned after the vote, have improperly involved themselves in the election process of the new Chairperson and Secretary. That this process is in contravention of Regulation 5(1) of the Police Federation Regulations 2018 and it should be rectified internally by yourselves with the membership being advised accordingly.

For these reasons and until I am satisfied that the law has been properly applied in this very important election of Chairperson and Secretary, I am unable to commit to releasing PS Morello and PC Simpson as requested.

I trust you fully understand my standpoint. For the sake of your membership and the proper functioning of the GPF I hope that you obtain clarity immediately.

Please do not take this intervention of mine as anything other than a position of well-intended principle.

Dear Sir

I thank you for your email. In answer to your expressed concerns in connection with the manner these elections have been carried out I can categorically state that the election process was transparent and under current regulations.

For clarity's sake, this matter and the process was thoroughly discussed with the GLO when drafting the Police Federation legislation.

The process is as follows: members of the federation from the floor elect the board members, i.e. Chief Inspectors/inspectors – 2 are selected, Sergeants – 2 are selected, Constables -4 are selected. These 8 form the Federation Executive Board, and from these, the Chairperson and secretary are elected.

The full current board members were present and elected the designate Chair and Secretary and then Mr Frank Barton resigned from the council.

The current board members have that responsibility as they are working alongside all board members and are better suited to select the most suitable candidate from those that apply for the positions.

We have contacted GLO for advice who have agreed that the correct criteria has been applied.

However, they have recommended a meeting with Mr Devincenzi head of the GLO for further clarity.

Should you wish in the meantime to discuss this please advise us when it is most convenient for you.

Subject: RE: GPF Survey working Streams - Designate GPF Chairman & Secretary

Dear Henry -

Many thanks for your two emails of yesterday afternoon where amongst other matters you advise me of the selection of the designate Chairperson and designate Secretary to replace you and Anna on both of your retirements later on this year.
You also ask me to release these two officers as soon as possible so that you can commence a process of handing over.

Having closely read the Police Federation Regulations 2018 I must advise you of expressed concerns that I have in connection with the manner these elections have been carried out. Whilst your view will no doubt be that this is a matter for the GPF and not for myself as Commissioner, I am concerned of the adverse impact this may have on the workforce if they feel unrepresented by the current composition of the Board. I will explain my interpretation of these regulations and where my rationale hinges.
I refer you to regulation 5 which I have pasted below for ease of reference.

5. Chairman and secretary of Board.
(1) At its first meeting after election, the Board shall elect a chairman and secretary from among its members.

As I see it, this refers to the election of a full Board and not a partial one – and therefore it follows that the entire Board should be elected every four years on the completion of tenure of the two convenors. According to the law, the election of the Chairman and Secretary should be conducted after the Board has been elected.

The elections you carried out yesterday included both Anna and yourself, two members of the Board that ethically should not have voted for the positions you will leave vacant on your retirement. In my view and in the interests of fairness and transparency, what should have happened is that the new Board should have been elected, including those two (new) members to replace you and Anna, and it should be this 'new' Board that elects its new Chairperson and Secretary. This is certainly what the Regulation above suggests – otherwise, the two new members would (a) not have had a chance to put them names forward for the Chairmanship or Secretary and (b) they have not had a chance to cast their vote to select any of these two posts. To compound what I view as a flawed process, it is my understanding that Insp Frank Barton voted and then straight away resigned from the Board when in essence what should have happened is the reverse and allow for a new elected member to cast his/her vote.

In sum, the process adopted suggests that 3 of the 8 members of the Board, two of which will no longer be members after they retire and one who has resigned after the vote, have improperly involved themselves in the election process of the new Chairperson and Secretary. That this process is in contravention of Regulation 5(1) of the Police Federation Regulations 2018 and it should be rectified internally by yourselves with the membership being advised accordingly.

For these reasons and until I am satisfied that the law has been properly applied in this very important election of Chairperson and Secretary, I am unable to commit to releasing PS Morello and PC Simpson as requested.

I trust you fully understand my standpoint. For the sake of your membership and the proper functioning of the GPF I hope that you obtain clarity immediately.

Please do not take this intervention of mine as anything other than a position of well-intended principle.

Dear Henry –

I know we are meeting this morning, but I feel that for the record it is important that I respond to you latest email below in response to mine dated 23rd January.

Unfortunately I do not think you grasp the essence of my email and observations. In a nutshell, I am advising you that the elections you have recently carried out have NOT been in compliance with the law – particularly with regards to Reg 5 and the Schedule mentioned in Reg 4. The law as I see it is very clear on how these elections have to carried out and how the Chairperson and Secretary are elected at its first meeting of the after the Board is elected in an AGM. This has simply NOT taken place.

As regards the legal advice you allude to, I also challenge that, and therefore would ask you to present this advice in writing so that I am in a better position to assimilate the matter.

Look forward to a constructive and positive meeting today.

IN THE MATTER OF POLICE FEDERATION REGULATIONS 2018 – ELECTION OF CHAIRMAN AND SECRETARY OF THE FEDERATION BOARD

ADVICE

1. INTRODUCTION

1. I understand that the incumbent Chairman and Secretary of the Gibraltar Police Federation (the "GPF") are due to retire in April 2019 and March 2019, respectively. Consequently at an executive board meeting on 22 January 2019, the incumbent Federation Board (the "Board") balloted for the upcoming positions of Chairman and Secretary (full time conveners of the GPF). Following the election, a member of the Board resigned.

2. I understand that the Chairman of the Board communicated these elections to the Commissioner of Police and requested that the new officers taking on the position of Chairman and Secretary be released from their current roles and duties as soon as possible to allow for a hand over.

3. The Commissioner of Police is of the view that the election of Chairman and Secretary to the Board has not been carried out in accordance with the Police Federation Regulations 2018 (the "2018 Regulations") and, as a result, is unable to release the new officers from their duties.

4. I have, therefore, been asked by the Commissioner of Police to advise whether the procedure adopted by the Board in the election of the new Chairman and Secretary to the Board was in accordance with the 2018 Regulations.

2. CONCLUSION

5. The election of the new Chairman and Secretary to the Board was not in accordance with the procedure laid down in regulation 5(1) of the 2018 Regulations.

3. ANALYSIS

Legal Provisions

6. I set out below the relevant provisions of the 2018 Regulations for ease of reference.

7. Regulation 4 of the 2018 Regulations entitled "The Board" provides:

> "(1) The governing of the Police Federation shall be the Federation Board (the "Board").
> (2) The Board shall consist of-

(a) two officers of the rank of inspector or chief inspector;
(b) two sergeants; and
(c) four constables.

(3) Elections to the Board shall be conducted in accordance with the Schedule.

(4) A person elected in accordance with the Schedule shall remain a member of the Board for a period of four years unless he-

(a) ceases to be a member of the Force;
(b) ceases to hold the rank in respect of which he was qualified to be elected;
(c) resigns as a member of the Board by notice in writing to the Board; or
(d) is removed by the members of the GPF in accordance with subregulation (7).

(5) If there is a vacancy in the Board, the Board may nominate a member of the Federation of the appropriate rank to fill such vacancy until the next election of the Board…." (my emphasis).

8. Regulation 5 of the 2018 Regulations entitled "Chairman and Secretary of Board" provides:

"(1) At its first meeting after election, the Board shall elect a chairman and secretary from among its members.

(2) A person elected as chairman and secretary shall hold office for a period of four years unless he-

(a) ceases to be a member of the Force;
(b) resigns from the position by notice in writing to the Board; or
(c) is removed from the office in accordance with subregulation (5)…." (my emphasis).

9. Regulation 6 of the 2018 Regulations governs the procedure at Board meetings. Regulation 9 of the 2018 Regulations governs the procedure for an Annual General Meeting of the Federation, which shall be held every year, while regulation 10 provides for Extraordinary General Meetings.

10. The Schedule to the 2018 Regulations provides the procedure for Elections to the Board, which includes compiling a list of eligible members, nominations and polls.

Election of Chairman and Secretary

11. The election of Chairman and Secretary of the Board is governed by regulation 5(1) of the 2018 Regulations, set out in full at para 8 above.

12. In essence, regulation 5(1) of the 2018 Regulations requires that a general election of members of the Board be held in accordance with the Schedule to the 2018 Regulations (regulation 4(3) of the 2018 Regulations) prior to the election of the chairman and secretary. The new Board then elects a Chairman and Secretary from among its members.

13. Given the facts set out in paragraph 1 above, it is clear that this procedure has not been followed. Indeed, the incumbent Chairman and Secretary have not yet resigned in accordance with regulation 5(2)(b) of the 2018 Regulations. They have both balloted, along with the incumbent members of the Board, at an executive board meeting for the positions of Chairman and Secretary. This is contrary to regulation 5(1) of the 2018 Regulations.

14. As a final note, regulation 5 of the 2018 Regulations, unlike regulation 4(5), is silent on what happens after the chairman and secretary resign etc. before the 4 year term in accordance with regulation 5(2). Regulation 4(5) for instance, allows the Board to nominate a member to fill the vacancy until the next election of the Board, following a resignation etc. of a member of the Board. The same provision is not found in regulation 5 of the 2018 Regulations. Accordingly, regulation 5(1) requires a general election of members of the Board where the chairman and/ or secretary resign etc. before the 4 year term.

REF: Gibraltar Police Federation ("GPF") – Police Federation Regulations 2018 ("the Regulations") – election of Chairman and Secretary of the Board of the Federation.

---

1. I am instructed by Henry Bautista ("HB") and Anna Jones ("AJ"), currently the Chairman and Secretary respectively of the GPF, on behalf of the GPF, to advise the GPF on a number of issues that have arisen in relation to the election of their replacements as Chairman and Secretary.

Background and facts

2. The GPF was established under section 49 of the Police Act 2006 ("the Act"), as substituted by section 3 of the Police (Amendment) Act 2018. The GPF replaced the "Police Association" established under the previous iteration of S.49 of the Act.

3. The Regulations, made under s. 79(3) of the Act , as amended by the Police (Amendment) Act 2018 came into effect on 21 June 2018.

4. HB and AJ were the duly elected Chairman and Secretary of the now abolished Police Association, and hold the same offices in the GPF (as do members of the Board) by virtue of the transitional provisions in regulation 19 of the Regulations.

5. HB and AJ will cease to be members of the RGP (on retirement) with effect 22 May 2019 and 20 April 2019 respectively. Each has annual and accumulated leave which means that they will be on a period of leave before retirement date, but I do not think that that alters the effective date on which they cease to be members of the RGP.

6. In anticipation of their so ceasing to be members of the RGP, and thus vacating their seats on the Board and their respective offices of chairman and secretary, the Board purported to elect, on a designate basis, replacements from among the remaining members of the Board, to hold the offices of chairman and secretary ("the Elections").

7. Having done so, they requested the Commissioner of Police ("COP") to release the designate appointees from their current responsibilities within the RGP to be transitioned into their new posts in the GPF. The chairman and secretary of the GPF are full time conveners of the GPF by operation of law (reg. 5(3) of the Regulations). The COP has refused to release the designated appointees on the basis that they have not yet been properly appointed to those offices in the GPF.

8. The view has been expressed that on the proper legal interpretation of reg. 5 of the Regulations, upon the cessation of the chairman and/or the secretary the entire Board of the GPF must dissolve and new elections must be held for all Board members ("the View Expressed").

Advice sought

9. My opinion has been requested on three issues, namely:

   9.1 Is the View Expressed correct?
   9.2 Were the Elections flawed and therefore invalid?
   9.3 Was the COP entitled to refuse to release the designate appointees to be full time conveners of the GPF?

   I will answer each of these questions in turn.

Is the View Expressed correct

10. In my opinion, and for the reasons explained in paragraphs 11 to 22 below, there is no basis in law or in any principle of statutory interpretation for the View Expressed, and there is no realistic prospect that a court would sustain it. It is, in my opinion and with respect to those who have expressed it, wrong.

11. By virtue of the transitional provisions in regulation 19, the Board members and HB and AJ hold their respective offices in the GPF on the basis that they are deemed to have been elected "under these Regulations until the expiry of the period for which they were elected" to their respective positions in the Police Association. Accordingly, the Board members and the chairman and secretary hold their office (for whatever period was left on 21 June 2018 of their mandate in the Police Association) on the terms of the Regulations and the amended Act.

12. Reg. 5(2) of the Regulations provides that the chairman and secretary shall hold office for a period of four years unless he/she ceases to be a member of the RGP, resigns or is removed. Similar provisions apply to members of the Board under regulation 4(4). In respect of the Board members and office holders to which the above transitional provisions relate, the period of four years referred to in regulations 5(2) and 4(4) is substituted by whatever period was left on 21 June 2018 of their mandate in the Police Association.

13. It is clearly the intention of the law that the chairman and secretary of the GPF be appointed by the Board from among its members (reg 5(1)). For the reasons set out in paragraph 11 above there is already a properly constituted Board under the Regulations.

14. The View Expressed includes the proposition (indeed it is fundamentally based on it) that "regulation 5(1) requires a general election of members of the Board where the chairman and/or secretary resign etc before the 4 year term". This supposedly because as regulation 5(1) says that "at its first meeting after election, the Board shall elect a chairman and secretary from among its members", it is necessary for there to be new elections for the entire Board so that there can be a "first meeting" of the Board at which to elect a chairman and secretary (at its first meeting). In other words, that there must be new Board elections so that the meeting at which the Board elects the new chairman and secretary is its "first meeting".

15. There is nothing in the Regulations or in any applicable principle of law or statutory interpretation that would sustain this remarkable proposition, or the argument on which it is based.

16. Indeed, if the argument were correct, it would result in the remarkable, and obviously incorrect and unintended consequence, that every time a chairman or secretary ceased to be a member of the RGP (whether on death, retirement or dismissal), was removed from office under the provisions for that in the Regulations or simply resigned from the position by notice in writing to the Board, the entire Board would have to be dissolved and new elections would have to be held for all Board member positions. That is an absurd result. In my opinion, a court will not interpret the Regulations to that effect.

17. Applying applicable general legal principles, if there is a vacancy in an office in respect of which a Board has the power of appointment, then that same Board has the power of appointment to fill any vacancy that may arise in that office.

18. It needs to be borne in mind that a person could resign from the post of chairman or secretary without resigning as a member of the Board. They are separate things. So, prior to the effective date of ceasing to be members of the RGP (e.g. during their period of pre-retirement leave) HB and/or AJ could resign as chairman/secretary and remain on the Board until the effective date of ceasing to be members of the RGP. There could be no legal objection to them, in those circumstances, forming part of the Board that appoints new chairman and/or secretary because they would still be eligible and valid Board Members.

19. Furthermore, the Regulations are clear about the length of the mandate of Board members, the circumstances in which the Board is dissolved, how often and how elections of the Board must occur and how any vacancies in Board members that may occur in the meantime may be filled. It is not legally admissible to superimpose on those provisions, by stint of an impossibly strained interpretation of regulation 5(1), an additional circumstance in which the whole Board must be re-elected and which the legislature has simply not stipulated.

20. So, the Board member regime is as follows:

(1) The first Board members are transitioned from the Police Association Council for whatever period was left on 21 June 2018 of their mandate in the Council of the Police Association (reg. 19);

(2) A general election of members of the Board must be held every four years at an annual general meeting (paragraph 1(1) of the Schedule to the Regulations);

(3) If there is a vacancy in the Board in the meantime, the Board "may" (i.e. it does not have to) nominate a member of the GPF of the appropriate rank to fill such vacancy until the next election of the Board (reg. 4(5)); and

(4) An act of the Board is not affected by the fact that there is an unfilled vacancy in the Board (reg. 4(7)) and the continuing members of the Board may act notwithstanding any vacancy in the Board (reg. 6(7)).

21. Accordingly, it is my strongly held opinion that upon HB and AJ (or any chairman or secretary in the future) ceasing to be members of the RGP they cease to be both holders of that office and members of the Board. The remaining Board members may then:

(1) Elect a new chairman and secretary from among their number; and
(2) May (but are not obliged to) appoint new persons of the appropriate rank to replace them on the Board. I would advise the GPF to replace outgoing Board members, despite the provisions cited above that are permissive (but not mandatory) and which allow the Board to function without such appointments (subject to their being a quorum). The reason for my advice in this respect is that regulation 4(1) says that the Board of the GPF "shall" consist of the numbers and ranks therein specified. It might be argued that a gratuitous refusal of the Board to appoint new members within a reasonable period of time might breach this regulation.

22. The point has also been made that, to be valid, an election of new chairman and secretary from among the Board members must take place after the appointment by the Board of replacement Board members to fill the vacancy created by the separate vacation of the Board seats held by the outgoing chairman and secretary. I do not think that the legal validity of an election of new chairman and secretary depends on that, since there appears to be no compulsion to appoint replacements within any period of time, and in any event there are the cited provisions validating the acts of the Board regardless of the existence of vacancies on the Board. But whatever may be its legal status, the point is otherwise attractive, and the Board may well wish to consider choreographing things in that order.

23. There is nothing in the Act or the Regulations capable of being correctly interpreted to mean that if there is a vacancy in either the chairman or secretary the entire Board must resign and submit to general elections before a chairman and secretary can be validly appointed.

Were the Elections flawed and therefore invalid?

24. It is not so much a case of the Elections being flawed or invalid, as of there not yet having been any appointments.

25. There is currently no vacancy in the offices of chairman and secretary, and so the Board does not have the power to make an appointment to those offices.

26. In principle, it is not legally objectionable for a body that has a power of appointment of an officeholder to select a future appointee on a designate basis in anticipation and in preparation for the cessation of the incumbent in that office. But designation and appointment are different things. Nor can such a designation be legally binding, since the power of appointment has not yet arisen.

27. But the Board is free, and indeed, if it wants to appoint the designated persons, it must, meet to ratify the designation by making a formal election decision (and thus appoint) the new office holders once the cessation of HB and/or AJ is effective.

28. In my opinion, if the Board does what is stated in paragraph 27 above, the appointments will be legally valid and binding. It will make no difference to that that HB and AJ participated in the initial designation decision, because that is not the appointment, and the remaining Board members, when they meet to make the appointment to fill the vacancies in chairman and secretary after their retirement are not bound to appoint the designated persons, and may appoint different persons.

29. The view has also been expressed that it is somehow objectionable that a member of the Board voted and then immediately resigned from the Board. In my firmly held opinion, this is legally unobjectionable. Until a member resigns from the Board he is entitled to vote on any and every matter that comes before the Board for decision. The fact that when he voted he had the firm intention to resign immediately or shortly thereafter is legally irrelevant.

Was the COP entitled to refuse to release the designate appointees to be full time conveners of the GPF?

30. In my opinion the COP was fully entitled to refuse to release from their existing duties in the RGP the designated appointees to replace HB and AJ as chairman and secretary, respectively, for the reasons explained above, namely, as there is currently no vacancy in those offices, no-one can have been appointed to fill those vacancies. In those circumstances, the provisions of regulation 5(3) which makes appointees to the office of chairman and secretary full time conveners of the GPF by operation of law, has not yet been engaged.

31. That said, I do not think that the COP is entitled not to release appointees until he is "satisfied that the law has been properly applied" in the election of chairman and secretary. The law says that the persons appointed by the Board are full time conveners. Any possible irregularity in the procedures of the GPF is an internal matter for the GFP and its members, any one of who could challenge a decision of the Board on grounds of irregularity of procedure. But that is a matter for members of the GFP and the courts, not a matter upon which the law gives the COP a power to adjudicate by withholding appointees. The COP does not have the power to decide on the legality of the GPF's internal procedures.

32. Before concluding this opinion note, I would like to bring one further matter to the attention of those instructing me.

33. I have been informed by HB and AJ that in the Police Association, appointments to the Council were of staggered duration in order to ensure continuity. I do not think that this system works under the Regulations, which seem to me to envisage elections for the whole Board every four years.

34. I am supported in this view by the following provisions of the Regulations:

    (1) Reg. 5(1) – "At its first meeting after election, the Board.....";
    (2) Para 1(1) of the Schedule to the Regulations- "A general election of the members of the Board must be held every four years.....": and
    (3) The general provisions of the Schedule.

35. In my opinion, the proper interface between (i) the transitional appointment of Police Association Council appointees to the Board of the GPF and (ii) the above provisions requiring elections to the Board every four years, is the following:

(1) Transitioned Board members' appointments last until the expiry of whatever period was left on 21 June 2018 of their individual mandate in the Police Association Council ("the remaining period");

(2) When a Board Member's remaining period expires his position on the Board automatically expires and his seat is vacant. The Board may, and in my opinion should, fill that vacancy from the appropriate rank. The Board could appoint the vacating member or someone else. Any person so appointed to fill a vacancy will serve only until the next elections for the whole Board.

(3) No later than four years from 21 June 2018 (and every four years thereafter) there have to be elections for the whole Board.

(4) On its first meeting after each such elections, the newly elected Board meets and elects a chairman and secretary from among its members, to serve for four years.

(5) This will put an end to the staggering of appointments as occurred in the Council. A continuation of that practice will require appropriate amendments to the Regulations.

Sir

I am intending to send the email below along with the attachment this morning.

Before doing so, I would like you to have sight of this and I invite your comments.

Also, the GPF will need to select a date and time for the EGM and I think that in order to ensure there are sufficient members present, it would be wise to hold the EGM during a working day rather than after work. Perhaps at 3pm? I seek your approval for this also.

John

All

On Wednesday when I sent you all an email I was offering an opinion, which whilst unsupported by legislation, nonetheless felt morally appropriate. I felt that before selecting two new conveners, the Executive Board should have sought our opinion as Federation members.
I was told that the legislation did not require them to do so. But I was of the opinion that whether it was required by law or not, it was appropriate to seek the views of the Federation members before making such an important decision. It was more a case of it being the right way to approach this; the moral way to do things, than anything else.
It was on this basis that I sought your support and I am pleased to say with 37 people writing to support me, I have successfully secured an EGM (Extraordinary General Meeting) where the Executive Board will have to hear our opinions. The date and time will be set by the Executive Board in due course.
I have now read the relevant legislation in detail and I am, formally challenging what the Executive Board have done. Having interpreted the legislation, I have attached an information leaflet which explains some important information that you as Federation members all need to understand. I urge you to read this leaflet.
I hope that after reading the leaflet you will all fully understand the situation.
If you agree with me that the Executive Board should be dissolved with immediate effect; giving us all the opportunity to elect a new Executive Board under the new legislation and subsequently giving us all an opportunity to have an input in the selection of the new Chairman and Secretary (convener roles) from that new Executive Board. Please reply to me accordingly.

If enough of you respond to me now, it may be that the Executive Board will agree to stand down without forcing an EGM.

If an EGM is held, as many of you as possible will need to attend in order to have this motion passed.
It may be that a motion of no confidence in the Executive Board will need to be tabled at the EGM.
On a final note, just in case anyone thinks I have any ulterior motive, I want to assure you that I have no desire or intention to be either a member of the Executive Board or a convener. I am just determined to ensure that those who fulfil these roles, do so correctly and in the best interests of all of us. Anyone who knows me knows that if I see something is wrong, I don't sit around complaining about it, I do something about it.

There are people who make things happen, there are people who watch things happen, and there are people who wonder what happened.

COP	Difficult conversation needs to be had. RGP as institution not as individuals Bit of a mess
HB	Your opinion. It has been done legally
COP	2015 call from Lloyd Devincenci and prev email 'its important' wanted to call HB tomorrow (today) You need to listen to the legal advice from Lloyd to COP and take legal advice from FED lawyers. Govt can ask questions of the Fed, not wanting to meddle but needs to see things done properly
HB	I take offence
COP	4(3) read out - elections
HB	I agree with everything mentions transitional arrangements under 19
COP	You are barking up the wrong tree, go and consult your own lawyers, an inch away from writing to membership direct. I am on solid footing. Have serious concern about conduct of Fed.
AJ	We will be writing to membership and hold an EGM
HB	We were elected under old regs in 2016 therefore in office until 2020 under transitional regs.
COP	As you have been in office for over 4 years you need to be elected under an AGM
AJ	LLOYD interpreted it one way then and another now. We will take the legal advice
COP	You need to get your own legal advice not take mine. LLOYD represents the Govt. Let's call LLYOD. If it's not a lie (you have not been given advice) or at least tried to mislead me, how did you think that you were going to get away with it. You will not ride over the office of the COP I warned you before Christmas when you emailed about the board forcing you to do it when the board (after speaking to them) denied this.
AJ	You are saying we had not sought advice (heated) and we HB had from Nadia
CY	No he said you had not received advice
COP	The GPF have not received advice. Email read.
HB	You are mixing things up. What they said is (interrupted) are you giving me the caution? Called Nadia, she said she shouldn't really be doing this as tied up with Brexit. She looked at it, and said you are right, it is a bit ambiguous, we discussed the intention when law was drafted and the intention to have continuity. I brought up the schedule which says every 4 years, I think diremos that the COP has a point. She made ref to the transitional arrangements.
COP	Shows email from LLYOD yesterday (LLYOD not available for call - LD) COP calls mobile. 58008266 0934Hrs. I had sent a copy of HB's email to lawyer.
HB	Last AGM as council in 2016 for term of 4 years.
COP	Receives call from Yvette Sanguinetti -speakerphone, (Lloyd) Nadia Sissarello here too.
NADIA	Yesterday HB called me and briefed me briefly, but advised New board that elected chairman and secretary, discussed having an EGM but it board which chose Chair and Sec. Once You and Anna stepped down the new board would elect, BUT informal advice and need to speak to Lloyd or Yvette.
HB	I agree. What I said is we elected Chair and Sec

Lloyd	Intervening - I read email and your email gives a different impression and what we said is not what you said in your email and I find this problematic.
COP	We are working constructively to resolve this today.
HB	Your tactic is to ...
COP	The bottom line is we move on from this, let's be sensible. I am holding back to write to workforce. I cannot tell you what to do and suggest you get your own legal advice. I will back down if I am wrong
HB	We are not conniving to get people in, this is what hurts me.
COP	The workforce think that. Break for Christian Rocca - ? Resume later.

Gents - please see below communique that has been pushed out by the GPF with an attachment containing their 'register of electors'. I am surprised that Supt Lopez features in it. I need to hear from Edgar whether he wants to continue being a member of the Command Team - if he does he needs to exclude himself from the list being circulated by the GPF.

All

As stated by the Police Federation Chairman in his email on Friday 25 January 2019, the Federation Board ballot undertaken last week will not stand.

The Police Federation will need to elect a new Executive Board and once formed, the new Executive Board will then decide who the Chairman & Secretary will be.

The current legislation does not require the new board to seek input from the Federation Board membership in making this decision, but I believe that an Executive Board would want to seek your opinions at that time in the interests of all members.

My call for support in this matter resulted in 41 responses and I have attached the anonymised text of these responses to this email for your further information.

There was enough support for my proposal to call an EGM and the Police Federation Chairman has therefore approached me and offered to call an EGM forthwith.

However, given that an AGM has now been scheduled for Wednesday 22nd May 2019; at which point the arrangements for establishing a new Executive Board will be discussed, the Chairman and I discussed the possibility of holding off on the EGM and tabling my motions at the AGM.

For clarity, I am intending to table the following motions at the AGM:

1) That the legislation should be amended to allow for all members of the Police Federation to vote for the convener roles (Chairman and Secretary) – these amendments must be completed before the formation of the next Executive Board in 4 years' time.

2) That on this occasion, as the legislation will not be amended in time, that the Executive Board should seek input from all members of the Federation and take these opinions in to account when deciding who to appoint as Chairman and Secretary for the next 4 years

I hope you all agree with me that it seems illogical to hold an EGM now to discuss one issue, when said issue can be tabled and voted on at the AGM and dealt with just as effectively, alongside other related matters.

If anyone disagrees, and wishes to push for the EGM that we are entitled to demand at this stage, then please let me know and I will raise this with the Chairman.

Also attached to this email is a Q&A that I have devised to ensure that everyone is clear about what will be happening over the next few weeks and how it affects us all.

I urge you to read this Q&A and consider the content carefully.

Paul - many thanks. I thought as much. The PSA are also full time sort of conveners and they don't get the extra remuneration. Their Fed is quite big in terms of member numbers. They are also putting their careers on hold for the cause and not getting financially compensated. Food for thought.

Thanks.

Dear Maurice,

I am saddened at the tone of your email to Mr Richardson and at the remarks that you suggest that the Command are interfering and are being intrusive towards Federation business. This is wholly untrue and I hope that your remarks which show the systematic intent to damage the relationship between the Command and the Federation are yours only and not that of other members. It was certainly not the case yesterday when we met the Chairman and the Secretary, where the Chairman subsequently thanked the Commissioner for a very positive meeting.

Furthermore, your mere suggestion that it is only the Federation that are acting in good faith is totally uncalled for, particularly with all the work that is currently being done to facilitate AAP's visit to The RGP. I have spent the past few days collecting information for them when I could have been doing other pending business which is as equally important.

What I will apologise for is the fact that you may have been called down for the work streams on your day off, when I did ask those coordinating it to avoid people coming to work on their days off. This equally may have been considered, but was an impossible task.

Again, I reiterate the Command's position as one of working together with the Federation in order to improve the internal and external service delivery of the service. After all, we are first and foremost all police officers fighting the same cause.

Enjoy your well earned rest day.

Best wishes

Assistant Commissioner.

On both of the that dates you suggested I was on my well earned rest days but nevertheless I agreed to attend this pre-meeting as a gesture of good faith. However, having thought about this overnight the gestures of good faith only seem to be on the part of the Fed members and of late all we have seen by Command is interference and intrusiveness in Federation matters. As a result I have taken the decision not to attend any AAP meetings planned outside of my working hours and as a result if you want my attendance at this meeting I am afraid you will have to reschedule this for when I am on duty.

Subject: RE: Elections

Sir

Please see below. I am planning to send this to Anna & Henry ASAP and then see how they respond before going out to the wider membership.

John

Anna/ Henry

I am giving you both a heads up out of respect, but I'm sorry to say that I do not agree with your interpretation of the legislation in two key areas.

Term of office

Section 19.(1) says:

The persons elected to be members of the Police Council immediately prior to the commencement date shall, on the commencement date, be deemed to have been elected as members of the board under these regulations until the expiry of the period for which they were elected.

The purpose of this section is to allow serving council members to remain in situ rather than having to be immediately replaced on the commencement date.

The purpose of this section is not to allow members to serve for 4 years instead of 3. In fact it is very clear that they may only serve for the period for which they were elected.

Elected officials cannot decide to remain in office for any longer than the term for which they were elected.

If a government were elected for a term of 3 years and then pushed through legislation which allowed elected members to remain in office for 4 years and then decided that they should all remain in office for 4 years despite only being elected for 3 years. There would be a public outcry. Because this challenges the very concept of democracy.

This is, in effect, what you are doing. The current members of the board were elected under legislation that no longer exists for a term of 3 years. A new piece of legislation has now been passed by government, which you have been instrumental in constructing. This new legislation allows for executive board members to be elected for 4 years instead of 3 but it does not say anywhere that those elected for 3 years can now remain for 4 years. On the contrary, it clearly states 'until the expiry of the period for which they were elected'.

You were all elected for 3 years and as such need to stand for re-election after 3 years of service like any other elected official.

I think it is highly inappropriate for an elected official who was elected for a term of 3 years to stay any longer.

Therefore, I think your list (original below) should read as follows:

Henry Bautista elected March 2016 term ends March 2019 (retiring May 2019)
Anna Jones elected March 2016 term ends March 2019 (retiring April 2019)
Maurice Morello elected October 2016 term ends Oct 2019
Alfred Garcia elected February 2017 term ends February 2020
Albert Fernandez elected June 2018 term ends June 2021
Leif Simpson elected May 2018 term ends May 2021
Lee Pozo elected May 2018 term ends May 2021

Selection of a new board

Furthermore section 5.(1) states

At it's first meeting after election, the board shall elect a chairman and secretary from among it's members

This clearly infers that the board shall be elected together not individually as each of their terms expires.

Furthermore section 1.1 of the schedule states:

A general election of members of the board must be held every four years at an Annual General Meeting.

Again, this clearly infers that the board will be elected together, every four years and serve together for that term.

I have found no reference anywhere in the legislation to the four year transitional period that you mention in your email. There is no justification for holding off an election until 21/06/2022 that I can see.

The time to re-elect the Executive Board is now and I will be calling for support from our membership accordingly.

In summary

In my opinion, this legislation has been poorly written and this has created these issues.

I do not think that replacing individuals as each of their 3 year terms expire is what the legislation intended. I think it intended that a new board should be formed every 4 years but failed to explicitly state how the transition from the old system to the new should be properly managed; which is a failing in the writing of the legislation.

In my opinion, what you need to do is to get out in front of this and not rely on legislation that is open to interpretation to justify your decisions.

Clearly a decision needs to be made as to how to proceed and the answer does not lie in the legislation because the transition has not been properly described.

You can't wait until each 3 year term expires and re-elect. Because the legislation expects all members to be elected together. So at some point a line has to be drawn as to when the full board election will take place.

You can't decide that this date is beyond the term of any of the elected periods – because an elected official cannot remain in post beyond the date they were elected to - and as the two of you were only elected until March this year, you need to hold the full board election in March this year.

I realise that this has personal implications for both of you and this is unfortunate.

But the Police Federation membership have a right to choose a new board now before two new conveners are appointed. They have already made it clear in supporting my call for an EGM that they want a say. If you represent the membership, then you need to listen to what they are saying.

I really don't want to have to call for support for an EGM again.

Please consider what I am saying and try to come up with a solution that gives the members a way to choose a new Executive Board now (or very soon).

I am sure that a two month delay from March to May would be agreeable to members if they get to re-elect a new board now. But a 4 year delay is not acceptable in my opinion and I am sure others will agree.

I agree wholeheartedly!!!!
I agree with you
Totally agree with you
I agree with you views on this matter.
I think you raise a valid point and I am in agreement with it.
Agree with you totally – the members' should be allowed to vote for both posts via a secret ballot
I think you make a very valid point and I am glad someone has spoken up about the. I will back you on this matter.
I agree entirely with you, all members should have a say in such important appointments, not least in the interests of an open and democratic process for all members to have a voice.
I agree with you.
I agree entirely with you.
I agree with you this should be a ballot amongst all the members and not just the board
You have my support in this.
I totally agree and support your points raised.
I agree
I agree with you in principle. Count me in.
Yes I agree with you
I agree with your opinion and would also like the EGM.
I totally agree
Whilst not disagreeing with the choice of the 2 x conveners per se, I fully support your view that the voting system requires to be addressed in a fairer manner.
With regards to your email I am of the same opinion and would at the very least allow our voice to be heard on who should take up the aforementioned roles.
I agree with your proposal, i believe all members of the federation who together represent all officers within the organisation should have each of their voices heard especially for such an important decision.

I agree, it would make sense that as members of the federation, we should have a vote as to who represents us.

I agree, all paying members of the federation should be allowed to vote on who represents us at that level. Not only for this time but future occasions also. Without a force wide vote, the board can make their own arrangements to suit themselves.
I agree in principal. I'm not saying I necessarily disagree with the appointments however I believe the process should be discussed and agreed upon for now and for the future.
You can count on my support.
I am of the opinion that all paying members of the federation should be given the right to vote on who represents us at such a level. Not only for this time but all future occasions.
I agree, members should at least be able to voice their opinion on who takes on such an important role.
I agree that all the members force wide should be able to vote on this decision, not solely the 8 members of the Executive Board.
I agree with this.

Sir, I agree with your comments.
I am in agreement that a decsion such as this, should be one made with consideration of its members, prior to approval.
I agree that the paying members of the federation should be entitled to vote on the representatives that hold positions at this level. It would not be proper for the board to thereby make arrangements that may benefit themselves, without first having listened to the majority by way of a vote.
I agree that all paying members should have a say in who represents them at the highest level of the federation. An open vote, as should be, shows transparency and involvement to all members of the federation – something which has not been previously granted.
I am in an agreement with yourself. I believe all members should be able to vote.
I agree with the concerns raised. As a member of the Federation I believe that we should all have a say when decisions such as these are being made.
I agree with you.
I agree with you.
Whilst I have no qualms with who has been nominated I do believe, in the interest of fairness, that a more thorough process of election should be followed.
I think what you say makes sense and agree with it. Whilst I'm not 100% sure that all the members have the right to take part in the final selection of the Chairman and Secretary it would make sense for there to be some form of consensus, generated by way of a meeting prior to the decision being made by the executive board. Not sure how this stands legally but it does make sense in my mind.
I agree too that all paying members should have a right to vote who represents us. It is not good practice to go forward with such an important decision without consolidating all paying members first.
Even though I agree with Sgt Morello's appointment as chairman, I am of the opinion that these positions should have been voted for by the federation members and not just the executive board as it has been done.

Dear Minister -
It is unfortunate that I again raise the matter of the Gibraltar Police Federation.

The rebellious attitude being expressed by some of the Executive Board members is doing no-one any favours, quite the contrary it is causing a great deal of strain. It is these same Board members that are insistently pushing for key convenor positions which I am afraid to say will only aggravate the situation. To compound matters we now have conflicting legal advice and my command team and I are concerned this can escalate to a dispute. Their inexperience and rather brash approach to business is evident and they feel on top of the world in terms of power under the new regulations.

My involvement in raising concerns with them on how they are handling their business is now also being questioned and challenged by the GPF's advice. I actually do view my as involvement as justified given the powers conferred on me by sec.33 of the Police Act 2006 whereby it states that I have command, superintendence, direction and control of the Force and shall also be responsible for the efficient administration and government of the Force for proper expenditure of all public monies assigned for expenditure to the Force. The activity being contemplated by the Board is having a potential impact on operational effectiveness and efficiency hence expressing my concerns to them

Underlying all of this is the carrot dangling of the favourable remuneration which the convernors currently enjoy and which the new aspiring convenors are aspiring to - something we have touched upon at our meetings.

For the sake of minimizing this path of negativity & conflict I would like to specifically discuss the GPF with you early next week for 15mins to prevent their toxic approach of causing unsettlement.

Wishing you a nice weekend
Kind regards
Ian

At this point we will have accept there is disagreement with our respective understandings of whether Sir Peter's advice is aligned with my position when I actually see it as otherwise. Hopefully, all this will be cleared up once and for all.

Dear Sir

We had agreed with the initial advice from GLO that we had possibly pre-empted an outcome in relation to the Convenor posts and our voting for the said positions and as I stated this was upheld by the opinion from Sir Peter Caruana.

I explained to you yesterday that we had asked for further legal advice due to the fact that it was our understanding that there would be a transitional period in relation to staggering the board members appointment therefore providing provisions for continuity etc.

However as above we still queried the procedure of the necessity for the whole board to be dissolved and felt that the transitional clause could apply in a manner that enabled the staggering of board members.
To this end we sought a further legal opinion and as I stated yesterday this is how we will proceed in this first AGM after our positions become vacant.

It is at odds only in respect to the transitional period, which is why I opened the meeting with the statement that you were right that we had held the vote for our replacements prematurely.
it nevertheless agrees that by 4 years from June 2018 under the legislation as it stands the full board would be required to stand for re-election at the same time.
We discussed that this was a matter for the new board to lobby for change should that be the will of the board/membership moving forward.

Dear Henry –
I echo your words that yesterday's meeting was a positive one and I hope future ones continue in the same vein.

I have briefly gone through the legal advice produced by the GPF - it is clearly at odds to the one provided by GLO counsel and therefore I am surprised that you opened yesterday's meeting saying that my positon had been found to be correct – it clearly has not according to Sir Peter's advice. Therefore I am going to share your advice with GLO crown counsel and seek further advice from them.

Consequently, I am still not in a position to oblige to the request to release PC Simpson as requested. I will of course revert as soon I have obtained the necessary clarity on the matter.

Dear Sir

Thank you for today's meeting.

I believe it was a good one. We seem to be slowly progressing and obviously, I am determined to continue with the momentum until everyone is back on track and closely working together.

As you may be aware, I have released our communique to the members and have explained to them the GPF's way forward, as discussed.

I understand that you are not now in a position to release anyone, but just for clarity's sake, can you please confirm if you will be able to kindly release Mr Leif Simpson as from the 20th April till the 22nd May 2019 (after Anna has finished and until we have held the AGM).
As we informed you, Mr Simpson, was unanimously elected as "Designate Secretary" for the transitional period, so that there will be a continuity element with the Federation's affairs and in preparation for my departure, until the new board and convenors are constituted.

Thanking you for your kind attention to this matter.

Sir,

Indeed, I don't think he realises what we are asking for.

I can arrange for us to meet KT next week if you so wish, though we need to move fast and Karl is not the best for moving quick. Will arrange with him and put some urgency on him.

Henry

Thank you for the detailed reply and sight of the legal opinion from Mr Caruana; which was very interesting.

However, with respect, you have still not convinced me on this important issue. As a member of the GPF, it is my intention to challenge you on this point via an EGM and to call for the support of the wider membership ASAP to call said EGM.

My rationale is as follows:

Regardless of whether or not the Chief Minister, the Minister for Justice, the Commissioner of Police or indeed anyone else may have understood your appointments to have been changed from 3 years to 4 years during your negotiations/ discussions in recent years, the people who matter are the electorate; the members of the Federation who you serve.

The question is not whether or not those making decisions behind the scenes understood/ expected/ anticipated that you would remain for 4 years instead of 3. But whether the people who put you in that position in the first place understood that fact at the point you were elected.

Can you provide me with any evidence that on electing the eight current Executive Board members, those voting were explicitly informed that they were electing these persons for 4 years rather than 3?

Furthermore, even if you are able to provide such evidence, I question whether, in the absence of any supporting legislation, which allowed for the appointments to be for 4 years as opposed to 3, whether such evidence is even meaningful.

Just as you are using the current legislation to justify your current course of action, the flip side of this, is that the prior legislation was the only legislation that was relevant prior to 21/06/2018 and said legislation only allowed for members to be elected for a period of 3 years.

I have also read that Mr Caruana is of the opinion that the new board does not need to be formed until 2022. With the utmost respect to Mr Caruana, how can it possibly be legal for persons appointed for a period of 3 years to effectively be allowed to remain for up to 7 years simply because new legislation has been introduced. With the greatest respect to this opinion, and in the absence of clear legislation, I am of the opinion that the new executive board should have been appointed as soon as practicable after the 21/06/2018. Therefore this should happen now or very soon. Not in 4 years; this makes no logical sense at all.

Once again, I am at pains to point out that the legality of the issue is less relevant than the spirit of the appointment. What is it that the board are so afraid of? If you feel that you have the support of the membership, then there will not be a problem being re-elected. If you fear that you may not be re-elected; then clearly you doubt whether you have the trust of the electorate; in which case surely you would want to step down anyway. What would be the point of being a member of an Executive Board whose sole purpose is to serve the wider membership if that wider membership don't want you?

I very much question the legality of what you are doing. But even if I am wrong and I were to be legally proven to be wrong, the fact remains that the eight members of the Executive Board were elected to serve the membership of the GPF. From a moral perspective, surely you must see that being challenged on this point is indicative of an issue between the Executive Board and those they serve (the membership) and that being the case, you should want to reassure the membership of your commitment to serving them according to what they want from you rather than what the law allows you to do.

Please re-consider your standpoint on this. By all means run this by Mr Caruana as well. Please revert ASAP. As I will need to go out to the membership this week.

Subject: RE: Elections

Dear John,

Let me explain some matters which I believe you are not privy to.

From November 2015 to February 2016, Anna and I (the then Secretary and Chairman of the Gibraltar Police Association) had several negotiating meetings with the Chief Minister and Minister of Justice. The Gibraltar Police Federation legislation draft was already a working document and it was decided by the Government Ministers that we would forthwith be working in the spirit of the new legislation, mirroring conditions of the Police Federation of England and Wales, encompassing the new terms for federation board members, including their appointment of 4 years. The then Commissioner of Police, Mr Yome, was also present in several of these negotiating meetings. Mr Michael Chrome, PA to the Chief Minister for Union Affairs, played a huge part in assisting the creation of the Federation and facilitating our requests.

As requested by the Chief Minister, on the 1st of March 2016, Commissioner Yome, released Anna and I from operational duties after the RGP received two extra officers to the compliment of the Force and an extra Police Sergeant was promoted in lieu of Anna's rank. The convener's posts were also unanimously ratified by all the then members of the Police Association's Council.

HM Government of Gibraltar then appointed Anna and I as full-time conveners and we were provided with premises and a full working office. All purchased by government with an office and expenses grant.

Our board positions and appointment terms were also ratified by the members at the Police Association's AGM held on the 29th June 2016. Since then all successive board members have been duly elected and properly appointed for their ensuing 4 years.

The federation legislation should have been implemented shortly after our appointments (something which I reported continuously through updates to our members) but unfortunately this was delayed until it was passed through Gibraltar Parliament on the 15th of June 2018.
But as we both have attained the retirement age of 55, we have both decided to step down from the board on the 20th of April and 22nd of May 2019 respectively, effectively also retiring from the RGP.

I have attached for your information our legal opinion from Sir Peter Caruana QC which I believe will answer many of your questions. On his recommendations, this is the procedure that the Federation board has unanimously decided and will be taking forward.

I recommend that you please forward your proposed motions to me as previously discussed, so that I may include them in the Federation's AGM agenda, where they will be put forward to the members at the meeting. They will be discussed at the already arranged venue of the John Mackintosh Hall on the 22nd of May 2019.

I have already requested to the Commissioner that time be afforded for all officers who will be on duty that day, could attend the AGM and vote and he has agreed.

Here, before any elections take place, the proposed motions can be discussed/carried by a vote from all members. Obviously ensuring we have a quorum.

If carried, it would then secure a mandate from the floor for the new Federation Board to adhere to and follow.

As already announced there will be three vacancies that will need to be balloted for at the AGM. The respective rank branches will vote for their candidates to complete the new board. As stated in the regulations the new elected board will then elect the new chair and secretary (the new convenors). The constituted new board will remain until June 2022, when all will have to step down from the board and re-elected if they so wished at the AGM.

We thank you for your input and we see that you feel strongly about Federation matters. I encourage you to put your name forward for the vacancy of inspector representative as the Federation board needs good representation of their ranks throughout.

Anna/ Henry

In relation to the email sent to all Police Federation Board members from the Executive Board yesterday and in reply to that email and the below information which was supplied to me this morning by Anna (thanks again).

I am giving you both a heads up out of respect, but I'm sorry to say that I do not agree with your interpretation of the legislation in two key areas.

Term of office

Section 19.(1) says:

The persons elected to be members of the Police Council immediately prior to the commencement date shall, on the commencement date, be deemed to have been elected as members of the board under these regulations until the expiry of the period for which they were elected.

The purpose of this section is to allow serving council members to remain in situ rather than having to be immediately replaced on the commencement date.

The purpose of this section is not to allow members to serve for 4 years instead of 3. In fact it is very clear that they may only serve for the period for which they were elected.

Elected officials in any organisation cannot decide to remain in office for any longer than the term for which they were elected.

If a government were elected for a term of 3 years and then pushed through legislation which allowed elected members to remain in office for 4 years and then decided that they should all remain in office for 4 years despite only being elected for 3 years. There would be a public outcry. Because this challenges the very concept of democracy.

This is, in effect, what you are doing. The current members of the board were elected under legislation that no longer exists for a term of 3 years. A new piece of legislation has now been passed by government, which you have been instrumental in constructing. This new legislation allows for executive board members to be elected for 4 years instead of 3 but it does not say anywhere that those elected for 3 years can now remain for 4 years. On the contrary, it clearly states 'until the expiry of the period for which they were elected'.

You were all elected for 3 years and as such you all need to stand for re-election after 3 years of service like any other elected official.

I think it is highly inappropriate for an elected official who was elected for a term of 3 years to stay any longer.

Therefore, I think your list (original below) should read as follows:

Henry Bautista elected March 2016 term ends March 2019 (retiring May 2019)
Anna Jones elected March 2016 term ends March 2019 (retiring April 2019)
Maurice Morello elected October 2016 term ends Oct 2019
Alfred Garcia elected February 2017 term ends February 2020
Albert Fernandez elected June 2018 term ends June 2021
Lee Pozo elected May 2018 term ends May 2021

Selection of a new board

Furthermore section 5.(1) states

At it's first meeting after election, the board shall elect a chairman and secretary from among it's members

This clearly infers that the board shall be elected together not individually as each of their terms expires.

Furthermore section 1.1 of the schedule states:

A general election of members of the board must be held every four years at an Annual General Meeting.

Again, this clearly infers that the board will be elected together, every four years and serve together for that term.

I have found no reference anywhere in the legislation to the four year transitional period that you mentioned in your email to all members yesterday.

There is no justification, that I have found, for holding off an election until 21/06/2022.

The time to re-elect the Executive Board is now and I will be calling for support from our membership accordingly.

In summary

In my opinion, this legislation has been poorly written and this has created these issues.

I do not think that replacing individuals as each of their 3 year terms expire is what the legislation intended. I think it intended that a new board should be formed soon after the commencement date and every 4 years thereafter, but failed to explicitly state how the transition from the old system to the new should be properly managed; which is a failing in the writing of the legislation.

In my opinion, what you need to do is to get out in front of this and not rely on legislation that is open to interpretation to justify your decisions.

Clearly a decision needs to be made as to how to proceed and the answer does not lie in the legislation because the transition has not been properly described.

You can't wait until each board member's 3 year term expires and re-elect. Because the legislation expects all members to be elected together. So at some point a line has to be drawn as to when the full board election will take place.

You can't decide that this date is beyond the term of any of the elected periods – because an elected official cannot remain in post beyond the date they were elected to - and as the two of you were only elected until March this year, you need to hold the full board election in March this year.

I realise that this has personal implications for both of you and this is unfortunate.

But the Police Federation membership have a right to choose a new board now before two new conveners are appointed. They have already made it clear in supporting my call for an EGM that they want a say. If you represent the membership, then you need to listen to what they are saying.

I really don't want to have to call for support for an EGM again.

Please consider what I am saying and try to come up with a solution that gives the members a way to choose a new Executive Board now (or very soon).

I am sure that a short delay (from March to May for instance) would be agreeable to members; if they get to re-elect a new board now. But a 4 year delay is not acceptable in my opinion and I am sure others will agree.

On a final note, it saddens me that the Police Federation Executive Board are now locked in a dispute with the members they were elected to serve - regarding their own terms of service. Surely you must realise that this disagreement weakens rather than strengthens the Police Federation. As I have said before, the point here goes beyond whether or not you can defend your actions via the legislation. Sometimes, a win is actually a loss. You might win this from a legislative perspective but you are losing the support of those you were elected to serve!

Please give this serious consideration and let me have your thoughts soonest.

Henry

Thank you for the detailed reply and sight of the legal opinion from Mr Caruana; which was very interesting.

However, with respect, you have still not convinced me on this important issue. As a member of the GPF, it is my intention to challenge you on this point via an EGM and to call for the support of the wider membership ASAP to call said EGM.

My rationale is as follows:

Regardless of whether or not the Chief Minister, the Minister for Justice, the Commissioner of Police or indeed anyone else may have understood your appointments to have been changed from 3 years to 4 years during your negotiations/ discussions in recent years, the people who matter are the electorate; the members of the Federation who you serve.

The question is not whether or not those making decisions behind the scenes understood/ expected/ anticipated that you would remain for 4 years instead of 3. But whether the people who put you in that position in the first place understood that fact at the point you were elected.

Can you provide me with any evidence that on electing the eight current Executive Board members, those voting were explicitly informed that they were electing these persons for 4 years rather than 3?

Furthermore, even if you are able to provide such evidence, I question whether, in the absence of any supporting legislation, which allowed for the appointments to be for 4 years as opposed to 3, whether such evidence is even meaningful.

Just as you are using the current legislation to justify your current course of action, the flip side of this, is that the prior legislation was the only legislation that was relevant prior to 21/06/2018 and said legislation only allowed for members to be elected for a period of 3 years.

I have also read that Mr Caruana is of the opinion that the new board does not need to be formed until 2022. With the utmost respect to Mr Caruana, how can it possibly be legal for persons appointed for a period of 3 years to effectively be allowed to remain for up to 7 years simply because new legislation has been introduced. With the greatest respect to this opinion, and in the absence of clear legislation, I am of the opinion that the new executive board should have been appointed as soon as practicable after the 21/06/2018. Therefore this should happen now or very soon. Not in 4 years; this makes no logical sense at all.

Once again, I am at pains to point out that the legality of the issue is less relevant than the spirit of the appointment. What is it that the board are so afraid of? If you feel that you have the support of the membership, then there will not be a problem being re-elected. If you fear that you may not be re-elected; then clearly you doubt whether you have the trust of the electorate; in which case surely you would want to step down anyway. What would be the point of being a member of an Executive Board whose sole purpose is to serve the wider membership if that wider membership don't want you?

I very much question the legality of what you are doing. But even if I am wrong and I were to be legally proven to be wrong, the fact remains that the eight members of the Executive Board were elected to serve the membership of the GPF. From a moral perspective, surely you must see that being challenged on this point is indicative of an issue between the Executive Board and those they serve (the membership) and that being the case, you should want to reassure the membership of your commitment to serving them according to what they want from you rather than what the law allows you to do.

Please re-consider your standpoint on this. By all means run this by Mr Caruana as well. Please revert ASAP. As I will need to go out to the membership this week.

Subject: RE: Elections

Dear John,

Let me explain some matters which I believe you are not privy to.

From November 2015 to February 2016, Anna and I (the then Secretary and Chairman of the Gibraltar Police Association) had several negotiating meetings with the Chief Minister and Minister of Justice. The Gibraltar Police Federation legislation draft was already a working document and it was decided by the Government Ministers that we would forthwith be working in the spirit of the new legislation, mirroring conditions of the Police Federation of England and Wales, encompassing the new terms for federation board members, including their appointment of 4 years. The then Commissioner of Police, Mr Yome, was also present in several of these negotiating meetings. Mr Michael Chrome, PA to the Chief Minister for Union Affairs, played a huge part in assisting the creation of the Federation and facilitating our requests.

As requested by the Chief Minister, on the 1st of March 2016, Commissioner Yome, released Anna and I from operational duties after the RGP received two extra officers to the compliment of the Force and an extra Police Sergeant was promoted in lieu of Anna's rank. The convener's posts were also unanimously ratified by all the then members of the Police Association's Council.

HM Government of Gibraltar then appointed Anna and I as full-time conveners and we were provided with premises and a full working office. All purchased by government with an office and expenses grant.

Our board positions and appointment terms were also ratified by the members at the Police Association's AGM held on the 29th June 2016. Since then all successive board members have been duly elected and properly appointed for their ensuing 4 years.

The federation legislation should have been implemented shortly after our appointments (something which I reported continuously through updates to our members) but unfortunately this was delayed until it was passed through Gibraltar Parliament on the 15th of June 2018.
But as we both have attained the retirement age of 55, we have both decided to step down from the board on the 20th of April and 22nd of May 2019 respectively, effectively also retiring from the RGP.

I have attached for your information our legal opinion from Sir Peter Caruana QC which I believe will answer many of your questions. On his recommendations, this is the procedure that the Federation board has unanimously decided and will be taking forward.

I recommend that you please forward your proposed motions to me as previously discussed, so that I may include them in the Federation's AGM agenda, where they will be put forward to the members at the meeting. They will be discussed at the already arranged venue of the John Mackintosh Hall on the 22nd of May 2019.

I have already requested to the Commissioner that time be afforded for all officers who will be on duty that day, could attend the AGM and vote and he has agreed.

Here, before any elections take place, the proposed motions can be discussed/carried by a vote from all members. Obviously ensuring we have a quorum.

If carried, it would then secure a mandate from the floor for the new Federation Board to adhere to and follow.

As already announced there will be three vacancies that will need to be balloted for at the AGM. The respective rank branches will vote for their candidates to complete the new board. As stated in the regulations the new elected board will then elect the new chair and secretary (the new convenors). The constituted new board will remain until June 2022, when all will have to step down from the board and re-elected if they so wished at the AGM.

We thank you for your input and we see that you feel strongly about Federation matters. I encourage you to put your name forward for the vacancy of inspector representative as the Federation board needs good representation of their ranks throughout.

Subject: RE: Elections

Anna/ Henry

In relation to the email sent to all Police Federation Board members from the Executive Board yesterday and in reply to that email and the below information which was supplied to me this morning by Anna (thanks again).

I am giving you both a heads up out of respect, but I'm sorry to say that I do not agree with your interpretation of the legislation in two key areas.

Term of office

Section 19.(1) says:

The persons elected to be members of the Police Council immediately prior to the commencement date shall, on the commencement date, be deemed to have been elected as members of the board under these regulations until the expiry of the period for which they were elected.

The purpose of this section is to allow serving council members to remain in situ rather than having to be immediately replaced on the commencement date.

The purpose of this section is not to allow members to serve for 4 years instead of 3. In fact it is very clear that they may only serve for the period for which they were elected.

Elected officials in any organisation cannot decide to remain in office for any longer than the term for which they were elected.

If a government were elected for a term of 3 years and then pushed through legislation which allowed elected members to remain in office for 4 years and then decided that they should all remain in office for 4 years despite only being elected for 3 years. There would be a public outcry. Because this challenges the very concept of democracy.

This is, in effect, what you are doing. The current members of the board were elected under legislation that no longer exists for a term of 3 years. A new piece of legislation has now been passed by government, which you have been instrumental in constructing. This new legislation allows for executive board members to be elected for 4 years instead of 3 but it does not say anywhere that those elected for 3 years can now remain for 4 years. On the contrary, it clearly states 'until the expiry of the period for which they were elected'.

You were all elected for 3 years and as such you all need to stand for re-election after 3 years of service like any other elected official.

I think it is highly inappropriate for an elected official who was elected for a term of 3 years to stay any longer.

Therefore, I think your list (original below) should read as follows:

Henry Bautista elected March 2016 term ends March 2019 (retiring May 2019)
Anna Jones elected March 2016 term ends March 2019 (retiring April 2019)
Maurice Morello elected October 2016 term ends Oct 2019
Alfred Garcia elected February 2017 term ends February 2020
Albert Fernandez elected June 2018 term ends June 2021
Lee Pozo elected May 2018 term ends May 2021

Selection of a new board

Furthermore section 5.(1) states

At it's first meeting after election, the board shall elect a chairman and secretary from among it's members

This clearly infers that the board shall be elected together not individually as each of their terms expires.

Furthermore section 1.1 of the schedule states:

A general election of members of the board must be held every four years at an Annual General Meeting.

Again, this clearly infers that the board will be elected together, every four years and serve together for that term.

I have found no reference anywhere in the legislation to the four year transitional period that you mentioned in your email to all members yesterday.

There is no justification, that I have found, for holding off an election until 21/06/2022.

The time to re-elect the Executive Board is now and I will be calling for support from our membership accordingly.

In summary

In my opinion, this legislation has been poorly written and this has created these issues.

I do not think that replacing individuals as each of their 3 year terms expire is what the legislation intended. I think it intended that a new board should be formed soon after the commencement date and every 4 years thereafter, but failed to explicitly state how the transition from the old system to the new should be properly managed; which is a failing in the writing of the legislation.

In my opinion, what you need to do is to get out in front of this and not rely on legislation that is open to interpretation to justify your decisions.

Clearly a decision needs to be made as to how to proceed and the answer does not lie in the legislation because the transition has not been properly described.

You can't wait until each board member's 3 year term expires and re-elect. Because the legislation expects all members to be elected together. So at some point a line has to be drawn as to when the full board election will take place.

You can't decide that this date is beyond the term of any of the elected periods – because an elected official cannot remain in post beyond the date they were elected to - and as the two of you were only elected until March this year, you need to hold the full board election in March this year.

I realise that this has personal implications for both of you and this is unfortunate.

But the Police Federation membership have a right to choose a new board now before two new conveners are appointed. They have already made it clear in supporting my call for an EGM that they want a say. If you represent the membership, then you need to listen to what they are saying.

I really don't want to have to call for support for an EGM again.

Please consider what I am saying and try to come up with a solution that gives the members a way to choose a new Executive Board now (or very soon).

I am sure that a short delay (from March to May for instance) would be agreeable to members; if they get to re-elect a new board now. But a 4 year delay is not acceptable in my opinion and I am sure others will agree.

On a final note, it saddens me that the Police Federation Executive Board are now locked in a dispute with the members they were elected to serve - regarding their own terms of service. Surely you must realise that this disagreement weakens rather than strengthens the Police Federation. As I have said before, the point here goes beyond whether or not you can defend your actions via the legislation. Sometimes, a win is actually a loss. You might win this from a legislative perspective but you are losing the support of those you were elected to serve!

Please give this serious consideration and let me have your thoughts soonest.

Subject: RE: Elections

Anna/ Henry

In relation to the email sent to all Police Federation Board members from the Executive Board yesterday and in reply to that email and the below information which was supplied to me this morning by Anna (thanks again).

I am giving you both a heads up out of respect, but I'm sorry to say that I do not agree with your interpretation of the legislation in two key areas.

Term of office

Section 19.(1) says:

The persons elected to be members of the Police Council immediately prior to the commencement date shall, on the commencement date, be deemed to have been elected as members of the board under these regulations until the expiry of the period for which they were elected.

The purpose of this section is to allow serving council members to remain in situ rather than having to be immediately replaced on the commencement date.

The purpose of this section is not to allow members to serve for 4 years instead of 3. In fact it is very clear that they may only serve for the period for which they were elected.

Elected officials in any organisation cannot decide to remain in office for any longer than the term for which they were elected.

If a government were elected for a term of 3 years and then pushed through legislation which allowed elected members to remain in office for 4 years and then decided that they should all remain in office for 4 years despite only being elected for 3 years. There would be a public outcry. Because this challenges the very concept of democracy.

This is, in effect, what you are doing. The current members of the board were elected under legislation that no longer exists for a term of 3 years. A new piece of legislation has now been passed by government, which you have been instrumental in constructing. This new legislation allows for executive board members to be elected for 4 years instead of 3 but it does not say anywhere that those elected for 3 years can now remain for 4 years. On the contrary, it clearly states 'until the expiry of the period for which they were elected'.

You were all elected for 3 years and as such you all need to stand for re-election after 3 years of service like any other elected official.

I think it is highly inappropriate for an elected official who was elected for a term of 3 years to stay any longer.

Therefore, I think your list (original below) should read as follows:

Henry Bautista elected March 2016 term ends March 2019 (retiring May 2019)
Anna Jones elected March 2016 term ends March 2019 (retiring April 2019)
Maurice Morello elected October 2016 term ends Oct 2019
Alfred Garcia elected February 2017 term ends February 2020
Albert Fernandez elected June 2018 term ends June 2021
Lee Pozo elected May 2018 term ends May 2021

Selection of a new board

Furthermore section 5.(1) states

At it's first meeting after election, the board shall elect a chairman and secretary from among it's members

This clearly infers that the board shall be elected together not individually as each of their terms expires.

Furthermore section 1.1 of the schedule states:

A general election of members of the board must be held every four years at an Annual General Meeting.

Again, this clearly infers that the board will be elected together, every four years and serve together for that term.

I have found no reference anywhere in the legislation to the four year transitional period that you mentioned in your email to all members yesterday.

There is no justification, that I have found, for holding off an election until 21/06/2022.

The time to re-elect the Executive Board is now and I will be calling for support from our membership accordingly.

In summary

In my opinion, this legislation has been poorly written and this has created these issues.

I do not think that replacing individuals as each of their 3 year terms expire is what the legislation intended. I think it intended that a new board should be formed soon after the commencement date and every 4 years thereafter, but failed to explicitly state how the transition from the old system to the new should be properly managed; which is a failing in the writing of the legislation.

In my opinion, what you need to do is to get out in front of this and not rely on legislation that is open to interpretation to justify your decisions.

Clearly a decision needs to be made as to how to proceed and the answer does not lie in the legislation because the transition has not been properly described.

You can't wait until each board member's 3 year term expires and re-elect. Because the legislation expects all members to be elected together. So at some point a line has to be drawn as to when the full board election will take place.

You can't decide that this date is beyond the term of any of the elected periods – because an elected official cannot remain in post beyond the date they were elected to - and as the two of you were only elected until March this year, you need to hold the full board election in March this year.

I realise that this has personal implications for both of you and this is unfortunate.

But the Police Federation membership have a right to choose a new board now before two new conveners are appointed. They have already made it clear in supporting my call for an EGM that they want a say. If you represent the membership, then you need to listen to what they are saying.

I really don't want to have to call for support for an EGM again.

Please consider what I am saying and try to come up with a solution that gives the members a way to choose a new Executive Board now (or very soon).

I am sure that a short delay (from March to May for instance) would be agreeable to members; if they get to re-elect a new board now. But a 4 year delay is not acceptable in my opinion and I am sure others will agree.

On a final note, it saddens me that the Police Federation Executive Board are now locked in a dispute with the members they were elected to serve - regarding their own terms of service. Surely you must realise that this disagreement weakens rather than strengthens the Police Federation. As I have said before, the point here goes beyond whether or not you can defend your actions via the legislation. Sometimes, a win is actually a loss. You might win this from a legislative perspective but you are losing the support of those you were elected to serve!

Please give this serious consideration and let me have your thoughts soonest.

Subject: AGM / EGM Procedure
Attachments: 20190207 PRC Legal Opinion to the GPF.pdf

Dear Colleagues,

Further to our recent email of the 21st February 2019

We respect the fact that any Federation member may request to call for an EGM. The motion must be supported as per legislation. When the EGM takes place and should a quorum vote to pass the motion, that motion will qualify to be tabled at the AGM on the 22nd May 2019, where attendees at the AGM will vote and the motion will be passed or not accordingly.

We would like to recap the following:

- The Federation Board held elections for the designate Chairman and Secretary on the 22nd January 2019 so as to provide continuity and a hand over period nearer to May 2019.

- On the 22nd January 2019 the results of said elections were published to all members.

- On the 23rd January 2019 the Commissioner of Police contested the results and obtained a legal opinion from GLO.

- On the 25th January 2019 we emailed the membership to the effect that those positions will be held unratified until such time as we clarified our position with further legal advice.

- We obtained legal advice and a precis of this advice was communicated to the members on the 21st February 2019.

- Within this advice, it was upheld that the Board had indeed called an election before the posts were in actual fact vacant, therefore voiding the results.

- There are transitional provisions 19(1) of the Police Federation Regulations 2018 that state; transitioned Board members appointments last until the expiry of whatever period was left on the 21st June 2018 of their individual mandate in the Police Association Council (the remaining period)

- The transitional period will terminate 21st June 2022 when all Board members will need to step down from the Board and either be re-elected or new members elected.

- Attached is the full legal advice obtained by the board.

- At this point in time it is the board's decision to follow the attached advice and the procedure for upcoming vacancies to the board which has already been communicated to the members in our email of the 21st February 2019.

Any member requiring any further clarification please contact any of the board members.

Kind regards

The Federation Board

Subject: New Co-opted Gibraltar Police Federation Board Member

Dear Colleagues

As you may be aware, Inspector Frank Barton recently resigned from the Federation Board. This left a vacancy for Inspector/Chief Inspector Representative in the board for this particular rank.

Chief Inspector John Field has since shown interest in joining the Federation board. The Inspectors and Chief Inspectors Branch Board have been consulted and they have supported Mr Field as one of their representatives.

I therefore write to formally inform all our members that Mr Field is being co-opted into the Federation Board until the 22nd May 2019.

This position will be formally advertised for election at the upcoming AGM.

Subject: New Co-opted Gibraltar Police Federation Board Member

Dear Colleagues

As you may be aware, Inspector Frank Barton recently resigned from the Federation Board. This left a vacancy for Inspector/Chief Inspector Representative in the board for this particular rank.

Chief Inspector John Field has since shown interest in joining the Federation board. The Inspectors and Chief Inspectors Branch Board have been consulted and they have supported Mr Field as one of their representatives.

I therefore write to formally inform all our members that Mr Field is being co-opted into the Federation Board until the 22nd May 2019.

This position will be formally advertised for election at the upcoming AGM.

Kind regards

Henry J Bautista

Subject: New Co-opted Gibraltar Police Federation Board Member

Dear Colleagues

As you may be aware, Inspector Frank Barton recently resigned from the Federation Board. This left a vacancy for Inspector/Chief Inspector Representative in the board for this particular rank.

Chief Inspector John Field has since shown interest in joining the Federation board. The Inspectors and Chief Inspectors Branch Board have been consulted and they have supported Mr Field as one of their representatives.

I therefore write to formally inform all our members that Mr Field is being co-opted into the Federation Board until the 22nd May 2019.

This position will be formally advertised for election at the upcoming AGM.

Dear Sir Peter

I write to you to inform you that I received a telephone call from the Commissioner of Police this morning requesting to meet with the remaining members of the board as he has again sought advice from the GLO on your document. He stated that the advice he had received contradicts your legal opinion.

He will be disclosing to us this information together with his proposals on how he sees we should move on this Friday afternoon.

Obviously we will attend this meeting but we will have to revert to you.

As previously advised we will continue to follow as per your instructions.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if you have anything to advise in the meantime.

Kind regards

Dear Sir Peter

Yesterday morning we had a meeting with the Commissioner of Police where we handed to him a copy of your legal opinion.
Please find below email stream for your information, with the Commissioner of Police for your information, after we held the meeting.

It appears, the Commissioner is now going to refer your report to the GLO Crown Counsel and seek further advice from them.

I have also attached for your information our communique to the members of how the Federation would be progressing forward.

Thank you again for your advice. It may be that we may need to call for your services again for a meeting with the Commissioner of Police as previously discussed.

Dear Sir

We had agreed with the initial advice from GLO that we had possibly pre-empted an outcome in relation to the Convenor posts and our voting for the said positions and as I stated this was upheld by the opinion from Sir Peter Caruana.

I explained to you yesterday that we had asked for further legal advice due to the fact that it was our understanding that there would be a transitional period in relation to staggering the board members appointment therefore providing provisions for continuity etc.

However as above we still queried the procedure of the necessity for the whole board to be dissolved and felt that the transitional clause could apply in a manner that enabled the staggering of board members.
To this end we sought a further legal opinion and as I stated yesterday this is how we will proceed in this first AGM after our positions become vacant.

It is at odds only in respect to the transitional period, which is why I opened the meeting with the statement that you were right that we had held the vote for our replacements prematurely.
it nevertheless agrees that by 4 years from June 2018 under the legislation as it stands the full board would be required to stand for re-election at the same time.
We discussed that this was a matter for the new board to lobby for change should that be the will of the board/membership moving forward.

Dear Henry –
I echo your words that yesterday's meeting was a positive one and I hope future ones continue in the same vein.

I have briefly gone through the legal advice produced by the GPF - it is clearly at odds to the one provided by GLO counsel and therefore I am surprised that you opened yesterday's meeting saying that my positon had been found to be correct – it clearly has not according to Sir Peter's advice. Therefore I am going to share your advice with GLO crown counsel and seek further advice from them.

Consequently, I am still not in a position to oblige to the request to release PC Simpson as requested. I will of course revert as soon I have obtained the necessary clarity on the matter.

Dear Sir

Thank you for today's meeting.

I believe it was a good one. We seem to be slowly progressing and obviously, I am determined to continue with the momentum until everyone is back on track and closely working together.

As you may be aware, I have released our communique to the members and have explained to them the GPF's way forward, as discussed.

I understand that you are not now in a position to release anyone, but just for clarity's sake, can you please confirm if you will be able to kindly release Mr Leif Simpson as from the 20th April till the 22nd May 2019 (after Anna has finished and until we have held the AGM).
As we informed you, Mr Simpson, was unanimously elected as "Designate Secretary" for the transitional period, so that there will be a continuity element with the Federation's affairs and in preparation for my departure, until the new board and convenors are constituted.

Thanking you for your kind attention to this matter.

Sir,

A proposed text for the Federation.

Starts:

Summary of Office of Advisory Council advice to the Commissioner:

1) The GPF Board were elected or nominated to the Police Council under the revoked Gibraltar Police Association Regulations [GPAR].
    a. The earliest applicable date is March 2016 when the current Chairman and Secretary were elected.
    b. The transitional provisions of the Police Federation Regulations 2018 [PFR] state the members of the board are deemed to have been elected until the expiry of the period for which they were elected.
    c. The GPAR envisaged elections every three years and the replacement of vacancies by way of nomination and NOT election. Any member "elected" for a three year term other than at the "third year" general meeting would be ultra vires.
    d. There is no amendment by way of Legal Notice to the GPAR extending the three term for which the board would have been elected to four. The PFR refer to the entire Council mandate in the transitional provisions, therefore they are deemed to have been elected or nominated until the end of the three year tenure. The three year tenure expires in March of 2019.
2) The Federation board are only able to elect a Chairman and Secretary if that board is newly constituted following a general election.
    a. The board can nominate to replace vacant positions including those created by the departure of the Chairman and Secretary, but it cannot choose to appoint replacements to those two posts.
    b. It is not an absurd proposition to have the board stand down following the departure of the Chairman and Secretary.
3) The mistaken historical practice of electing replacements to the Council board following individual vacancies (albeit ultra vires) cannot now make the holding of a general election of the entire board absurd.
    a. The board does not have to dissolve following the departure of the Chairman and Secretary within the four year term, but given it cannot replace them it is the implicit outcome.

Ends

We should discuss before this afternoon.

Regards.

The three year tenure expires in March of 2019.
2) The Federation board are only able to elect a Chairman and Secretary if that board is newly constituted following a general election.
    a. The board can nominate to replace vacant positions including those created by the departure of the Chairman and Secretary, but it cannot choose to appoint replacements to those two posts.
    b. It is not an absurd proposition to have the board stand down following the departure of the Chairman and Secretary.
3) The mistaken historical practice of electing replacements to the Council board following individual vacancies (albeit ultra vires) cannot now make the holding of a general election of the entire board absurd.
    a. The board does not have to dissolve following the departure of the Chairman and Secretary within the four year term, but given it cannot replace them it is the implicit outcome.

Ends

Best wishes

I will consult with the Command Team and revert by tomorrow; it may be a good idea to meet up before the end of this week to ratify the arrangements once we agree to them.

I will ask my PA to link up with you to pencil in a meeting for Friday.

Subject: GPF - Proposition on the way forward

Dear Sir

We have now received further legal advice.

Working in the spirit of the legislation requires all sides to agree. Our legal advice has confirmed with you that there is nothing in legislation confirming the four-year board appointment that we have been working on.

Appointments to the board should have been three years as stated.

Our advice nevertheless reaffirms that there is in legislation provision for a transitional period.

The transitional period of the Board members are as follows

Mr Henry Bautista elected in June 2016 term ends June 2019
Ms Anna Jones elected in June 2016 term ends June 2019
Mr Maurice Morello elected in October 2016 term ends October 2019
Mr Alfred Garcia elected in February 2017 term ends February 2020
Mr Albert Fernandez elected in June 2018 term ends June 2021
Mr Lee Pozo elected in June 2018 term ends June 2021

Mr Henry Bautista and Ms Anna Jones were re-elected in June 2016 at the Association's AGM and not in March 2016 as mentioned (they both started their appointed Convenor positions in March 2016).

As they both will be retiring, both their vacancies will be advertised for the AGM together with Inspector Barton's vacancy. (Mr John Field was co-opted by the board until 22nd May 2019) The latter was co-opted by the board and not elected by the members.

I have a really packed day tomorrow but would be able to fit you in at 0900Hrs I am eager to meet asap to resolve the issue. Failing this it would either have to be after 1630Hrs tomorrow or midday on next Monday.
Please advise.

Dear Colleagues,

Further to our recent email:

In December 2018 the Commissioner of Police was informed that Gibraltar Police Federation would be holding elections for the new fulltime Convenors, to replace the retiring Chairman and Secretary. This was done with three months grace so as to allow some continuity and to give notice for the organisation to prepare for the replacement of these individuals. They were to be "Designate", and we would ask for some handover period to facilitate the change of signatories, training for deductions management, etc.

As you are aware, the board held elections on the 22nd January 2019.

Upon notification, the Commissioner queried the results and obtained a legal opinion. This was in essence with regard to whether the Election of the Chairman and Secretary was in accordance with the procedure laid down in regulation 5(1) of the 2018 Regulations.

The conclusion in this legal opinion has been that they were not in accordance with the above regulations, i.e.; that the incumbent Chairman and Secretary were not eligible to vote for their replacements as the vacancies were not in fact available as yet, and would not be until and 22nd May and 20th April 2019 respectively.

Following this advice, the Board have declared the results unratified, and in order to clarify the procedure for the way forward, the Board have sought further legal opinion.

Any Federation member that would like to see this legal opinion can do so by contacting any of the board members or full-time convenors.

It was further upheld in this advice;

- that the Board had indeed called an election before the posts were in actual fact vacant, therefore voiding the results.
- The vacancies are available as from 22nd May and 20th April 2019 respectively, although it is permissible for the Board to fill that vacancy from the appropriate rank, however, this will be only as "designate" until the AGM. At the AGM the three applicants i.e.; Inspector, Sergeant and Constable representatives will be selected. This will complete the new Board. The Board will then, subsequently, elect the new Chair and Secretary. To this end, the Board has unanimously designated Mr Leif Simpson to act as Secretary in the interim period between 20th April and 22nd May 2019.
- There are transitional provisions 19(1) of the Police Federation Regulations 2018 that sate; transitioned Board members appointments last until the expiry of whatever period was left on the 21st June 2018 of their individual mandate in the Police Association Council (the remaining period)
- The transitional period will terminate 21st June 2022 when all Board members will need to step down from the Board and either be re-elected or new members elected.
- Any amendments to these Regulations must be passed through Parliament.

It is noted that under these Regulations, as from the 21st June 2022 if all Board members are required to step down at the same time, whilst unlikely, there could possibly be a situation where there would be no experienced members of the Board.

This would be highly unsatisfactory for both general Members and the Organisation, without continuity for finances, representation of Members during Disciplinary matters, legal advice and Accounts etc.

The procedure for AGM 2019

1. The AGM will be carried out at 1630 hrs on Wednesday 22nd May at John Mackintosh Hall in the Charles Hunt room.
2. The Federation will request the Commissioner so that personnel who are on duty may attend the AGM and be able to vote.
3. Vacancies for an Inspector, a Sergeant and a Constable representative will be advertised shortly and applications invited.
4. Each applicant must be nominated and should be seconded by two Officers in writing before the date of expiry which will be given.
5. Their names will be added to the Agenda and a ballot will be carried out at the AGM (ballots counted in situ and results will be announced in the meeting).
6. Motions previously submitted and included in the agenda will be discussed.
7. The Board may vote the new Chairman and Secretary immediately or meet soon after to consult and ratify those appointments.

A further update will be communicated to you shortly.

Kind regards

Subject: GPF ELECTION RESULTS

Dear colleagues,

I am writing to inform you of the results of the ballot for the GPF board which was conducted at AGM yesterday 22nd May. The new board is now comprised of the following members:

- CI/ Insp rep: John Field, Albert Fernandez
- Sergeant rep: Maurice Morello, Kevin Fortuna
- Constables rep: Leif Simpson, Alfred Garcia, Antony Gaul, Lee Pozo

On selection of the new board these balloted to select the positions of Chairman and Secretary (Full time convenors of the Federation) following the retirement of Henry Bautista and Anna Jones.

Mr Maurice Morello was the only candidate for the post of Chairman. Mr Leif Simpson and Mr Antony Gaul applied for the post of Secretary.

Mr Maurice Morello was duly elected as Chairman and Mr Leif Simpson as Secretary.

I would like to thank all 166 of you who took the time to vote yesterday taking the total percentage of members casting their vote to 73%

Both Chairman and Secretary have now been released by the Commissioner of Police and have started their new positions. As you may or may not be aware there has not been any transitional period between the outgoing and incoming Chairman and Secretary and as a result I ask you to please be patient as there may be issues that are ongoing and that we may not be aware of.

The new Board will meet next week with a view to discussing our short and long term objectives. As I stated yesterday the Federation is much more that the Chairman, Secretary and the board, it is all of us and I encourage any member who has any suggestions or ideas to please put these forward via email so that the Board can consider these (board@gibpolfed.org).

The new board looks forward to working together in partnership with the Commissioner and his team always working in the best interests of the members.

Regards

Dear Dave,

I hope this email finds you well.

In anticipation to your visit next week, I thought I should let you know that both Maurice Morello and Leif Simpson were selected as the new convenors for the Federation.

Unfortunately, we already have doubts about our relationship with them, as we know that their style is not coherent with ours. Needless to say that we will endeavour to forge good relationships, but that we foresee challenges ahead is an understatement, particularly because of Maurice's comments to COP a few month ago.

I am sorry that I will not be here to greet you all, but Mary is at your disposal should you need anything.

With very best wishes.

Dear [redacted]

I expect that [redacted] will reply separately. I am not sure whether you require my views on whether the sentence in red should be included, I think it should. I also note that you suggest that the allowance will increase as if the Convenor were on the Chief Inspector salary scale. Surely the allowance is meant to compensate for the supposed additional workload but not to equalise their salary with that of substantive Chief Inspectors?

I do not agree with your suggestion that we reflect the two current Conveners as supernumerary officers. The term supernumerary implies that there is a temporary nature to the existence of the convenor post. I would prefer that they are reflected as Conveners in the complement. For example [redacted] will never be a supernumerary [redacted] if and when he returns to mainstream policing as he will be immediately replaced as a convener by another officer. The same applies to Morello unless he is replaced by a constable, in which case he will truly be a supernumerary sergeant. In this latter case there would be 36 operational sergeants and one would be supernumerary in the true sense, and would remain so until a sergeant retired or was promoted to a higher rank.

[redacted]

Happy to discuss.

Dear [redacted]

Please see attached draft Convenor Letters for you views and recommendations.

We have also made mention (highlighted in red) within the letter when the remuneration for the Convenor would cease i.e. if the individuals undertaking the role are voted out or step down. Given that the RGP for operational reasons now needs to recruit officers to take up Mr Morello's role as Police Sergeant and [redacted], we recommend that these individuals (namely Morello [redacted]) remain on your complement as a Police Sergeant (Convenor) & [redacted] on a supernumerary basis . Once/ if, Mr Morello [redacted] step down or are voted out from the Convenor position, they should revert to their former grade and the RGP should slot them in the next available position at their current grade, in order to abolish the supernumerary post as soon as possible. We must also note that supplementary funding may need to be requested by the RGP in order to cater for this eventuality.

Grateful for your views on the above. Thanks.

Have a nice weekend.

[redacted] In the UK, police convenors representing their force do not receive any pay increase whatsoever and it is only the national lead for Police Forces in England and Wales who receives this allowance [wage equivalent to that of a Chief Inspector]. He represents over 100,000 officers.

[redacted] is leading on this, but it would be helpful if we could all meet to discuss this further and have a steer that will settle this matter on justified terms. Equally, [redacted] needs clarity too.

I believe it would be prudent at this point in time for HR not to issue the new GPF Convenors with the respective allowance letters, until the matter of remuneration is discussed given the valid concerns raised by the RGP.

Mr Morello and [redacted] were appointed as Convenors on the 22 May 2019 and are constantly chasing me for their Convenor allowance letter. Can I inform them that Government is reviewing the current situation with regards to the Convenor salary?

Subject: OFFICIAL - CONFIDENTIAL Gibraltar Police Federation

Dear Darren –

Yesterday, I met with the CM to discuss the terms and conditions of the role of the two convenors of the Gibraltar Police Federation (GPF). The reason I met with him was because Michael Crome and Min Costa had mentioned that all negotiations for these posts had been personally dealt with by the CM. In this regard, the CM stated that he had only assisted in the forming up of the GPF but that the advice on remuneration and terms had been provided by Michael Crome and the two recently retired convenors themselves. It is the uncertainty of these arrangements that I would like to air out with you.

I would start by dispelling a common misconception held by many, both in RGP management and GPF, that the latter is a totally independent creature of statute. Yes, the GPF has been created in law (Police Act sec 49 & Police Federation Regulations 2018) but there is no reference to the GPF being independent from the RGP - the fact that the conveners continue to have and enjoy all the rights, powers, authorities, privileges and immunities of a constable [reg 5(3) of the Police Federation Regs 2018] clearly suggests that they fall under the governance and superintendence of the Commissioner of Police – there cannot be any interpretation other than this one. What the law does state, however, is that the GPF "shall be entirely independent of and unassociated with any body or person outside the Force" (sec 52(1) Police Act) – the spirit of this being to prevent the GPF from associating with trade unions and the likes. It is evident that this is where the misunderstanding has originated from. The unfortunate misconceived expectation of independence is probably the precursor to a wide range of issues, not least the negotiations that led to the [unwritten] terms and conditions of the two conveners.

You will find out that there is no binding agreement in place to explain what the terms and conditions of the convenors are or indeed the basis on which they were agreed upon, though I do have my theories. What I can say is that RGP management were not consulted at all on these – conditions which in the view of my Command Team and all inspecting ranks (& more) are totally unjustified and unfair. You will grasp the reasons for our dissenting views further along. The question of governance, management and administration of the two conveners is as blurred as blurred as it gets. It would be worthwhile understanding a proper regime of terms and conditions for audit purposes eg, who supervises that conveners' work their required hours? who approves their leave? can they be used as operational officers? who manages any time in lieu? who authorises this ? who keeps an eye on what we suspect are extravagant travel arrangements? etc

In my efforts to reel in and educate the expectations of the GPF I feel duty bound to argue that there is sound rationale for a full review of the terms and conditions of the conveners. My argument is evidence based and whilst the CM saw much logic in them he felt the need to step back and leave these to your adjudication. I feel it is only proper that the CM adopts this stance and therefore I will articulate my argument for your subsequent perusal and consideration. His views though were that whilst the previous two conveners did enjoy the very enhanced perks, these could be attributable to the effort required to establish the GPF but that not necessarily did these conditions have to prevail, more so if there was argument to suggest the contrary.

The two recently appointed conveners, PS Maurice Morello and PC Leif Simpson, are lobbying at HRD for the same terms and conditions their predecessors enjoyed. These were as follows;

- The conveners pay to be set to the equivalent of a chief Inspector (3 spine points starting from £72K to £75K & pensionable if retirement occurs whilst they are in post).
- Entitlement of the high competency threshold allowance of £1212 per year pertinent to their current junior rank but also climbing the spine points of the Chief Inspector scale.
- On call allowance of approx. £2.7K each per year.
- Entitlement of 'Time in Lieu' for any extra hours worked.

The final salary for the convenors will reach the £80k+ when housing allowance of £1500pa is also factored in.

These conditions far supersede those for inspector and chief inspector ranks. For starters, an inspector and chief inspector's role carries far more responsibilities than that of the conveners. An officer promoted to inspector or chief inspector would have to prove high levels of competency a year after reaching the 3rd spine point before they are entitled to the pensionable threshold allowance - the convenors do not have this qualifying period. Inspectors and chief Inspectors are salaried and therefore are not entitled to accrue time in lieu, yet the conveners are allowed to do so. These points bring about discontent and affect the morale of inspectors and chief inspectors who understandably feel very hard done by. The on-call criteria applied by the GPF contravenes RGP policy in that their application of the requirement is not seen as justified in our view.

The GPF's case for this inordinate level of remuneration is based on a comparison/alignment with the UK's National Police Federation Chairman who represents 120,000 police officers in England and Wales. Can you imagine if I used the same analogy and requested the same salary as the Commissioner of the Metropolitan Police = £276k+ !!! It would be totally absurd to draw comparisons with UK national portfolios. Our research on the matter suggests that even the smallest of county forces, the likes of Cambridge and Warwickshire, who themselves are 8-10 times larger than the RGP, do enjoy having a force federation chair/secretary earning the salary pertinent to their rank with a non-pensionable allowance of approx. £225 to compensate for extra responsibilities assumed. In fact each of the 43 UK county forces all have different configurational full time representation of the Fed but for obvious reasons none align themselves to the UK National Board in terms of remuneration and working arrangements. The latter have 8 principal officers employed as full time office bearers who look after the whole of England and Wales piece. They are in turn supported by a further 22 pax who form the National Council which is representative of 8 joint regional branch boards of the 43 county/metropolitan forces https://www.polfed.org/about-us/structure/structure-of-the-federation/ & https://www.polfed.org/about-us/structure/principal-officers/ Smaller forces more akin to ourselves like Guernsey, Jersey and Isle of Man do not remunerate their federation reps in this way and neither do they have full time conveners. The attached briefing paper explains the UK set-up in some detail. I really struggle to understand how the GPF can claim any similarity with the UK Fed's structure and conditions, it is simply ludicrous.

We recently brought in consultants to help contextualise the very damning federation survey results and they were themselves startled at how over-resourced and over-funded the GPF were, expressing the view that the workload the conveners were facing was not overbearing in the slightest. Amongst the consultants was a retired UK Police National Fed Chairwoman who echoed our views on the unjustified remuneration. They did not report on these views to avoid antagonising the GPF as their reemit was to actually build bridges with them rather can create animosity. The consultants are, however, ready to engage with HMGOG to impart they views should you feel the need for this. What I submit as totally disproportionate and unfair is that the GPF conveners who represent 219 officers are expecting to be treated the same as the UK National Board Chair who represents 120,000 officers.

To address this lack of justification I propose the following 3 options which takes into consideration cost efficiencies where these can be made;

Option 1 – the two conveners to remain as full time appointees with their remuneration set commensurate with the rank they hold. That they receive a monthly honorarium of £220 for PC

Simpson and £156 for PS Morello. Based on current pay scales an initial cost saving of approx £38k would be made in year one, this increasing to approximately £44K per annum by year three and increasing with the public sector increases for consecutive years.

Option 2 – Only one of the conveners remains full time in the role with salary commensurate to existing rank plus monthly honorarium; the other convener returns to main stream policing with 1 day 'facility' time for Fed work per week, retaining existing rank salary plus honorarium. There would be a requirement to employ an admin assistant to provide office support to the GPF. However, there would no longer be a requirement to have the two supernumerary posts we currently carry and therefore a constable post would be deducted from the HR business case submitted to HMGoG. Savings of £88k rising to £94k per annum after year three and for consecutive years would be made in this regard. The cost of an AA would need to be factored @ £26k so a net saving of approx. £68k per year would be made for successive years.

Option 3 - Both conveners revert to main stream policing and retain their salary according to their rank plus an honorarium and 1 day each of 'facility' time per week for Fed matters. The need for the existing two supernumerary posts would no longer be required and therefore two constable posts from the HR business case would no longer be required thus making savings of £100k for these two posts plus the no longer entitled Ch Inspector top-up of between £38k and £44k per annum. Total savings per year after three years (applying current scales) would be approx £144k per annum for successive years. It would be appropriate to assign an admin grade as office manager at the cost of £26K. Further facility time could be agreed upon by mutual understanding.

NB - Options 2 and 3 would require amendment to the extant regulations but the CM did allude to these changes, if applicable, once the accepted proposal was signed. Amending regulations is not too an elaborate process.

Our preferred options would work in reverse order i.e. 3-2-1

Happy to explain the mathematics in finer detail &/or further discuss the above contents if so required.

Best wishes

Ian

Good morning Daniel,

Could you please get back to us this week in relation to an update on our allowance. Please understand that this matter in my view is being ignored, I say this because we have replaced to persons, i.e. Henry Bautista and Anna Jones who for the last three years were getting paid the Conveners allowance and all that's happen is Maurice and myself replacing them, like for like, so I do not see how that allowance has all of a sudden come to a stop, as it would have continued if they stayed. I completely understand your last email but surely like Henry and Anna the allowance could still be paid and conditions then sign or agreed etc.

Please understand that Maurice and myself are now not able to claim, coxswain allowance, overtime, bank holidays, etc etc. As from this month our overdue overtime has finished so we are now on our basic pay with more responsibilities hours etc. Also there is more child care involved now as my children are now on permanent child care and before on shift I only had child care for when I was working, so currently I am earning less and paying out more.

Please have this matter looked into soonest so that this can be sorted. if it helps I have a letter that Henry wrote to the Chief Minister when he became a Convener for the allowance to be paid, unfortunately I do not have the reply but obviously that is what was agreed as that was his allowance at the time and scaled up with the years.

Hope to hear from you soonest.

Dear Mr Chairman,

Thank you for your email which I duly note. Firstly, let me express to you my disgust at the tone of your reply to me and one which I will be raising with the Command. Your message to me is filled with little cooperation and signs of confrontation.

I shall answer all the points you raise.

You Say: I note that two of the recommendations are at an advanced stage with no prior consultation or input from ourselves, especially on two topics which have been the subject of debate over the last few years. This is simply unacceptable

Recommendation 3 of the AAP report was to adopt the College of Policing Code of Ethics. This has simply been a copy and paste of what they have and adopting both the Principles and Behaviours. There is no discussion to be had over this, as it is a tried and tested Code. We have since included it in Force Orders, but the management and monitoring of it has to continue in the Work Streams. With regards to recommendation 5, we asked the secretary to provide us with what the Federation in the UK adhere to [Bullying and Harassment / Grievance Policy] and his answer was that he was going to ask Che Donald [Deputy Chair], but unfortunately this was never forthcoming. In this regard, we have again taken on the AAP recommendations by researching in to the Dorset Police Policy and ACAS Best Practice. We are at and advance stage of drafting the document, but this has not been shared with anyone yet, not even the Command.

You Say: For sake of clarity if a bullying policy or document is simply presented to the GPF, without having any input it will not have our seal of approval. Be advised that on the subject of bullying I personally will not be accepting any document that does not mirror that of the Bullying at Work Act with minor tweeks here and there.

As already stated above, the policies are still being written up and will be debated once this happens in the work stream. Your personal opinion of course will be taken into consideration, but your opinion only will not dictate how we proceed. Please remember, that it is the Commissioner under Section 33[1] of the Police Act that has command, superintendence, direction and control of the Force, and shall be responsible for the efficient administration and government of the Force...and certainly not the Chair of the Federation.

You Say: Again with the grievance procedure the same applies. The unfairness of the process has been talked about by officers for years and we are now in a position to draft up a document acceptable to all and get it right.
To finish off Command and GPF do not have to be "seen" to be working together we simply have to work together and that I am afraid is not happening.

In the last comment you have made, it is clear that you have cemented your position in the relationship between the Command and Federation and I fear that your intention is not to work with the command, but to attempt to destroy everything we try to do, and this we will not accept. It saddens me to know that all the energy we have put into having AAP undertake a review and to start working on the recommendations at the back of the Federation's survey has been futile in your eyes.

Dear All,

There are 11 recommendations, with 2 of these being a combination of work in progress, for which I have allocated a yearly review. These are to Review the 7 work streams [this has been done by reducing the work streams from 7 to 5 and changing the task owners] and a review of progress in relationship between the RGP/RGPF and the survey.

I have today allocated the following command officers with tasks for the subject areas and they will be reporting back on the progress of the particular work streams. Invited to the work streams are RGPF members, who will be key to ensuring that we are seen to be working together, thus seeking for solutions. Some of the work has happened already, particularly Recommendation 3 in adopting the College of Policing Code of Ethics, and the new Grievance Process [Recommendation 1] with the Bullying and Harassment Policy [Recommendation 5] is at an advanced stage.

I am cognisant that some of the RGPF officers will not be able to attend meetings because of duties, so the Chair and Secretary have agreed to sit in all of the work streams.

Bullying / Harassment Allegations	AC / Supt Yeats / CI Romero / PC Pozo
Low Morale	Supt Lopez / CI Perez / Insp Enriles / Inspector Fernandez
Estates / IT / Health and Safety	Supt Yeats / SEO Ramos / PC Garcia
HR	AC / Supt Yeats / SEO Ramos / PS Fortuna
Health and Wellbeing	Supt Tunbridge / CI Field / SEO Ramos / PC Gaul

I look forward to hearing from the respective work streams in due course.

With best wishes

Dear Mr Chairman,

Thank you for submitting to the Commissioner and me the results of the survey, which we have already shared with members of the Command. We thought that at this stage it was totally unnecessary to forward it to Fabian Picardo QC MP, particularly because there is an election process in place.

We also take note of all of your comments in your email to us and wish to make the following comments:

1. As you are well aware, the Command was in disagreement with the Federation undertaking another survey, particularly when you had just completed one a year ago, and we were working towards the review conducted by AAP. We therefore continue to absorb this work in our work streams and will take into consideration the data in the 2019 survey.
2. Equally, we are also not content with the structure of the survey, because most of the options provided to questions only facilitate negative input. For example, 'Why have you contemplated leaving?' – Options Low Morale, Poor Organisation Management, High Stress and Poor work Life Balance. There are no options like – Policing was not for me, Seeking other Opportunities, better pay etc. We have discussed this before in our conversations about the 2018 survey and you have chosen to continue with the negative stance. There are many more, but I won't delve any further into this.
3. You raise the issue of bullying as a concern, and yet you fail to ask those surveyed if they knew what the meaning of bullying is. Their ignorance of the meaning could be reflected when you ask them the question, Do you know the process of the Grievance Procedure? and 49% claim they don't. We continue to work towards a new Grievance and Bullying Policy as you know in our work streams, taking on the best practice from ACAS and Dorset Police, who championed it for CoP. We have informed you in the past and I inform you again, we will have no involvement with the Dignity at Work Group, as you aspire to try and achieve. This group is represented by unions and you should have no affiliation to unions whatsoever, your independence is of paramount importance.
4. We are also extremely disappointed that you chose to share the results of the survey with the media. We feel that this is very irresponsible of you and that you achieve nothing other than feeding those that always negatively hit out at our organisation. The question we ask is, what did you achieve by doing so last year? – Nothing.

Lastly, I would appreciate a reply of my email to you on the 26th of September 2019, with regards to the potential data breach made by your secretary.

Best wishes

Subject: GPF SURVEY RESULTS 2019

Sir,

In August 2018 the Gibraltar Police Federation carried out an online survey to give members a voice on what issues affected them. The Board agreed that they would carry out an annual survey for a period of three years to assess whether there had been any improvements in the issues raised by members. The results of the 2018 survey were subsequently shared with management, Federation members and the media. Several issues were highlighted.

In May 2019 a new Chairman and Secretary were elected to the GPF together with new Board members.

The decision taken by the previous GPF board in 2018 to carry out an annual survey for a period of three years was respected and as a result we recently asked our members to take part in our second online Staff Survey, which has been conducted from the 5th August to the 16th September 2019.

The survey covers all aspects of members working conditions and welfare in the RGP.

This survey has been conducted completely confidentially by an independent marketing agency.

The completion rate of 90% has been slightly higher than last year, which stood at 87%.

We feel that the results of the survey reinforce our concerns and further corroborates the highlighted issues that need to be dealt with.

There are three documents attached:

1. The main survey results with comments [comments have been redacted to comply with GDPR].

2. An infographic of the results.

3. A comparison of results 2018/19.

The attached survey data represents the results of 197 members that completed the survey out of our 217 members. The results show that:

- 52% of the respondents expressed low or very low morale whilst 88% of officers perceiving the morale of the organisation as low or very low.
- 47% of the workforce have stated that they have contemplated in leaving the RGP in the last twelve months.
- 46% of the officers have reported that they have been a victim of bullying/victimisation at work. 59% of these officers state that have been bullied within the last year
- This 46% represents 93 officers who state they had been bullied', 55 of which state that they had been bullied just this past year. 92% of officers state that they have been bullied by either middle or senior management.
- 63% have stated that they have witnessed bullying / victimisation at work with 89% not reporting it, many commenting fearing possible repercussions and no faith in a positive outcome.
- 129 officers reported having witnessed bullying with 106 respondents stating that they had witnessed the bullying within the last twelve months.
- 58% remain unconfident of the current grievance procedure process.
- 39% of Response Team officers were satisfied with the current 5-shift system. 72 % think the RGP should operate a different Response Team pattern (12-hour shift system 4 on 4 off) as many feel current man power levels are not properly sustained with rest days and change of hours constantly changed to meet operational demands.
- Although 54% of the members are satisfied or very satisfied with their current salary, 65% are unsatisfied or very unsatisfied with their allowances.

- 79% of the members are unsatisfied with the current staffing levels in their shifts and departments highlighting health and safety issues with respect to low manpower levels and continued higher operational demands.
- 67% reported that they feel unsafe whilst carrying out operational duties.
- 77% feel overworked with 44% currently suffering from work related stress. 58% were unsatisfied or extremely unsatisfied with the level of aftercare provided to officers by the organisation after an incident.
- 75% of officers are not satisfied with the level of counselling offered by the organisation with 79% stating they would make use of this service if it improved.
- 59% of the members have reported that they have had instances of their rest days changed with 61% not been given the required 15 days' notice.
- 91% of the members have reported that their working hours/shifts been changed with 73% not being consulted and 63% not been given enough notice.
- 57% of officers have reported that they have been unhappy with the management of refreshment breaks and facilities.
- 44% were satisfied with their personal safety equipment. 85% of officers are unsatisfied or very unsatisfied with IT facilities and 49% unhappy with the maintenance of vehicles and vessels.
- 73% of officers were unsatisfied with the security at police buildings.
- 75% did not feel that their promotion prospects were linked to their experience /qualifications and a large percentage did not feel that they were adequately managed with respect to personal assessments, mentoring/attachments, internal transfers, specialist training and retraining.

From the above data there are many issues that require addressing but one that stands out from the rest in my opinion are the statistics in relation to bullying in. No one can now argue that the bullying in the organisation is historical. The statistics speak for themselves. The only process an officer has to report bullying in the organisation is to go down the route of the grievance procedure. The results of the survey show that 58% of officers are unconfident or extremely unconfident in this procedure. More worryingly is the fact that the organisation does not have a policy on Bullying at Work and we are informed by management that the Employment (Bullying at Work) Act 2014 is not applicable to Police officers due to their employment status.

After the 2018 survey results were published working groups were established by management to deal with the issues raised in the survey. In August 2019, revised working groups were formed as a result of the AAP report. I strongly believe that these work streams need to be accelerated so that issues raised are dealt with promptly and the results of these work streams can be seen in the 2020 survey results.

We thank HM Government for increasing our manning levels. We have now seen ten extra new officers been employed recently and these are now going through their training period with a further extra fifteen officers to be recruited within the next two training schools. Further posts currently performed by officers will be civilianized meaning that more officers will be able to be deployed to front line policing. However, some of the survey results cannot be attributed solely to the lack of manpower. Many officers complain in the various comments section throughout the survey about the lack of respect shown to them by their line managers and senior officers, which in turn affects their morale. This needs to change.

The most valuable asset of our organisation are its officers. Employee satisfaction stems for working for an organization that values employees' talents, qualifications and expertise. Officers need to feel valued and treated with respect, they need to have their proper refreshment breaks and unbroken rest days to be fresh, ready and able to deal with the demands that come with the job. Needless to say, a happy workforce will promote morale and will increase productivity.

This is the Federation's second survey in as many years and our intentions are to again conduct another survey next year as had been agreed by the Gibraltar Police Federation Board in 2018. This will give us the data to be able to assess and substantiate progression in the issues raised and to be able to identify any future concerns that may arise.

The Federation members will be receiving the Survey results tomorrow, with the media being given the infographic data on Thursday evening, embargoed until Friday morning.

Dear Mr Chairman,

Thank you for submitting to the Commissioner and me the results of the survey, which we have already shared with members of the Command. We thought that at this stage it was totally unnecessary to forward it to Fabian Picardo QC MP, particularly because there is an election process in place.

We also take note of all of your comments in your email to us and wish to make the following comments:

1. As you are well aware, the Command was in disagreement with the Federation undertaking another survey, particularly when you had just completed one a year ago, and we were working towards the review conducted by AAP. We therefore continue to absorb this work in our work streams and will take into consideration the data in the 2019 survey.
2. Equally, we are also not content with the structure of the survey, because most of the options provided to questions only facilitate negative input. For example, 'Why have you contemplated leaving?' – Options Low Morale, Poor Organisation Management, High Stress and Poor work Life Balance. There are no options like – Policing was not for me, Seeking other Opportunities, better pay etc. We have discussed this before in our conversations about the 2018 survey and you have chosen to continue with the negative stance. There are many more, but I won't delve any further into this.
3. You raise the issue of bullying as a concern, and yet you fail to ask those surveyed if they knew what the meaning of bullying is. Their ignorance of the meaning could be reflected when you ask them the question, Do you know the process of the Grievance Procedure? and 49% claim they don't. We continue to work towards a new Grievance and Bullying Policy as you know in our work streams, taking on the best practice from ACAS and Dorset Police, who championed it for CoP. We have informed you in the past and I inform you again, we will have no involvement with the Dignity at Work Group, as you aspire to try and achieve. This group is represented by unions and you should have no affiliation to unions whatsoever, your independence is of paramount importance.
4. We are also extremely disappointed that you chose to share the results of the survey with the media. We feel that this is very irresponsible of you and that you achieve nothing other than feeding those that always negatively hit out at our organisation. The question we ask is, what did you achieve by doing so last year? – Nothing.

Lastly, I would appreciate a reply of my email to you on the 26th of September 2019, with regards to the potential data breach made by your secretary.

Best wishes

Needless to say, a happy workforce will promote morale and will increase productivity.

This is the Federation's second survey in as many years and our intentions are to again conduct another survey next year as had been agreed by the Gibraltar Police Federation Board in 2018. This will give us the data to be able to assess and substantiate progression in the issues raised and to be able to identify any future concerns that may arise.

The Federation members will be receiving the Survey results tomorrow, with the media being given the infographic data on Thursday evening, embargoed until Friday morning.

Kind Regards

2019 GPF Survey comments – un-redacted COP

COP needs to listen to officers and their strength of feeling. if things do not change more and more good officers will leave the service as there are no bonus' to being in the police now

Nothing will change unless there is change from SMT.
Officers make all the sacrificies yet reap no rewards or appreciation.
Morale will continue to remain low unless treated fairly.
Expectation from SMT is unrealistic with no considerations given to work - life balance.
but "we all know what we signed up for....." according to COP last year COP said that the survey was exaggerated which was disappointing to say the least. this year i hope he takes on board what is being said and supports the officers instead of disregarding their views. it is very easy for SMT to sit in an office and forget what it is like to be a front line officer, they have no idea what it is to be an officer on shift now. no idea what the lack of resources does to officers morale and well being, no idea that some of SMT's behaviour towards officers and Sergeants is despicable to say the least. If things dont change then more and more good officers will be more likely to leave. i certainly am looking to leave the RGP as soon as i can.

At shift/department level it might be OK hence the reason why senior management might "confuse" this with 'their' morale levels. However, generally the majority or a large number of officers are 'disgusted' of how they are managed, treated or valued. We are tired of Cheap, twitter posts to show how much 'they value' their officers for their false public perception, the false image they try to show which the public don't swallow (hence the trouble they have to recruit locals, the same locals that in a small community know the actual truth and therefore prefer other jobs where they are generally going to be happier). So much going on about training and training when it should be mid and top managers who should be 'training' to have a little bit of positive psychology....or perhaps no training can give you the 'human' qualities that the likes of Richardson, Field or the current COP lack!

We were asked about this last year and I think the answers were pretty clear. So what happened? What did SMT do with the results? Did anyone take it seriously? Nothing happened. SMT wiped theirs arses with the results. No one took it seriously. We had a real opportunity to fix things from last years survey but all COP did was deny it all and in doing so gave every officer that was crying out for help a big 'fuck you'. How is my morale not going to be low when no one upstairs gives a shit about my morale?

One person can destroy £250,000 of marine assets and not get even a white paper notice because he is a friend of the COP, while another damages a patrol van and gets interdicted for 9 months because the COP wants him out. How are we supposed to have confidence in this corrupt system?

SMT need to wake up and smell the roses, we have a problem as do any organisation, I for one am not blaming our current Commissioner for everything that has happened in the past, but I honestly believed that he would have turned our organisation to the right path only to be disapointed. i feel we are treated like a number and not as a human being. we are over worked and our COP has the power to settel this issue with Ministers/SMT once and for all the whole promotion procedure is fake, its who the SMT want and where not what you can do and if you can do the job. the Next promotions will be 90% non locals as the COP has already made his intentions known thart he dose not wish for locals to be promoted.

am personally treated very well but despite this I still struggle to digest or deal with the RGP day to day. just empower the correct senior managers and sergeants and obviously ensure from CoP's perspective these individuals are doing there job to the best of there ability!!

untill the COP is willing to accept the Federation, the GPF will be powless to do anything

First step was getting rid of the 2 former conveners, useless pair. Having said that I'm not sure how far this federation can go with possibly the biggest bully in the RGP sitting on the board. I think we all know he's there at the request and under the direct instructions of the COP. Please do a better job than the last two of resisting this influence.

Comments 2019 SMT [Senior Management Team]

SMT need to get real and realise there is only so much officers can do. Especially when they aren't supported with manpower, kit or training. Yet they expect miracles from shift officers. They are there to respond to crimes and carry out enquiries. Not to do traffic summons and tick boxes for matrix patrols. Growing a set of balls and publically protecting officers would be good start. As would addressing the bullies. Everyone knows who they are yet the ones with power do nothing.

I have no faith in anything changing as a result of this survey as the SMT do not want to change. Unless they are forced to change (which is very unlikely to happen) things will either remain as bad as they are or will get worse Management of the force is shameful, the constant politics that happens behind closed doors, and only with those of higher rank, is enough to make you realize that your position is meaningless for those who want to achieve a greater work environment. The senior management team is responsible for the direction of this organisation and it is clear that the direction they are taking us is nothing but to the ground, the constant and increasing demand of resources needed for the this job is ignored on a daily basis without hesitation. We are not prepared to deal with any major incidents at all.

The Grace 1 tanker seizure, the Island game demands, along with UEFA Football matches have proven, without a shadow of a doubt that the force can not run without going against it's own policy and procedures, along with the basic European Law just to supply numbers. But god forbid if you haven't completed a cyclops task in time, It is clear that persons of higher rank are NOT held accountable for their actions compared to your average beat cop. Senior ranking officers have always made quick judgement of officers actions and are constantly hammering shift and departments with their Nazi like rule, where they are never wrong while you a struggling beat cop/DC trying to stay on top the constant demand is "Lazy, Trying to cut corners and not fit for the job" and managements response is "Tough, this is what you signed up for" the old school mentality of policing is still present in many SMT members and it is reflected on on their actions. It is time to suggest an independent PSD department in hopes that persons of high rank will be held accountable and we could start to a shift in the direction and mentality in hopes of improvements in this organisation.

dont believe this survey help us as SMT are judge and jury, what they say goes and seem not to be willing to sort the problems, we can all work togather to make our organization a great pleace of work. in regards to bullying it happens more then often, we had a lazy police officer who was screwed over for years her father is an ex-commisioner a basterd called WINK who by defenition is a bully. when he retired, he bought some peice to some SMT, who took their revenge on his children, natalie could have been managed properly but SMT have failed her big time, her biggest fault was her family name. to summaries the way i strongly feel, the rgp is just like am infected tree, SMT sit on top and the ranks go lower, SMT look down and see nothing but happy smily faces lower ranks look up and see nothing but ASSHOLESS. Fuck this place it has been the worst mistake ever joining, i am gutted that the burden will be past to the next idiot who will not be treated like a human being but rather an Number, sorry for this but i cannot take this anymore. i cannot even risk talking out loud and loosing everything.

SMT should learn to manage personel by treating people equally all they need to do is open their eyes to see the morale off 80 percent of the force.

Unfortunately although the right questions are being asked in this survey SMT will continue to do what it wants with officers. Morale is at the lowest its been and with SMT continually on the hunt for internal dispensaries over actually helping out officers or punishing those that deserve to be, there is no faith whatsoever in any realistic change for the better. As can be seen in recent force orders where we get the facade of SMT stating how bullying is unacceptable when they are the biggest bullies in the force and the main reason why morale is lower than ever with a high number of officers, a lot of which have been with the Police for a substantial amount of years already looking outside of the RGP for their futures. Another problem encountered as of late is cases being set down for hearings when officers are on annual leave and have stated so since the initial mention. This was reported to CJU with the response being either for a new OIC to be appointed for the trail or would quickly blame the OIC for not submitting the witness availability in a timely manner which was not the case on all occasions. I have been witness to how a case was set for hearing with the AG not even looking at the witness calendar.

The above is now practically a daily occurrence and events like above just make one feel like leaving regardless of pay as as much as one loves the job it is hampered at every corner by either SMT imposing there own private agendas or the shear amount of work imposed by unnecessary overly complicated dockets which should be done by an increased FPU as in other countries which would also free up officers allowing more patrols on the streets, more detection in crime and further public confidence in the force with the added boost to visual patrols.

Instead of SMT taking these surveys as a personal affront by GPF members they should accept that there are real problems and issues within the Force with regards to morale, welfare etc. and act upon the findings of these surveys and display to their Officers that they are actually proactive in attempting to improve things feel that SMT are not supporting the Fed on the issues raised last year

Many officers are taking reports of petty crimes every day and not given time to investigate and complete paperwork. The work is not evenly distributed resulting in some shift officers having no paperwork whilst other drown in it. A system needs to be put in place to deal with Bullying in the workplace.
How can officers report bullying to line managers if line managers are causing the problems or are close friends with those who do. We do a hard job and there are those who make the lives of other officers harder for their own amusement. I will be Extremely Disappointed it the Police Federation does nothing about Bullying in the future. Bullying should be dealt with at every internal level including SMT and federation members

I'm trying to think of a single thing that has been achieved by management since the last survey. We have some really good bosses in the RGP, and some not so good. All the good work that might get done by the good bosses will be irrelevant as it only takes one bad one to fuck things up. During my years in the job all I have seen is division between the officers and the SMT and this division is driven almost entirely by the bosses, some of whom togather to make our organization a great pleace of work. in regards to bullying it happens more then often, we had a lazy police officer who was screwed over for years her father is an ex-commisioner a basterd called WINK who by defenition is a bully. when he retired, he bought some peice to some SMT, who took their revenge on his children, natalie could have been managed properly but SMT have failed her big time, her biggest fault was her family name. to summaries the way i strongly feel, the rgp is just like am infected tree, SMT sit on top and the ranks go lower, SMT look down and see nothing but happy smily faces lower ranks look up and see nothing but ASSHOLESS. Fuck this place it has been the worst mistake ever joining, i am gutted that the burden will be past to the next idiot who will not be treated like a human being but rather an Number, sorry for this but i cannot take this anymore. i cannot even risk talking out loud and loosing everything.

SMT should learn to manage personel by treating people equally all they need to do is open their eyes to see the morale off 80 percent of the force have a seemingly endlessly vindictive nature. Management don't seem to understand that when we see a colleague being treated unfairly it affects us all negatively. It lowers the morale of ALL of us because we know any one of us might make a genuine mistake and then it will be us next. I've never worked at a place where I've been treated with such disdain before as if some bosses look down on us as stats to be cultivated to further their own careers. Can you not see what that does to a person?

The results of the last survey were clearly published and unanimously the officers expressed their disatisfaction. SMT officers then stated that the survey was inaccurate and they set about employing an external company (which cost a large quantity of money) to try and rebut the officers results. These findings/results have still not been published, can we (the Federation) ask SMT to publish these results to either prove or disprove (according to them) what we originally stated? Indirectly, SMT stated that we, the officers, were overexagerating the negativity within the force. Perhaps this external survey can prove or disprove our findings? The money that was spent on this independant survey could have been used to amend some of the issues that were highlighted in the past survey.

Senior management seem to be more focused on finding faults and punishing officers than praising them, every one knows how low moral is and how little the current SMT are doing to boost this. We come up with solutions and smt just disregard any suggestion . Officers are scared of making mistakes , scared of doing their job for fear of making a mistake, as frontline officers and officers within departments we find our own ways to raise our own moral however more than once I have witnessed SMT crushing these attempts to raise moral.

I believe that moral of officers within the RGP has lowered during the time that I have been in; I believe this is due to more then ever being expected of officers, deadlines that are getting harder and harder to keep with the amount of work that we take on with little or no thanks for our efforts by SMT

The RGP has been stretched beyond its limits, there is a severe lack of staff and forward planning and more and more responsibilities are being placed on officers by SMT who appear to have a lack of regard for their mental health and well being more and more demands are being placed on officers when we are at least 54 officers under what we require in order to do our jobs effectively (as of 3 years ago, when a review of our service was carried out and the service has evolved since then!) plus the 13 vacancies which are due to be filled in the next recruit school. officers are having their rest days changed and change of hours at short notice in order to try to reduce the overtime budget which is bound to be extortionate due to being severly undermanned. there seems to be denial in the SMT as to just how bad it is to be a front line officer right now

Over the last 12 months, esspecially the last 3-4 months, the bullying is rife. Ops CI Field, uses bullying as a regular management tool and has the officers, sgts and Inspectors scared of making any mistakes incase he decides to make them a target. It is widely believed that if he decides to make you his target then you will suffer relentless bullying to the point where you are forced to go off sick or quit.

In recent months PS Strachan, PS Philbin and PS Stone have gone off sick after being bullied by CI Field.
It is my belief that he has been placed in this role to bully the officers as a form of discipline.
His behaviour is widely known and very visible, yet despite this the SMT do not challenge this behaviour and allow him to do this.

I mostly hear people complaining mainly about the SMT and poor management morale between officers is good and they keep the ship floating but its a constant battle to keep them motivated when SMT choose in mico manage and run the RGP as per their own rules unrealistic expectations being placed on officers. decisions being made by people who have no idea what it is to be a police officer now. RGP intent on over policing at events, stretching limited resources far beyond their stretching point. no leadership skills being displayed b SMT. Officers are constantly being placed at risk

There is a massive divide between shift officers and the rest of the force, special SMT.
No interaction from SMT with shift officers at anytime.

We were asked about this last year and I think the answers were pretty clear. So what happened? What did SMT do with the results? Did anyone take it seriously? Nothing happened. SMT wiped theirs arses with the results. No one took it seriously. We had a real opportunity to fix things from last years survey but all COP did was deny it all and in doing so gave every officer that was crying out for help a big 'fuck you'. How is my morale not going to be low when no one upstairs gives a shit about my morale

There appears to be a clear disconnect between SMT and front line officers. Morale could have been vastly improved after last year's survey if it was take seriously and not brushed under the carpet or rejected. There are constant demands or threats of disciplinary action, placed on officers with very little recognition or appreciation given back

Morale is extremely low in the RGP. it is the workers who constantly get penalised and messed around while the lazy officers get rewarded. there is no regard from SMT for the truth of what is happening in the RGP right now.

Because the CI will crucify you when he finds out and SMT will not taken any action. CI Field has been placed in this role too bully

It all depends on the matter you're being investigated about, and whether SMT want to you gone or not.

If your face doesnt fit then you are dealt with more harshly. If you have ever challenged SMT they will remember this and target you.

Defendants appear to have more rights than police constables and are treated with more integrity.
The message that the SMT appears to send is that they are more concerned with punishing officers than the day to day criminal. Officers are afraid to deal with people, general public and suspects due to fear of being reported for the smallest of infractions it is my strong held belief that when we (Police Constables) are put under investigation are not treated fairly, firstly SMT, can take as much time as they want as there is no time limit for PSD investigation which leaves officers without updates for several months. This does affect our performance. On the other hand, Defendants are interviewed and investigated by strictly following the guidelines provided in PACE Act which is a matter of LAW. PSD seem to do whatever they feel is necessary to reach the next RANK, breaching every Code of practice without any reprecautions and you are GUILTY no matter what, its that simple they have to unnecessary screw you over so that it looks good on their next promotion pack. IF WE ARE GIVEN THE NOTICE OF INVESTIGATION THEY PSD SHOULD GIVE US A UPDATE WITHIN 6 WEEKS JUST LIKE DEFENDANTS. WE SHOULD ALL BE TREATED THE SAME!!!!

It is ironic that officers are punished for the slightest errors or even differences in approach, when certain members of the SMT collude in illegal activity such as changing the weights of drugs in order to give cautions to ex-officers/staff relatives

SMT respecting rest days and learning how to say NO to things that arent necessary or simply can't meet the demands.

During major incidents, all is forgotten, SMT take over and there is a lot of panicking rather than proper management.

Planning is atrocious for events of which some occur every year!! SMT do not accept suggestions or recommendations from junior Officers and are not in touch with the real issues experienced at the coal face of Policing. Poor IT issues have been raised time and again with no improvement. With regards to equipment, body worn cameras which are not supported by proper maintenance meaning most of the time they are unfit for purpose. Frontline Officers only issued with 2 x pairs of trousers to cover 6 or sometimes 7 days duties whilst Office staff are issued the same. Money wasted on PT kit which looks cheap and scruffy and is hardly worn over the course of a year..this money could have been invested in supplying frontline Officers with an extra pair of trousers and/or better quality uniform/kit.

Just communicate to the officers what you are doing from a SMT's point of view and have / show empathy for your officers

I was one of the officers involved in the recent violent incident at Watergardens. We have had nothing. No debrief, no support or any kind of feedback session about it. It was an extremely violent and anti-police situation and SMT just say "it's what you signed up for"... brilliant management. I am an officer who never goes sick and so just carries on but it is disheartening when no one gives a shit.

Since time immemorial it comes down to, who you are, who you know and who you are related to in order to get any where within the organisation. Favoratism undoubtedly plays a big part when it comes down to applying to a new post or for promotion. The sad truth is that SMT know this to be true however will not tell you and rather lie with a smile and say that it is not so, but how many traditional rules have been changed to cater for a specific officer or how many times has an inexperienced officer been given priority over an experienced officer for a particular post. Let's not disregard that gender and racial also influence promotion and career opportunities.

Depends who you know more than anything. If you do not have a great rapore with SMT you need to work twice as hard to be recognised.

Officers with either zero experience or still in probation period getting attachments/placings due to either family connections to SMT or because they've come from UK Policing force and are presumed to be better than local officers or officers whom have done their years on the streets/getting cases. Although there are a few ex UK officers who consider themselves better than the local officers, this is by no means an attack on officers whom joined from abroad but is the common perception among other officers as is evident by treatment they receive from SMT with regards to duties etc.

Making sure the officers are treated fairly and respectfully and when SMT are wrong in a case, defend the officer.

The general consensus within the lower tier of the force believe that the federation needs to be more robust when it comes to the challenging of members of the SMT regarding the discipline of front line officers, as all officers are treated differently depending on who they are.

adequate manning levels helping SMT to be more realistic in their demands of officers. Especially CI FIELD's relentless demands with no regard to officers well being Officer welfare and personal development. Address old fashioned views of some of the SMT

SMT need to get real and realise there is only so much officers can do. Especially when they aren't supported with manpower, kit or training. Yet they expect miracles from shift officers. Subject: Threshold Payment

Dear Leif,

Please note that on review of Threshold Payment entitlement, and in accordance with HRD instructions to the previous Commissioner stating that "the convenor allowances were arrived at by establishing the difference between the officer's basic salary and the salary of Chief Inspector... should not continue to attract threshold payment given that the officer would no longer be exercising full policing duties and would therefore be unable to demonstrate the competence necessary to qualify for such allowance", instructions have therefore been issued to Finance for threshold payment receipt to cease and threshold payments made since your appointment as convenor to be recovered.

Unfortunately these instructions were not applied to your convenor allowance on receipt of the HRD Appointment of RGP Convenor Letters dated 26th November 2019.

Amounts to be recovered are listed below:

May 22nd to 31st - £32.58
June – £101.00
July – £101.00
August – £101.00
September – £101.00
October – £101.00
November – £101.00
December – £101.00
January – £101.00
February – £101.00
TOTAL: £941.58

Please advise if you would prefer for this amount to be recovered in one or more instalments – i.e. in your April salary or over 3 months up to and including June (end of the tax year).

I am aware that the RGP Convenor Terms and Conditions are presently under review and being negotiated and that the entitlement to Threshold payments forms part of this review. Payment may therefore be reinstated and backdated if and when this is considered and approved by HMGoG.

Please do not hesitate to contact me should you require further information.

Dear All,

I have looked into the matter regarding the treatment of the Threshold Allowance in respect to the appointment to the Convenor role.

I can confirm that the threshold allowance should no longer be made payable as both officers have been formally appointed into the Convenor role. The letters dated 26 November 2019 that issued to both current post holders states that "you shall be paid an allowance which together with your basic salary shall bring your total earnings up to the level of Chief Inspector." This was also the case for the previous post holders whereby their threshold allowance ceased.

However, it is noted that the threshold has been removed as a result of the change in appointment and both PS Morello and PC Simpson may revert back to their former grade once there tenure in the convenor role has expired. I believe that if this occurs the threshold payment should be restored once they revert back to their former grade as they had shown competency and had met all the threshold criteria in these roles. Should these officers apply for and are successful for promotion whilst undertaking the convenor role the threshold would be lost as they would need to requalify as is currently the case. Nevertheless, I have copied in the Human Resources Manager and Mr M Crome to make them aware of this matter and for any further information or instruction they wish to add.

As is the case for all overpayments, any overpayment will need to be restored. If the monies cannot be restored in full arrangements can be made with Treasury Salaries to make regular monthly payments until the overpayment is recovered.

I hope the above clarifies the positon.

Dear Michael,

We spoke yesterday reference the threshold payment which we currently not being paid. I have attached the policy so that you can refer to this is if required.

On 2nd March 2020, I emailed you in relation to this same matter as the RGP had taken advice from HRD to stop paying this allowance to us.

HR'S advice on the matter

Dear All,

I have looked into the matter regarding the treatment of the Threshold Allowance in respect to the appointment to the Convenor role.

I can confirm that the threshold allowance should no longer be made payable as both officers have been formally appointed into the Convenor role. The letters dated 26 November 2019 that issued to both current post holders states that "you shall be paid an allowance which together with your basic salary shall bring your total earnings up to the level of Chief Inspector." This was also the case for the previous post holders whereby their threshold allowance ceased.

However, it is noted that the threshold has been removed as a result of the change in appointment and both PS Morello and PC Simpson may revert back to their former grade once there tenure in the convenor role has expired. I believe that if this occurs the threshold payment should be restored once they revert back to their former grade as they had shown competency and had met all the threshold criteria in these roles. Should these officers apply for and are successful for promotion whilst undertaking the convenor role the threshold would be lost as they would need to requalify as is currently the case. Nevertheless, I have copied in the Human Resources Manager and Mr M Crome to make them aware of this matter and for any further information or instruction they wish to add.

As is the case for all overpayments, any overpayment will need to be restored. If the monies cannot be restored in full arrangements can be made with Treasury Salaries to make regular monthly payments until the overpayment is recovered.

I hope the above clarifies the positon.

As a result of this advice we received an email from Darion Ramos [see below]

Please note that on review of Threshold Payment entitlement, and in accordance with HRD instructions to the previous Commissioner stating that "the convenor allowances were arrived at by establishing the difference between the officer's basic salary and the salary of Chief Inspector... should not continue to attract threshold payment given that the officer would no longer be exercising full policing duties and would therefore be unable to demonstrate the competence necessary to qualify for such allowance", instructions have therefore been issued to Finance for threshold payment receipt to cease and threshold payments made since your appointment as convenor to be recovered.

As a result the threshold which had been paid to us was paid back as follows:

Leif Simpson:
May 20: £57.69
June 20: £57.69
July 20: £57.69
August 20: £57.69
September 20: £57.69
October 20: £57.69
November 20: £57.69
December 20: £57.69
January 21: £57.69
February 21: £57.69
Total: £576.90

Maurice Morello:
May 20: £67.82
June 20: £67.82
July 20: £67.82
August 20: £67.82
September 20: £67.82
October 20: £67.82
November 20: £67.82
December 20: £67.82
January 21: £67.82
February 21: £67.75
Total: £678.13

At the time we requested to see the correspondence from Central HR but were informed that due to data protection issues this could not be disclosed to us. It appears that the previous convenors arrived at an agreement with all stakeholders when they were elected as Chairman and Secretary of the Gibraltar Police Federation, where they agreed "give up" their entitlements to receive the competence threshold payment.

This appears to be a "personal to holder contract" which as a matter of principle I would not have agreed to.

In fact the GPF Convenors agreement which we drafted in December 2019 and which is still pending ratifcation, includes that this allowance be paid to Convenors.

When applying the RGP's criteria for the competence threshold payment [as per Force policy, see attached] there are four points that you have to meet in order to obtain the threshold.

- Professional competence and results
- Commitment to the job
- Relations with the public and colleagues
- Willingness to learn and adjust to new circumstances

I believe that as long as we keep up to date on new policies and procedures and attend the training days, remaining "competent" the threshold allowance should be continued to be paid to us.

I have been receiving the threshold payment since 2010, when I was a Constable, which was then removed after I was promoted to Sergeant in 2012. In 2016, I again applied for the threshold as a Sergeant, and again it was approved.

Leif has been receiving the threshold payment since 2017.

As per the policy the threshold allowance could be removed if you are deemed to have fallen below the standard required:

Maintaining standards [Competence related threshold policy extract]

26. It is expected that officers awarded the payment will maintain the level of performance and commitment to the job necessary to achieve the payment. The RGP will have systems in place that will support and encourage officers to maintain those standards.

27. Where concerns are identified in the Annual Staff Appraisal System, with respect to maintenance of high professional competence by an officer in receipt of the payment, managers should trigger a reassessment of suitability for on-going payment. In these circumstances, the officer should be notified in writing of the areas for concern and invited to resubmit an application which will then be considered in line with the procedures outlined in paragraphs 15-22 above. 28 A reassessment would not normally be triggered by a single incident or event, but be based on broader concerns by management about the officer's overall performance against any of the Scheme criteria. However, the threat of the removal of this payment must not be used by managers as an alternative to normal management support or appropriate action under the Police Discipline Regulations and Government General Orders. Each case must be considered on its merits.

None of the above is applicable to us.

Section 29 states that when an officer is promoted, the payment will be discontinued from the effective date of the promotion. The officer will then be eligible to apply once they reach the top scale of the said promotion.

There is nothing in the policy to cover the fact that the "threshold" should be discontinued because Convenors receive an allowance [as per PFEW Regulations 2017, see below]

Subject to paragraph (5), the Regulations mentioned in paragraph (3) are to have effect as if the national chair and the national secretary held the rank of chief inspector in the metropolitan police; but nothing in this paragraph transfers any rights or liabilities to the local policing body maintaining that force [find PFEW regulations attached].

Moreover, Section 32/33 of the competence threshold policy deals with officers on maternity leave and long term sickness. These officers can also apply for the payment citing examples from the two-year period leading up to the absence commenced, so in effect this could also be applicable to us.

Section 40 goes on to state that it is the responsibility of HMGoG to assure itself that the arrangements in place in the RGP for assessment and payment under this scheme including arrangements for triggering assessment and efficient and effective.

Our Police Federation Regulations 2018 state:

5(3) The chairman and secretary of the Board shall be full time conveners of the Federation and shall continue to have and enjoy all the rights, powers, authorities, privileges and immunities of a constable.
Surely, the threshold allowance has to fall within the remit of a privilege.

One more point for you consider. If the decision made is not to grant the threshold to convenors what will happen when convenors go back to their policing roles after their elected term? Surely after the four years in post, as the RGP is applying the criteria, we will have to once again demonstrate to the organisation that we are competent in order to receive the payment.

Once again, thank you for assistance in this matter.

Kind Regards

Dear Mr Chairman,

I take note of the comments in your email and the fact that you will be attending the football match as a paid entrant. Please note that you are not operationally deployed by us and that any liability at the event or any future event rests with yourselves.

May I suggest that if you wish to engage with our officers on any matter regarding the policing of the event, this should only be done in a de-brief phase and we invite you to any debrief the commander may hold. Equally, other board members are operational, so you may wish to use their presence as police officers at the event to share with you subsequently the negatives, and of course the positives of the management of the operation.

Mr Ullger,

Thank you for your email. Our presence at the football match yesterday was not meant to disrupt or interfere with the command structure, neither was it to meant to distract officers on points which I believe was not the case. Our presence there was to gauge at first hand the welfare and conditions of the officers policing the event. Having been involved in these events for the past twenty years I can say that the organisation is quite bad at looking after our own in these types of events. Quite frankly on this occasion the setup of the hangar for the PSU officers was pretty good, with food included. I also observed that there were rotations between the officers on static points. We identified an issue of a shortage of radios, again and this needs to be addressed asap.

I agree that maybe our presence in the hangar, and it's a maybe, was not the most appropriate but I assure you that the officers there were receptive to our brief visit, which was not at all disruptive. Whether you accept it or not this short visit and chat with the officers raises morale.

An issue which was raised by officers [after the match and in writing] was the fact that officers were being told off for arriving to work at 1340 hours when they were due to start at 1400 the reason being that they wanted these officers [PSU] deployed at 1400 hours. This might sound petty but when everyone is under stress these little things are magnified.

Let me inform you that we will both again be attending the football match on Thursday, in fact we will be watching the game and have already purchased tickets. I take on board your comments in relation to the hangar. We will be engaging with officers before entry to the match because at the end of the day they are our colleagues and we will not walk past or ignore them. To keep your mind at ease I can assure you that we will not be disrupting, unsettling or disturbing officers and if we see that they are busy and if so we will keep conversation to a minimum.

Kind Regards

Dear Both,

I write to you with regards to our conversation yesterday at Victoria Stadium, during the Operational Policing of the Football Game of St. Joseph's and Rangers FC.

Although we understand that your presence at the game was well intended, you need to understand that this was an operational policing event that contained command structures. Any concerns that the officers may have had, or any operational matter that needed attention should be first addressed at a supervisory level and not with the Federation. These conversations are best had after the event where the officers can allay with you any positive/negative feedback in another environment, but not operationally. Furthermore, entering into the confines of the operational plan has implications, simply because you are not warranted to be there. Any policing deployment or logistical support would have been addressed by us and this includes the welfare of our people.

Again, we understand that your presence was well intended, but I ask you to refrain from doing it again.

With best wishes.

[redacted] Meeting with CM – Federation

The Set Up in the UK:

Each police force in England and Wales has a Police Federation Branch. Branches are made up of local workplace representatives for that force who represent officers from the rank of constable to Chief Inspector. The Branch Council, who are elected by members from that force - workplace reps undertake their work alongside their duties as full-time police officers. The Branch Board is elected from the Branch Council, which includes a Branch Secretary, Chair and Treasurer. Branch Boards meet regularly throughout the year to consider issues that affect their electorate.

Branch Boards act as the negotiation and consultative body for 1000's of men and women when dealing with their force's Chief Constable, senior officers and the Police and Crime Commissioners, providing an effective link between officers and senior management. They deal with the day-to-day problems Federated officers face, and work to improve the status of the police service and its members.

Each Force runs the Branch Council on different terms, but by in large most Force's will have full time Chairs and Secretaries. They are funded by Forces with their wages maintained at the rank they hold in service with an honorarium linked to rank [e.g. a PC will receive £220 net per month, a Sergeant £156 and an Inspector £86 net]. The Branch Council does not incur any overtime, but manages its own TOIL. Most Federation Branches are funded with membership subscriptions and legacy funding from Forces which is about £35K/year.

The Branch Chair and Secretary from each force, as well as other individuals from protected characteristics groups, make up the National Council, which meets regularly throughout the year to discuss national issues. John Apter [It is only this position that receives a wage irrespective of rank similar to that of a Chief Inspector] currently chairs the National Chair.

The Local Set Up:

- The RGP Command was not involved in the creation of the new Federation. This was done between the Office of the Chief Sec and the Federation Members.
- Previously, both the Chair and the Secretary aligned themselves to the National Chair's pay conditions and represent the Force. This makes no sense when the National Chair is the only person that receives this pay in the UK and represents over 100K officers. This needs reviewing and to be aligned to individual Force set-up. This is funded by the RGP.
- They receive a yearly budget, which appears to have no head of charge or controlling officer.

- Their budget for training is £20K and there is no control over flight/hotel/travel expenditure [this should be controlled by us].

- Their relationship with the RGP Command has been one of confrontation, with little consultation on their next steps. They have been disruptive in police operations and are currently causing disaffection amongst the rank and file.

- They meet up with the AC every three weeks to discuss matters of mutual benefit.

7th February 2020

[redacted]

Dear Mr Chairman,

RE- Gibraltar Police Federation

I refer to my letter of the 5th February concerning the above captioned and our subsequent discussions with the GPA members.

Firstly, I would like thank you for allowing me the opportunity to answer and/or address any issues the GPA had on the subject matter. Secondly, it is important that I clarify the intention of the letter was certainly not to suggest a curtailment of the prerogative of HMGOG to create new legislation or amend existing ones on matters of the Gibraltar Police Federation (GPF) but rather to inform you of concerns if indeed any changes were being contemplated as intimated in the letter.

As discussed at yesterday's meeting with the GPA, I propose a course of action which will hopefully draw the line under the past two years of what has been a difficult working relationship between the GPF and RGP senior management – all borne out from conflicting standpoints. I am strongly of the opinion that an independent review of the functions of the GPF and their relationship with the RGP is an appropriate vehicle to address the issues concerned. I am glad that the GPA support this approach as indeed HE the Governor and the Chief Minister.

I will be meeting with the full GPF Board to advise them of these intentions and hopefully enlist their support. I would ask that we meet at a mutually convenient time/date for the GPA, GPF and RGP to discuss the terms of reference for this review and intricacies of who is best placed to conduct it. My first thoughts are that the review team should be subject matter experts in policing, preferably serving officers (a Police Federation of England & Wales chairperson of a UK police force and an officer of chief officer rank, ACC or above, who is well acquainted with federation/management matters, protocols, arrangements etc). I mention these two categories of personalities because they will no doubt have mediatory abilities to assist us all in this journey. To keep the review impartial I further recommend that these individuals should not have had any previous relationship with either RGP senior management or GPF Board members and a declaration should be made to this effect.

I look forward to this process commencing the sooner the better.

Yours,

GPF Gibraltar Police Federation

JOB DESCRIPTION

Job Title:	Chairman & Secretary Gibraltar Police Federation
Grade:	As substantive post
Responsible to:	Gibraltar Police Authority
Accountable to:	Gibraltar Police Authority

1. History

In June 2018, the Gibraltar Parliament unanimously approved an amendment in the Police Act 2006 which empowered the Gibraltar Police Federation with its new Regulations in statute. The Gibraltar Police Federation is an independent body from the Royal Gibraltar Police. The officers elected, as Chairman and Secretary in the Gibraltar Police Federation remain as warranted officers' and are still accountable to the Commissioner of Police under the Police Discipline Regulations 1991. In 2016, an agreement was reached with HM Government of Gibraltar to increase the Royal Gibraltar Police's compliment by two officers on creation of the Gibraltar Police Federation. As a result, the Royal Gibraltar Police were able to release two officers to carry out their full-time roles as Chairman and Secretary of the Gibraltar Police Federation. In effect, both Convenors are supernumerary.

2. Appointment

Both Chairman and Secretary will be elected to act as convenors for the Gibraltar Police Federation by the Gibraltar Police Federation Board, at an AGM every four years as per the Gibraltar Police Federation Regulations. At the end of their term, and if not re-elected, Convenors will revert to their original post and grade.

3. Facilities Agreement

Gibraltar Police Federation Convenors will be afforded 100% facility time and will be based at their offices at Unit 1.12 Retrenchment Block. As part of an agreement reached with HM Government of Gibraltar, an annual grant will be provided to the GPF for the running of the offices and to enable Convenors and Board members to attend courses and conferences. The amount may be reviewed annually at the discretion of HM Government of Gibraltar if valid representations are made in writing to HM Government of Gibraltar that extra funds are required.

4. Terms and Conditions

Convenors will retain their HM Government of Gibraltar contracted terms and conditions while serving their elected term. Gibraltar Police Federation Convenors will receive an allowance, which will bring their earnings in line with that of a Chief Inspector in the Royal Gibraltar Police. This allowance is pensionable and will be in recognition of the additional responsibilities within the role, the need and requirement for flexible working, plus additional hours worked beyond contracted hours. Convenors will commence at the first point of the Chief Inspectors scale and will move up the scale annually on the date of their appointment as convenors.

If at the time, the officers elected to act as Chairman and Secretary, are being paid the threshold payment this will continue to be paid throughout their elected term as there has been no promotion in rank.

Whilst the HM Government of Gibraltar/Gibraltar Police Authority shall retain overall management of the convenors as employees, the Human Resources Department within the Royal Gibraltar Police will assume day to day management of the convenors in relation to annual leave, sickness, absence, etc, although annual leave will be approved in house by the convenors. All attempts should be made for annual leave not to be taken simultaneously.

The Gibraltar Police Federation convenors agreement will be up for review no later than three months before the next round of quadrennial convenor elections and will be agreed by the outgoing convenors in consultation with HM Government of Gibraltar.

5. Discipline

Both convenors remain warranted officers and still accountable to the Commissioner of Police under the Police Discipline Regulations 1991. It is impossible for Convenors to have complete independence from the Royal Gibraltar Police as the organisation can still exercise control via the disciplinary route.

As a result, even though convenors are warranted officers, any complaint made against them in regards of discipline whilst performing their Federation roles will be forwarded to the Chairman of the Gibraltar Police Authority for him to consider.

If the Chairman of the Gibraltar Police Authority is satisfied that there is a case to answer, he will advise the Royal Gibraltar Police of this. In the case that convenors actions are so grave that this merits them to face a disciplinary panel at a hearing then an independent panel will be selected by the Chairman of the Gibraltar Police Authority.

Any disciplinary action taken by the Royal Gibraltar Police in respect of the Convenors in their role as Chairman and Secretary of the Federation as from the date they have been elected until the date of this signed agreement will be referred to the GPA for them to review.

Any discipline offence[s] committed by Convenors whilst not performing their roles will still fall under the Commissioner of Police.

6. Deployment

Convenors will only be deployable by the Royal Gibraltar Police in exceptional circumstances, i.e. terrorist attack, air crash disaster.

7. Overview of Main Duties Responsibilities

I refer to our meeting of 13th February where we agreed to arrange for an independent review to clarify our differing standpoints which we accepted were contributing to a deteriorating relationship between the command team and yourselves. In this regard I suggest that we exchange ideas of what the terms of this review should entail before proceeding any further.

Could I ask that we exchange our respective proposed TORs by close of play this coming Thursday 27th February and then convene to meet to discuss these on Friday 28th February @ 0930Hrs.

Gents – many thanks for this morning's contribution to the subject matter. I am happy that we have agreed to the common terms of reference for the review. For the record these are as follows:-

"To provide independent support to the RGP Commissioner of Police and Gibraltar Police Federation (GPF) by examining and advising on the differing standpoints between the GPF and RGP of the current [Federation] model and make recommendations to afford clarification on roles of the parties to ensure a better understanding of each of their respective positions in terms of their working relationship and responsibilities"

We also mentioned that before we proceed to engage the review team that there consensus between us in accepting the outcomes and any recommendations arising from the review as binding - we agreed this.

We further agreed on the desired composition of the review team as follows;-

A UK PFEW National Board representative
A UK PFEW Regional Board Chair or Secretary
A senior police officer ACC rank or above
A senior police officer of either the States of Jersey of Police, Guernsey Police of Isle of Man Police (to bring the small island context to the review team).

Finally, we agreed that I would email HMI Matt Parr and seek his assistance in putting together the members of the said review team.

Wishing you all a good weekend

Dear Mr Chairman
Many thanks for sharing the GPF's proposed TORs for the review.

Below please find mine. I have included two versions for discussion tomorrow. You will note that the final version will bear very similar resemblance to both our proposals.

Version 1
"To provide independent support to the RGP Commissioner of Police and Gibraltar Police Federation (GPF) by examining and advising on the differing standpoints between the GPF and RGP of the current [Federation] model and make recommendations to afford clarification on roles of the parties to ensure a better understanding of each of their respective positions in terms of their working relationship."

Version 2

Reasonable questions to ask from the review team in my view are also the following;

- The [GPF] model operated - is this like the UK National Board or more like a UK Branch Board?
- Which is the most appropriate model to apply when read with the extant regulations and the Gibraltar jurisdictional context (size of force, membership of the GPF etc) ?
- The extent the GPF should be independent from the RGP. Eg Any limitations? Governance arrangements? Communicating with Trade Unions etc
- The status of the two full time post holders of Chair and Sec viz their positions in the organisation & GPF. Eg Should they be the same as the other 6 GPF Board members or be treated differently viz code of ethics and standards of professional behaviour?
- Opinion on the ToC's as you ask in your proposal.

I look forward to a constructive meeting tomorrow.

Sir,

After consulting with the Board the following TOR have been identified:

1. Clarity on the independence of GPF
2. Discipline [acting in the capacity as convenors] which also encompasses how and if Board members can be disciplined when GPF makes a "controversial" decision as a Board
3. Deployment of convenors by SMT
4. Outreach to Media
5. Events

The Convenors TOC'S [as supplied] is what we essentially wish to achieve.

Dear Michael and Fred –
I hope this email finds you both well. Below please find 3 very important items which require addressing/resolving. I require your support in all of them.

[redacted]

[redacted]

GPF Chairman and Secretary (HRM & Chief Sec copied in for this item)
Since the creation of the Gibraltar Police Federation there has been a lack of clarity on how to treat the additional two constable posts established to replace the Chairman and Secretary of the GPF. The fact that one or both could be ranking officers has caused additional confusion in discussions on the established complement with HRD. In July of last year the following text was proposed:

Our understanding of what was agreed with HMGoG at the time is as follows:

1. Constable complement was increased to 183 [from 181] to allow for two officers to act as full time representatives of the GPF. The operational constable complement would therefore remain at 181 with two additional officers acting as Chair Secretary of the GPF. This complement rose to 191 operational constables + 2 for the Chairman and Secretary following the first tranche of the 25 officer uplift.

2. If a ranking officer were to be appointed as a full time GPF representative, then a promotion occurs to the equivalent rank, with corresponding promotions to all lower ranks as applicable. A constable promoted to sergeant in this context will not cause a vacancy to arise, [see point 1] in the establishment.
3. The Chairman and Secretary standing down following their term of appointment will revert to operational duties at their rank. Should a promotion have occurred to maintain complement at that rank [see point 2], and the replacing conveners be of a lower rank than the outgoing convener, then there will be a supernumerary officer at the rank of the outgoing convener until an officer of that rank retires, is promoted, or a convener is appointed of that rank, whichever is the sooner. This is the only circumstance in which a rank may have supernumerary posts in its complement arising from the appointment of conveners. Should the full time reps be replaced like for like in terms of rank, no promotions would arise.

In our current reconciliation of vacancies with HRD due to the ongoing recruitment process we are again having to clarify the position with regard to the two posts , Chairman and Secretary. HRD say they have nothing in writing to support the argument I have posed, on indeed the fact that our complement should always be 191 constables without counting the Chairman and Secretary, regardless of their rank.

It would be very helpful if you [Michael] could advise HRD along the lines of what I have described above.

In closing, I more than happy to meet and discuss any of the above items at a mutually convenient time.

Best regards
Ian

Subject – Inspector/Chief Inspectors letter to GPF

Date: 07/02/2020

Dear Mr Fernandez,

Thank you for your letter received on 4th February 2020.

Let me put you at ease that the Gibraltar Police Federation did not endorse the Panorama article when it reposted this on Facebook. The point of our post was to highlight how independent the GPF was when their Chairman and Secretary were being investigated when acting in their capacity as convenors.

We spoke at the Board meeting about the wording that was used in the caption to introduce the Facebook post which we agreed could have been worded differently. It was also agreed to share with other Board members any post that could be controversial, before uploading to Facebook. This however does not mean that we will not be challenging the organisation when necessary.

The Panorama article makes mention of HE, HMGoG and the GPA. The GPF does not agree with any of the comments made against the above. In fact, a couple of days later we had a meeting which had already been scheduled with the GPA. The Panorama article was not on the agenda but I thought it appropriate to bring the matter up and reinforce the fact that we did not endorse the comments of the Panorama. Our relationship with the GPA is very good, and they are 100% supportive of the GPF.

Our relationship with HMGoG is also very good, who I can confirm are 100% behind the GPF.

I must reinforce again that the GPF did not at any point approach the Panorama newspaper. It was the organisation that fed the information to the Panorama and as a result the article was published.

You make mention in your letter to "airing dirty laundry" in public and keeping things "in house". Unfortunately, sometimes matters have to be made public, in order to get results. The GPF survey that has been shared with the media for the past two years is a clear example of this. As a result of this going public, and external pressures, we are finally seeing some of the issues raised by our members in the survey being dealt with.

The fact that we have aired this matter in the media has also given us the unexpected support of the three local trade unions which I have never seen before in my policing career.

Their may be a perception between members that the relationship between the GPF and Command is not good and things are not progressing. This is not true and I can inform you that we are working closely with Command on issues such as morale, bullying, the grievance procedure, wellbeing, and the conditions of service, which needs to be revamped completely.

You did not mention in your letter, but we did discuss in the Board meeting that the Inspector/ Chief Inspectors felt they were being "forgotten" and "not backed up". This cannot be further from the truth. It is difficult to keep all members happy but both myself and the Secretary strive to work for all members not only for the Constable and Sergeants rank.

If there are any Inspectors that wish to speak to me directly, you can inform them that they can call me 24/7, I am always open to any suggestions that might improve the way that we do our business.

For sake of clarity, I would like to inform the Inspectors/ Chief Inspectors that in my nearly 21 years of service, I have never been disciplined. In my term as Chairman, I have received a written warning for an exchange of emails with senior command in relation to the Gift fund and two reg 9 notices, the last one after the latest Facebook post.

The Secretary also has an unblemished discipline record in his years as a police officer. During his term as Secretary, he has also received a written warning and has been served with two reg 9 notices.

When you meet up at a later date and discuss the matter with the Inspectors / Chief Inspector I would be grateful to know what the general feeling is amongst them in relation to this.

Yours sincerely

Dear Mr Chairman & Secretary.

References –

1. Our letter dated the 4th February 2020
2. Your letter dated the 7th February 2020.

Thank you for your prompt response to our letter.

Yesterday afternoon we had another meeting with our branch members to discuss the contents of your letter.

The following was a consensus from all present;

- The Chairman's explanation stating that the Face book post did not endorse the Panorama article was discussed at length.
- There were differing opinions from those present but it was accepted that it may have been a matter of perception in which case negative inferences could be drawn. We did however welcome the fact that any further posts deemed to be potentially controversial will be shown to the board members before they are made public. This was viewed as a satisfactory outcome and should prevent further misunderstandings.

- The branch were glad to hear that you maintain a good working relationship with the HMGOG and GPF. We would like to hear of more positive interactions with the RGP SMT and for these to be cascaded to our front ranks as they appear to have different perceptions.

- With regards to any current disciplinary procedures you and the Secretary are undergoing, the branch felt that we should not be commenting on these sensitive investigations. We have to remember that we fall under the codes of ethics and it would not be right to engage with opinions.

To conclude, the branch are satisfied with the Chairman's response and hope that this will taken as an opportunity to move forward in a positive manner. Should any further issues arise from any similar occurrences we would reserve our right to address them accordingly.

Regards.

Dear Mr Chairman & Secretary

I write to you as the representative of the Chief Inspectors and & Inspectors rank within The Gibraltar Police Federation.

As you are aware and as a consequence of a recent post on Facebook by yourselves a meeting of the above mentioned ranks was called due to concerns regarding the board's current attitude and behavior. This was raised by several members. Of the 13 officers eligible to attend 12 were in attendance. A number which demonstrates the strength of feeling with regards to this subject. The only Inspector not in attendance was Inspector Olivera, who had been spoken to prior to the meeting and was in agreement with the suggested approach.

With regards to the Post on the GPF Facebook page the members felt that the endorsement of the Panorama Article was not appropriate for the following reasons:

1. The article does not represent the views of the membership and is in itself written in a divisive and contentious manner making negative references to The Governor, HM Government, GPA and the Commissioner.
2. The comment posted by the Chairman and & Secretary does not represent the view of the whole board who were also not consulted but rather shows a personal view held by them.
3. The post refers to an on-going investigation which should not be commented on in a public forum until such time as it is dealt with.

The current program of confrontation, especially in such a public forum is not conducive to achieving the goals of either the GPF or RGP. It only serves to alienate those entities which we have to work with on a daily basis such as the GPA, HE and HM Government.

The Inspectors rank finds itself in the unique position of being represented by the GPF whilst at the same time being part of the management structure and it is felt that the GPF Board is failing to recognize this when making decisions which may lead to conflict with the officers they manage.

Finally the members feel that these matters should be dealt with "in-house" and that going public and "airing our dirty laundry" is not appropriate. There is enough criticism of the police as it is without generating more ourselves. It also has the effect of causing disaffection within the ranks bringing officers into conflict with each other and empowering those officers whose only goal is to cause problems for the service.

It is the hope of the members that this current conduct gives way to one of reconciliation so that we can move past this juncture and move forward with improving things for all the officers of the RGP.

I look forwarded to hearing your thoughts on the matter and addressing the above issues.

Dear Mr Chairman,

Thank you for your email regarding the fund.

I think you are well aware about the rules and conditions set for the fund, as I shared this with you some time ago. We, as you did, knew that this was not going to be favoured by the officers, but as I have told you time and time again, the command have decided to put an end to a fund that was unjustly set up some 40 years ago.

There is little that we can do other than closing the fund and returning monies paid in by the officers as stipulated by the rules. As I have told you before, there are not enough monies to give to the officers what they have exactly put into the fund, so I have no idea what you wish to speak to me about.

I see that in you email to your members that you make no mention of the rules for the fund that you have already seen, but instead you say, and I quote...

'We all appear to be short changed. I will be requesting a meeting with Mr Ullger to try and sort out the matter asap.'

This you know is a misleading statement that you have pushed out to the officers, as you have very cleverly omitted to say that there are rules governing the fund and that the officers were only entitled to specific sums appertaining to their years of service.

Best wishes.

Dear Chair & Secretary -

I am unformed that some members of the Gift Fund are not in agreement with the decision to close the said fund & particulary with the intended arrangements to split the monies in the fund.

There are probably many arguments for and against the decision coupled with some lack of understanding of the issues at stake and which have led to the decision taken.

I think that we have to try and share some common understanding so that contributors of the fund get the information accurately with no distortions or the need for members to cast nasty aspersions. To this end I would like to address the whole of the GPF Board on Thursday 12th Sept @1030hrs on this matter specifically. It will serve as an opportunity to listen to the specific concerns and hopefully either allay these or provide any answers to their questions .

Grateful if you could acknowledge acceptance.

Subject: The Gift Fund

Dear All,

I have found it necessary to write to you all regarding the Gift Fund, in response to the RGPF's email, as it would appear that there are some, if not, many of you, disappointed with the funds you are due to receive from the winding up of the Gift Fund. Please be rest assured that this disappointment is shared by the Commissioner and the Command, and it is for this reason why we thought it was necessary to close the fund.

The fund was created maybe some 40 years ago, or even more, with a set of rules that governed it, hence the reason why after having completed so many years, and you were due to retire, that you received X amount. The fund as contributions were being constantly used for gifts for retiring colleagues who contributed to the fund. The argument that members should receive the amount of money they have contributed is flawed, as part of those contributions have been spent on presents for retiring colleagues". We acknowledge that this may not appease some of the members of the fund, but this has been a practice that has been happening for years. We have therefore prevented new entrants joining and sought the best and most fair way to wind up the fund, with a decision having been made to do so as explained in Force Orders on Thursday.

Returning to the email sent by the Chairman of the Federation yesterday, I think it is important that I inform you that we had already discussed the matter with him and that he was provided with the rules of the fund. He knew very well that the intention of the Command was to do a right from something that had been managed wrongly by others for many years and that we wanted to prevent it happening any further. His insinuation that he would seek a meeting to discuss this is misleading, as we had already done so. He also knew that there was little that could be done other than wind it up and that the only funds available was the funds that could be provided to officers as stipulated by the rules.

Trust us, that this was done out of the best of intentions, so much so that the command have even donated their contributions to the charity committee. I am more than happy to discuss this with any of you who need further clarification. Remember, we run an open door policy and we will make time to see any of you who wish to chat about the matter. Please also remember that this is something that the Commissioner has inherited and he is trying to make a right out of it.

Enjoy your weekend and stay safe.

Subject: AAP report/ Benevolent fund

Sir,

I have had several officers approach me regarding the final AAP report and whether Command are going to share this document with the officers.
Will you be sharing this document with them?

On another note I have read your latest email where you make reference to several remarks made on a WhatsApp chat. Whilst I am not privy to what has been said here [and I am not defending their actions or comments] this has all been brought upon by the fact that the winding up of the fund had not been properly explained to officers.

In fact, if the closing of this fund would have been explained properly from the start as I have just done with facts and figures I assure you that most officers would have accepted this explanation.

We were informed that the fund was closing down as this was now untenable. Officers were then informed that they would receive much less than they had contributed. What do you think people thought? I am not trying to justify anyone's comments but simply putting forward that the communication between Command and officers in this matter has been poor and as a result has given rise to certain comments.

You highlight the fact "the administrator of which is the GPF Secretary" of the group as if he was responsible for the comments. This is simply not acceptable. But you then thank him for dealing with the matter people privately. It appears that at every possible opportunity you try and discredit the Federation or its convenors.

You may not think so but the Federation is here to help, and I find myself in the enviable position of getting the best deal for our members whilst making others accountable for their actions.

Enjoy your weekend.

Subject: BENEVOLENT FUND

Dear All,

I would just like to clear up some issues in relation to the Gift & Benevolent Fund, which has been the subject of much conversation over the past few days.

The Gift fund was started in the 1950/1960's where an officer would contribute 50 pence towards his final retirement gift.

In October 2009, it was ascertained that the fund could no longer continue with the 50 pence contribution as the fund was in the red so a decision was taken to increase the contribution to one pound a month. [see table below]. These contributions commenced as from November 2009.

2010	1134.84
2011	1748.89
2012	2386.97
2013	3399.01
2014	3726.35
2015	4667.23
2016	5217.58
2017	7575.64
2018	8418.13
2019	8919.45

These were published in Force Orders 43/09 on 04/11/2009 with the rules been published in Appendix B with a reminder being again issued in Force Orders 44/09 [find rules attached]

I have personally gone through the figures calculating the amounts officers have put into the fund up to 2009 and 2009-2019. If any officer wishes to see what they have contributed, please get in contact with Accounts Department who will be more than happy to show these to you.

So in essence, the total contributed into the fund from 2010 onwards is £17760. You will see that the funds held are £8919.45.

The £8841 difference in the total contributed of £17760 are the gifts or cheques, which the officers have received when retiring over the years. Again, I have compared the above mentioned figure to all officers who have retired from 2010 onwards and therefore, I can allay any fears from officers that any funds are missing.

The funds will therefore be paid out as per the rules.

If any of you have any further questions you can contact me.

Dear all –

The Command Team and I are pleased that common sense has prevailed in accepting the manner in which the winding up of the Gift/Benevolent Fund will be carried out. Like explained by the GPF Chair in the below e-mail and in the Force Orders 35/19 and the email circulated by the Assistant Commissioner to all staff, the fund was not a savings fund and any payments made from it were those precisely for what the fund was created for – to purchase gifts for retiring contributing members – bank charges were also debited from the account.

Having explained the above I will address the totally unnecessary and unethical remarks posted by some constables in a 'Whatsapp' constables forum the administrator of which is the GPF Secretary. The defamatory and insulting remarks suggesting that the volunteers and management who have been running the fund have defrauded you, the members, is simply unacceptable and unbecoming behaviour of police officer. Parts of this chat were not conducive to good discipline and contrary to our code of ethics. Importantly so, the Command is pleased that the administrator (GPF secretary) shares these same sentiments and has stated that those officers who over stepped the mark have been messaged in private to call them to order.

I take this opportunity to thank those officers and support staff members (past and present) who have voluntarily assumed added responsibilities of keeping the fund alive for so many years.

A notice will be published advising contributors of the method of returning the funds as stipulated in the rules.

Wishing you all a good weekend – and for those working, please stay safe.

Best wishes

Subject: Gift and Benevolent Fund

Dear Maurice,

Over the years officers have been contributing towards the Gift and Benevolent Fund, with the latter also being supported by our Support Staff. The funds have recently been managed by the Federation, but at a Command meeting we decided to do away with both funds and wrap them up, simply because of the risks they carry, the funds were created in years when financial hardship was more prevalent, but more importantly, no one wants to really manage them any longer. We will now be ceasing contributions as from next month.

It is therefore our intention to reimburse contributors of the Gift Fund in accordance with the rules.

5 to 15 years of contribution £85.00
16 to 20 year of contribution £120.00
21 years to full service contribution £190.00

Again, in accordance with the rules, officers with less than 5 years' service are not entitled to receive any funds, but because it was deemed that officers contributed towards their final retirement gift and we are now doing away with it, we have decided to cap this at £28.00 up to 5 years, or return their contribution, but not exceeding £28.00 for those officers not having attained 5 years.

The Command [CI and above] have all agreed to donate the £190 they would each be getting to the Charity Committee and we will be offering the rank and file whether they wish to do the same. This of course is optional, with no obligation whatsoever, but it is needless to say that we would already be donating £1900.00.

The funds appertaining to the Benevolent Fund will be transferred to the Charity Committee account and will be used solely for donations by the committee. They will now manage Benevolent issues as they already do.

Happy to discuss this with you before we announce it in Force Orders this week.

Best wishes

Dear Mr Ullger

Thank you for your email.

The winding down of the benevolent fund is an issue that will be controversial. I agree that the funds objective which was to give a parting gift to the officer who was about to retire is now obsolete in this day and age.

However, I still believe that the manner in which this intends to be done is not right. You rightly say that the Fund was governed by rules and I have these and have read them. I do not believe the organisation has ever followed any of these rules. I do not believe any serving or retired officer for that matter has ever caught sight of these rules because if they would have, no one would have ever signed up for this.

So to now say that you will be compensating the officers as per rules is simply unacceptable.

If the fund is to be winded down/closed I will be asking for transparency in relation to the accounts. I would like to know:

Who the Chairman/Secretary and Treasurer for the fund are. As per rules the Chairman is the Superintendent in charge of Support. The Welfare Officer, EO and AO of Corporate Development together with the CI and Insp of PSD should all sit on the board. The Chairman should have appointed a Secretary and Treasurer from this board.

What bank account is the money held in (interest account?) and how much money is held in the account.

Surely officers cannot receive half the amount of money that they put in. There has to be money left over.

I am happy to discuss matter but it appears of late that you have been extremely busy and we have not been able to meet as frequently as we would have liked.

Dear Mr Chairman and Secretary,

Last week I emailed you regarding the Command's decision to do away with the Gift and Benevolent Fund. This was done with a view of sharing it with you both before coming out externally and officially to the workforce. It is now my information that the rank and file are fully aware of it, as officers have been personally asking Finance what they will be receiving when the accounts are closed. I refer to the last sentence of my email to you on the 20th of Gust 2019...

'Happy to discuss this with you before we announce it in Force Orders this week.'

In the future, I respectfully ask that you respect the Commands decision to inform officers officially through the proper means, rather than through word of mouth from the Federation. This provides a very unprofessional communication forum and has the potential of misinforming people, allowing them to make their own judgements without being informed properly.

Please remember that the Federation is consulted by the Command on different issues we are addressing internally, so as to ensure that we work together, but it does not expect the Federation to by the speaker on behalf of the Command. Communicating to our work force is key and therefor an element of trust and respect is expected when matters are discussed amongst ourselves.

Subject: RE: Gift and Benevolent Fund

Dear Richard

Thank you for your email.

Whilst the winding down of the gift and benevolent fund by the organisation is inconsequential to the GPF I have to bring to your attention that the funds have never been managed by the Federation. The only role of the Federation has in this matter is to produce an Excel document with all deductions from officers at the end of each month which includes the £1 contribution towards the gift fund.

A point that will surely raise eyebrows will be how you intend to reimburse officers.

5 to 15 years of contribution £85.00
16 to 20 year of contribution £120.00
21 years to full service contribution £190.00

If for example I have contributed £243 over the years towards the gift fund I expect that these monies are reimbursed in full.

If you proceed to reimburse officers as above I strongly suspect that there will be monies left unaccounted for in the gift account.

You state that this is as "per rules" and I now have to ask the question, what rules?

I am sure these rules do not cater for the "winding down" of the fund and the rules will only apply to officers that are retiring. I would be grateful if you could please show me this document.

A question that will be asked by members will be who has been managing the fund over the years? what account were the monies placed in? was there any interest from the monies? how much money is presently in the account? and how much is left over after payment is made to the officers?

Kind Regards

Subject: Gift and Benevolent Fund

Dear Maurice,

Over the years officers have been contributing towards the Gift and Benevolent Fund, with the latter also being supported by our Support Staff. The funds have recently been managed by the Federation, but at a Command meeting we decided to do away with both funds and wrap them up, simply because of the risks they carry, the funds were created in years when financial hardship was more prevalent, but more importantly, no one wants to really manage them any longer. We will now be ceasing contributions as from next month.

It is therefore our intention to reimburse contributors of the Gift Fund in accordance with the rules.

5 to 15 years of contribution £85.00
16 to 20 year of contribution £120.00
21 years to full service contribution £190.00

Again, in accordance with the rules, officers with less than 5 years' service are not entitled to receive any funds, but because it was deemed that officers contributed towards their final retirement gift and we are now doing away with it, we have decided to cap this at £28.00 up to 5 years, or return their contribution, but not exceeding £28.00 for those officers not having attained 5 years.

The Command [CI and above] have all agreed to donate the £190 they would each be getting to the Charity Committee and we will be offering the rank and file whether they wish to do the same. This of course is optional, with no obligation whatsoever, but it is needless to say that we would already be donating £1900.00.

The funds appertaining to the Benevolent Fund will be transferred to the Charity Committee account and will be used solely for donations by the committee. They will now manage Benevolent issues as they already do.

Happy to discuss this with you before we announce it in Force Orders this week.

Best wishes

Richard

Re: Conduct Likely to Bring the Force into Disrepute – Warning Notice

It has come to the attention of the organisation that on a Social Media site "Kop on the Rock", which you are a member of, you made comments of a nature which could bring the Force in disrepute. Specifically, these comments related to Bein Sport commentators where you used derogatory comments to describe them.

Although you are free to belong and contribute to any social media site in your own free time, your conduct as a Police Officer should at all times reflect the principles and standards of behaviour set out in our code of ethics. The comments referred to above falls well below the standards expected of an officer of the Royal Gibraltar Police and is in direct contradiction with our code of ethics, and as such can bring the reputation of the force into ill repute.

Thus, on this occasion, you are being issued with this written warning, which will be placed into your personal file, but any reoccurrence of similar conduct will result in a sterner view being taken.

I am very disappointed at this when I think that what Insp Enriles did on Monday asking to delete the post which I did was enough, especially as no one on the secret group has complaint and the comment was not political or law enforcement orientated. All I take from this love of response for speaking so poorly, when much worst things have happened in this force and nothing has happened a clear example that not everyone is treated the same. This looks to me as a personal grudge.

WRITTEN WARNING

Since taking up the role of Chairman of the Gibraltar Police Federation a pattern of conduct has been developing that is regarded as insubordination towards the office of the Commissioner of Police and other senior officers.

As the Chair of the Federation, your role may require you to challenge The Command, when such challenge is warranted, but always with respect and courtesy. However, the manner in which you have chosen to carry out this function so far has been unbecoming in that you have demonstrated disrespect and a confrontational attitude. Notwithstanding your federation role, you remain a warranted Police Officer and as such subject to the Police Discipline Regulations and our Code of Ethics.

You are hereby being warned as to your course of conduct in this regard. A copy of this warning letter will be placed in your personal file.

COMMISSIONER'S RESPONSE TO GPF's PRESS RELEASE

The Commissioner of Police is disappointed with the decision by the Gibraltar Police Federation to unilaterally publish an internal staff survey without any consultation, or input, from senior management. The RG Police respects the right of the GPF to conduct such exercises, and the RG Police is proud of its record of transparency and openness. The RG Police, however, has no choice but to reply publically to the survey and note our conclusion that the findings of the report give a distorted, incomplete and wholly unbalanced picture of the reality of our organisation.

In the past five years, we have been working in close cooperation with the Gibraltar Government across a whole range of issues to tackle long-standing grievances caused by increased policing challenges. These difficulties are made more acute by historical under-investment in the force, and the need to carry out adjustments necessary to address the RG Police's changing, and increasingly demanding, work streams.

We are satisfied that the Gibraltar Government has taken note of our representations regarding the burdens we are facing due to limited resources being unremittingly stretched, and are pleased to report that there have been significant advances in this period.

The incumbent administration's support for the RG Police has been reflected in substantial investment in human, material resources and real estate, including assets for the maritime section, together with much needed cash injections into vital equipment and technology. Moreover, the RG Police has seen an increase in 15 more sworn in police officers in the last 7 years.

The GPF has been regularly briefed about our meaningful discussions with the Gibraltar Government and the verifiable progress that has been achieved. In view of this, it is regrettable that they should have unilaterally published the survey without discussing the findings with senior management and giving us an opportunity to establish clear guidelines of action to jointly address the concerns that may have been identified.

Although outstanding issues remain, and we look forward to facing them in a spirit of mutual trust with the GPF, it is unfair to undermine all the hard work that has been done to date by creating a negative impression. We have a cordial relationship with the GPF and hold regular meetings with them, to review outstanding issues of mutual interest in a constructive atmosphere.

The RG Police force, its senior ranks and officers are committed to the delivery of excellent service to the public, and we call on the GPF to assist us in ensuring that we accomplish that critical objective in the most positive manner.

GPF survey distorts reality says Police Commissioner

In reply the Commissioner of Police says the findings of the report give a distorted, incomplete and wholly unbalanced picture of the reality of the RGP, and says he is disappointed that the Federation has chosen to publish the survey without any consultation or input from senior management.

Commissioner Ian McGrail says over the last five years the RGP been working together with the Government to tackle long-standing grievances cased by increasing policing challenges, made more acute by historical under-investment in the force. He says the Government has taken note of these representations and significant advances have been made.

He says the current administration has made substantial investment in human, material and real estate resources, incuding equipment, technology and 15 more officers in the last 7 years.

Commissioner McGrail says the Federation has been regularly briefed about discussions with the Government, and regrets that the report has been made public without giving senior management a chance to discuss the findings and set a plan of action in place. He says it is unfair to undermine all the work done so far by creating a negative impression.

The Commissioner says the RGP has a cordial relationship with the Federation, and calls on them to help the RGP accomplish its objectives in a positive way.

Police work force is overstretched – Yome

BY GABRIELLA PERALTA Share

18th July 2016

The Royal Gibraltar Police is in talks with the Gibraltar Government to increase its personnel, amid concerns its resources are overstretched to near breaking point, police Commissioner Eddie Yome has told the Chronicle.

He was reflecting on the findings of a report by HM Inspectorate of Constabulary which noted that, despite a vastly changed policing climate, the RGP's size had remained the same since 1946.

"We are presently in negotiations with government and we have submitted a business case through the Police Authority to government on where we need those resources and why we need those resources and hopefully that will come to fruition in the not too distant future but basically our work force is really, really stretched," Commissioner Yome said.
"My concerns are the elastic band will break."

Mr Yome also said Gibraltar is a different territory to what it was 70 years ago, adding that further resources are needed to meet the current workload.

Extracts from case in Spain of two RGP officers

Thursday, June 27, 2019 - 10:14

When we have asked the Commissioner of Police McGrail about the two police officers that were arrested, charged and sentenced in a Spanish court, he repeats in parrot fashion that 'it is our understanding that there are no adverse records in respect of any RGP officer in Spain.'

When the Chronicle and GBC followed up our report, and asked the RGP for a comment, they also got the same reply.

As stated in our report on Tuesday, we have legal documentation - even quoting the Spanish judge that took the case - but people wonder why Mr McGrail keeps insisting that he knows nothing - or is it that he doesn't want to know?

In the reports we have published, we have left out names, as that is not the point, the point is that the RGP want to cover up the matter.

At this stage we are not going to serialise the legal documentation, but we will publish some extracts - obviously in Spanish - which should prove that what Leo Olivero has been writing about is the truth and nothing but the truth.

*The extracts are in our print edition.

During the weekend a very disappointed and concerned Henry Bautista now in retirement, again reiterated to Panorama, that the latest RGP federation survey confirmed and reflected his call last year for an 'independent survey' to be conducted, the results this year he told us presents an even graver situation then it did last!

The Governor and the GPA directly responsible for these matters never commissioned an independent inquiry, they probably never gave it a second thought, which appears to be the case again this year. So far there has been no response to the serious BPF press statement on Friday from either the Convent or the GPA.

With the latter comment in mind, the incriminatory and again damning survey result this year can hardly be surprising, particularly if the matter was never fairly and impartially handled with health, safety and the welfare of officers in mind. But instead the GPF survey reflects, more bullying as the order of the day it seems!

I have no doubt, the Governor and the GPA must bear the brunt of the criticism.

No lessons were learnt last year, which essentially is the purpose of these internal surveys. What the Governor and GPA fail to see, is that bullying in the workplace, particularly within the police service, affects not only the working environment, health and safety, but also in cases, domestic life and the right of police officers to equal opportunity and treatment.

And what the powers that be should be concerned about is the damage and harmful effects of bullying; they should be leading from the front in eradicating from the service. This will never be achieved if potential bullying perpetrators are handed the role of doing it themselves!

Police Cover-Up - After two RGP officers sentenced in Spanish Criminal Court

Tuesday, June 25, 2019 - 10:36

LEO OLIVERO

While a breakdown in trust between police and the public is by no means uniform across the community. Over a period of time and more recently, certain operational police activity has dominated headlines, like the current RGP illegal fishing enforcement policy in BGTW.

However, the main issue of this report has nothing to do with illegal fishing but how the police have repeatedly attempted, to mislead, ignore, confuse and in this case blatantly cover up their way out of answering repeated questions on an issue or incident that goes back 10 years.

The issue in question was a serious high profile incident of great public interest and political involvement. In fact, the matter concluded a number of months ago when two serving RGP officers were brought before a Spanish Criminal Courtroom to face charges. The case today whether the police like it or not is still of public interest as it was 10 years ago!

Information regarding the conclusion of the case has intentionally been kept under wraps it seems. Not withstanding and repeating the point about public and political interest, especially in an era, where international-cross border police cooperation appears to be dominating 'operational policing decisions'.

RGP Officers Charged With Theft Related Charges

Panorama can exclusively confirm, that two serving RGP officers last year just before Christmas appeared with three other local men, in front of a Spanish criminal court charged with offences, crimes, where in UK or in local law would be classed as cases of dishonesty.

In fact, the two officers together with the others were charged with offences akin to theft, bordering a more serious charge of burglary. Involving an unlawful entry into a dwelling or private apartment in Spain where an unlawful search of the premises was conducted and a number of items illegally removed.

The outcome of the court proceedings took place before a 'magistrate or juez del juzgado'.

In her sentencing summing up, the magistrate said that "Primarily the penalty for 'search' or 'break-in' ranges from six months to two years, and 'theft' which depends on the assessment of the theft; but in this case and due to circumstances not linked to the defendants but to the procedure and considering that the case is not of a major complexity, the Judge decided to reduce the penalty to "one and a half months imprisonment" for all the defendants including the two RGP officers, which the judge replaced by a monetary fine, (the latter was a legal translation from the official court document)

Violent Robbery in Gibraltar

The case dates back to August 2010 when the RGP who at the time were investigating a violent robbery at the 'Cellini Goldsmith' shop in Main Street where two men a Gibraltarian and a UK national were subsequently arrested.

Two RGP officers investigating the local robbery, for reasons best known to them and their superiors, crossed the frontier into Spain and proceeded to a private residence in San Roque. The officers it seems, were acting as police officers involved in a criminal investigation that took place in a foreign jurisdiction (Gibraltar). During the investigation in Spain, the officers entered private dwelling and allegedly removed items of jewellery, money and a motorcycle, that were conveyed back to Gibraltar. It all seems to have taken place without the consent of the owner of the flat and without notifying the Spanish authorities of their official action.

At the time, I penned a few reports, how these officers had made a huge mistake whilst conducting an investigation into a crime in Gibraltar, naively making a serious inexperienced decision to cross into Spain another jurisdiction, to recover evidence from a private property.

In 2010 as it is today, this incident is still of great public interest and political importance and relevance, a situation that has not changed. But information generally concerning this incident from the start has been scarce, misleading and ambiguous! All the ingredients of a good cover up believe me I know!

This incident became high profile in 2010, because it followed a similar one months earlier when four Guardia Civil officers unlawfully entered GB waters landing ashore in the Harbour Views area where they drew weapons in a hostile and aggressive manner. The Spanish officers thought they were in Spanish territory, but happened to miss a huge world iconic landmark Rock right in front of them, we call home!

The incident involving the four Guardia Civil went politically and diplomatically ballistic in Gibraltar, Madrid and London!

At the time, the then Chief Minister spoke with his opposite number in Madrid. A Spanish apology was made and accepted. A few months after, it was the turn of Mr Caruana to make the same apology to the Spanish Government. Although the stupidity of the RGP officer's in Spain, could not possibly be compared with the serious armed Spanish police presence in Gibraltar months earlier!

Following Caruana's apology, the Spanish government issued a statement with positive assurances it was the end of the matter. Where Peter Caruana warned that "he hoped the Spanish authorities would take the same view as was taken when the Guardia Civil landed on local shores and offending Spanish officers were not prosecuted".

Importantly Mr Caruana adding, "that if there is no reciprocity and a prosecution of RGP officers in Spain were to ensue, the harm it will do to cross-border relations at a local level will be incalculable".

Well it took 10 years - but a Spanish Prosecution did take place as Sir Peter kind of feared, though I don't think he thought it was going to take 10 years!

So what changed in 10 years? After so much time, the two local officers have been dragged back-and-forth through the Spanish legal system, ending up in the Spanish Criminal Court where they were found guilty of serious offences and sentenced!

Where is the Spirit of One-Way International Police Cooperation?

As unprofessional as the RGP'S actions in Spain was in 2010, it could hardly be in the same league as the 100's if not 1000's of blatant illegal incursions that continue today by Spanish state vessels into BGTW and still continues today. Now illegal fishing in BGTW is causing concern, where the RGP have gone soft and do absolutely nothing, seriously undermining the Rocks sovereignty, a vital point exclusively confirmed last week by us citing International courts of justice decisions on Sovereignty Claims!

The Spirit of International Police Cooperation is One Way...it Seems!

The Commissioner of Police would have us all believe the RGP is at the centre of all this international police cooperation. Yet two ranking RGP officers are forced onto the wrong side of the Spanish Criminal Justice System for a mistake collecting a criminal record on the way out! Did anyone inform the Spanish female judge about all the positive cross border police cooperation when she sentenced the local officers in Algeciras Court?

Recently in consecutive weeks, Panorama has contacted the RGP press people posing the same question regarding this matter; we received the same reply on Friday:

1...Can you please confirm once again, that no serving officer is subject of an adverse record in Spain?

2...Would the RGP have absolute knowledge that any serving officer(s) had appeared in any Spanish criminal court in the last 7 or 8 months to face what are considered criminal charges?

3...Did the RGP or anyone else conduct an internal investigation as to how two officers on duty were allowed to cross into a foreign jurisdiction to conduct an investigation and conduct an illegal entry into a private residence without the permission of the owner or without informing the Spanish authorities...if so

4...What was the outcome of the investigation or any subsequent action taken as a disciplined body?

5...Can you supply any further related information of public interest on this matter?

The RGP Repeated Answer:

"We reiterate that it is our understanding that there are no adverse records in respect of any RGP officer in Spain. The RGP does not comment on internal disciplinary matters"

It was a disgraceful, unprofessional and a contemptible reply and unfortunately a measure of policing today. We are led to believe with the answer, the RGP had no knowledge that two of their supervisory ranking officers had been charged to appear in a Spanish Criminal court where a prison sentence was imposed, substituted or downgraded to a fine!

We cannot believe and accept what the RGP continue to tell Panorama or the public.

Panorama has answers to questions from the police going back years, where the RGP are perfectly aware of the case brought against these officers and what was on going.

Did the RGP just switch off and took no further interest in the welfare of their officers?

Panorama will happily share with the RGP, Governor, the Government and GPA the documents in our possession, but only on the condition that an investigation is initiated to investigate who gave the instructions for the officers to illegally wander off into Spain, another jurisdiction, to search a private dwelling to obtain evidence. Though I'm sure they are all well aware and know much more, then what they want to share with the public or the press on this issue of great public interest!

No Intention of Publishing Officers Names

Its important to point out; Panorama has never had the intention of publishing the police officers names or their rank now. Even though today we are legally in position to do so having conducted our own investigation in Spain and retrieving official information and documentation with other information that might be an embarrassment to others?

What Panorama cannot allow is the RGP Senior Command treating the media, especially this newspaper, with constant disdain, not only on this matter, but others, and why publicly we intend to expose this RGP and their attempt to 'Cover Up' this matter!

Which begs the question, if the RGP has repeatedly tried to cover up this important matter, which is obvious. How many other police cover-ups have not seen the light of day!

The RGP senior command has tried to suppress information from the public. But unfortunately for them, they have not been clever as they think they are, and have obviously underestimated Panorama's drive to inform the public which is our obligation to expose and question once again - Just What is Happening to Policing in Gibraltar Today?

While all this is happening, at such an important national juncture for Gibraltar, the Governor and Gibraltar Police Authority sit idly by sitting on the proverbial lethargic fence doing and saying nothing – which has become what appears to be a lazy or uninterested habit with the Tenant at the Convent!

Media Play Significant Role Holding Police to Account

Some living so-called Professional Fairytales, would be wise to remember that the media has a significant role in holding policing to account and informing the public about the work of the police service. Not only that, but there is an obligation on the police service to engage with the media, both to communicate what the police are trying to do strategically and, at an operational level.

Of course the police has a duty to safeguard the confidentiality and integrity of information, but this must be balanced against the duty to be open, transparent and truthful all the time!

One wonders if the RGP have a communications strategy or do they make it up as they go along, even today, with a full time press officer and an experienced Corporate Communications GURU! - They have seriously flunked their lines of communication! – NOW WHAT?

WHO IS POLICING THE POLICE? - Not the Police Authority

Monday, February 10, 2020 - 11:26

LEO OLIVERO

In 2018 the Governor, the Government of Gibraltar and the Gibraltar Police Authority generally acknowledged the seriousness of a very damning and morale damaging result of the Gibraltar Police Federation (GPF) survey of officers, the RGP were less convincing, where senior police command was unable to admit or acknowledge the seriousness surrounding the whole internal bullying situation engulfing local policing. And still going strong it seems.

Last year, the 2019 survey was published in October, similarly, it produced an even more serious result than the previous mentioned year, this was extensively reported in Panorama.

As was the case in the 2018, the GPF survey result in 2019 received the 'Silent Contemptible Denial' from the Commissioner of Police Ian McGrail who again failed to acknowledge the survey result or the seriousness of the situation effecting his main workforce or 85% of them. And, where he failed together with the GPA to do anything to stop or improve this serious workplace abuse!

Democracy in a Workplace is Yet to Embrace the RGP Involved in Internal Witch Hunt

Instead, the Commissioner of Police, using all his experience and senior management knowledge with staff, already ankle high in moral, ordered an investigation of the two GPF convenors (police officers) where the RGP senior command senselessly attempted, to involve Panorama against the two GPF officers. Which did not work, as it was clear what the RGP senior officers were trying to do. This again was reported in this newspaper!

The investigation by the Commissioner into the two GPF officers, is in fact no more than an old fashion 'Witch Hunt'. Believe me I know. In my own experience I've seen it happen many times. I have even been at the wrong end of one or two myself, it's so obvious. What is not that evident, is why in 2020 with everything so hi-tech and modern and management styles having moved into the 21st century, so I thought, I'm surprised this destructive management tactic is still going on!

It wasn't surprising, when Gibraltar's three main unions last week publicly raised their own concerns regarding the petty police investigation against the leaders of the Gibraltar Police Federation.

Unite the Union, the GGCA and the Gibraltar NASUWT said, 'it was crucial that those who take on leadership roles are not targeted or censored in any away and that there should be protection for those who stand up for the rights of others who engage in activism that benefits not only Gibraltarian workers but also the community at large'. Democracy in a Workplace is yet to embrace the Royal Gibraltar Police!

In contrast, to the statement made by the combine unions. The Governor, the GPA and the Gibraltar Government remain hidden in the empty shadows of nothing. They have publicly demonstrated little or zero interest. This is an example, how pitiful and disgracefully bad this serious situation of great public interest, involving the RGP of all public essential services, is being perceived by those at the top, who should be setting examples, not making bad ones, by doing nothing!

When the GPF the official full-time body representing the 85% of the police workforce publicly declare "that they are at the mercy of the commissioner of police". What message, does that send to front line police officers on the ground, when their representatives the Chairman and Secretary are under investigation for doing their job or looking after the welfare of members: What a Morale Booster by the Senior Police Command Team.

REVEALED - RGP investigate an alleged connection of the Police Federation and Panorama

Monday, January 27, 2020 - 11:21

JOE GARCIA

RGP Senior Command Through Their Decisions Provide Their Own Negative News

I purposely delayed preparing this report in the hope that an RGP senior officer would contact me or Panorama to hopefully confirm they have put a stop, to a simply outrageous RGP senior command decision to investigate top Gibraltar Police Federation representatives, which without doubt, can only be a misguided allegation by the RGP top senior brains, where it is alleged, Gibraltar Police Federation Chairman Sergeant Maurice Morello and Secretary PC. Leif Simpson supplied or encouraged me, to report in Panorama or criticise senior RGP officers!

The whole thing is simply preposterous, you couldn't make it up. This is really why, newspaper reporters like me often do criticise the RGP senior command.

Why would I require the help or encouragement from any member of the police service, when I get all the material I need from regular poor and often controversial RGP senior command decisions. Like conducting this investigation, which is the substance of this report!

However, I also get inspiration, by the poor, visionless and inexperienced manner police services are locally led. This latter points, a disturbing situation, plain for all to see and also regularly criticised by the public, not only by us!

RGP Professional Standards Investigate the Allegedly Panorama Connection

Recently, I was contacted by an RGP Inspector from the RGP 'Professional Standards Unit' who I later met. He explained that he had been instructed to conduct an 'internal disciplinary investigation' as a senior police officer had reported, that both Sergeant Morello and PC Simpson had spoken with me (your reporter) during an unknown date in October last year. These officers it is alleged, encouraged me to write or report in Panorama negatively about RGP senior officers!

These allegations it seems, go back to last October, coinciding with the period, when the Police Federation publicly released its very damning internal survey of its members, highlighting once again, for the second year in succession, the very high levels of 'bullying and plummeting force morale' in the service. This obviously did not make positive reading. Well it wouldn't, if I had been the Commissioner of Police or any officer of senior rank!

Gibraltar's three main unions raise concerns over recent disciplinary action against leaders of the Gibraltar Police Federation

Gibraltar's three main unions have raised concerns over the recent disciplinary action against the leaders of the Gibraltar Police Federation.

The Federation has confirmed on its facebook page that its Chairman and Secretary are being investigated for, what it describes as a "ridiculous allegation" concerning an interview with Panorama last year.

Unite the Union, the GGCA and the Gibraltar NASUWT say it's imperative that those who take on leadership roles are not targeted or censored in any away.

In a joint statement, the three organisations representing workers on the Rock, said there should be protection for those who stand up for the rights of others, and who engage in activism that benefits not only Gibraltarian workers but also the community at large.

Unions Concerned By Disciplinary Action Against Gibraltar Police Federation Leaders

Written by YGTV Team on 03 February 2020.

Unite the Union, the GGCA and Gibraltar NASWUT say they are "concerned" by the recent disciplinary actions taken against the leaders of the Gibraltar Police Federation.

A spokesperson for the unions said: "We are all organizations that represent workers and who have as a principal focus the furtherance of workers' rights. This is oftentimes difficult and personally demanding for anyone taking on a leadership role. Therefore, it is imperative that such individuals are not targeted or censored in any way. We feel that there should be protection for those who stand up for the rights of others and who engage in activism that benefits not only Gibraltarian workers, but our community at large.

"Therefore, Unite the Union, GGCA and Gibraltar NASWUT would like to publicly express our support for our GPF colleagues, with whom we stand in solidarity."

"At the Mercy of the Commissioner of Police" say Gibraltar Police Federation

Tuesday, January 28, 2020 - 11:27

LEO OLIVERO

There was generally, a somewhat disturbing response to our report yesterday where I revealed 'the RGP were investigating an alleged connection between the Gibraltar Police Federation (GPF) and Panorama.'

At the centre of this investigation is the October 2019 article which this newspaper published where we reported on the GPF internal survey of officers. Where once again for the second year running it was highlighted that there were continuing serious 'workplace bullying' issues which in parts, surpassed the same survey result conducted in 2018.

The GPF responded on the Facebook page when they posted:

"How independent can the Gibraltar Police Federation be when it still falls under the umbrella of the Police discipline regulations and at the mercy of the Commissioner of Police. What message does this send out to officers on the ground when the Chairman and Secretary are being investigated for a ridiculous allegation. We will work to resolve this and support our members tirelessly with any issues they may have"

Yesterday's reaction by the GPF was one of rightly questioning, the foundations of the Federation's existence, or 'how the federation could act as an independent body to support and look after the welfare of its members, if the Commissioner of Police embarked in conducting disciplinary investigations when there is negative RGP news in the public domain'. This was my understanding.

In this case, there was no leaked news passed on to the media, but a news report arising out of a legitimate GPF press release.

However, what I am sure, the GPF are quite rightly fearful of, is the fact that the Commissioner of Police can pick on any issue or set of circumstances and then order a disciplinary investigation as was the case in the current problem, where RGP senior command came to the wrong conclusion that the GPF Chairman and Secretary had encouraged me to negatively report in this newspaper on RGP senior officers. As I said yesterday 'You Could Not Make It Up'!

During the weekend a very disappointed and concerned Henry Bautista now in retirement, again reiterated to Panorama, that the latest RGP federation survey confirmed and reflected his call last year for an 'independent survey' to be conducted, the results this year he told us presents an even graver situation then it did last!

The Governor and the GPA directly responsible for these matters never commissioned an independent inquiry, they probably never gave it a second thought, which appears to be the case again this year. So far there has been no response to the serious BPF press statement on Friday from either the Convent or the GPA.

With the latter comment in mind, the incriminatory and again damning survey result this year can hardly be surprising, particularly if the matter was never fairly and impartially handled with health, safety and the welfare of officers in mind. But instead the GPF survey reflects, more bullying as the order of the day it seems!

I have no doubt, the Governor and the GPA must bear the brunt of the criticism.

No lessons were learnt last year, which essentially is the purpose of these internal surveys. What the Governor and GPA fail to see, is that bullying in the workplace, particularly within the police service, affects not only the working environment, health and safety, but also in cases, domestic life and the right of police officers to equal opportunity and treatment.

And what the powers that be should be concerned about is the damage and harmful effects of bullying; they should be leading from the front in eradicating from the service. This will never be achieved if potential bullying perpetrators are handed the role of doing it themselves!

Subject: OFFICIAL - SENSITIVE

Dear all –
I want to address the whole of the workforce on the tragic events that have occurred on the early hours of today Sunday 8th March 2020.
Our duty marine crew has been involved in a collision at sea with a suspect RHIB that had four men on board (3 Spanish nationals from Ceuta and a Portuguese national). Regrettably, two of these men have lost their lives from serious injuries sustained. We are thankful that none of our colleagues were injured although they are understandably shaken and shocked.

I have called for Post Incident Procedures to be implemented as per Force Policy in order to look after the welfare of the duty crew, facilitate the investigation that naturally has to take place and to also ensure the integrity of the process.

The loss of any life is deeply regretted and our thoughts are with the families of the deceased. Equally, we have to spare our thoughts for our colleagues who have experienced this traumatic occurrence. It is on this latter note that I want to stress the importance of not engaging in a form of speculation or commentary (whether in person or via social media or chat groups) which could potentially compromise the due processes that have been implemented. I would also ask you all, for operational security/safety reasons, that the anonymity of the members of the our crew is safeguarded and respected. It is through hard times such as these that support is required to minimise the effect the incident is having on those colleagues involved and therefore I implore to you all that you comply with this message fully.

Subject: Daily PMB Revised Policing Instructions

Importance: High

Gents,

The following are the revised instructions to be adhered to forthwith:

1) Previous instructions allowing crews to leave BGTW at the invitation of the Guardia Civil, whilst in pursuit of a vessel and with the authority of the Duty Inspector or other senior officer are revoked. RGP vessels will not operate outside BGTW other than in support of a search and rescue operation led by the Gibraltar Port Authority. In summary:
    a. PMB will not operate outside BGTW in pursuit of criminal activity.
    b. PMB may operate outside BGTW in support of search and rescue operations coordinated by the Gibraltar Port Authority.
2) As from 0800hrs, 9th June 2015, crews will operate from 0800hrs to 1600hrs in the Sir Adrian Johns or the Sir William Jackson and not the interceptor vessels [deploy baby RHIBs as necessary]. From 1600hrs to 0800hrs crews will able to use an interceptor vessel which will be made available on a rotation basis by PS Stone. This will ensure that there is an equitable distribution of engine hours clocked in each vessel.

Whilst carrying out beach policing the deployment will consist of one of either the Sir Adrian Johns or Sir William Jackson and a jet ski, depending on crew numbers. The patrol vessels will also deploy their respective baby RHIB's as necessary. Interceptor capability will become available as required from termination of beach duties daily at 2000hrs.

1. Introduction

1.1 This Policy provides RGP officers engaged in police marine vessel patrols and pursuit navigation with guidance on what the RGP requires of them.

1.2 A Police vessel will mean any motor vessel owned, hired, loaned or otherwise operated for any purpose by the Royal Gibraltar Police (RGP). These vessels will be registered under the provisions of the Gibraltar Merchant Shipping (Registration) Act 1993 and the Gibraltar Merchant Shipping (Ship Registration) Regulations 1987. HM Government of Gibraltar's Insurance Police Scheme will also cover them.

1.3 The Government of the United Kingdom extended the United Kingdom's accession to the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea 1982 ("UNCLOS") to Gibraltar. Pursuant to Article 2(1) and (2) UNCLOS "the sovereignty of the coastal State extends…to an adjacent belt of sea, described as the territorial sea… as well as to its bed and subsoil".

1.4 The territorial sea of Gibraltar within the meaning of Article 2 UNCLOS is known as British Gibraltar Territorial Waters ("BGTW",) which is under British sovereignty. BGTW consists of the area of the sea, the sea bed and subsoil within the seaward limits of the territorial sea adjacent to Gibraltar which, in accordance with Article 3 UNCLOS, currently extends to three nautical miles and to the median line in the Bay of Gibraltar (see the map in Appendix A).

1.5 The strategic location of Gibraltar has allowed it to become a maritime 'centre of excellence'. Located at a crossroads of the Mediterranean and Atlantic shipping lanes, Gibraltar is ideally placed to provide a wide range of services to vessels of all sizes and types, and with nearly 240 million gross tonnes of vessel calls per year.

1.6 Gibraltar is located between Morocco, one of the largest producers of cannabis resin and Spain, the gateway to Europe. Organised Crime Groups ("OCGs") use Rigid-Hulled Inflatable Boats ("RHIBs") to transport the said merchandise to Europe, and on occasions, this activity enters BGTW. It is the RGP's responsibility, together with other local Law Enforcement Agencies ("LEAs") to uphold our laws.

1.7 The RGP Marine Section is based at the Gibraltar Government Marine Section ("GGMS") at Gun Wharf. Police Marine Boats ("PMB") are deployable 24/7, 365 days a year, unless due to other policing commitments resources are needed elsewhere. The RGP works together with other LEAs, who also have a 24/7 capability. This includes the Gibraltar Port Authority ("GPA"), the Gibraltar Defence Police ("GDP") and HM Customs ("HMC").

1.8 The RGP coxswains often perform their duties in challenging and demanding environments, but they are expected and must endeavour to set a good example to other seafarers, regardless of the nature of any particular incident or role in which police vessels are used. They also have a duty of care to ensure the safety of the public we serve, as well as the safety of our own police officers and support staff at all times.

1.9 Persons who use the sea know that its very nature creates a dangerous and unpredictable environment, which can and does, catch many unaware. The secret to staying safe is good preparation and knowing exactly what to do if something goes wrong and this is no different for the RGP when undertaking our legal responsibilities.

1.10 The International Maritime Organization ("IMO") is the United Nation's specialized agency with responsibility for the safety and security of shipping and the prevention of marine and atmospheric pollution by ships. The IMO published the International Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea 1972 (Collision Regulations), setting out, among other things, the "rules of the road" or navigation rules to be followed by ships and other vessels at sea to prevent collisions between two or more vessels.

1.11 The Collision Regulations ("ColRegs") cover every type of situation between sea-going vessels, regardless of size, speed and purpose and apply to all vessels upon the high seas and within BGTW. In other words, the ColRegs represent the 'Highway Code' on the water and all commercial, leisure and law enforcement vessels must abide by them on navigable waters. The ColRegs are set out in Appendix B for ease of reference.

1.12 The ColRegs are given effect in the law of Gibraltar by the Gibraltar Merchant Shipping (Safety, etc.) Act 1993. Understanding the rights and obligations that arise when at sea and accordingly knowledge of the ColRegs forms part of the RGP's Gibraltar Law Enforcement RHIB coxswain course, endorsed by the Gibraltar Maritime Administration ("GMA") of HM Government of Gibraltar ("HMGOG"). See Appendix C for a list of the course modules.

2. Statement of Intent

2.1 The intention of this Policy document is to provide all RGP PMB coxswains and crewmembers with clear guidance in relation to patrolling and pursuit navigation of RGP vessels and to establish and maintain a reasonable, practical, safe and responsible approach to RGP activities. By operating in a safe environment when undertaking our responsibilities whilst at sea we will ensure that we discharge our duty of care, to all members of the public, to our police officers and support staff.

3. Code of Ethics

3.1 Our Code of Ethics underpins every day policy, procedures, decisions and action in policing today. The Code of Ethics is an everyday business consideration. This document has been developed with the Code of Ethics at the heart, ensuring consideration of the 9 Policing principles and the 10 standards of professional behaviour.

4. National Decision Model ("NDM")

4.1 The NDM is the primary decision-making model used by the RGP. The NDM is flexible and is applied to the development and review of all policy, procedure, strategy, project, plan or guidance. Understanding, using and measuring the NDM ensures that we are able to make ethical (see Code of Ethics Policy), proportionate and defensible decisions in relation to policy, procedure, strategy, project, plan or guidance.

5. Definitions

5.1 "Coxswain" will mean "marine coxswain". Coxswain is the person navigating and steering the vessel and is responsible for its safe operation and navigation.

They will ultimately be responsible for the decisions they take, the achievement of operational policing objectives, ensuring the safety of all persons on-board their vessel and the integrity of the said vessel.

5.2 "Crew" will mean "marine crew" and means any marine constable employed or engaged in the safe operation or navigation of the vessel.

5.3 For the purposes of this Policy, a "pursuit"[1] is when, 'A police coxswain is deemed to be in pursuit, when an coxswain in charge of a vessel indicates, by their actions or continuance of their manner of piloting/riding that:

- They have no intention of stopping for the police, and
- The police coxswain believes that the coxswain of the subject vessel is aware of the requirement to stop and decides to continue behind the subject vessel with a view to either reporting its progress or stopping it".

5.4 Similarly, a "spontaneous pursuit"[2] is:-

- "When the actions of the suspect coxswain in deciding to flee are triggered by the presence of a RGP vessel and there is no prior warning or sufficient time to develop a specific strategy and plans, regardless of whether or not the RGP crew made an initial requirement for the vessel to stop".

[1] There is no specific maritime pursuit definition, so this definition has been tailored to best define, as per the UK College of Policing's Authorised Professional Practice ("APP") on police pursuits in respect of vehicles.
[2] As per 1 above.

6. Objectives

6.1 The strategic objective of any pursuit is to ensure a safe resolution which will lead to the apprehension of offenders and the prevention of crime.

6.2 The RGP's Marine Section's aim is to enforce the law within BGTW by working in partnership with LEAs and other agencies, both locally and internationally to bring about a safer community, reduce disorder, crime and the fear of crime and to contribute to the delivery of justice in a way which secures and maintains public confidence. The RGP's PMB plays a vital role in the international fight against drug smuggling, within BGTW by preventing prohibited imports and enforcing Port legislation.

6.3 The RGP will minimise risks and ensure safety where necessary by adopting best practice. PMB line managers must instruct those affected about the risks and how to ensure their own health and safety and the health and safety of others.

6.4 Much like the presence of a police vehicle on the road, a Police vessel often commands a natural level of authority, which can confuse inexperienced water users. In addition, competent vessel skippers will sometimes attempt to be helpful and give a Police Vessel priority. These factors can lead to confusion and an increased likelihood of collision. Police coxswains will at all times adhere to the instructions in this Policy, to promote a professional image and ensure they are beyond reproach. Where coxswains are subject to vessel indecision, early actions demonstrating a clear intent combined with a polite and courteous approach are often effective mitigation measures.

6.5 RGP vessels will only operate in conditions appropriate to the vessel's capabilities.

6.6 The RGP's over-arching objective is to ensure that Police vessels are at least as safe as those used commercially and that similar or higher levels of safety are applied due to the special nature of the work that the RGP Marine Section undertakes within BGTW (and outside BGTW in exceptional cases – see paragraph 7.4 and 7.5 below).

6.7 The RGP PMB will operate within BGTW ONLY. The RGP's strategic principles are as follows, in order of priority:

- Minimise Risk to the public (includes alleged offenders);
- Maximise Safety of officers;
- Enforce the laws of Gibraltar using the minimum force necessary;
- Protect British sovereignty of BGTW.

6.8 The current RGP PMB operational objectives are:

- The security of BGTW;
- Enforcement of Port and Maritime Rules and Regulations;

- Prevention and detection of crime at sea;
- Prevent the use of BGTW by Organised Crime Groups (OCGs) for drug smuggling;
- Support Royal Navy when foreign state vessels challenge British sovereignty;
- Support Environmental Agency operations to protect marine environment;
- Support HM Customs operations;
- Support GDP operations;
- Reassurance of beach users and legitimate seafarers.

7 Extent of Operational Deployments

7.1 Prior to this Policy, the RGP PMB operated in accordance with the Marine Section Instructions dated the 8th July 2016 (these instructions are set out in Appendix D for ease of reference). This Policy incorporates and replaces the original Instructions in their entirety.

7.2 The Police Act 2006

Section 29 of the Police Act provides that:

"The Force shall be employed in and throughout Gibraltar".

The Police Act 2006 does not extend beyond Gibraltar. It does not have extraterritorial effect. As a result, the establishment of the force and the composition of its officers has, in principle, effect in and in respect of the territory of Gibraltar.

As per paragraph 1.3 of the Introduction, BGTW is under British sovereignty and, in accordance with Article 3 UNCLOS, currently extends to three nautical miles and to the median line in the Bay of Gibraltar. Accordingly, RGP officers do not have any powers or protections in the said Act, to operate outside of the territory (and waters) of Gibraltar.

7.3 RGP vessels and Police Officers will ONLY operate within BGTW, except where paragraphs 7.4 a) or b) apply. These instructions will be adhered to at all times.

7.4 Officers are NOT authorised to operate outside of BGTW, within Spanish territorial waters or International Waters. Under NO circumstances will RGP vessels leave BGTW whilst engaged on a patrol or pursuit of any other type of vessel, unless and only when responding to one of the following situations:

a) Subject to paragraph 7.5, participating in a Search and Rescue ("SAR") operation, led by the GPA.

b) Responding to an incident where there is an imminent and serious risk to life.

7.5 Officers are NOT authorised to enter Spanish territorial waters unless when responding to and participating in a SAR operation at the invitation of Spanish authorities and only when incidents are being co-ordinated by the GPA.

7.6 Failure to comply with RGP BGTW patrolling restrictions may result in disciplinary proceedings.

8 PMB Governance

8.1 All PMB officers have an individual responsibility for ensuring that they are fully conversive with all relevant:

- RGP instructions;
- RGP policies;
- Legislation.

It is the responsibility of the PMB Sergeant to ensure that all PMB officers are briefed and understand the requirements and implications of the above mentioned documents. A record of all officers at a briefing, whereby any of the above are presented, must be incorporated into the daily briefing sheet.

8.2 Briefings

It is the responsibility of the PMB Sergeant and/or the PMB Inspector to brief all PMB officers in respect of the extent of their legal powers and the context within which these powers can be properly exercised. Briefings will always include the RGP's Code of Ethics, the NDM and the political ambiance at that time. Officers require to be fully aware of the local/international political environment at that point in time. Those topics discussed and the officers in attendance will be recorded in the respective briefing sheet.

8.3 The nature of marine policing means that RGP PMB officers respond to unpredictable and rapidly changing situations. During a spontaneous incident the coxswain, in consultation with a PMB line manager, the Crown Sergeant or the Duty Inspector, should undertake a dynamic assessment of the hazards. Any decisions made will be transferred to an appropriate risk assessment document, when it is reasonably practicable to do so. Importantly, dynamic risk assessments should not be considered as a substitute for a formal risk assessment for all anticipated and planned operations.

8.4 Despite making important and often time critical decisions, RGP PMB officers are still accountable in law for their actions. While the law provides that the police may use reasonable force when lawfully exercising their powers, the use of force by police officers may, in certain circumstances, result in judicial proceedings through both the criminal justice system and civil courts.

8.5 The Gibraltar Constitution Order 2006, (the "Constitution") incorporates the European Convention on Human Rights ("ECHR") into the law of Gibraltar. As policing inevitably involves interferences with the human rights of individuals, all RGP PMB officers must consider and adopt a human rights compliant approach when discharging their duties.

8.6 Section 2 of the Constitution (Article 2 of the ECHR) on the right to life provides that all police actions must be proportionate and necessary. Every effort should be made to resolve a situation without resorting to the use of force and the overriding consideration should be the protection of the fundamental rights and freedoms of the public and officers. Where the use of force is required in the performance/course of duties to achieve a legitimate purpose, any force deployed will be the minimum necessary, reasonable, proportionate and lawful.

8.7 All credible allegations of violations of improper use of force will be investigated. In cases where death results from the use of force by the police or any police action, an independent investigation will be instigated in accordance with Article 2 of the ECHR and a public enquiry or other enquiry will be held by the coroner or other officers.

9 PMB coxswain liability

9.1 RGP PMB officers are potentially liable to prosecution for 'breaches' of either the ColRegs or Gibraltar Merchant Shipping (Safety, etc.) Act, 1993 (see Section 27 (1) - Misconduct endangering ships, persons or structures of the Act, 1993).

9.2 Consequently, RGP PMB officers need to remain cognisant of the potential implications of using tactics outlined within this Policy ensuring that the use of the tactic is justifiable, proportionate and necessary in dealing with the perceived threat.

10 Crew Composition

10.1 Due to the physical demands of PMB work, the RGP has a responsibility for the occupational health of all officers within the Marine Section. PMB line managers must, therefore consider each officer's individual health, ability and fitness levels to perform specific PMB tasks and duties at sea. Appropriate medical and fitness tests will be undertaken for the safety of all PMB officers, to ensure that the appropriate service is being provided to the public and that public confidence in the RGP is maintained.

10.2 On implementation of this Policy, all PMB officers will be informed of occupational health issues and requirements. There will be a three month grace period for those officers identified as requiring to improve their levels of fitness and general health.

10.3 The training and experience required to carry out the role of a RGP PMB coxswain or crewmember is dependent on where that coxswain / crewmember is required to operate and the range of tactical capability afforded. The skills and experience of the Second Crew and other crewmembers and passengers will also have a bearing on a unit's range of capabilities.

10.4 All crews must be authorised RGP Marine Section officers, meaning that they, due to relevant professional qualifications, practical experience or expertise are authorised in writing by the Divisional Commander to perform their duties.

10.5 PMB line managers will assess all existing PMB officers every six months, in relation to their qualifications, competencies, health, fitness and suitability to remain in post. Their recommendations will then be forwarded to the Divisional Commander for their authorisation.

10.6 Any officer transferring to the PMB will undertake a six-month probationary period, whereby the PMB line managers will assess their qualities, competencies, health and fitness. If their probationary period is successful and their line managers recommend them, then the written authority from the Divisional Commander will be required to confirm the officer in post within the PMB.

10.7 All RGP vessels must have a qualified coxswain at the helm. For specific RGP vessels to be operational, a minimum number of PMB crewmembers will always be required (including a coxswain) and strictly adhered to, as follows:

- Sir Adrian Johns (Bravo 2) – A coxswain & a minimum of 3 additional crew, without using tender RHIB or 6 if intention is to launch the tender RHIB with a two man crew.
- Sir Francis Richards (Bravo 3) Interceptor – A coxswain and a minimum of 2 additional crew.
- Sir John Chapple (Bravo 4) Interceptor – A coxswain and a minimum of 2 additional crew.
- Sir Joshua Hassan (Bravo 7) – A coxswain and a minimum of 2 additional crew.

10.8 All line managers must be cognisant of the practicalities and risks around issues such as two officer crews conducting boarding at sea, where it is likely that only one member of crew will be able to board a subject vessel. For this reason, where a RGP Vessel is engaged on duties likely to entail regular patrolling, boarding's and interception work, a minimum crew of three police officers must be on-board.

11 Crew Roles

11.1 As with all commercially operated vessels, a defined command structure on board a RGP vessel is essential and based upon the qualifications and experience of each crewmember on board. Every time a RGP Vessel puts to sea, this structure must be confirmed. This will ensure that each crewmember clearly understands their own individual and designated responsibilities from the outset. Further details on RGP PMB coxswain and crewmember professional profiles and key accountabilities can be found in Appendix E.

11.2 Coxswains

The RGP Coxswain will be in overall charge of any RGP Vessel. They will ultimately be responsible for the decisions they take, for the safety of all persons on-board their vessel and the integrity of the said vessel. RGP coxswains will respond to a wide range of incidents in an appropriate, professional and timely manner, in accordance with guidance, policies and procedures, in order to support public confidence in policing.

The RGP's Gibraltar Law Enforcement RHIB coxswain course assesses and qualifies all officers as competent RHIB coxswains. On doing so, a RGP coxswain should have the necessary skills to operate a RHIB effectively and safely.

The course is designed with a view to training officers from novice to fully qualified coxswain level. It considers the reality of operational needs creating a credible framework without sacrificing the effective teaching of officers or health and safety requirements. On successful completion of the course, the RGP coxswain should be able to satisfactorily operate RHIBs with two or more engines, under law enforcement conditions, in a manner, which is deemed to be responsible and safe for the coxswains, crews and other users. RGP coxswain competency criteria can be found in Appendix F.

11.3 The Second Crew

This officer will act as a deputy to the RGP coxswain, whenever the RGP vessel is being used in an operational police capacity. They will also be a trained coxswain and will have the ability to assume command in the event that the coxswain can no longer fulfil their function. See Appendix E for professional profile and key accountabilities.

11.4 Third crew

This refers to all other RGP PMB officers and support staff on board a RGP vessel, charged with any responsibility concerned in the operation of that RGP vessel. The third crewmember will be a PMB officer. Inexperienced and untrained officers shall NOT be permitted to cover any shortfalls within a crew. Either a present PMB officer or an officer with previous PMB experience (as part of the actual PMB complement) and appropriate training will be able to cover this post. See Appendix E, for professional profile and key accountabilities.

11.5 Fourth crew

Similar to the third crewmember, this post also refers to all other RGP PMB officers and support staff on board a RGP vessel, charged with any responsibility concerned in the operation of that RGP vessel. Coxswains must take into consideration minimal crew numbers required to man specific RGP vessels. The fourth crewmember will also be a PMB officer. Inexperienced and untrained officers shall NOT be permitted to cover any shortfalls within a crew. Either a present PMB officer or an officer with previous PMB experience (as part of the actual PMB complement) and appropriate training will be able to cover this post. See Appendix E, for professional profile and key accountabilities.

11.6 Passengers

Any RGP officers (irrespective of rank or role), support staff or other persons aboard, that do not fall into one of the three crewmember categories above, will be considered as passengers. They will take no active role in the operation of the RGP vessel they are aboard, at any time, unless required to do so by the coxswain in charge of the vessel in an emergency.

12 Coxswain and crew responsibilities prior to leaving GGMS

12.1 Prior to any RGP vessel leaving GGMS, the Duty Coxswain must undertake the following actions:

- Environmental Factors - Liaise with the appropriate sources to obtain all relevant environmental details to evaluate the meteorological conditions to make a risk-based decision on whether to deploy the vessel.

- Assess Crew experience and competencies, conduct appropriate vessel and equipment checks and maintenance.

- Complete a Patrol Plan incorporating approved tactics and methods that are consistent with the capabilities of the vessel and crew and as per this Policy.

- Ensure that all crewmembers and/or passengers have been issued with and are wearing their Personal Protection Equipment (PPE) and are briefed on health and safety procedures to follow in case of an emergency.

13 Environmental factors

13.1 The operation of Police vessels at sea is a high-risk occupation, largely due to the unpredictable nature of the environment. The coastal area of Gibraltar and BGTW are unique in terms of the density and types of marine traffic, the number of port activities and the challenges posed by the combination of local geographical and environmental features. Every time a police coxswain decides to go afloat, they must consider their legal obligation for the safety of those on board and their capability to operate against the environmental factors during the time they will be on patrol. This decision must be made in relation to the nature of the patrol they are required to complete and the vessels at their disposal. Their daily assessment of the unit's ability to deploy MUST be based on the following changeable environmental factors and prevailing weather conditions:

13.2 Tides

They are the rise and fall of sea levels, caused by the combined effects of the gravitational forces exerted by the Moon and the Sun and the rotation of the Earth. The height of tide, and therefore the strength of water flow, changes dependant on the position of the moon and sun creating spring and neap tides.

13.3 Wind

In general, wind is caused by changes in atmospheric pressure. In addition, in coastal regions, sea breezes and land breezes caused by the different rates that the sun heats the land and sea can be important factors in a location's prevailing winds. The effect of the wind on the sea can be dramatic, particularly when the wind is blowing in the opposite direction to the tide as this often has the effect of increasing wave height and creating unnaturally choppy conditions. The effect of the wind and tide on the sea state can be amplified by geographical features such as noticeable changes in depth caused by submerged banks or narrow channels caused by the close vicinity of two land masses to one another.

13.4 Visibility

The state of visibility will have a large determining factor on the safe deployment of a RGP vessel and the effectiveness of the crew during patrols, pursuits and SAR operations. Areas of fog and mist can occur at sea without warning and severely inhibit the operational capability of a RGP vessel. It should be recognised that operating RGP vessels during the hours of darkness, also carries similar additional risks to the safety of the crew and vessel.

13.5 Local Notice to Mariners ("LNTM's")

Other considerations to factor into a patrol plan arise from temporary or permanent changes to the area of operation. Local information and navigational warnings can be obtained from the GPA. It is very important to be aware of such notices before a patrol is commenced. Where temporary maintenance affects navigational aids and access routes, safety may dictate that during the hours of darkness some areas are avoided.

It may be that RGP vessels may only be able to deploy safely to a limited section of their operational area. Therefore, RGP coxswains must ensure they have obtained and recorded accurate and relevant real time information regarding wind, visibility and tidal data prior to commencing any form of deployment.

14 Crew experience, Vessel checks, Equipment checks and Maintenance

14.1 Once patrolling and out at sea, crews are in some way isolated and will have to be to a degree self-sufficient. This, inevitably results in a heavy reliance on the crew's experience, the vessels and equipment on board. It is vital that the coxswain has given due consideration to the proven level of expertise of their crew prior to leaving GGMS, as demonstrated through previous deployments and training exercises.

14.2 In addition, the crew must be familiar with the working systems on the said vessel to be used. Crews should have a working knowledge of each vessel so that basic engine and equipment checks can be undertaken regularly to ensure the safety of the team. To achieve maximum effectiveness it is important that the boat crew are aware of the limitations of the equipment fitted and are confident in its use. This can only be achieved by ongoing training in varying conditions. Any identified issues, will instigate the PMB fault-reporting system, ensuring necessary maintenance is completed promptly, maintaining maximum operational capability.

14.3 Radar is an acronym for Radio Detection And Ranging. It is an object-detection system that uses radio waves to determine the range, angle, or velocity of objects. It can be used to detect aircraft, ships, motor vehicles, weather formations, and terrain. A radar system consists of a transmitter producing electromagnetic waves in the radio or microwaves domain, an emitting antenna, a receiving antenna (separate or the same as the previous one) to capture any returns from objects in the path of the emitted signal, a receiver and processor to determine properties of the object(s). Radar devices form an essential part of the navigational equipment required by vessels operating in limited visibility.

From a policing perspective, radar offers the potential to scan large areas of water for potential targets and can be especially useful during pursuits and security operations where the early identification of potential threats increases the reactionary gap. All RGP vessels are fitted with radar.

14.4 Radar Governance

a) It is the responsibility of all crewmembers to be proficient in its use and this must be recorded in their training files.

b) The second crew member is responsible to ensure that the said equipment is functional prior to leaving GGMS. It is the responsibility of the second crewmember to operate the Radar equipment during the course of a patrol or pursuit.

14.5 The Automatic Identification System ("AIS") is an automatic tracking system used on ships for identifying and locating vessels by electronically exchanging data with other nearby ships, AIS base stations and satellites. When satellites are used to detect AIS signatures, the term Satellite-AIS ("S-AIS") is used. AIS information supplements marine radar, which continues to be the primary method of collision avoidance for vessels. Information provided by AIS equipment, such as unique identification, position, course, and speed, can be displayed on a screen or an ECDIS. AIS is intended to assist a vessel and allow maritime authorities to track and monitor vessel movements. AIS integrates a standardized VHF transceiver with a positioning system such as a GPS receiver, with other electronic navigation sensors, such as a gyrocompass or rate of turn indicator. Vessels fitted with AIS transceivers can be tracked by AIS base stations located along coast lines or, when out of range of terrestrial networks, through a growing number of satellites.

The IMO's International Convention for the Safety of Life at Sea requires AIS to be fitted aboard international voyaging ships with gross tonnage (GT) of 300 or more, and all passenger ships regardless of size. All RGP vessels are equipped with AIS.

14.6 AIS Governance

a) It is the coxswain's responsibility to ensure that all RGP vessels have their AIS activated prior to leaving GGMS to commence any form of patrol, including pursuits. The AIS will remain activated and WILL NOT BE SWITCHED OFF FOR ANY REASON, throughout the duration of the patrol / pursuit and return to GGMS. This will ensure that both MOD Windmill Hill signal station ("WHSS") and the GPA can plot any incident.

b) It is the responsibility of the PMB Sergeant to obtain on a weekly basis, the AIS data appertaining to each RGP vessel. They will then conduct a review of all RGP AIS vessel data. This data and analysis will be forwarded to Inspector Special Operations.

c) Failure to comply with RGP BGTW patrolling instructions may result in disciplinary proceedings.

14.7 Global Positioning System ("GPS") is an accurate worldwide navigational and surveying facility. All RGP vessels have been installed with a GPS receiver, enabling the integration of the vessel's position into the Gibraltar Geographical Information System (GIS).

14.8 GPS Governance

a) It is the responsibility of the Crown Sergeant, to ensure that on PMB's instructions to the control room of their commencement of a patrol and/or pursuit, that the GPS of that vessel in functioning correctly and can be monitored by the control room command and dispatch ("CAD")

b) It is the responsibility of the PMB Sergeant to obtain on a weekly basis, the GPS data, in addition to AIS data appertaining to each RGP vessel. They will then conduct a review of all RGP GPS/AIS vessel data. This data and analysis will be forwarded to Inspector Special Operations.

c) Failure to comply with RGP BGTW patrolling instructions may result in disciplinary proceedings.

14.9 A Night vision device ("NVD") enhances the user's ability to see in darkness by either intensifying the image received or actively illuminating it with infrared light. Low light cameras can be fitted to vessels or the crew to enhance their ability to detect objects at night by using portable devices such as goggles or handheld binoculars. The coxswain must avoid using such a device to avoid temporary loss of sight in the event that the device is pointed at a bright light. NVD's do not afford the opportunity to penetrate physical visual inhibitors such as fog or smoke (as a general rule if you cannot see through something in daylight, NVD's will not see through it).

Thermal imaging detects the temperature difference between the background and the foreground objects. Thermal imaging cameras are excellent tools for night vision. They detect thermal radiation and do not need a source of illumination. They produce an image in the darkest of nights and can see through light fog, rain and smoke (to a certain extent). Thermal imaging cameras make small temperature differences visible. Thermal imaging cameras are widely used to complement new or existing security networks, and for night vision on aircraft, where they are commonly referred to as "FLIR" (for "forward-looking infrared"). They are especially effective in identifying bodies on shorelines or in water where the subtle temperature difference between the surrounding land or water mass and the body shows clearly. It should be noted that where a body has been in cold water or exposed to the elements for a significant period, the chances of detecting them using thermal imaging diminish.

14.10 NVD Governance

It is the responsibility of the third Crewmember to ensure that the NVD equipment is functioning correctly and on board the vessel.

14.11 Cameras / Video Recording

The PMB will be issued with appropriate camera equipment. A camera will be mounted on each vessel and will commence recording prior to the RGP vessel leaving its berth. Video footage will provide vital evidence, when attending to incidents/operations/pursuits. This will be the rule and not the exception. When pre-planned boarding operations are undertaken, coxswains and line managers must consider the issue and use of Body Worn Cameras ("BWCs") to enhance evidence-gathering opportunities.

14.12 Video Recording Governance

It is the responsibility of the third Crewmember to ensure that the camera(s) are mounted correctly, functioning correctly and recording is commenced prior to deployment. Standard procedures, as per the Evidential Digital Imagery Policy will be undertaken.

14.13 Radio & Telephone communication

The PMB will be issued with appropriate radio and telephone equipment. Appropriate methods of communication with CAD and other LEAs are essential whilst at sea, undertaking patrols, incidents, operations and pursuits.

Whilst at sea, there will be no direct telephone communication between any PMB crew and all Spanish LEAs, who are also at sea or are land based. All telephone communication undertaken with all Spanish LEAs will ONLY be conducted via CAD and/or the Crown Sergeant. Any communication between RGP crews and Spanish LEA crews will be via radio and only under the supervision of the Crown Sergeant and CAD.

14.14 Radio & Telephone communication Governance

a) It is the responsibility of all crewmembers to be proficient in their use and this must be recorded in their training files.

b) The second crewmember is responsible to ensure that the said equipment is functional prior to leaving GGMS. It is their responsibility to ensure that they are protected from prevailing weather conditions. It is their responsibility to operate the said equipment during the course of a patrol or pursuit.

14.15 Navigational Lights

During the hours of darkness, all RGP vessels will have their navigation lights switched on and they will remain switched on throughout the duration of every patrol and/or pursuit.

14.16 Navigational Lights Governance

It is the responsibility of the coxswain to ensure that the navigational lights of their vessel are functioning, prior to leaving GGMS. It is also their responsibility to ensure that the said lights remain switched on during the duration of their time at sea.

15 Patrol Plans and Operating Procedures

15.1 This section details the general considerations for RGP PMB officers during a patrol, the tactics and techniques that may be employed during vessel interaction whilst on patrol and on-scene advice around dealing with spontaneous maritime police incidents, e.g. pursuits.

15.2 The effectiveness of the RGP PMB will be largely dependent on the level to which the crew prepare prior to deployment and the maintenance regime in place to support their operational capability. As with any commercial marine outfit, the completion of regular training, proactive checks and the adoption of good maritime working practices will have a positive effect on both.

15.3 Having obtained the appropriate information on the prevailing weather conditions, the coxswain will be able to predict the effect these factors will have on the sea state at different stages during their patrol. Coxswains will plan their patrols and workload around the likely effect that those conditions will have on their area of operation. By creating a basic patrol plan for the duration of their duty, they can minimise crew fatigue and wear and tear on vessels.

15.4 Whilst developing their patrol plan, coxswains must consider the NDM together with all the intelligence and information available to them and this must be evidenced in their plan. Additionally, in view of the fundamental rights and freedoms contained in the ECHR / Constitution, the Constitution must be considered to see how it affects the said plan and operational policing.

15.5 However, ultimately, at the PMB, the coxswain will make the final decision on where and when his crew and vessel commences a patrol. These decisions and the patrol plan will be forwarded to CAD and added to the CAD log. This will also include any subsequent alterations to the original plan brought about by a dynamic change in patrol priorities.

15.6 Prior to leaving GGMS and commencing every patrol, the coxswain will, after completing their own checks and governance, inform CAD of the following:

- The crew complement and if their expertise is sufficient for the task;
- That the appropriate vessel checks and governance has been conducted and found to be correct (or not);
- The level of risk due to prevailing weather conditions;
- The level of risk in general assessed for the task;
- A completed Patrol Plan;
- To instruct MOD (WHSS) and the GPA that a patrol is being commenced.

If a coxswain is not content with any of the above and the safety of his crew and the RGP vessel is in question, then the deployment must be reassessed. If there is no change in risk status, then the PMB vessel and crew will remain at GGMS and NOT deploy.

15.7 CAD will automatically commence a separate CAD log for each individual patrol and record the details supplied by the Coxswain. Once the CROWN Sergeant is satisfied that the coxswain has undertaken all appropriate checks, they will then authorise the patrol / task to commence and authorisations will be recorded on the CAD log.

15.8 All RGP coxswains will ensure that departures from GGMS and Gun Wharf, are not undertaken at an excessive and unsafe speed. RGP vessels maybe responding to a call and are on 'blue lights', however, this does not excuse unnecessary speed. This is not only dangerous within the Gun Wharf basin, but also because it exits into the Inner Harbour where other vessels or recreational craft may be obscured.

Rule 6 of the IMO's ColRegs (see Appendix B) states that "every vessel shall at all times proceed at a safe speed so that she can take proper and effective action to avoid collision and be stopped within a distance appropriate to the prevailing circumstances and conditions". Additionally, rule 9(f) states that "a vessel nearing a bend or an area of a narrow channel or fairway where other vessels may be obscured by an intervening obstruction shall navigate with particular alertness and caution".

Exiting Gun Wharf will be in accordance with ColRegs and the speed limits of 5kts within the Gun Wharf area and inner harbour. Additionally, the proximity of the sea walls is another concern for the safety of the crew and vessel, should there be a vessel malfunction or avoidance requirement.

16 Personal Protection Equipment (PPE)

16.1 RGP PMB Officers face the same risks as land-based colleagues and as such, will be issued with the same standard PPE as regular land patrol officers. This equipment will be accessible to crewmembers, accepting that heavy items such as body armour may be unsuitable as routine dress whilst afloat. During the carriage of Armed Police Teams or where PMB officers are deployed to incidents that present a firearms threat, they will be issued with firearms grade body armour. PMB Line managers should also consider the corrosive nature of the maritime environment and its' effect on the operational practicalities of radio handsets and metal items such as handcuffs (see paragraph 25 – Prisoner Handling).

16.2 The minimum level of safety and First Aid equipment must be available on all RGP Vessels. All crewmembers will provide medical first aid commensurate with their training as required to preserve life, to a fellow crewmember or any other person. The coxswain will have the final say on whether they believe it is safe for their crew to board the suspect vessel, to administer first aid. If there are serious injuries or risk to life, then the coxswain must broadcast a 'Mayday' call to all other vessels in the area to request assistance. First Aid Training must be recorded in the individual officer's training files.

16.3 In terms of PPE, all PMB officers engaged in PMB duties, will wear a lifejacket at all times (irrespective of the RGP vessel in use); when they are in the vicinity of water and certainly when on a vessel, unless there is a specific and justifiable reason not to do so (such as water entry to search or recover where a buoyancy aid may be more appropriate). All passengers on a RGP vessel will wear a lifejacket at all times.

16.4 There will be a level of protective clothing provided to PMB officers operating an open vessel (with no cabin) such as RHIBs. Operational immersion / dry suits must be provided for all crewmembers, when:

- Operating on open craft more than 1 mile from a safe haven;
- At any other time when the coxswain of the vessel so orders, having made a suitable and sufficient risk assessment with particular reference to the area of operation, weather conditions and the availability or otherwise of a life craft or other out of water support;
- Or at any time when the coxswain deems it necessary.

PMB officers on all RGP vessels must be provided with suitable appropriate protective clothing. Where the wearing of immersion/dry suits is not deemed suitable, appropriate protective clothing of a standard, which affords protection from the elements and reduces the likelihood of hypothermia, shall be worn.

16.5 Protective headgear and visors that meets a recognised marine standard and facilitates communication will be worn where appropriate when undertaking any form of patrols. However, in respect of PMB crews utilising Interceptors or RHIBS, for patrolling and pursuits, headgear and visors will be worn AT ALL TIMES from the time the vessel leaves

GGMS throughout the patrol and every pursuit by all crewmembers. Headgear and visors will ONLY be removed once the vessel is berthed back at the GGMS.

17 Presence and positioning whilst on patrol

17.1 RGP PMB crews are to conduct systematic periodic patrols of Gibraltar's coastline throughout their tour of duty. Depending on the threat level at the time, this will determine patrol frequency.

17.2 Once a RGP vessel goes afloat and begins to actively patrol, RGP coxswains must be fully cognisant of the effect that their vessel's presence and positioning has on other water users to maximise the effectiveness of each patrol. The RGP coxswain and crew must clearly understand that their actions at sea will have a direct impact on the public's confidence of both the RGP's PMB and the force in general.

17.3 The RGP coxswain has the responsibility to operate the RGP vessel in relation to speed and manoeuvring in a manner that is consistent with achieving operational objectives whilst also having appropriate regard to the wellbeing of persons on board and those aboard other vessels, to ensure the safe and successful outcome of operational objectives.

17.4 Whilst on patrol, if PMB officers are confronted with noncompliant/threatening persons or the officers find themselves outnumbered, a safe distance MUST be maintained to avoid the possibility of being injured by weapons or missiles, until other assistance arrives, which will make it safer or remove the risk/threat. In the event that a firearm is drawn, the situation will then be classified, as a 'Firearms Incident' and appropriate RGP procedures will be instigated. The following are areas of business commonly dealt with by RGP PMB:

- High Visibility Policing;
- Tangier Ferry;
- Incursion by Spanish law enforcement (LEA) and navy vessels;
- SARs;
- Summer bathing season;
- Fishing vessels;
- Illegal immigrants;
- Drugs trafficking;
- Ports Policing / Immigration / Intelligence gathering.

17.5 High Visibility Patrols

PMB crews will conduct high visibility sea and land patrols, assisting Response Teams, and, in marinas or any other locations, assisting with anti-social behaviour on the instructions of the Crown Sergeant. On these occasions, CAD will inform HMC and GDP that there are no RGP vessels at sea at that time. However, if the PMB crew is required to deploy to sea, then the appropriate checklists and criteria will be instigated.

17.6 Tangier ferry

The Tangier ferry is the only direct maritime link between Gibraltar and the North African mainland. It is a vital link between Gibraltar's Moroccan community and their homeland and a potential security breach. The ferry arrives on a Friday and returns on a Sunday (though these dates can change). PMB crews are to attend the arrival and departure of the Tangier ferry on both days and assist in policing the embarkation and disembarkation of passengers. When policing the ferry officers must be alert to the following: Breaches of security, illegal immigrants, drug smuggling, stolen cars and public order and deal with any offences appropriately.

17.7 Incursion by Spanish Law Enforcement Agencies (LEA) and navy vessels

The RGP's position is clear. We are charged with policing our territorial waters in all respects and this will continue. We are not however responsible for the protection of our waters. That is the exclusive responsibility of HM Government exercised locally through WHSS and the Gibraltar squadron.

We will continue to cooperate with Spanish Law Enforcement Agencies (SLEA) to combat smuggling activities. Although Spanish LEA vessels transit BGTW on innocent passage and chases they will not be allowed to take executive action within our waters and will be required to give up the chase once we get involved.

As already stated, the RGP will only operate outside BGTW as per paragraph 7.4. Every time there is Executive Action in BGTW by a Spanish state vessel, a report is to be sent via email to Chief Inspector Operations ("CI OPS"), via the appropriate channels.

Rules of Engagement - The following procedure will be adopted to deter Spanish law enforcement action within BGTW. The procedure should be escalated as necessary and each step followed until the objective is achieved. The Crown Sergeant will take control of CAD and the incident. Once the Royal Navy (RN) are at location, primacy of jurisdiction will revert to them.

a. SLEA vessels transiting through BGTW:
    i. WHSS to be informed of presence, position and heading of SLEA.
    ii. WHSS to be requested to deploy RN assets.
    iii. In the absence of RN the SLEA vessel to be shadowed at a distance.

b. SLEA vessel intending to, or attempting to carry out executive action within BGTW:
    i. Engage video and audio recording equipment.
    ii. WHSS to be informed of presence, position and heading of SLEA vessel.
    iii. WHSS to be requested to deploy RN assets in order to assume primacy.
    iv. Guardia Civil CoS to be contacted by CAD to declare intentions of SLEA.
    v. WHSS to be contacted via VHF situation report to be given and asked to consider issue of UNCLOS warnings.
    vi. SLEA vessel to be approached, asked by PMB to declare intentions and to desist.
        1. Contact CAD and report.
    vii. Engage beacons and sirens.
        1. Contact CAD and report intention to deter.

2. Duty Officer to contact Senior Officer on Call or CI OPS and report.

viii. Position PMB between SLEA vessel and target vessel, deter, and prevent SLEA from interfering with target vessel.

1. Contact GPA, WHSS, and request recording of incident.

ix. Contact SLEA vessel via VHF and state: "Vessel "-------"you are currently operating within British Gibraltar Territorial Waters and your actions are being recorded. You do not have competence to act in this jurisdiction. It is our intention to impede your action. You should cease immediately and leave British Gibraltar Territorial Waters."

17.8 SAR

The GPA is the lead agency for maritime SAR within BGTW. Where there is a SAR operation or a very serious incident at sea, where lives are in danger, the RGP will support the GPA, who will co-ordinate and be the lead agency in this field and any incident. In view of their immediate response capabilities, RGP PMB will fully support the GPA in any SAR operation. On the request of the GPA, a SAR is the ONLY occasion that a RGP vessel can leave BGTW. However, the Crown Sergeant or the Duty Inspector must supply authority, prior to undertaking assistance outside of BGTW and rationale recorded on the CAD log.

17.9 Summer Bathing Season

Commencing in mid-June and ending in mid-September, the bathing season sees the congregation of a large proportion of the community at both the Eastern and Western coastline beaches. There is an increase in water leisure activities such as use of jet skis, speedboats and pleasure boats all of which are a concern and can pose a danger to bathers. Prior to commencement of the Bathing Season, CI OPS will advise on PMB deployment, roles, responsibilities, duty hours and crew complements, after liaising with HMC and GDP.

17.10 Fishing vessels

With the aim of preventing the flaring of an excuse for a political situation, when on patrols, if the PMB come across a commercial fishing vessel within BGTW, coxswains will follow the following criteria:

a) On every occasion, where there is a report of a commercial fishing vessel, CAD will contact the Department for the Environment, requesting their presence.
b) If the Department of the Environment are unable to attend, then the RGP PMB will approach and engage with the master or any crewmember on every occasion to find out their intentions.
c) Record their activity, catch if any close up of their faces and recording position together with vessel's details.
d) If the vessel is lifting their fishing gear, thus on a trajectory out of BGTW or they have informed the RGP that they are just about to lift their fishing gear and leave BGTW, then the RGP PMB are to inform them that they are illegally fishing within BGTW and they have to leave.
e) Discretion falls upon the coxswain at the time, whether to report for process, with the knowledge that they may become difficult and/or not provide any details.

f) Under no circumstances are PMB officers to board the fishing vessel, without prior consent from Divisional Commander.
g) If the fishing vessel is laying their fishing gear down, in preparation for fishing or have just commenced fishing, then with the same guidelines, informing them that they are fishing illegally and should cease their activity and leave the area, failure to do so would result in them being reported for process.
h) A report of RGP actions will be forwarded via email to CI OPS.

17.11 Illegal Immigrants

The planned response to this type of incident incorporates many different sections of the RGP and the involvement of numerous outside agencies. The RGP's response to this type of incident can be found in the RGP's Migrant Plan.

17.12 Drugs trafficking

The straits of Gibraltar and its environs is a well-known smuggling route with drug and human trafficking taking place from the North African coastline to Spain. On many occasions, this smuggling activity enters our territorial waters.

PMB crews will conduct systematic periodic patrols of Gibraltar's coastline and territorial waters throughout their tour of duty. They will pursue suspect vessels in a determined though safe manner ONLY within BGTW and liaise with Spanish LEAs.

All communication to / from the PMB vessel and Spanish LEA, will be directed via CAD. There will be NO direct communication between the PMB crew and any Spanish LEA (land based) whilst at sea. CAD and/or the Crown Sergeant will undertake all communications with Spanish LEA's.

When a report of a pursuit is received by the RGP, and once CAD has complied with the THRIVE model and graded the response as immediate, the PMB will be informed. At this stage, the coxswain will undertake the following actions:

If still at GGMS, the checks as per sections 12.1 & 15.4 must be undertaken

If already on patrol, then the checks as per sections 12.1 & 15.4 have already been undertaken at the outset of the patrol. However, if there are any changes to the initial risk assessment and checklists supplied to CAD prior to leaving GGMS, then the coxswain must inform CAD immediately. A decision must then be made by the coxswain, in consultation with and authorisation of the Crown Sergeant to instigate the pursuit.

17.13 Ports Policing / Immigration / Intelligence gathering

The PMB in conjunction with RGP Special Branch (SB) officers will conduct policing of vessel entry points e.g. the Tangier Ferry and marinas. They will also offer support with seaborne enquiries and intelligence gathering opportunities with vessels in both the Western and Eastern anchorages.

18 Incident Response

18.1 The decision to utilise statutory exemptions should always be balanced against the nature of the incident, the distance of the intended location, vessels in the area and the weather conditions prevalent at the time.

18.2 Statutory exemptions exist in relation to exceeding the speed limit within the harbour. Where RGP vessels are on urgent duty and engaged in an emergency, they are authorised to proceed at a speed, exceeding the 5 knots limit. However, the coxswain must still exercise due care and attention, in accordance of rule 6 of the IMO's ColRegs (see Appendix B), as failure to do so may result in prosecution regardless of the statutory exemptions.

19 Pursuits

19.1 Pursuit Navigation

All Police officers have an individual responsibility for ensuring that they are aware of the relevant legislation and are informed about the extent of their legal powers and the context within which these powers can be properly exercised. When a situation falls within the definition of a pursuit, the RGP PMB coxswain MUST use the pneumonic JAPAN (see below) to assist them in immediately risk assessing the situation and deciding whether the pursuit is:

- Justified - Is what you are doing justifiable in the circumstances i.e. can you justify the need to pursue?
- Authorised - Are you authorised to undertake the pursuit? Alternatively, is it the responsibility of another officer to issue authority to you to continue?
- Proportional - Is what you are doing proportional to the purpose? Could the goal be achieved, if the pursuit was not commenced?
- Auditable - Have you shared your rationale with CAD, so that there is evidence of your actions?
- Necessary - Is what you are doing necessary or can the result be achieved in some other way without this a pursuit?

19.2 Pursuits may be spontaneous or part of pre-planned operations. The only vessels to be used in pursuits are marked RGP registered patrol vessels and RGP PWC (jet skis) fitted with emergency beacons and audible warning equipment.

19.3 Only RGP PMB officers who have undergone and passed the RGP RHIB course (see Appendix C) and are currently authorised as coxswains, will be authorised to coxswain any RGP vessel involved in a patrol or pursuit. RGP coxswains are only authorised to operate a suitable RGP vessel in a manner that is consistent with achieving operational objectives, to ensure a safe and successful outcome to the incident. Additionally, ONLY after the appropriate Crown sergeant authorisations have been given to continue.

19.4 The aim of the coxswain should be to identify the vessel, if possible its coxswain and occupants. If there is evidence to suggest that the suspect vessel is involved in drug smuggling, the coxswain is to ascertain if the said vessel is loaded or unloaded. Once achieved the coxswain will update the control room, then pull back, and shadow the subject vessel at a safe distance. However, the reality of policing is that there will be times when there will be no other alternative but to pursue a vessel in order to detain the occupant(s), due to the serious nature of the offence, or to secure a vulnerable person. In these situations when faced with a vessel that is failing to stop or is fleeing, the coxswain must consider the criteria outlined in 19.7 and decide if to pursue the suspect vessel in the first instance.

19.5 Pursuit Criteria

On the commencement of every pursuit, the Crown Sergeant will take charge of CAD, the pursuit and incident. CAD will THRIVE the PMB's response using the same model as for land deployments. The Duty Inspector is to be informed as soon as practicable and will monitor. The second crewmember will relay all pursuit information, with a running commentary over the radio to CAD. If this process is not adhered, the Crown Sergeant can terminate the pursuit.

19.6 WHSS and the GPA would already be aware that our RGP vessel is out on patrol, as CAD would have already informed them. However, CAD must contact both WHSS and the GPA again at this point, confirming the commencement of a pursuit, and requesting the use of their CCTV cameras (VTS), with night time thermal imaging capabilities to record the said pursuit for evidential purposes.

19.7 With the relevant criteria in mind, coxswains should then carry out the pursuit by adhering to set procedures within this Policy and always bearing in mind their training (Gibraltar Law Enforcement R.H.I.B. coxswain course) undertaken, in relation to coxswain response and the exemptions open to them when coxswaining a RGP vessel at speed. The following guidelines must be undertaken:

- Decide upon the justification of the pursuit (within BGTW);
- Considering all known factors in accordance with policy and legislation;
- Weather and sea conditions;
- Risk assess;
- Identify the need for the pursuit, and request resources necessary to resolve the pursuit safely;
- The NDM must be applied when consideration is being given whether to pursue a vessel, and continually evaluated during the pursuit.
- Assess suitability of the RGP vessel for the pursuit;
- Coxswain the RGP vessel within their authorisation and personal limitation;

- Ensure that audible and visual warning equipment is used to best effect during the pursuit;
- Ensure that on board cameras / BWC equipment is used to best effect during the pursuit;
- Continued running commentary of anticipated route and continued route including the pursued vessels piloting manner and speed;
- Maintain safe following distances, decline any form of challenge from the suspect and remain calm;
- Avoid any activity that would place the pilot refusing to stop under any additional pressure. Research has shown that following a vessel too closely can significantly increase the pressure upon the subject vessel's coxswain being pursued and increase the likelihood of a collision;
- Resist the tendency to become focused (Red Mist) on the 'subject vessel' by continually scanning the environment;
- At the earliest opportunity, inform the control room of a vessel's failure to stop.
- Objectively assess and review the risks associated with the safe continuance of the pursuit.
- Discontinue a pursuit as soon as the pursuit becomes too dangerous in comparison with the offence(s) suspected or committed, if the suspect vessel performs evasive and/or dangerous manoeuvres.
- A crewmember should relay information such as the description and identification of the vessel, the pilot, the occupants, direction of travel and any other relevant information to the control room;
- Should the subject vessel leave BGTW the pursuit will be discontinued immediately and the control room informed, using set radio messages, as per paragraph 22.1.

20 Application of Emergency Warning Equipment

20.1 On land, the illumination of blue lights and sirens on a police vehicle is the most recognised method of requiring a subject vehicle to stop. The public's understanding of blue lights and sirens is transferrable and on the water, most will acknowledge a Police vessel displaying them and stop accordingly. Police coxswains should be cognisant of the extra engine noise of power driven vessel and consider the adoption of a dominant position to gain the visual attention of subject coxswains who appear to be failing to comply.

20.2 Coxswains will only deploy their emergency beacons and audible warning devices in the following situations:

- On the direction of CAD;
- To warn other seafarers and the public of their presence whilst dealing with an incident for their own and officers safety;

- To safely request a vessel and its occupants to stop, as they may have or are committing Criminal Offences;
- In the event of a vessel failing to stop;
- On the request for immediate assistance (10/5);
- In the event of escorting vessels or dignitaries;
- Any other time where a coxswain deploys their emergency equipment and an incident happens, the emphasis shall be on the coxswain to justify the reasoning behind it.

21 Vessel interception and stopping tactics

21.1 This Section provides an outline of the tactical options open to PMB officers in an escalating level of force and risk to the officers and the public. Waterborne tactical response options should follow the conflict resolution model and consideration must be given to the use of each escalating level starting with 'officer presence' and working up in conjunction with the NDM.

21.2 Tactical options are summarised in the following table:

<tr><td>Tactical options</td><td>Disengage</td><td colspan="3">Engage</td></tr>
<tr><td>Force</td><td colspan="3">Non-Lethal</td><td>Less Lethal</td></tr>
<tr><td rowspan="2">Tactical Considerations</td><td colspan="4">Pacing</td></tr>
<tr><td>Observe</td><td>Vessel position (show of force)</td><td>VHF
Verbal Hand Signals
Written Signs</td><td>Slow speed ride off</td><td>Vessel stopping system (not presently available to the RGP)</td></tr>
</table>

21.3 General considerations:

- The NDM should be followed before taking any action using response options or tactics with appropriate referral to a recognised command structure where circumstances permit.

- The more extreme stopping tactics carry a greater risk of damaging a subject vessel and injuring its occupants. Is the tactic justifiable, auditable, proportionate, achievable, necessary and lawful?
- Has each tactic been considered in ascending order?
- The RGP coxswain and other crew who are practically involved in the execution of any tactic should be trained and practised in the activity prior to operational deployment. This requirement is in addition to their basic ability to helm the police vessel.
- Prevailing weather conditions and sea state must be considered and whether or not they will reduce the effectiveness of a tactic or make it more dangerous.
- Geographical features may restrict the tactics available.
- The specific characteristics of the Police vessel and whether it is a capable platform from which to execute the chosen tactic.
- Are there sufficient numbers of vessels available to meet the objective or execute the tactic?
- What contingencies are in place if something goes wrong? Have escape routes and man overboard plans been created and practiced?
- Communication between coxswain and crew should be considered along with a plan to contact other Police vessels, partner agencies and the public.
- The reactions by other water users during use of police tactics.
- What effect will the use of the tactic have on the subject vessel's behaviour? Is it likely to prompt a change in course or speed?
- Is there a role for other partner agencies?
- Tactical contact between vessels should always be proportionate.
- The final decision to perform any tactic should rest with the RGP coxswain and the Crown Sergeant / Duty Inspector.

21.4 Vessel Presence and Static Positioning

Explanation

The lowest level of engagement is "officer presence". This level of action is equally effective in the marine environment and the presence of the police vessel shadowing subject vessels or persons may deter and prevent them from escalating their actions. The subject maybe on the shoreline or waterside structure, on a waterborne structure such as a pontoon, or afloat on a vessel.

Considerations

- Useful for low level action where small numbers of persons or vessels are expected;
- Potentially less effective against larger, more powerful vessels;
- Minimal resources required;
- Care should be taken to maintain the distance between the subject and police vessel to maintain an overview of all subjects.

21.5 Communication with the Subject Vessel

Explanation

Where the presence of a police officer or vessel is no longer sufficient to contain and control a passive subject, communication should be established to achieve the police objective and give direction. Communication is the most effective way to gauge intention and the subject's reaction, or failure to respond, to this approach may then provide grounds to increase the level of force.

Considerations

- Communication is low level action;
- The resources required to conduct effective communication are minimal;
- There is potential that a subject, especially in a moving vessel is not aware of the RGP vessel presence and communication is a useful, proportionate escalation to gain attention and compliance.

Techniques

- Methods of communication can be considered on an escalating scale in themselves: for example, in the case of a vessel failing to stop on approach to a security area, the following progressive use of communication tactics could be considered, time and distance permitting. In most circumstances, blue lights and sirens will be sufficient to halt the subject. If not, police officers can then use the VHF radio to try and make contact. If still unsuccessful, stop signs and loud hailers can be used to raise the level of communication and maximize the opportunity of achieving subject compliance prior to escalating the level of force used. (There is no fixed escalation of police communication tactics and in each situation the most relevant forms of interaction should be adopted first).

- The crew should document (via CAD) their attempts to communicate with a subject vessel should it fail to stop. This will include, but not exclusively, communication methods attempted; duration of attempted communication; and, the response from the subject coxswain/crew (e.g. looked towards police displaying stop sign, but failed to respond). Relevant communication updates should be relayed to the Police Coxswain to assist them in adopting the most appropriate escalated tactic in response.

21.6 Vectoring

Vectoring describes the tactic of approaching a high-speed subject vessel from any angle to enable the RGP Vessel to match the speed and pace of the subject and adopt the optimum position in preparation for employing an escalated level of force.

A high-speed vessel (similar or excess speed to that of the RGP vessel) presents PMB officers with the issue of being unable to "catch up" and employ the use of any form of stopping tactics such as the vessel stopping devices. However, the RGP do not have this resource at their disposal. When RGP vessels are positioned on a cordon or control point bordering a vulnerable area, the RGP vessel would generally see an approaching vessel coming from the side or ahead. The coxswain should aim to intercept the subject vessel so that a pacing position is achieved without the subject being ahead at any time.

Considerations are:

- Executed correctly, this tactic presents a low risk of injury or damage to the police or the public but can act as a good 'show of strength'.
- Vectoring requires the careful positioning and adjustment of the Police Vessel as well as the accurate use of throttles and steering to prevent loss of speed through the turn and avoid finishing behind the subject.
- Coxswains should practice manoeuvres, as it is very easy to end up closer to the subject vessel than intended, with the associated dangers of unintentional ramming and injury. A well-practiced coxswain should be able to prevent the subject vessel getting ahead of them assuming the vessels are capable of similar speed and manoeuvrability
- Subject vessels may attempt evasive measures such as altering speed and steering behind the RGP vessel and coxswains should be prepared to react to this accordingly.
- It is unlikely that a subject vessel will intentionally ram a RGP vessel as the police vector onto them. Where an intention to ram the RGP vessel is anticipated or identified, immediate evasive action should be followed by the adoption of a side stand by position from which the RGP coxswain can maintain observations on the subject vessel safely, react to further aggression and mount an escalated use of force or call the required support.

Techniques

90° Vectoring

- Having identified a subject vessel, the RGP vessel will make rapid progress towards the subject's general direction being mindful of hazards and other vessels in the vicinity.
- Once under way, the RGP coxswain should judge the speed of the subject vessel and begin to aim the RGP vessel at the anticipated meeting point ahead of the subject.
- This change in course should be gradual and controlled to maintain speed and retain a view of the subject vessel at all times.
- The RGP coxswain must ensure that they time their arc to prevent an opportunity for the subject vessel to turn towards them and go behind the RGP vessel.
- The interception should end in a pacing position a safe distance from the subject vessel relative to the conditions and other relevant factors.

180° Vectoring:

- Having identified a subject vessel, the RGP vessel will get up to speed towards the subject's general direction being mindful of hazards & other vessels in the vicinity.
- Once under way and on the plane, the RGP Coxswain should begin an early turn out and away from the subject vessel to create space for a turning circle between them, keeping sight of the subject vessel at all times.
- When sufficient room has been created, the RGP coxswain should arc back in at the subject vessel judging the speed of the subject vessel.
- As the angle reduces to 90° and less, the RGP coxswain can adopt the same approach as described above.
- During a head-on interception, it is especially important to avoid sharp turns in order to maintain sufficient speed and momentum through the water.
- The interception should end in a pacing position a safe distance from the subject vessel, relative to the conditions and other relevant factors.

21.7 Pacing

The term 'pacing' means to match the speed of the police vessel to that of a subject vessel and adopt a parallel position to the port or starboard quarter.

Explanation

In essence, pacing is the preparatory position from which the RGP coxswain and crew can risk assess the subject vessel, make their presence known to the subject vessel coxswain, communicate with the occupants of the subject vessel, mount a boarding operation or initiate an escalated tactic. No contact should be made with the subject vessel and the RGP Coxswain will maintain a safe distance between the two vessels with particular regard for the conditions, the vessels' characteristics, the subject vessel coxswain apparent level of competence, surrounding hazards and the purpose of the manoeuvre.

Consideration

The considerations for pacing mirror those described in a boarding operation and vectoring. It is important to emphasise that at the conclusion of the manoeuvre, coxswains must avoid turning away more than 90° from their pacing course to reduce the risk of collision with any following or shadowing vessels.

21.8 Ride off

A vessel 'ride off' is where the RGP coxswain causes the RGP vessel to make gentle tactical contact with the subject vessel and guide them off course.

Explanation

Where the occupants of a subject vessel fail to react to the presence of the RGP vessel, the RGP crew's attempted communication or the RGP's adoption of a dominant or pacing position, the RGP coxswain may deem a ride off to be the most appropriate escalation. By physically making contact and causing the alteration of a subject's course, the ride off provides the subject with an assertive early indication of the RGP coxswain's intention to enforce previous instruction. Where a subject has merely shown disregard for the RGP action or is contemplating whether or not to try and persevere with their initial non-compliance, the ride off can be a swift resolution, as the RGP do not have the resources to more extreme measures, such as the vessel stopping device or deployable booms.

Considerations

When locking on to a subject vessel, the RGP coxswain should also be mindful of the following issues:-

- The RGP coxswain will ONLY undertake this manoeuvre/tactic where there is a clear and immediate risk to life, to the RGP crew, any member of the suspect crew, any passengers on the suspect vessel or any other member of the public.
- The mere fact that a suspect vessel is involved in drug trafficking, irrespective of being loaded or unloaded at the time, does not justify the use of this tactic, unless the incident falls within the description above.
- A ride off can cause injury and damage and should be considered a moderate risk tactic.
- Where time allows, all possible attempts should be made to communicate with the subject vessel using as many methods as possible and those attempts should be recorded.
- This tactic is specifically aimed at small vessels – coxswains have to consider the characteristics of the RGP and subject vessel, before employing this tactic and ensure they will be able to dominate the subject vessel in terms of weight, size and engine power.
- The faster the two vessels are travelling when this tactic is employed, the higher the risk of damage or injury and as such, it is normally more suited to slower speed encounters.
- It is vitally important that this lock on manoeuvre is not construed as an attempt to ram the subject vessel
- As stipulated all RGP crewmembers on a RGP interceptor or RHIB will wear helmets and visors. Spray between the vessels can affect vision and there is a small potential for fixtures and fittings to break off one of the vessels and strike them.
- This tactic should not be allowed to evolve into a situation where the subject vessel is trying to evade the RGP vessel, by deliberately altering speed or course. The coxswain must dynamically assess the risk of serious injury and damage to either vessel or crew and consider another, potentially safer option.
- A ride off should only be used for sufficient time to persuade the subject vessel to stop, or proceed on a course as required.
- The tactic of a RGP vessel “coming together” with a subject vessel may result in damage to both the police and subject vessels. The deployment of this tactic must at all-time be safe and proportionate to the evolving threat and coxswains should be cognisant of their personal liability

21.9 Locking On

Considerations

The method of initiating a ride off is very similar to "locking on".

- The RGP coxswain will ONLY undertake this manoeuvre/tactic where there is a clear and immediate risk to life, to the RGP crew, any member of the suspect crew, any passengers on the suspect vessel or any other member of the public.
- The mere fact that a suspect vessel is involved in drug trafficking, irrespective of being loaded or unloaded at the time, does not justify the use of this tactic, unless the incident falls within the description above.
- The Police coxswain matches the subject vessel's speed and adopts a pacing position to maximise the crew's ability to communicate with the occupants of the subject vessel.
- Having decided to engage, the coxswain slowly manoeuvres the police vessel towards the subject vessel closing the gap, briefly holds off the subject vessel a metre away.
- When the police vessel has evened out, the shoulder of the vessel is gently lent against the side of the subject vessel in a safe position. This is often most effective in a location further forward towards the bow of the subject vessel (on the shoulder) than the normal position adopted for a cross decking operation.
- By gently increasing power and turning inwards, the Police coxswain can physically guide the subject vessel to alter course.
- The Police coxswain must not make contact so far forward of the subject vessel that a risk is created of wrapping around the front of the bow.
- The coxswain must also ensure that the bow of the Police vessel does not ride up over the front of the subject vessel.
- The Police coxswain must be prepared to increase or decrease power and steer away at any point to prevent either of the occurrences above and to react to an alteration in course or power by the subject vessel.
- Having manoeuvred the subject onto the desired course, the Police Vessel should slowly disengage and increase the space between the two vessels.

21.10 It is possible that the only option left to the RGP coxswain is to make firm tactical contact with a subject vessel that exceeds the Ride Off procedure. This tactic will only be executed, where there is a clear and immediate risk to life, to the RGP crew, any member of the suspect crew, any passengers on the suspect vessel or any other member of the public. It will be the decision of the coxswain to undertake the said tactic/action. However, the execution of the tactic must receive prior authority from the Crown Sergeant or Duty Inspector. All rationale must be recorded in the CAD log.

The following considerations (in addition to those above) must be made:-

- The coxswain and crew should consider wearing all available safety gear including helmets with visors down to protect themselves.
- In the event that any such manoeuvre has to be attempted, there is a high risk of injury and damage to the occupants and vessels involved. If possible, assistance should be pre-empted and called for prior to the execution of the manoeuvre. The GPA should be provided with the vessel coordinates and direction of travel immediately prior to the contact being made. Members of the public in the vicinity on their own private vessels may be a justifiable rescue resource in the aftermath of the incident and consideration should be given to hailing all nearby vessels on VHF channel 16.

- A collision is likely to cause damage and ingress to the vessels involved which could result in the rapid sinking of one or both of the vessels. If time permits, life rafts and other relevant lifesaving equipment on board the RGP vessel should be prepared prior to the contact being made.
- Most vessels' propulsion systems are at the rear so logic would suggest that the most likely way of successfully disabling a subject vessel would be the initiation of contact at the front of the RGP vessel on, or near, the subject vessel's engines. However, due to the high level of risk, such a tactic cannot be trained for and no practical guidance can be offered on how this type of manoeuvre should be executed.

As soon as the manoeuvre is over, it is imperative that the welfare of the occupants on the subject vessel and those on the RGP vessel take primacy, with First Aid administered where required.

21.11 Escalated Options

In the event that all the tactics in this Section have failed to be successful and a serious threat to life still exists, RGP coxswains may deem it necessary to consider the use of escalated options. It should be understood that all the options in this Section present a high risk to the police officers and public involved.

Where circumstances permit, RGP coxswains are strongly advised to seek guidance and authority through the recognized Gold, Silver & Bronze ("GSB"), and command structure before resorting to any action or assistance described in this Section.

21.12 Military assistance

During some pre-planned events or in response to a spontaneous incident, there is the option of calling on military maritime assistance through the Military Assistance to the Civil Authority ("MACA") process in the resolution of a serious incident.

It is highly likely that Military teams will be called to resolve any armed situation on a vessel in BGTW, where there is time for them to respond. In such circumstances, the RGP PMB are likely to be asked to stand off and provide containment, but it is possible that they may be asked to provide transportation if no other options are available.

21.13 Armed Police Response

The RGP will take the same stance as that of the UK's National Police Firearms Training Curriculum, where it clearly states that under no normal circumstances, police officers should fire at moving vessels due to huge number of risks that such action would create. However, if there is no option left, where life is at risk and officers deem the use of firearms necessary, it is conceded that this tactic may have to be used as a last resort. The Armed officer onboard the RGP vessel will be aware of the considerations prior to employing this tactic and they will make the final decision on whether to use their firearm.

22 Termination of a Pursuit

22.1 If at any point during a pursuit, the coxswain, the Crown Sergeant, or the Duty Inspector deems the pursuit to be unsafe and that the risk being taken is too great or the pursuit leaves BGTW, the pursuit is to be cancelled immediately, using the following words:

'PURSUIT CANCELLED'

The second crewmember, on the instructions of the coxswain will answer CAD (or CAD to PMB), acknowledging by stating:

'PURSUIT CANCELLED'

The coxswain will turn off all emergency warning equipment.

22.2 If the suspect vessel subsequently returns into BGTW, the pursuit will be re-engaged, as per above procedures and continuously updated by the second crewmember, allowing CAD to deploy accordingly.

22.3 Contact will only be made if the police vessel is struck by the pursued vessel and it is seen as a safe way to conclude the pursuit this is a judgement call by the coxswain. If the Coxswain uses contact against a pursued vessel without the above criteria it will be for them to justify.

23 Officer to officer communication

23.1 It is essential that any RGP boarding officer(s) retain constant communication with one another, as the coxswain will stay aboard the Police vessel having delivered them to a subject vessel. The coxswain should adopt the most appropriate standby position to enable good visibility of the subject vessel and boarding crew – they may have to alter their position during the operation in response to the boarding crew movements.

23.2 Communication is likely to be conducted using police radios, but coxswains and crewmembers should be conversant in hand signals to account for equipment failure or excessive background noise. As such, boarding officers should avoid going below deck or out of sight where possible. It is important to remember that large vessels are usually constructed of thick metal that often affects radio transmissions.

23.3 Checks must be made on all communication equipment, prior to leaving GGMS. Once aboard a suspect vessel, the Police coxswain, to ensure the welfare of the boarding officer, will carry out regular checks. The coxswain and crew should agree on the maximum amount of time before the first status update to negate any communication issues and ensure that the boarding crew will initiate contact with the coxswain in the event that they have not been prompted. Crews should consider the creation of a code word or phrase in order to covertly raise the alarm in the event that their safety is compromised once aboard the subject vessel.

24 Boarding / Transfer

24.1 Boarding other vessels is a regular marine policing function but with the vast number of variables in the maritime environment, boarding is often a complex area of expertise with the potential to present a high risk to crewmembers and vessels.

24.2 Any decision to board a vessel must be based on the application of the NDM. The coxswain must determine what necessity exists to board a subject vessel, balancing the risk of harm to their crew, the vessel and the public with policing obligations at the scene of an incident. Where appropriate, consideration should be given to other available options such as an overt escort to land or a withdrawal followed by discreet observations conducted from the Police vessel or other assets.

Having made the decision to board a vessel, the coxswain and Crew must be certain of the boarding officer's intention once aboard the subject vessel. It is important to assess the likelihood that this intention is achievable in the circumstances and develop a contingency to deal with unforeseen factors that arise during the boarding with particular reference to an 'escape plan'.

24.3 The location of a vessel boarding will affect the level of risk posed to the boarding officer(s) and where possible, coxswains should attempt to influence a subject vessel's location in their favour. It may be appropriate to escort the subject to a more secluded area such as a bay or harbour and in some instances, to a recognised mooring where safe boarding can take place from the land. Where this is not practical or achievable, the remoteness of a location and the vicinity of police back up (often non-existent at sea) should be considered.

24.4 The feasibility of a boarding will be largely dictated by the sea state and weather conditions. Adverse conditions and large swells increase the risk of injury to crewmembers and damage to both the RGP and subject vessel.

24.5 In addition to the strengths and limitations of the RGP vessel, the coxswain and crew will have to consider the number of crewmembers & additional police officers (passengers) available to conduct an appropriate boarding. This is particularly relevant at sea where the boarding officer(s) are isolated once aboard the subject vessel.

24.6 For marine policing purposes, boarding will fall into two categories, which are entirely dictated by the occupants on the subject vessel:-

a) During a pre-planned operation where the level of opposition is anticipated or predicted to be beyond RGP parameters, military assistance is likely to be sought through established processes.

b) In reactive situations, the RGP PMB officers may be faced with a level of non-compliance. As with all non-compliant boarding, the coxswain will have to make a dynamic NDM led decision, based on the risk to his crew and the public in respect of;

- The necessity to board;
- The level of opposition;
- The achievability of the boarding;
- The police resources available on the PMB with particular consideration to armed capability and where applicable, the tactical guidance of an Operational Firearms Commander (OFC) on board.

24.7 Boarding (Training) Governance

Boarding a subject vessel is a technical activity that should be regularly practiced to ensure that during live deployments, teams have a pre-existing understanding of the procedure and what is expected of each person.

a) It is the responsibility of the PMB instructors to keep up-to-date training manuals / files on all PMB personnel, in relation to this training. The entries must show exactly what the officers have been trained in, competent in and authorized to undertake.

b) The training files must contain details of all continuous training carried out.

c) PMB Sergeant must ensure that every PMB officer's training files are completed appropriately and securely stored. Any areas of concern identified by the instructors and/or the PMB Sergeant must be evidenced and reported in writing to the PMB Inspector.

25 Prisoner Handling

25.1 Dealing with prisoners or detained persons afloat or near water creates additional risk for both RGP officers and detained persons. Risks include drowning, entrapment in confined spaces, injury from unstable platforms and readily available articles on boats capable of causing injury.

25.2 The following resources will be required to undertake prisoner handling:

- Lifejackets;
- Buoyancy Aids for prisoners;
- Plastic handcuffs;
- Scarab cutters.

25.3 The Intended outcomes are as follows:

- To effectively detain (for search etc.), arrest and transport persons from avessel or waterside structure to land;
- To prevent injury to detainees or officers involved.

25.4 Methodology:

All officers must have undergone personal safety training. There are four principle guidelines that should be adhered to where police detain or arrest a subject afloat or on waterside structures:

i. A minimum of two officers should be in direct physical control of each subject at all times until the detainee is safely on land. This includes persons detained but not arrested for search.

ii. Handcuffing a detainee puts them at risk and should only be carried out if officers have no alternative. In the event that it is deemed necessary for safety because violence is being, or is likely to be, used or believing that the person may try to escape, prisoners should be handcuffed to the front stack position rather than rear. In this position, should a prisoner then fall or jump into the water, they are more likely to be able to keep their head above water and are able to hold lines or objects to maintain buoyancy. Once safely ashore, rigid handcuffs should be applied.

iii. As soon as possible after control of a detainee is established, a buoyancy aid or lifejacket must be fitted to them. Buoyancy aids are particularly useful for this purpose as they can be fitted to a person restrained by handcuffs. If the detainee is already wearing their own lifejacket the correct operation cannot readily be ascertained by officers. This should be removed and replaced with a DfT approved collar buoyancy aid if practical.

iv. Prisoners should only be transferred to the RGP vessel if they are compliant and the coxswain and crew consider it safe to do so. Many factors will influence this decision including water conditions and height of access into the RGP vessel. Other options to consider include towing the subject vessel to a safer location such as a pontoon where additional officers can be made available to extract the prisoner(s) from the vessel.

25.5 Prisoner Handling (Training) Governance

a) It is the responsibility of the PMB instructors to keep up-to-date training manuals / files on all PMB personnel, in relation to this training. The entries must show exactly what the officers have been trained in, competent in and authorized to undertake.

b) The training files must contain details of all continuous training carried out.

c) PMB Sergeant must ensure that every PMB officer's training files are completed appropriately and securely stored. Any areas of concern identified by the instructors and/or the PMB sergeant must be evidenced and reported in writing to the PMB Inspector.

25.6 Prior to boarding a vessel or waterside structure to deal with subjects, consideration must be given to the environment and the subject. Competent communication skills with, and intelligence on the subject are important in successfully detaining a subject.

25.7 Ships and vessels often contain confined spaces making a tactical retreat by officers difficult. Additional consideration must be given to the impact and use of any incapacitant sprays or batons in such situations and the likely effect on the subject or officers, such as:

a) Is there sufficient space for officers and the detained person to retreat from the effects of the spray?

b) Is the detainee likely to fall or jump overboard to escape effects?

25.8 Smaller vessels and pontoons are likely to be unstable platforms. Consideration should be given as to whether to try to detain a person on such a platform or in the case of a compliant detainee, request the subject move themselves onto the RGP vessel in a controlled manner. The positioning of officers and the detainee(s) aboard smaller vessels and RHIBs will offer greater stability. Keeping low on smaller vessels and sitting the detainee(s) down can make the vessel more stable.

25.9 Many vessels legitimately contain equipment and tools, which may be used as weapons against officers. It is common for tools and knives to be kept around the wheelhouse and helm area. Oars, marine flares, and fuel are all generally readily available on boats and can be used as weapons against officers. Where possible, ask the subject to turn off the engine or remove the kill cord and move away from the controls to an open space on the vessel at the stern or bow, ensuring they are not carrying potential weapons before boarding. Pay particular attention to personal knives or flares when searching detainees.

Having boarded and gained control of the detainee, control of the vessel should be established, ensuring that it cannot be deliberately or accidentally moved. CAD must be informed immediately and updated on the situation. Depending on the location, this may simply be taking control of the keys if there is no immediate danger to the vessel. Consideration should be given to towing, moving or anchoring the vessel to secure and control it.

In the event that it is not considered safe to move a prisoner to the Police vessel due to conditions or violence by the prisoner, the vessel can be towed to shore, preferably to a pontoon or dock where additional assistance can be used to move the prisoner to land.

26 General PMB Training

26.1 The RGP PMB receives accredited training from the AllAboard Maritime Academy, together with in house training delivered by qualified RGP PMB instructors. This training endorsed by the GMA, enabling PMB officers to attain recognised boat handling qualifications.

26.2 The RGP PMB relies heavily upon Royal Yachting Association ("RYA") qualifications and the GMA to assess our training and that of coxswains. This shows transparency in RGP systems and ensures that PMB officers are delivering a maximum quality of service. The overall aim is to minimise risks in our sometimes hostile and exposed environment.

26.3 The training programme will be a continuous and scheduled daily process, where the PMB officer will gain experience through hours at sea and set / planned training scenarios. Continuous coaching from PMB line managers, training instructors, senior coxswains and crewmembers. Every officer will continue training throughout his or her tenure in the PMB. All continuous in-house training will be recorded.

26.4 All PMB officers undertake the Standards of Training, certification and watch keeping (STCW 95) and RYA courses. The STCW 95 is an agreed and standardised training course, throughout the world. STCW is required by all seafarers who are working on-board commercial ships and superyachts and is valid for 5 years. Once the PMB officers have obtained the said STCW 95, they are ready to advance to their Boat Masters Certificate that is issued by the GMA, after taking practical and theory exams conducted by the GMA, which is also valid for 5 years.

The RHIB Coxswain certificate is obtained by PMB officers once they have completed all the above, and undergo the final RHIB assessments conducted in-house. Full details of RGP training can be found in the RGP PMB Manual.

26.5 General Training Governance

a) It is the responsibility of the PMB instructors to keep up-to-date training manuals/files on all PMB personnel, in relation to ALL forms of training. The entries must show exactly what the officers have been trained in, their competencies and what authorized to undertake.

b) The training files must contain details of all continuous training carried out.

c) PMB Sergeant must ensure that every PMB officer's training files are completed appropriately and securely stored. Any areas of concern identified by the instructors and/or the PMB Sergeant must be evidenced and reported in writing to the PMB Inspector.

27 RHIB Training

27.1 The GMA endorses the RGP's Gibraltar Law Enforcement RHIB Coxswain Course (Appendix C refers).

27.1 On successful completion of the coxswain course, the officers are able to satisfactorily operate twin engine and above RHIB's under law enforcement conditions in a manner which is deemed to be responsible and safe for the coxswains, crews and other users.

27.2 The course consists of 25 modules, explained further in Appendix C. These include theory and practical work as well as exam and practical assessment. It is designed around several scheduled mini courses, training days and in-house training during working hours. The course is not time specific and is dependent on the officers learning capacity and time constraints placed by operational commitments.

27.3 The course covers all aspects and material in depth. Officers will be tested and signed off on the different subjects as they successfully complete them. Officers must prove to be competent in handling a RHIB at this advanced level of powerboating and be able to plan and navigate Gibraltar waters in different sea and weather conditions during the day and night. The designated assessor then completes the final assessment form.

27.4 RHIB Training Governance

a) It is the responsibility of the PMB instructors to keep up-to-date training manuals/files on all PMB personnel, in relation to coxswain training. The entries must show exactly what the officers have been trained in, their competencies and authorized to undertake.

b) The training files must contain details of all continuous training carried out.

c) PMB Sergeant must ensure that every PMB officer's training files are completed appropriately and securely stored. Any areas of concern identified by the instructors and/or the PMB sergeant must be evidenced and reported in writing to the PMB Inspector.

28 Post Incident Procedure (PIP)

28.1 Depending on the seriousness of a situation, the Command Team will appoint a qualified Post Incident Manager (PIM).

28.2 In accordance with approved practice, PIP investigations are instigated when certain criteria are met, where the Police have been involved and this deployment has resulted in death or serious injury. The aim is to detail the management arrangements for such incidents and relate to the safety and security of person(s), property/critical infrastructure and includes and are not limited to various instances, including:

- Pursuits;
- Accidents during operational activity;
- Serious collisions;
- Any situation where a critical incident has been declared.

The objectives of the procedure are to:

- Look after the welfare of Key Police Witnesses;
- Facilitate the investigation;
- Ensure the integrity of the procedure.

28.3 One of the PIM's responsibilities is to ensure that the officers' wellbeing and safeguards are considered at every stage of the process. The PIM gathers all relevant and available information, makes assessments and rationalises their decisions in a log.

28.4 If appropriate, the decision can be made to afford officers involved anonymity to mitigate the risk of their names being disclosed to persons involved in criminality. Accordingly as part of the PIP process, the officers can be identified as Officers 1, 2 etc.

28.5 Gibraltar Police Federation ("GPF") representatives will be present at the initiation of the PIP process and arrange legal representation, if appropriate.

28.6 If any other local LEAs are involved in the incident, they will also be included in the PIP process and afforded anonymity if required.

28.7 A return to work strategy for the officers involved must be implemented, including restricting their duties to non-operational and non-public facing duties. All officers will also be offered professional counselling, through the RGP's established Mental Wellbeing Policy and referral process with Ocean Views Mental Health Facility.

29 Related Policies and Documents

29.1 The implementation of this Policy will also be supported by the following RGP policies, documents other agency documentation:

- Code of Ethics;
- Competency and Values Framework (CVF);
- National Decision Model (NDM);
- The United Nations (UN) International Maritime Organisation's (IMO) International Regulations for Preventing Collisions at Sea 1972 (IRPCS) (ColRegs);
- Gibraltar Merchant Shipping (Safety, etc.) Act 1993;
- RGP Gibraltar Law Enforcement RHIB Coxswain Course Training Manual;
- RGP PMB Standing Orders 2016;
- Mental Wellbeing Policy.

APPENDIX B

INTERNATIONAL REGULATIONS FOR PREVENTING COLLISIONS AT SEA, 1972

PART A- GENERAL

Rule 1: Application

- (a) These Rules shall apply to all vessels upon the high seas and in all waters connected therewith navigable by seagoing vessels.
- (b) Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of special rules made by an appropriate authority for road steads, harbours, rivers, lakes or inland waterways connected with the high seas and navigable by seagoing vessels. Such special rules shall conform as closely as possible to these Rules.
- (c) Nothing in these Rules shall interfere with the operation of any special rules made by the Government of any State with respect to additional station or signal lights, shapes or whistle signals for ships of war and vessels proceeding under convoy, or with respect to additional station or signal lights or shapes for fishing vessels engaged in fishing as a fleet. These additional station or signal lights, shapes or whistle signals shall, so far as possible, is such that they cannot be mistaken for any light, shape or signal authorised elsewhere under these Rules.
- (d) Traffic separation schemes may be adopted by the Organization for the purpose of these Rules.
- (e) Whenever the Government concerned shall have determined that a vessel of any special construction or purpose cannot comply with the provisions of any of these Rules with respect to the number, position, range or arc of visibility of lights or shapes, as well as to the disposition and characteristics of sound-signalling appliances, such vessel shall comply with such other provisions in regard to the number, position, range or arc of visibility of lights or shapes, as well as to the disposition and characteristics of sound-signalling appliances, as her Government shall have determined to be the closest possible compliance with these Rules in respect of that vessel.

Rule 2: Responsibility

- (a) Nothing in these Rules shall exonerate any vessel, or the owner, master or crew thereof, from the consequences of any neglect to comply with these Rules or of the neglect of any precaution, which may be required by the ordinary practice of seamen, or by the special circumstances of the case.
- (b) In construing and complying with these Rules due regard shall be had to all dangers of navigation and collision and to any special circumstances, including the limitations of the vessels involved, which may make a departure from these Rules necessary to avoid immediate danger.

Rule 3: General definitions

For the purpose of these Rules, except where the context otherwise requires:

- (a) The word “vessel” includes every description of watercraft, including non-displacement craft, WIG craft and seaplanes, used or capable of being used as a means of transportation on water.
- (b) The term “power-driven vessel” means any vessel propelled by machinery.

- (c) The term “sailing vessel” means any vessel under sail provided that propelling machinery, if fitted, is not being used.

- (g) The term “vessel restricted in her ability to manoeuvre” means a vessel which from the nature of her work is restricted in her ability to manoeuvre as required by these Rules and is therefore unable to keep out of the way of another vessel. The term “vessels restricted in their ability to manoeuvre” shall include but not be limited to:
    - (i) a vessel engaged in laying, servicing or picking up a navigation mark, submarine cable or pipeline;
    - (ii) a vessel engaged in dredging, surveying or underwater operations;
    - (iii) a vessel engaged in replenishment or transferring persons, provisions or cargo while underway;
    - (iv) a vessel engaged in the launching or recovery of aircraft;
    - (v) a vessel engaged in mine clearance operations;
    - (vi) a vessel engaged in a towing operation such as severely restricts the towing vessel and her tow in their ability to deviate from their course.
- (h) The term “vessel constrained by her draught” means a power-driven vessel, which, because of her draught in relation to the available depth and width of navigable water, is severely restricted in her ability to deviate from the course she is following.
- (i) The word “underway” means that a vessel is not at anchor, or made fast to the shore, or aground.
- (j) The words “length” and “breadth” of a vessel mean her length overall and greatest breadth.
- (k) Vessels shall be deemed to be in sight of one another only when one can be observed visually from the other.

- (m) The term “Wing-in-Ground (WIG) craft” means a multimodal craft which, in its main operational mode, flies in close proximity to the surface by utilizing surface-effect action.

PART B - STEERING AND SAILING RULES

Section I - Conduct of vessels in any condition of visibility

Rule 4: Application

Rules in this Section apply in any condition of visibility.

Rule 5: Lookout

Every vessel shall at all times maintain a proper look-out by sight and hearing as well as by all available means appropriate in the prevailing circumstances and conditions so as to make a full appraisal of the situation and of the risk of collision.

Rule 6: Safe speed

Every vessel shall at all times proceed at a safe speed so that she can take proper and effective action to avoid collision and be stopped within a distance appropriate to the prevailing circumstances and conditions. In determining a safe speed, the following factors shall be among those taken into account:

- (a) By all vessels:
  - (i) the state of visibility;
  - (ii) the traffic density including concentrations of fishing vessels or any other vessels;
  - (iii) the maneuverability of the vessel with special reference to stopping distance and turning ability in the prevailing conditions;
  - (iv) at night the presence of background light such as from shore lights or from back scatter of her own lights;
  - (v) the state of wind, sea and current, and the proximity of navigational hazards;
  - (vi) the draught in relation to the available depth of water.
- (b) Additionally, by vessels with operational radar:
  - (i) the characteristics, efficiency and limitations of the radar equipment;
  - (ii) any constraints imposed by the radar range scale in use;
  - (iii) the effect on radar detection of the sea state, weather and other sources of interference;
  - (iv) the possibility that small vessels, ice and other floating objects may not be detected by radar at an adequate range;
  - (v) the number, location and movement of vessels detected by radar;
  - (vi) the more exact assessment of the visibility that may be possible when radar is used to determine the range of vessels or other objects in the vicinity.

Rule 7: Risk of collision

- (a) Every vessel shall use all available means appropriate to the prevailing circumstances and conditions to determine if risk of collision exists. If there is any doubt such risk shall be deemed to exist.
- (b) Proper use shall be made of radar equipment if fitted and operational, including long-range scanning to obtain early warning of risk of collision and radar plotting or equivalent systematic observation of detected objects.
- (c) Assumptions shall not be made on the basis of scanty information, especially scanty radar information.
- (d) In determining if risk of collision exists the following considerations shall be among those taken into account:
  - (i) such risk shall be deemed to exist if the compass bearing of an approaching vessel does not appreciably change;
  - (ii) such risk may sometimes exist even when an appreciable bearing change is evident, particularly when approaching a very large vessel or a tow or when approaching a vessel at close range.

Rule 8: Action to avoid collision

- (a) Any action taken to avoid collision shall be taken in accordance with the Rules of this Part and shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, be positive, made in ample time and with due regard to the observance of good seamanship.

- (b) Any alteration of course and/or speed to avoid collision shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, be large enough to be readily apparent to another vessel observing visually or by radar; a succession of small alterations of course and/or speed should be avoided.
- (c) If there is sufficient sea-room, alteration of course alone may be the most effective action to avoid a close-quarters situation provided that it is made in good time, is substantial and does not result in another close-quarters situation.
- (d) Action taken to avoid collision with another vessel shall be such as to result in passing at a safe distance. The effectiveness of the action shall be carefully checked until the other vessel is finally past and clear.
- (e) If necessary to avoid collision or allow more time to assess the situation, a vessel shall slacken her speed or take all way off by stopping or reversing her means of propulsion.
- (f)
    - (i) A vessel which, by any of these Rules, is required not to impede the passage or safe passage of another vessel shall, when required by the circumstances of the case, take early action to allow sufficient sea-room for the safe passage of the other vessel.
    - (ii) A vessel required not to impede the passage or safe passage of another vessel is not relieved of this obligation if approaching the other vessel so as to involve risk of collision and shall, when taking action, have full regard to the action which may be required by the Rules of this Part.
    - (iii) A vessel the passage of which is not to be impeded remains fully obliged to comply with the Rules of this Part when the two vessels are approaching one another so as to involve risk of collision.

Rule 9: Narrow channels

- (a) A vessel proceeding along the course of a narrow channel or fairway shall keep as near to the outer limit of the channel or fairway, which lies on her starboard side as is safe and practicable.
- (b) A vessel of less than 20 metres in length or a sailing vessel shall not impede the passage of a vessel, which can safely navigate only within a narrow channel or fairway.
- (c) A vessel engaged in fishing shall not impede the passage of any other vessel navigating within a narrow channel or fairway.
- (d) A vessel shall not cross a narrow channel or fairway if such crossing impedes the passage of a vessel, which can safely navigate only within such channel, or fairway. The latter vessel may use the sound signal prescribed in Rule 34(d) if in doubt as to the intention of the crossing vessel.
- (e)
    - (i) In a narrow channel or fairway when overtaking can take place only if the vessel to be overtaken has to take action to permit safe passing, the vessel intending to overtake shall indicate her intention by sounding the appropriate signal prescribed in Rule 34(c) (i). The vessel to be overtaken shall, if in agreement, sound the appropriate signal prescribed in Rule 34(c) (ii) and take steps to permit safe passing. If in doubt she may sound the signals prescribed in Rule 34(d).
    - (ii) This Rule does not relieve the overtaking vessel of her obligation under Rule 13.
- (f) A vessel nearing a bend or an area of a narrow channel or fairway where other vessels may be obscured by an intervening obstruction shall navigate with particular alertness and caution and shall sound the appropriate signal prescribed in Rule 34(e).
- (g) Any vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid anchoring in a narrow channel.

Rule 10: Traffic separation schemes

- (a) This Rule applies to traffic separation schemes adopted by the Organization and does not relieve any vessel of her obligation under any other Rule.
- (b) A vessel using a traffic separation scheme shall:
    - (i) proceed in the appropriate traffic lane in the general direction of traffic flow for that lane;
    - (ii) so far as practicable keep clear of a traffic separation line or separation zone;
    - (iii) normally join or leave a traffic lane at the termination of the lane, but when joining or leaving from either side shall do so at as small an angle to the general direction of traffic flow as practicable.
- (c) A vessel shall, so far as practicable, avoid crossing traffic lanes but if obliged to do so shall cross on a heading as nearly as practicable at right angles to the general direction of traffic flow.
- (d)
    - (i) A vessel shall not use an inshore traffic zone when she can safely use the appropriate traffic lane within the adjacent traffic separation scheme. However, vessels of less than 20 metres in length, sailing vessels and vessels engaged in fishing may use the inshore traffic zone.
    - (ii) Notwithstanding sub-paragraph (d) (i), a vessel may use an inshore traffic zone when enroute to or from a port, offshore installation or structure, pilot station or any other place situated within the inshore traffic zone, or to avoid immediate danger.
- (e) A vessel other than a crossing vessel or a vessel joining or leaving a lane shall not normally enter a separation zone or cross a separation line except:
    - (i) in cases of emergency to avoid immediate danger;
    - (ii) to engage in fishing within a separation zone.
- (f) A vessel navigating in areas near the terminations of traffic separation schemes shall do so with particular caution.
- (g) A vessel shall so far as practicable avoid anchoring in a traffic separation scheme or in areas near its terminations.
- (h) A vessel not using a traffic separation scheme shall avoid it by as wide a margin as is practicable.
- (i) A vessel engaged in fishing shall not impede the passage of any vessel following a traffic lane.
- (j) A vessel of less than 20 metres in length or a sailing vessel shall not impede the safe passage of a power-driven vessel following a traffic lane.
- (k) A vessel restricted in her ability to manoeuvre when engaged in an operation for the maintenance of safety of navigation in a traffic separation scheme is exempted from complying with this Rule to the extent necessary to carry out the operation.
- (l) A vessel restricted in her ability to manoeuvre when engaged in an operation for the laying, servicing or picking up of a submarine cable, within a traffic separation scheme, is exempted from complying with this Rule to the extent necessary to carry out the operation.

Section II - Conduct of vessels in sight of one another

Rule 11: Application

Rules in this Section apply to vessels in sight of one another.

Rule 12: Sailing Vessels

- (a) When two sailing vessels are approaching one another, so as to involve risk of collision, one of them shall keep out of the way of the other as follows:
    - (i) when each has the wind on a different side, the vessel which has the wind on the port side shall keep out of the way of the other;
    - (ii) when both have the wind on the same side, the vessel which is to windward shall keep out of the way of the vessel which is to leeward;
    - (iii) if a vessel with the wind on the port side sees a vessel to windward and cannot determine with certainty whether the other vessel has the wind on the port or on the starboard side, she shall keep out of the way of the other.
- (b) For the purposes of this Rule the windward side shall be deemed to be the side opposite to that on which the mainsail is carried or, in the case of a square-rigged vessel, the side opposite to that on which the largest fore-and-aft sail is carried.

Rule 13: Overtaking

- (a) Notwithstanding anything contained in the Rules of Part B, Sections I and II, any vessel overtaking any other shall keep out of the way of the vessel being overtaken.
- (b) A vessel shall be deemed to be overtaking when coming up with another vessel from a direction more than 22.5 degrees abaft her beam, that is, in such a position with reference to the vessel she is overtaking, that at night she would be able to see only the stern light of that vessel but neither of her sidelights.
- (c) When a vessel is in any doubt as to whether she is overtaking another, she shall assume that this is the case and act accordingly.
- (d) Any subsequent alteration of the bearing between the two vessels shall not make the overtaking vessel a crossing vessel within the meaning of these Rules or relieve her of the duty of keeping clear of the overtaken vessel until she is finally past and clear.

Rule 14: Head-on situation

- (a) When two power-driven vessels are meeting on reciprocal or nearly reciprocal courses so as to involve risk of collision each shall alter her course to starboard so that each shall pass on the port side of the other.
- (b) Such a situation shall be deemed to exist when a vessel sees the other ahead or nearly ahead and by night she would see the mast head lights of the other in a line or nearly in a line and or both sidelights and by day she observes the corresponding aspect of the other vessel.
- (c) When a vessel is in any doubt as to whether such a situation exists she shall assume that it does exist and act accordingly.

Rule 15: Crossing situation

When two power-driven vessels are crossing so as to involve risk of collision, the vessel which has the other on her own starboard side shall keep out of the way and shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid crossing ahead of the other vessel.

Rule 16: Action by give-way vessel

Every vessel, which is directed to keep out of the way of another vessel, shall, so far as possible, take early and substantial action to keep well clear.

Rule 17: Action by stand-on vessel

- (a)
  - (i) Where one of two vessels is to keep out of the way the other shall keep her course and speed.
  - (ii) The latter vessel may however take action to avoid collision by her manoeuvre alone, as soon as it becomes apparent to her that the vessel required to keep out of the way is not taking appropriate action in compliance with these Rules.
- (b) When, from any cause, the vessel required to keep her course and speed finds herself so close that collision cannot be avoided by the action of the give-way vessel alone, she shall take such action as will best aid to avoid collision.
- (c) A power-driven vessel which takes action in a crossing situation in accordance with sub-paragraph (a)(ii) of this Rule to avoid collision with another power-driven vessel shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, not alter course to port for a vessel on her own port side.
- (d) This Rule does not relieve the give-way vessel of her obligation to keep out of the way.

Rule 18: Responsibilities between vessels

Except where Rules 9, 10 and 13 otherwise require:

- (a) A power-driven vessel underway shall keep out of the way of:
  - (i) a vessel not under command;
  - (ii) a vessel restricted in her ability to manoeuvre;
  - (iii) a vessel engaged in fishing;
  - (iv) a sailing vessel.
- (b) A sailing vessel underway shall keep out of the way of:
  - (i) a vessel not under command;
  - (ii) a vessel restricted in her ability to manoeuvre;
  - (iii) a vessel engaged in fishing.
- (c) A vessel engaged in fishing when underway shall, so far as possible, keep out of the way of:
  - (i) a vessel not under command;
  - (ii) a vessel restricted in her ability to manoeuvre.
- (d)
  - (i) Any vessel other than a vessel not under command or a vessel restricted in her ability to manoeuvre shall, if the circumstances of the case admit, avoid impeding the safe passage of a vessel constrained by her draught, exhibiting the signals in Rule 28.
  - (ii) A vessel constrained by her draught shall navigate with particular caution having full regard to her special condition.
- (e) A seaplane on the water shall, in general, keep well clear of all vessels and avoid impeding their navigation. In circumstances, however, where risk of collision exists, she shall comply with the Rules of this Part.
- (f)
  - (i) A WIG craft shall, when taking off, landing and in flight near the surface, keep well clear of all other vessels and avoid impeding their navigation;
  - (ii) A WIG craft operating on the water surface shall comply with the Rules of this Part as a power-driven vessel.

Section III - Conduct of vessels in restricted visibility

Rule 19: Conduct of vessels in restricted visibility

- (a) This Rule applies to vessels not in sight of one another when navigating in or near an area of restricted visibility.
- (b) Every vessel shall proceed at a safe speed adapted to the prevailing circumstances and conditions of restricted visibility. A power-driven vessel shall have her engines ready for immediate manoeuvre.
- (c) Every vessel shall have due regard to the prevailing circumstances and conditions of restricted visibility when complying with the Rules of Section I of this Part.
- (d) A vessel which detects by radar alone the presence of another vessel shall determine if a close-quarters situation is developing and/or risk of collision exists. If so, she shall take avoiding action in ample time, provided that when such action consists of an alteration of course, so far as possible the following shall be avoided:
    - (i) an alteration of course to port for a vessel forward of the beam, other than for a vessel being overtaken;
    - (ii) an alteration of course towards a vessel abeam or abaft the beam.
- (e) Except where it has been determined that a risk of collision does not exist, every vessel which hears apparently forward of her beam the fog signal of another vessel, or which cannot avoid a close-quarters situation with another vessel forward of her beam, shall reduce her speed to the minimum at which she can be kept on her course. She shall if necessary take all her way off and in any event navigate with extreme caution until danger of collision is over.

PART C - LIGHTS AND SHAPES

Rule 20: Application

- (a) Rules in this Part shall be complied with in all weathers.
- (b) The Rules concerning lights shall be complied with from sunset to sunrise and during such times no other lights shall be exhibited, except such lights as cannot be mistaken for the lights specified in these Rules or do not impair their visibility or distinctive character, or interfere with the keeping of a proper look-out.
- (c) The lights prescribed by these Rules shall, if carried, also be exhibited from sunrise to sunset in restricted visibility and may be exhibited in all other circumstances when it is deemed necessary.
- (d) The Rules concerning shapes shall be complied with by day.
- (e) The lights and shapes specified in these Rules shall comply with the provisions of Annex I to these Regulations.

Rule 21: Definitions

- (a) “Masthead light” means a white light placed over the fore and aft centerline of the vessel showing an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 225 degrees and so fixed as to show the light from right ahead to 22.5 degrees abaft the beam on either side of the vessel.
- (b) “Sidelights” means a green light on the starboard side and a red light on the port side each showing an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 112.5 degrees and so fixed as to show the light from the right ahead to 22.5 degrees abaft the beam on its respective side. In a vessel of less than 20 metres in length the sidelights may be combined in one lantern carried on the fore and aft centerline of the vessel.

- (c) “Stern light” means a white light placed as nearly as practicable at the stern showing an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 135 degrees and so fixed as to show the light 67.5 degrees from right aft on each side of the vessel.

- (e) “All-round light” means a light showing an unbroken light over an arc of the horizon of 360 degrees.
- (f) “Flashing light,” means a light flashing at regular intervals at a frequency of 120 flashes or more per minute.

Rule 22: Visibility of lights

The lights prescribed in these Rules shall have an intensity as specified in Section 8 of Annex I to these Regulations so as to be visible at the following minimum ranges:

- (a) In vessels of 50 metres or more in length:
  - a masthead light, 6 miles;
  - a sidelight, 3 miles;
  - a stern light, 3 miles;

Any light to attract the attention of another vessel shall be such that it cannot be mistaken for any aid to navigation. For the purpose of this Rule the use of high intensity intermittent or revolving lights, such as strobe lights, shall be avoided.

8. Intensity of lights

- (a) The minimum luminous intensity of lights shall be calculated by using

I = 3.43 x 106 x T x D2 x K–D where I is luminous intensity in candelas under service conditions, T is threshold factor 2 x 10-7 lux, D is range of visibility (luminous range) of the light in nautical miles, K is atmospheric transmissivity. For prescribed lights the value of K shall be 0.8, corresponding to a meteorological visibility of approximately 13 nautical miles.

- (b) A selection of figures derived from the formula is given in the following table:

Range of visibility Luminous intensity of

- (luminous range) of light in candelas for light in nautical K=0.8 miles D I 1 0.9 2 4.3 3 12 4 27 5 52 6 94

Note: The maximum luminous intensity of navigation lights should be limited to avoid undue glare. This shall not be achieved by a variable control of the luminous intensity.

9. Horizontal sectors

  - (i) In the forward direction, sidelights as fitted on the vessel shall show the minimum required intensities. The intensities shall decrease to reach practical cut-off between 1 degree and 3 degrees outside the prescribed sectors.
  - (ii) For stern lights and masthead lights at 22.5 degrees abaft the beam for sidelights, the minimum required intensities shall be maintained over the arc of the horizon up to 5 degrees within the limits of the sectors prescribed in Rule 21. From 5 degrees within the prescribed sectors the intensity may decrease by 50 per cent up to the prescribed limits: it shall decrease steadily to reach practical cut-off at not more than 5 degrees outside the prescribed sector
- (b)
  - (i) All-round lights shall be so located as not to be obscured by masts, topmasts or structures within angular sectors of more than 6 degrees, except anchor lights prescribed in Rule 30, which need not be placed at an impracticable height above the hull.
  - (ii) If it is impracticable to comply with paragraph (b) (i) of this section by exhibiting only one all-round light, two all-round lights shall be used suitably positioned or screened so that they appear, as far as practicable, as one light at a distance of one mile.

10. Vertical sectors

- (a) The vertical sectors of electric lights as fitted, with the exception of lights on sailing vessels underway shall ensure that:
  - (i) at least the required minimum intensity is maintained at all angles from 5 degrees above to 5 degrees below the horizontal;
  - (ii) at least 60 per cent of the required minimum intensity is maintained from 7.5 degrees above to 7.5 degrees below the horizontal.
- (b) In the case of sailing vessels underway the vertical sectors of electric lights as fitted shall ensure that:
  - (i) at least the required minimum intensity is maintained at all angles from 5 degrees above to 5 degrees below the horizontal;
  - (ii) at least 50 per cent of the required minimum intensity is maintained from 25 degrees above to 25 degrees below the horizontal.
- (c) In the case of lights other than electric these specifications shall be met as closely as possible.

11. Intensity of non-electric lights

Non-electric lights shall so far as practicable comply with the minimum intensities, as specified in the table given in Section 8 of this Annex.

12. Manoeuvring light

Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph 2(f) of this Annex the manoeuvring light described in Rule 34(b) shall be placed in the same fore and aft vertical plane as the masthead light or lights and, where practicable, at a minimum height of 2 metres vertically above the forward masthead light, provided that it shall be carried not less than 2 metres vertically above or below the after masthead light. On a vessel where only one masthead light is carried the manoeuvring light, if fitted, shall be carried where it can best be seen, not less than 2 metres vertically apart from the masthead light.

13. High Speed Craft*

- (a) The masthead light of high-speed craft may be placed at a height related to the breadth of the lower than that prescribed in paragraph 2(a)(i) of this annex, provided that the base angle of the isosceles triangles formed by the sidelights and masthead light, when seen in end elevation, is not less than 27o.
- (b) On high-speed craft of 50 metres or more in length, the vertical separation between foremast and mainmast light of 4.5 metres required by paragraph 2(a)(ii) of this annex may be modified provided that such distance shall not be less than the value determined by the following formula:

Where: y is the height of the mainmast light above the foremast light in metres; Ais the height of the foremast light above the water surface in service condition in metres; Cis the trim in service condition in degrees; Cis the horizontal separation of masthead lights in metres.

- Refer to the International Code of Safety for High-Speed Craft, 1994 and the International Code of Safety for High-Speed Craft, 2000.

ANNEX II: Additional signals for fishing vessels fishing in close proximity

1. General

The lights mentioned herein shall, if exhibited in pursuance of Rule 26(d), be placed where they can best be seen. They shall be at least 0.9 metre apart but at a lower level than lights prescribed in Rule 26(b)(i) and (c)(i). The lights shall be visible all round the horizon at a distance of at least 1 mile but at a lesser distance than the lights prescribed by these Rules for fishing vessels.

2. Signals for trawlers

- (a) Vessels of 20 metres or more in length when engaged in trawling, whether using demersal or pelagic gear, shall exhibit:
  - (i) when shooting their nets, two white lights in a vertical line;
  - (ii) when hauling their nets, one white light over one red light in a vertical line;

- (c) A vessel of less than 20 metres in length engaged in trawling, whether using demersal or pelagic gear or engaged in pair trawling, may exhibit the lights prescribed in paragraphs
- (a) or (b) of this Section, as appropriate.

3. Signals for purse seiners

Vessels engaged in fishing with purse seine gear may exhibit two yellow lights in a vertical line. These lights shall flash alternately every second and with equal light and occultation duration. These lights may be exhibited only when the vessel is hampered by its fishing gear.

ANNEX III: Technical details of sound signal appliances

1. Whistles

- (a) Frequencies and range of audibility

The fundamental frequency of the signal shall lie within the range 70 - 700 Hz. The range of audibility of the signal from a whistle shall be determined by those frequencies, which may include the fundamental and/or one or more higher frequencies, which lie within the range 180 - 700 Hz (+/-1%) for a vessel of 20 metres or more in length, or 180-2100Hz (+/-1%) for a vessel of less than 20 metres in length and which provide the sound pressure levels specified in paragraph l(c) below.

- (b) Limits of fundamental frequencies

To ensure a wide variety of whistle characteristics, the fundamental frequency of a whistle shall be between the following limits:

  - (i) 70 - 200 Hz, for a vessel 200 metres or more in length;
  - (ii) 130 - 350 Hz, for a vessel 75 metres but less than 200 metres in length;
  - (iii) 250 - 700 Hz, for a vessel less than 75 metres in length.

- (c) Sound signal intensity and range of audibility

A whistle fitted in a vessel shall provide, in the direction of maximum intensity of the whistle and at a distance of 1 metre from it, a sound pressure level in at least one 1/3rd-octave band within the range of frequencies 180 - 700 Hz (+/-1%) for a vessel of 20 metres or more in length, or 180-2100Hz (+/-1%) for a vessel of less than 20 metres in length, of not less than the appropriate figure given in the table below. The range of audibility in the table above is for information and is approximately the range at which a whistle may be heard on its forward axis with 90 per cent probability in conditions of still air on board a vessel having average background noise level at the listening posts (taken to be 68 dB in the octave band centered on 250 Hz and 63 dB in the octave band centered on 500Hz. In practice the range at which a whistle may be heard is extremely variable and depends critically on weather conditions; the values given can be regarded as typical but under conditions of strong wind or high ambient noise level at the listening post the range may be much reduced.

- (d) Directional Properties

The sound pressure level of a directional whistle shall be not more than 4 dB below the prescribed sound pressure level on the axis at any direction in the horizontal plane within ±45 degrees of the axis. The sound pressure level at any other direction in the horizontal plane shall be not more than 10 dB below the prescribed sound pressure level on the axis, so that the range in any direction will be at least half the range on the forward axis. The sound pressure level shall be measured in that 1/3rd-octave band which determines the audibility range.

Length of vessel in metres 1/3rd-octave band level at Audibility range in 1 metre in dB referred to nautical miles 2x10-5N/m2 200 or more 143 2 75 but less than 200 138 1.5 20 but less than 75 130 1 120 * Less than 20 115 † 0.5 111 ‡

- When the measured frequencies lie within the range 180-450Hz

† When the measured frequencies lie within the range 450-800Hz ‡ When the measured frequencies lie within the range 800-2100Hz

- (e) Positioning of whistles

When a directional whistle is to be used as the only whistle on a vessel, it shall be installed with its maximum intensity directed straight ahead. A whistle shall be placed as high as practicable on a vessel, in order to reduce interception of the emitted sound by obstructions and also to minimize hearing damage risk to personnel. The sound pressure level of the vessel's own signal at listening posts shall not exceed 110 dB (A) and so far as practicable should not exceed 100 dB (A).

- (f) Fitting of more than one whistle

If whistles are fitted at a distance apart of more than 100 metres, it shall be so arranged that they are not sounded simultaneously.

- (g) Combined whistle systems

If due to the presence of obstructions the sound field of a single whistle or one of the whistles referred to in paragraph l(f) above is likely to have a zone of greatly reduced signal level, it is recommended that a combined whistle system be fitted so as to overcome this reduction. For the purposes of the Rules a combined whistle system is to be regarded as a single whistle. The whistles of a combined system shall be located at a distance apart of not more than 100 metres and arranged to be sounded simultaneously. The frequency of any one whistle shall differ from those of the others by at least 10 Hz.

2. Bell or gong

- (a) Intensity of signal

A bell or gong, or other device having similar sound characteristics shall produce a sound pressure level of not less than 110 dB at a distance of 1 metre from it.

- (b) Construction

Bells and gongs shall be made of corrosion-resistant material and designed to give a clear tone. The diameter of the mouth of the bell shall be not less than 300 mm for vessels of 20 metres or more in length. Where practicable, a power-driven bell striker is recommended to ensure constant force but manual operation shall be possible. The mass of the striker shall be not less than 3 per cent of the mass of the bell.

3. Approval

The construction of sound signal appliances, their performance and their installation on board the vessel shall be to the satisfaction of the appropriate authority of the State whose flag the vessel is entitled to fly.

APPENDIX D

Marine Section Instructions 8th July 2016

With immediate effect, the following instructions will be adhered to.

1. Extent of Operational Deployments

   Deployment into the different jurisdictions surrounding the territory of Gibraltar are described below. Officers will only operate within BGTW unless in accordance with the specific situations described in paragraphs 3 and 4 below. These instructions will be adhered to until further notice. All previous instructions are rescinded.

2. British Gibraltar Territorial Waters

   British Gibraltar Territorial Waters is the natural operating environment for the Royal Gibraltar Police's Marine Section. The current operational objectives are defined below in order of priority:

   a. Reassurance of beach users and legitimate seafarers.
   b. Prevention and detection of crime at sea and law enforcement
   c. Support Royal Navy challenges to sovereignty.
   d. Support Environmental Agency operations.
   e. Support HM Customs and GDP operations.

3. International Waters – High Seas

   Officers are NOT authorised to operate outside BGTW and in International Waters unless when responding to a situation as described in paragraph 3(a) or 3(b).

   a. Participating in a Search and Rescue operation.
   b. Responding to an incident where there is an imminent and serious risk to life.

4. Spanish Territorial Waters

   Officers are NOT authorised to operate outside BGTW and in Spanish Waters unless when responding to a situation as described in paragraph 4(a).

   a. Participating in a Search and Rescue operation at the invitation of Spanish authorities.

5. Rules of Engagement

The following procedure will be adopted to deter Spanish law enforcement action within BGTW. The procedure should be escalated as necessary and each step followed until the objective is achieved. Once Royal Navy are at location primacy will revert to them.

a. Spanish law enforcement (SLE) vessels transiting through BGTW:
   i. WHSS to be informed of presence, position and heading of SLE.
   ii. WHSS to be requested to deploy RN assets.
   iii. In the absence of RN the SLE vessel to be shadowed at a distance.

b. Spanish law enforcement (SLE) vessel intending to, or attempting to carry out executive action within BGTW:
   i. Engage video and audio recording equipment. WHSS to be informed of presence, position and heading of SLE vessel.
   ii. WHSS to be requested to deploy RN assets in order to assume primacy.
   iii. Guardia Civil CoS to be contacted to declare intentions of SLE.
   iv. WHSS to be contacted via VHF situation report to be given and asked to consider issue of UNCLOS warnings.
   v. SLE vessel to be approached, asked to declare intentions and to desist.
      1. Contact Duty Officer and report.
   vi. Engage beacons and sirens.
      1. Contact Duty Officer and report intention to deter.
      2. Duty Officer to contact Senior Officer on Call or CI Ops and report.
   vii. Position PMB between SLE vessel and target vessel and deter and prevent SLE from interfering with target vessel.
      1. Contact Gibraltar Port Authority and WHSS and request recording of incident.
   viii. Contact SLE vessel via VHF and state: "Vessel "-------" you are currently operating within British Gibraltar Territorial Waters and your actions are being recorded. You do not have competence to act in this jurisdiction. It is our intention to impede your action. You should cease immediately and leave British Gibraltar Territorial Waters."

6. Safety

Officers should act safely at all times and not act in a manner that may endanger themselves or others.

7. Temporary Guidelines for On Call PMB Crew from 2300hrs to 0700hrs.

Commencing on Friday the 8th July 2016 the RGP will NOT deploy a crew during the hours of 2300Hrs to 0700Hrs. During this period HMC will provide cover for all offences involving imports and exports and as is usual Port Dept. will remain responsible for coordinating any search rescue response. During the period of cover (2300-0700) the RGP will have a crew of three officers on standby which will be available for immediate recall to duty and which will be ready to deploy in 60 mins from time of call out. This duty will attract the on-call duty allowance.

It is not expected that there is much likelihood of the need to call out the crew on standby principally as the time required to recall the crew to duty and set sail will make their deployment ineffective in most circumstances. The decision to call out the crew will lie with the Duty Officer whilst there is one physically on duty and where not OIC Marine Section Insp. Buhagiar or his deputy Sgt. Stone.

Instances which may result in the need to recall the on-call crew include:

- Search and rescue operations at the request of the Port Dept.
- Assistance to other LEAs already deployed at their request e.g when another agency is at a standoff with foreign state vessels and/or suspected offenders where the occurrence is likely to last more than one hour.
- When there is a threat to national security.

In the event that during this period the RGP become aware of an ongoing chase by another agency our aim shall be to support that agency on land by:

- Deploying an officer to the Upper to rock to act as look out and advise control room of movements
- Continue to disrupt spotters on the Upper Rock through the use of Operation Hercules
- Deploy officer on land as appropriate to possible landing sites etc.

TYPE OF EMERGENCY

This plan relates to the following:

Approved Practice for Post Incidents

AIMS AND OBJECTIVES

A Post Incident investigation will be implemented if one of the following criteria have been met;

1. In situations where there has been a discharge of a weapon by the police (including those involving a conventional firearm or less lethal weapon), whether intentional or unintentional which has or may have:

- Resulted in death or serious injury, or
- Revealed failings in command, or
- Caused danger to officers or the public.

2. Any non-firearms incident where the police have been involved and this deployment has resulted in:

- Death or Serious Injury

The aim of this Approved Practice is to detail the management arrangements for such incidents and relate to the safety and security of Person(s), property/critical infrastructure and include but are not limited to:

- Pursuits
- Adverse custody incidents
- Accidents during operational activity
- Serious collisions
- Any situation where a critical incident has been declared

New Mole House, Rosia Road, Gibraltar ♦ Tel (+350) 20072500 ♦ www.police.gi

The objectives of the procedure are to:

- Look after the welfare of Key Police Witnesses
- Facilitate the investigation
- Ensure the integrity of the process

In making decisions as to whether an incident meets the criteria it may also be useful to consider the following three points:

1. Have the officers been involved in some degree of trauma?
2. Is there the potential for individual or corporate jeopardy?
3. Is a formal investigation into police action foreseeable?

DUTIES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

As upheld by Stage 1:

Any officer in command of an incident where the criteria are met should seek to supply sufficient information about the incident. This will permit the ongoing management of the incident and provide the control room with a situational report for inclusion in the Incident Log.

The Commissioner of Police/Gold Commander on call will be responsible for implementing a post incident procedure. A trained Post Incident Manager (PIM) and a trained PIP Federation member will be contacted immediately (see Appendix A)

At this stage, the Control room should restrict access to the incident log created to the PIM and the Commissioner of Police/Gold Command on Call.

Please see roles and responsibilities attached to this document.

New Mole House, Rosia Road, Gibraltar ♦ Tel (+350) 20072500 ♦ www.police.gi

PROCEDURES

On receipt of a report of the need for SOPPI and once a PIM has been appointed, the following procedure is to be adopted:

1. The Post Incident Manager to ensure that access to the incident log is restricted.

2. A Post Incident Room will be identified by the PIM and made available for all those officers (Key Police Witnesses, KPW) who have been involved in the incident. Entry into this room is on agreement of the PIM only and all access will be recorded.

3. Anonymity procedures will be implemented. The PIM will keep a register of the anonymous references and true identities. This will only be available to the Commissioner of Police/Gold Commander.

4. Immediate medical support and welfare support will be made available for all KPW's involved. Facilities for the removal of equipment, contaminated clothing and showers will be made available. This will include the provision for refreshments if required.

5. PIM will facilitate evidence for the investigation and ensure the integrity of the process.

6. PIM will provide a stage 1 and stage 2 account (basic facts) to the Initial Investigating Officer (IIO).

7. KPW's will provide a stage 3 account to the PIM before termination of duty. The account of the officer will be conducted via written layout in the format of a statement, having been signed and dated suitably.

8. A check will be conducted on how KPW's intend to return home and support and transport will be provided where required. In all cases consideration will be given to the time already spent on duty and involvement in a traumatic event would make driving undesirable and facilitate alternatives.

9. A return to work strategy to be discussed and implemented by the Commissioner of Police/Gold Commander, Federation Representative and PIM.

10. After 48 hours and preferably before 7 days, the KPW's will provide their stage 4 account. This may be an additional KPW statement or a witness interview if required by the Investigating Officer.

11. PIM to consider and conduct a debrief if appropriate.

ROLES AND RESPONSIBILITIES

POST INCIDENT MANAGER (PIM)

- Commence PIP log and record all relevant events.
- Contact Bronze Commander (commander at scene) and Silver Commander (commander at station) and establish from the initial situation report scale of Post Incident process and identify Key Police Witnesses.
- If appropriate arrange for the opening of a PIP Suite or identify a suitable location for this. Default PIP Suite will be the RGP Training Wing. This can change depending on appropriateness.
- Arrange PIM Support Team. Brief PIM team on roles and expectations. Record all information to state the role of the individuals in charge.
- Ensure Police Federation are notified and seek their attendance at the identified PIP suite or location.
- Appoint an 'Appointed Officer'. This should be another officer trained in PIM or a suitable person in support.
- Establish immediate contact with KPW'S and ensure that they are given immediate support. This includes refreshment, showers etc. where available. Explain that PIP has been implemented and the role of the PIM- give consideration for the giving of conferring advice.
- Ensure relocation of KPW'S to the PIP Suite or the agreed appropriate location.
- Make contact with the Initial Investigating Officer (PSD Officer or SIO)

New Mole House, Rosia Road, Gibraltar ♦ Tel (+350) 20072500 ♦ www.police.gi

On arrival at the PIP Suite the PIM Should:

- Allocate rooms within the PIP Suite or suitable location
- Arrange refreshments as appropriate
- Discuss and agree working practices and communication protocols with the Police Federation representatives
- Establish conditions and prognosis of any casualties and/or confirm any fatalities

ARRIVAL OF KPW'S AT PIP SUITE

- If anonymous references have not already been implemented commence anonymity procedures, providing each KPW with an anonymous reference and a lanyard to be worn with that reference. The PIM should maintain a register of the anonymous references with true identities. The register should be made on Plain Paper and sealed in an envelope and kept by the PIM subject to later SMT decisions on the maintenance or removal of anonymity.
- Immediate medical and welfare support (consider requirement to remove contaminated clothing and shower. Consider process by which effective evidential recovery of clothing can be achieved should it be required).
- Management of PPE/Weapons and Body Worn Cameras if available.
- Meet and greet and introduce Appointed Officer and PIM team with explanation of roles. Provision of conferring advice by Appointed Officer (Appendix A) and update as appropriate the condition of any casualties or confirm fatalities.
- Explain the 4 Stage Account Process:

    1. Stage 1 – Situation Report. Provide a concise operational document intended to support the coordination of officer's response in an acute crisis including the permissions of the TFC to fulfill their Post Incident Responsibilities.

2. Stage 2 – PIM Basic facts, i.e. who was at the scene, brief description of roles of those at the scene, confirm who was involved.
3. Stage 3 – Personal Initial Accounts. Subject to legal and medical advice, officers should provide a Personal Initial Account of the incident before going off duty. This should be written, signed and dated.
4. Stage 4 – Detailed Accounts, Statements and Interviews. These can be left until the officers involved in the incident are better able to articulate their experience in a coherent format. This will usually happen at least 48hours after the incident and preferably within 7 days. PSD/SIO will be responsible for the proceedings along with the presence of the Appointed Officer to supervise the process.

- ❖ Facilitate access to telephone communication.
- ❖ Consider access of Body Worn Camera footage and CCTV footage available before Stage 4 and after stage 3 Accounts. Record rationale if denied and consider the Body Worn Video Policy and guidelines.
- ❖ Facilitate access to the Police Federation Representatives, external agencies such as PFOA and legal advice.
- ❖ Ensure that Key Police Witnesses are given appropriate and suitable advice.
- ❖ In order to ensure the integrity of the investigation and to safeguard the welfare of the officers involved, access to the PIP Suite will only be allowed once authorised by the PIM.
- ❖ Facilitate examination by health professional if required.
- ❖ Check incident log has been restricted and other identifying documentation is controlled.
- ❖ Discuss with the IIO and confirm status of KPW'S and identify any immediate evidential requirements and need for Stage 2 and Stage 3 Accounts. This could include the fact as to whether or not the KPW is a suspect, the medical state of the KPW and if weapons were in attendance.

New Mole House, Rosia Road, Gibraltar ♦ Tel (+350) 20072500 ♦ www.police.gi

- ❖ Update KPW'S and Police Federation of IIO'S requirements
- ❖ If required obtain Stage 2 Basic Facts
- ❖ If required and prior to going off duty the Appointed Officer is to ensure that Stage 3 Personal Initial Account is provided. The PIM should ensure this process is being managed.

Prior to PIP Suite/Location Closure PIM to consider:

- ❖ Explain the Stage 4 Detailed Accounts process. Appointed Officer should ensure that the process is clear and, in conjunction with Police Federation and Legal Advisor, agree an appropriate venue and time for the process.
- ❖ If appropriate, explain the Independent Investigation Team's ability to compel KPW'S to attend an interview in relation to any investigation managed or undertaken by the PIM.
- ❖ PIM to explain and document removal of operational status as applicable to role.
- ❖ Establish intended media release with the Police Federation and SMT and ensure KPW'S are aware of content. Ensure anonymity is maintained on KPW'S.
- ❖ Briefing of all officers and staff involved regarding the issues relating to conferring and document that this has been done.
- ❖ Ongoing welfare needs and support required.
- ❖ Explain that Line Managers will be informed and their role in the ongoing welfare.
- ❖ Ensure there is PIM Resilience.
- ❖ Discuss the next 48 hours and their work schedule i.e. when will they come back into the work environment? Is it to be automatically assumed that the officer will be suspended from duty or given compulsory leave? The Commissioner of

New Mole House, Rosia Road, Gibraltar ♦ Tel (+350) 20072500 ♦ www.police.gi

Police/ Gold Commander, Federation Representative and PIM will discuss and implement a return to work strategy.

- Devise a Return to Work Programme for the officers involved in the incident. This should include their removal from that particular duty and re-allocation to another duty within their department.

- Check how KPW intends to return home and consider, if travelling alone if support for transport is required or appropriate. In all cases consider the time already spent on duty and involvement in a traumatic event would make driving undesirable and facilitate alternatives.

- Consider welfare support for family/family liaison function.

- Identify how contact and communication with the PIM/IIO/IIT will be managed.

- Consider media coverage – updating officers with likely interests and their responsibilities especially with reference to Social Media.

- Ensure the appropriate Divisional/Departmental command are informed.

- If for any reason there is concern for the officer's physical and psychological welfare, special leave may be granted by the Commissioner of Police after completion of the IIO's initial inquiry and following consultation with the PIM, Federation Rep and Welfare Officer. Non-special or light duties could be used to support the individual as well as granting leave if applicable.

08/03/2020 03:54 hours

Received a call from officer 1 on my personal mobile. Stated that they had been involved in a collision at sea and as a result there was 1 person deceased with possibly a second. I informed 1 that I was in Sotogrande, Spain and that it would take me 30 minutes to drive to Gibraltar. 1 informed me that it would take them longer than that to reach land as they had a RHIB which they were towing. Informed 1 that he was not to speak to anyone or to answer any questions in relation to the incident until I was present.

04:50 hours

Arrived at New Mole House [NMH] after first attending GPF officers to get the PIP file. On arrival at NMH officers were still not at location. Shortly after I was advised that Commissioner of Police [COP] was in office with other senior officers. Made my way to COP's office where I asked him whether he was going to called Post Incident Procedure [PIP]. Stated he was in the process of calling me. Had a brief with COP about certain measures he would be putting in place to safeguard all officers. CI Field was nominated as IIO.

05:20 hours

Short brief with CI Field/Insp Enriles/Insp Perera 2ic. Confirmed shortly after we have a second deceased person. Short discussion as to where the PIP suite would be located. As per the PIP "policy" document this was supposed to be the Training Wing but this was full of lockers and equipment due to refurbishment of the locker room. It was decided to use the ABE interview room as the PIP suite as this had a sofa and was comfortable enough for the three officers. CI Romero the only Post Incident Manager [PIM] in the Royal Gibraltar Police [RGP] could not be contacted so Insp would be acting/covering until his arrival.

0540 hours

Received a telephone call from Insp Fernandez to the effect that officers 1,2,3 had arrived at Police Marine Base [PMB] and that he was on his way up to NMH with them.

06:00 hours

Officers 1,2,3 arrive at NMH with Insp Fernandez and escorted to ABE interview suite. Offered tea or coffee.

06:15 hours

Informed Insp Fernandez whether 1,2,3 had been informed that they were Key Police Witnesses [KPW] and not suspects. I informed Insp Fernandez as to officers' anonymity and whether he had explained the conferring guidelines to them. I then proceeded to explain to 1,2,3 these guidelines. Officers were wet and smelled of petrol. All had a change of clothing except 3.

0630 hours

PC Russell attended the PIP suite with instructions to exhibit 1,2,3's clothing, Arrangements were made for the Police Store to open to get 3 a change of clothing. COP & Supt Richardson attend PIP suite to check on the welfare of 1,2,3.

0640 hours

CI Romero attends PIP suite. Officer 1,2,3 tea or coffee and whether they want to shower. Gives a quick overview of how process works.

0720 hours

Officer 1,2,3 attend File Preparation Unit [FPU] to prepare their Stage 3 account. Officers given anonymity. CI Romero informed the Stage 3 would be extremely basic. Statements done. CI Romero stated they were too basic, required more substance. I informed him that this was all he was getting until their Stage 4 account. Asked me whether they could add two points which were the fact that they had received a report from the Guardia Civil in relation to the RHIB and whether they were in British Territorial Waters [BTGW]. No issues to that, 1,2,3 added that to their accounts.

07:43 hours

Stage 3 accounts finished. CI Romero informed that even though 1,2,3 looked okay they wanted to attend counselling. CI Romero stated he would be showing the accounts to investigators and to hold on.

09:00 hours

1,2,3 left NMH. 3 attended stores. Contacted our legal adviser about incident and asked him for a meeting for the Tuesday.

09:30 hours

I drove 1,2,3 down to PMB. 1 asked me whether I could go to his residence and explain what had occurred to his wife.

10:00 hours

Attended 1's residence where incident was explained to wife.

10:30 hours

Left residence.

No further contact with 1,2,3 that day.

09/03/2020

Contact with ARC ref legal advice

Created a WhatsApp group for 1,2,3 and Federation Secretary.

10/03/2020

10:00 hours

Met up with 1,2,3, Fed Sec at local café before our meeting with our legal adviser. Shortly after CI Romero and Insp Fernandez arrived [previously arranged] where they updated 1,2,3 on the investigation and informed all three that they all had the full support of management. Enquired as to whether they would be providing their Stage 4 account and he was informed that until they received the all clear from mental health practitioner this would not be done.

11:00 hours

Meeting with our legal adviser.

11/03/2020

15:00 hours

Called by CI Romero and asked to meet with myself and Fed Sec. Arrangements had been made with Ocean Views [OV] but the appointments for 1,2,3 to visit the mental health practitioner has still not materialized. Appointments given to all three later on that day. 1 & 3 went for counselling, 2 got appointment for the following day.

12/03/2020

Arrangements in hand with ARC to bring over legal adviser from the UK

14:00 hours

1,2,3 attend GPF officers to provide Stage 4 account. Advice received from legal adviser to postpone the accounts for another day.

15:00 hours

CI Romero & AC Ullger attend GPF offices to speak to 1,2,3 reference their welfare and to offer them their full support. Given encrypted pen drives to be able to save their accounts. Return to work strategy touched upon.

13/03/2020

10:30 hours

1,2,3 myself and Fed Sec called to NMH for update by CI Romero. Informed that they had received specific threats towards PMB crew out at sea. A further more specific threat had been received from a source in relation to 1. Monies to be paid for destruction of property.

Positive action taken by RGP. 1,2,3 given panic alarms which if activated would go directly through to duty Crown Sergeant.

12:30 hours

Meeting with legal adviser.

A firm believer of trans-frontier police cooperation, McGrail recognizes that Gibraltar is a very safe community and a model of coexistence, even though it has its challenges.

The first modern police force to have emerged within the Commonwealth following London's, the Royal Gibraltar Police force (RGP), was founded in 1830, only a few months after the London Metropolitan Police was set up.

The RGP has a complement of 246 officers in separate departments; Prosecution, Narcotics, Scientific Police, Technological Crimes, Traffic, Neighbourhood Police, Maritime Section, Support Division and Information and Intelligence.

Ian McGrail has been the Commissioner of the RGP for a year.

Born on the Rock and with more than 30 years of experience in the force, border, a financial centre and UK defence facilities.

RGP Commissioner Ian McGrail: "A police officer is a police officer, wherever he may be. A border should not be an obstacle for collaboration."

So, McGrail is reasonably cautious: "We are not immune to what can happen anywhere else, more so considering this area. In addition, where there are financial centres there is always associated crime, as is true of cities like Madrid or London." Gender violence has increased, although not as tragically as in Spain.

In fact, the most serious crime recently that occurred in Gibraltar was the murder of a woman by her husband.

Smuggling

The RGP supports Customs in Gibraltar in the fight against tobacco smuggling: "It is a Customs function, but we provide support. We have storage rooms full of tobacco that we eliminate annually, but they're always full at the end of the year. The tobacco seizures are constant."

In recent weeks, the RGP made headlines for its collaboration with the Security Forces of Spain in the arrest and return of alleged drug traffickers. A vocation of public service and the will to collaborate fit in line with a well-established system cooperation.

"Our collaboration with the Security Forces of Spain dates back many years and continues to be maintained. A police officer is a police officer, wherever he may be. A border should not be an obstacle for collaboration. I have officers who testify in the Spanish courts with regards to crimes committed in Spain, because they require our witness evidence. I would like this to be reciprocated. This has not happened yet, but I have not lost faith," he acknowledges.

Collaboration

Brexit is perhaps the most important challenge: "Whatever Brexit brings, I hope that the politicians on both sides of the frontier allow the police to do our work because, if not, the criminals will win. I ask that they let us continue collaborating in a fluid and effective manner." In this sense, he also highlights the harmony between police officers on both sides.

"A police officer is a police officer, wherever he or she may be. Mutual respect is evident. I hope, I ask, I pray for it to be maintained because our goal continues to be the same," he says. This collaboration with Spanish authorities also exists at sea, despite the well-known disputes over the sovereignty of the waters surrounding the Rock.

"Collaboration exists, with some agencies more than with others, but it exists. In fact, the two cases my Officers will testify to in the courts of Terrorism

Another threat to be confronted is terrorism, something unthinkable in a community that is a model example for the coexistence between Catholics, Protestants, Jews ,Muslims, and Hindus.

"These days, nobody can be completely safe. We are a great example and yet, it is still possible that an outsider could break this climate or stir things up. We take this matter very seriously and Police, Customs, Immigration and Defense Agencies are all working together as a unit," he says.

Spain, Gibraltar police seize hashish after high-speed boat chase

January 5, 2017

Gibraltar (AFP) - Spanish and Gibraltarian police on Thursday recovered hashish worth nearly five million dollars that was thrown into the Bay of Gibraltar by drug traffickers to escape a high-speed chase.

Acting on a tipoff, Royal Gibraltar Police located five inflatable boats loaded with hashish resin in the contested started to throw their cargo overboard in an attempt to lighten their load and pick up speed, Royal Gibraltar Police said in a statement.

The boat left Gibraltar's territorial waters and the chase was then taken up by Spain's Guardia Civil police force but the traffickers managed to escape, it added.

Authorities retraced the route of the chase and picked up 34 bales of hashish resin – Gibraltar police and customs recovered 27 bales and the Guardia Civil another seven.

The drugs weighed around 800 kilos (1,800 pounds) and are estimated to have a street value of Â£4,050,000 ($4,968,000/4,762,000 euros).

"This highlights the close cooperation that exists not just among local law enforcement agencies, but also with the Guardia Civil in combating crime, particularly drug trafficking, across the Straits of Gibraltar," the statement said.

Madrid ceded Gibraltar in 1713 under the Treaty of Utrecht. The territory remains a source of British-Spanish tensions, with Madrid long claiming it should be returned to Spanish sovereignty.

While Spanish and Gibraltar police cooperate regularly at the grass roots level, there are often flare-ups between the two sides over jurisdiction and sovereignty.

Gibraltar says Spanish vessels regularly stray deep into its territorial waters and Britain's Foreign Office has attacked such incidents as provocative.

In the most serious recent incident, a British navy patrol boat fired flares to warn off a survey ship operated by Spain's Oceanographic Institute which had entered disputed waters.

Two officers from Gibraltar's police force have been honoured for their work with Spain's Guardia Civil in tackling money laundering and drug trafficking crimes.

In a display of the close collaboration and a sign of the "excellent working relationship" between the two forces, the RGP officers were awarded Spain's Order of Merit in a ceremony held in Tarifa on October 10.

Former Commissioner of Police Ian McGrail honoured by the Policia Nacional in Spain

Former Commissioner of Police Ian McGrail has been honoured by the Policia Nacional in Spain.

He's received an award recognising his co-operation with the Spanish authorities and his contribution to the fight against drug trafficking.

The award ceremony took place in La Linea yesterday, when Ian McGrail was presented with a plaque by the La Lineaand Algeciras Police Commissioners. They praised his professionalism and work on both cross-border operations and in the exchange of information, saying Mr McGrail recognised that crime did not have frontiers.

For his part, the former RGP Commissioner said he was honoured to have had his work recognised. He said he's always been a great advocate in the establishing of mechanisms to enable joint operations between the Gibraltar and Spanish authorities. He adds he's always been a firm believer that joint operational activity and exchange of intelligence bodes well for the building of trust among law enforcement officials which in turn develops into a very effective weapon to combat serious & organised crime.

Ian McGrail says he's delighted to have struck a professional & personal relationship with his Spanish counterparts as with other other senior officials in the UK, USA and other nations to ensure the world knows Gibraltar is not a "safe" jurisdiction for serious and organised criminality.

- AG asked whether our position in respect of Mr Levy had changed since the last meeting. The CoP stated that it had not.
- AG asked whether we could achieve the same goal without the need to treat JL as a suspect.
- Asked whether we could interview but not under caution.
- If he is treated as a witness, it may undermine the case. The other suspects would question why this was the case.
- There is a fear that he may not turn up on Monday. Consider what the next steps would need to be.
- Considered the possibility of not interviewing at the police station but at his office. This may be possible in law but not certain under CPEA.
- AG did not think this would be satisfactory for JL who did not want under caution.
- Considered what was happening with the devices. CoP stated that they were sealed and kept in his safe. Not to be actioned at this stage.
- AG argued a distinction between Sanchez / Cornelio and the level of culpability of JL. Could he therefore be treated differently?
- DPP disagreed with the decision to use a warrant. But stated that this was an operational matter. He did say that he believed we would be successful in JR. He would defend us.
- AG agreed that:
    - AG (or someone) would call L Baglietto and ask him to consider submitting a full account
    - RGP would assess the evidence provided and possibly ask for clarity
    - RGP would reach a conclusion about whether the benefits of treating JL as a witness outweigh the need to prosecute (in light of the assistance to the prosecution case and not on his standing / problems associated with legal action)
    - Phones to be retained until a decision was made (with the possibility to analyse if he is a suspect or return if he is a witness).
    - Warrant to be retained in the event that it is needed later on
    - Interview to be suspended for the time being but could proceed if he was to remain a suspect.

Meeting at OCPL

1200 hours - 20th May 2020

Present: AG Llamas / DPP Rocca / CoP / Supt Richardson / DI Wyan

RE: Letter from Hassans dated 20th May 2020 – Schedule 1 Search warrants dated 7 May 2020

AG – Letter required a succinct reply. That a procedure of co-operation had been started and the process should conclude. If we begin to rebut then everything could be undermined.

DPP – Concerned that if the reply was not robust enough then there could be repercussions in the context of the whole case later on.

DPP – We need a tempered rebuttal but one that makes clear our position.

CoP – Hassans are now asking for confirmation that JL is a witness. Agreed to review an unsolicited account but not that this was a witness statement.

AG – Confirmed that he had only indicated to Hassans that they would review a written response if it was provide.

AG – Concerned that a procedure had been put in place but that this type of letter was not helping. Not sure why they were doing it at this stage.

DPP – Believed that they may be getting ready for an abuse of process argument.

DPP – Need to respond to the assertion that prejudice to the investigation is not a ground to reject the application for disclosure of the warrant details.

DPP – We can give them a redacted version of the warrant application. To discuss with Supt Richardson.

DPP – 21 days is too long for notice.

MW – Concerned that the warrant will expire by 7/6/20. Little time to execute in the event that JL does not provide a sufficient account.

PR – Status of JL is still a suspect.

PR – Problem with asking questions after an account is that we would be conducting an interview.

PR – If JL provides an account this can be used against him.

DPP – We are keeping an open mind until he has provided his account.

AG – Advice to Hassans was that he provides RGP with his account. Let's go down that route. Other procedure is on hold until it is assessed.

CoP – His account will have to be substantive enough for him to be treated as a witness and to avoid interview under caution.

DPP – He will draft a response for CoP. He will address the issues and rebut.

AG – Conclusion should be that we are keeping an open mind.

Subject: OFFICIAL - SENSITIVE RE: James Levy

Dear AG,

Further to my email this morning I now able to provide the substantive response that I promised.

Mr Baglietto is incorrect in the sequence of events and we would also argue incorrect with the conclusions that are drawn from them. Body worn video footage was taken yesterday and this will provide an accurate record and corroborate the following version of events:

1. Mr Levy was requested to attend his office in order to execute a warrant issued by the Magistrates' Court. He initially refused to attend stating that he was busy that day and offered to try and meet on the following day asserting that the officers did not know what they were doing and that there would be serious repercussions. The execution of the warrant was planned and executed in the most tactful and least intrusive way possible and all persons were treated with the utmost respect and courtesy. After initially refusing to attend, Mr Levy asked for time to consider and agreed to revert to the officers in due course. After some fifteen minutes he capitulated and agreed to attend his own office.

2. On his arrival Mr Levy was cautioned as is required by law and a prepared summary of the relevant facts on which it was suspected that he may have taken part in a criminal conspiracy were read over to him and this recorded on a body worn camera. It was stressed that the police were keeping an open mind and that any explanation that he provided may cause the investigation to proceed in a different direction.

3. The purpose of the warrant and the material searched for was discussed and Mr Levy declared that as an officer of the court he would of course comply but needed to consider the rights of his clients as the material we sought was subject to legal privilege. The means by which legally privileged material is seized and handled was discussed and his views were sought as to whether local or UK counsel should be chosen to examine the content seized and he declared a preference for UK counsel.

4. Mr Levy pressed for an explanation as to why we had not simply obtained a production order and therefore not need to use a warrant; the reasons are as follows:
    a. Search warrants were used for all other suspects in this case and he was subject to the investigation as an individual and this does not necessarily imply that Hassan's as an entity were suspect of criminal liability.
    b. There was a need to seize his devices at that time, not ask for them to be handed over on request.
    c. Production Orders are obtained through an inter-party application and this would involve disclosing details of the investigation to an interested party in advance of any formal police interview and thereby potentially compromise any line of questioning.

5. Although Mr Levy asserted his willingness to cooperate he asked to consult privately with Mr Chincotta and left the room with him. Some twenty minutes later they returned and advised that they had consulted with a top UK Silk and that even though he had been advised that the execution of a warrant was an abuse of process the means to challenge it was by judicial review. He therefore wanted to cooperate but was still uncertain as to whether to handover the items voluntarily or be compelled to do so by warrant.

6. After much discussion with Javier Chincotta it was decided to try and come to an arrangement with Hassan's IT technician and the RGP IT forensic examiner to extract the items required from Hassan's servers on a voluntary basis. As this involved technical cooperation Mr Levy asked that in the meantime that his office was searched, assuring the officers that he never used the computer located there. Insp Wyan sought clarity as to whether this would amount to a voluntary search or whether the warrant would be executed and Mr Levy stated that he wanted the search to be on a voluntary basis and would sign the relevant sections of the warrant after the issue of extracting the emails was resolved. He asked that only Supt. Richardson accompany him to his office and this was agreed. In the office he opened the cupboards and drawers and declared that nothing concerning 36 North was held within. A cursory visual examination satisfied the officer that it was unlikely that the material sought was there.

7. Once back in the boardroom it was noted that the IT staff were still trying to determine the best way to address the problem and both men left to pursue this. As they left, and at the request of Mr Levy, Supt. Richardson and Mr Levy left for a search of his home office. Once again the terms of the search were discussed and again Mr Levy asserted that he wanted the search to be on a voluntary basis and that he would sign the relevant form once the email situation was concluded. Inside his office a rudimentary search was conducted with Mr Levy opening drawers and storage areas and explaining their content. Nothing was removed from the office and Mr Levy was asked to produce his iPad and a telephone which had been used to send messages to the other persons subject to this investigation. After initially declaring that he did not recognise the telephone number subject to the investigation (a UK based number) he asked his family who informed him that it was a number that he had previously used for WhatsApp as his Blackberry (which he previously used) did not have that function. He was however unable to remember what had happened to that phone and could not provide it.

8. The ipad was handed over to him by his wife and he volunteered the PIN code. The device was not taken into police custody at that stage as Mr Levy had still not formally agreed to hand over the items on a voluntary basis by signing the necessary form.

9. Once Mr Levy and Supt. Richardson returned to the board room at Hassans, Mr Levy agreed that he would provide the items on a voluntary basis and signed the relevant forms in the presence and with the agreement of Mr Chincotta.

10. The warrant has been obtained pursuant to schedule 1 paragraph 12 the Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act 2011. Mr Baglietto appears to be confused by the copy of the form provided to Mr Levy entitled "Statutory Powers of Police to Search Premises and the Rights of Occupiers which caters for warrants other than the one in issue and includes a reference at paragraph 6 to the With Consent searches. Mr Levy signed to consent to a search by consent at 1700 and at this point handed over his IPad. He retained his iPhone until he had made arrangements with his own IT specialist to obtain a backup copy. The phone was handed over to police, again on a voluntary basis at 2100Hrs at NMH.

11. The issue of the emails is still live given that Hassans declared that they had over 80,000,000 emails and the time to extract the relevant ones may take several days. At the time of writing we are under the belief that these would be hand over voluntarily, however given the contents of Mr Baglietto's letter to the Clerk of the Magistrates' Court this would seem to be unlikely.

12. The warrant was issued by the Magistrates' Court and followed the correct process where a substantial affidavit was produced and examined by the Magistrate over a period exceeding 90 minutes having been provided with a copy of it in advance. You will note that Mr Baglietto is seeking to obtain a copy of the information laid before the Magistrate and making the absurd allegation that there has been misfeasance in public office. This investigation will be severely prejudiced should this information be is provided at this stage and the DPP and the Clerk to the Magistrates' Court has been informed.

13. Finally I am informed that no copy of the warrant was provided and neither was it asked for. This is because it was not relied on as the items were handed over voluntarily.

I hope the chronology of events as recorded by the team and explained above provides you with the details you require fro our meeting in a short while.

Sincerely,

Ian McGrail OTM MSc

Dear AG –

I have now had an opportunity to discuss the contents of your email sent at 2312Hrs yesterday and which I only read this morning. I am confident that Mr Baglietto is incorrect in some of the facts he sets out and the conclusions that he draws from them. I have seen nothing to suggest that the investigating team have acted improperly and refute in the strongest terms that there has been a serious abuse of law or power.

My response will be on the understanding that is in your capacity as guardian of the public interest, as this is how Lewis Baglietto has sought urgent intervention from yourself, in what is a protracted and serious live criminal investigation.

In my view, it would not be appropriate for the Commissioner of Police and the Attorney General to meet with counsel representing a person under investigation to discuss matters concerning a live investigation and which may be subject a legal challenge at later date. This is particularly so as Mr Levy has indicated that he is likely to ask Mr Baglietto to represent him in the formal police interview under caution scheduled for next week. That said it would be appropriate for you and I to meet and discuss the preparation of legal arguments to defend any possible legal challenge following on from yesterday's intervention.

I am working to provide a substantive response and would ask for your patience whilst I prepare this: I aim to revert to you by close of play today if not earlier.

Yours sincerely,

> The officers who attended informed him that they were investigating the offence of conspiracy to defraud in connection with the dishonest obtaining of a maintenance contract relating to the NCSIS platform. They told him, in terrorem, that they were in possession of a search warrant (although they left with him a copy of a proforma relating to section 21 warrants of arrest, it is plain that the warrant which they claim to have had must have been a section 12 warrant), and told him that unless he cooperated, the warrant would be executed. As you would expect of a person of Mr Levy QC's stature and standing, he agreed to cooperate. He permitted them to enter his home address, and to search it, which they did. Despite threatening to execute the warrant, the police officers declined to provide him with a copy, even though they left the proforma. They seized an ipad, and then left to search his office. At Hassans' offices, they entered his personal office, and asked for his iphone and copies of documents. Again, Mr Levy QC agreed to cooperate, and provided his phone, with the sim card removed (so as to allow him to continue to work).

> I am extremely concerned by the apparent gross abuse of power that this conduct amounts to, and that the RGP has seen fit to proceed in this manner. Although Mr Levy has asked me to confirm that the officers in attendance were personally courteous to him at all times, it is absolutely unconscionable that they should have threatened to execute a warrant in order to secure entry so that police search powers could be used. Moreover, it is completely inexplicable how the RGP could have thought that any warrant was proper, let alone that any court could have considered that the statutory pre-conditions for the issue of a warrant were met. The issue of a warrant was unnecessary, oppressive and highly distressing to Mr Levy and his family. It directly impugned Mr Levy's reputation and dignity as an officer of the court, the senior partner of Gibraltar's largest law firm and a highly respected member of the local community. Putting aside the ridiculous notion that he is suspected of having been involved in this serious criminal activity, it is not even clear that a production order under section 13 could have been properly obtained. How could it have even been properly suggested that entry to the premises would not be granted unless a warrant was produced, or that the purpose of a search would be frustrated or seriously prejudiced?
> Mr Levy and my firm are, in addition, highly aggrieved at the fact that the RGP have taken Mr Levy's tablet and mobile telephone, which, as you will appreciate, contain a vast amount of privileged and irrelevant information to which the RGP is clearly not entitled as a matter of trite law. Although the RGP undertook to engage an independent counsel in the UK to examine the material for LPP, this completely fails to provide the necessary assurances that LPP material, or unrelated personal, private and privileged information, will be adequately protected. Not only was the material not 'blue-bagged' in his presence (presumably because the RGP intend to copy the device thereafter elsewhere) but the exercise appears to be intended to be carried out outside Gibraltar.
> As you know, legal professional privilege is sacrosanct. The prohibition on the production of privileged material in the Criminal Procedure Act and under the general law are total and the firm's many clients are entitled to have the protection of their privileged and confidential affairs guaranteed in any disclosure process.
> I am therefore writing to you in your capacity as guardian of the public interest to seek your urgent intervention with a view to ensuring that all the seized material is returned forthwith. Notwithstanding Mr Levy's open and sincere cooperation (which continues), the RGP were simply not entitled to take the material. To the extent that RGP wishes to obtain the material afresh, then consideration should be given by it to the making of a proper inter partes section 13/Schedule 1 production order application.
> To that end, I would be grateful if you could give me the opportunity to urgently meet with a view to further discussing the above concerns with you and the RGP. I would venture to say that we are dealing with a serious abuse of law and power here.

Dear Paul,

Many thanks for your e mail and attachment. I will not comment on operational matters which are matters solely for the RGP. There is nothing that I can see in the document at this stage and given the knowledge that I have at this stage which would impact any potential JR as the the lawfulness of the search warrant.

I have a couple of minor comments on form rather than substance and will call you to discuss.

That said, this is a very complex investigation and Mr Levy appears to have had less involvement than the others notwithstanding the fact that we still assert, and you have agreed, that there are reasonable grounds to consider that there are questions that need putting to Mr Levy under caution. In that regard, and in order for Lewis Baglietto to properly advise his client we have drafted the attached additional pre-interview disclosure with a simplified time-line.

Dear Paul,

Many thanks for your e mail copying the relevant exchange of e mails which I have discussed briefly with the AG to get a clear picture of discussions with Mr Baglietto.

As matters were left at the meeting, my understanding was that the AG would communicate to LB that the RGP would not be averse to a written statement from Mr Levy to assist with enquiries and that thereafter matter would be looked at afresh and if needed further questions put. The mechanics of how that would be communicated were not really discussed. I am aware that the AG and COP spoke during the course of yesterday.

There is nothing in the emails to suggest that the RGP will not, if it sees fit at a subsequent date, interview Mr Levy and that that option remains in the table.

As regards the suggested procedural safeguards it would be best for us to await further communication and then consider.

Best regards,

Christian

Dear Sir,

I have been forwarded a copy of your letter addressed to Detective Superintendent Paul Richardson dated 13 May 2020 the contents of which have been noted.

I have been fully briefed as to the conduct of the investigation and given the seriousness of the allegations made and the matters raised. I have seen fit to respond directly.

At the outset I must point out that the sequence of events are not as you have described and I do not agree with you that there were reasonable grounds to believe that Mr Levy would have simply handed over his devices and documents.

Notwithstanding the fact the police attended with a search warrant issued by the Magistrates Court, an attempt was made to try and deal with the matter by consent. This involved Mr Levy consulting with 'senior silk' in private and informing the officers that he would consent to handing over the items sought as long as the interests of his clients were protected. Once the means in which they would be achieved was clear Mr Levy signed the relevant form after reading it and consulting with Mr Chincotta. Accordingly the search warrant was not executed but rather Mr Levy chose to hand over his devices voluntarily, albeit after some time and after extensive consultation.

I do not agree with you that warrant was excessive, unjustified or unlawful and in my view the action taken was both legitimate and proportionate in the circumstances. I do not think it would serve any purpose to enter into a discussion on the use of Productions Orders as opposed to a Search Warrant.

In relation to the items that you have requested I have attached a copy of the search warrant to this email. I am unable at this time to comply with your request for a copy of the application for the search warrant or any other written evidence as this could potentially compromise an ongoing investigation as Mr Levy has yet to be interviewed. The same applies to point 4 (any notes taken by the RGP of the hearing). The only order or ruling that I am aware of made by the Stipendiary Magistrate was the warrant itself. Although the DPP has been consulted on various non-operational issues concerning this investigation including the status of various parties he has not provided advice on the application of a search warrant which remains an operational matter.

Please rest assured that the RGP has not copied or downloaded any material so far and in fact the devices remain sealed and I have assumed safe custody of them. I remain convinced of the legality of our course of conduct but undertake to postpone their submission to be examined for seven days from the date of this letter in the event that you may wish to make any legal challenge to this decision.

I would also ask you to please note that it is not a question of me refusing to meet with you and the Attorney General, but rather I view it as inappropriate given the circumstances in which we find ourselves which I trust you understand.

I enclose a copy of a notice regarding voluntary attendance for police interview. This sets out the topic areas which we seek to explore in the formal police interview. I should point that we have not shared this document with any other party. It would be very helpful if Mr Levy brings any material with him that may support his account or provide it in advance of his attendance. Additionally, as would be normal practice counsel will be provided with a pre-interview briefing

Finally, as you will no doubt be aware, Mr Levy undertook to voluntarily extract the relevant emails and other documents from Hassans servers and provide these to police along with all files concerning Astelon Ltd and 36 North Ltd. Grateful if you advise when these will be supplied to assist with our investigation.

Dear Chris,
Below please find my proposed response to Louis Baglietto's letter of today addressed to Det/Supt Richardson. Grateful if you could peruse it and advise.

STARTS
Dear Sir,

I have been fully briefed as to the conduct of the investigation and given the seriousness of the allegations that you have made I have seen fit to respond directly. The sequence of events are not as you have described and I do not agree with you that there were reasonable grounds that Mr Levy would have simply handed over his devices and documents. You should note that Mr Levy initially declined to attend the offices of Hassans when requested and only agreed to do so after considering the matter for some twenty minutes. I note that notwithstanding an undertaking to comply with the request to hand over Mr Levy's iPad and iPhone that the facts are that the iPad was not handed over until he had agreed to do so voluntarily several hours after police arrival and had signed the relevant form. The IPhone was not handed over until some considerable time later at around 2100Hrs at New Mole House Police Station.

Notwithstanding the fact the police attended with a search warrant issued by the Magistrates Court, an attempt was made to try and deal with the matter by consent. I ~~cannot~~ am unable at this time comply with your request for a copy of the application for the search warrant or any other written evidence as this cwould potentially compromise an ongoing investigation as Mr Levy has yet to be interviewed. The same applies to point 4 (any notes taken by the RGP of the hearing). The only order or ruling that I am aware of made by the Stipendiary Magistrate was the warrant itself. Although the DPP has been consulted on various issues concerning this investigation including the ~~criminal~~ status of various parties~~dealing with Mr Levy~~ he has not provided advice on the application of a search warrant which remains an operational matter.

Please rest assured that the RGP has not copied or downloaded any material so far and in fact the devices remain sealed and I have assumed safe custody of them. I remain convinced of the legality of our course of conduct but undertake to postpone any examination for seven days from the date of this letter in the event that you may wish to make any legal challenge to this decision.

I would also ask you to please note that it is not a question of me refusing to meet with you and the Attorney General, but rather I view it as inappropriate given the circumstances in which we find ourselves which I trust you understand.

I enclose a copy of the notice regarding voluntary attendance for police interview which was provided to Mr Levy yesterday. This sets out the topic areas which we seek to explore in the formal police interview. I should point that we have not shared this document with any other party. It would be very helpful if Mr Levy brings any material with him that may support his account or provide it in advance of his attendance. Additionally, as would be normal practice counsel will be provided with a pre-interview briefing

Finally, as you will no doubt be aware, Mr Levy undertook to voluntarily extract the relevant emails and other documents from Hassans servers and provide these to police along with all files concerning Astelon Ltd and 36 North Ltd. Grateful if you advise when these will be supplied to assist with our investigation.

Dear Sir,

I have been forwarded a copy of your letter addressed to Detective Superintendent Paul Richardson dated 13 May 2020 the contents of which have been noted.

I have been fully briefed as to the conduct of the investigation and given the seriousness of the allegations made and the matters raised, ~~that you have made~~ I have seen fit to respond directly.

At the outset I must pointy out that t~~T~~he sequence of events are not as you have described and I do not agree with you that there were reasonable grounds to believe that Mr Levy would have simply handed over his devices and documents. ~~You should note that Mr Levy initially declined to attend the offices of Hassans when requested and only agreed to do so after considering the matter for some twenty minutes. I note that notwithstanding an undertaking to comply with the request to hand over Mr Levy's iPad and iPhone that the facts are that the iPad was not handed over until he had agreed to do so voluntarily several hours after police arrival and had signed the relevant form. The IPhone was not handed over until some considerable time later at around 2100Hrs at New Mole House Police Station.~~

Notwithstanding the fact the police attended with a search warrant issued by the Magistrates Court, an attempt was made to try and deal with the matter by consent. This involved Mr Levy consulting with 'senior silk' in private and informing the officers that he would consent to handing over the items sought as long as the interests of his clients were protected. Once the means in which they would be achieved was clear Mr Levy signed the relevant form after reading it and consulting with Mr Chincotta. Accordingly the search warrant was not executed but rather Mr Levy chose to hand over his devices voluntarily, albeit after some time and after extensive consultation.

I do not agree with you that warrant was excessive, unjustified or unlawful and in my view the action taken was both legitimate and proportionate in the circumstances. I do not think it would serve any purpose to enter into a discussion on the use of Productions Orders as opposed to a Search Warrant.

In relation to the items that you have requested I have attached a copy of the search warrant to this email. I ~~cannot~~ am unable at this time comply with your request for a copy of the application for the search warrant or any other written evidence as this cwould potentially compromise an ongoing investigation as Mr Levy has yet to be interviewed. The same applies to point 4 (any notes taken by the RGP of the hearing). The only order or ruling that I am aware of made by the Stipendiary Magistrate was the warrant itself. Although the DPP has been consulted on various issues concerning this investigation including the ~~criminal~~ status of various parties~~dealing with Mr Levy~~ he has not provided advice on the application of a search warrant which remains an operational matter.

Please rest assured that the RGP has not copied or downloaded any material so far and in fact the devices remain sealed and I have assumed safe custody of them. I remain convinced of the legality of our course of conduct but undertake to postpone any examination for seven days from the date of this letter in the event that you may wish to make any legal challenge to this decision.

I would also ask you to please note that it is not a question of me refusing to meet with you and the Attorney General, but rather I view it as inappropriate given the circumstances in which we find ourselves which I trust you understand.

I enclose a copy of the notice regarding voluntary attendance for police interview which was provided to Mr Levy yesterday. Dear Commissioner

Schedule 1 paragraph 12 Criminal Procedure and Evidence Act 2011 search warrants granted on 7 May 2020 in respect of premises at [redacted]; and Hassans International Law Firm Madison Building and proposed interview of James Levy QC

I refer to your letter dated 14th May, enclosing copies of the above search warrants and a copy of a notice regarding voluntary attendance for police interview, and to your email of 18th May 2020.

The points you refer to in your letter concerning the legality and propriety of the warrants as well as the manner in which Mr Levy was obliged to allow RGP access to his home address and to the seizure of the material are addressed in my letter to the Attorney General of 15th May 2020 which was copied to you. I, therefore, do not propose to repeat our response to those points here.

I note that you do not agree to provide us with the documents that we have requested from you relating to the RGP's application for the search warrants on the grounds that doing so may potentially prejudice the investigation "as Mr Levy has yet to be interviewed". I have also been informed by the Clerk of the Magistrates' Court that the RGP has lodged an objection with the court against our application to the court under Crim PR 5.7 for the application for the warrants and other related material to be provided to us from the court record.

I would, however, urge you to re-consider your position, and the objection that you have lodged with the court. Mr Levy QC is entitled, as the person challenging the warrants, to disclosure of the information laid in support of the application for the warrants, and to know on what basis the application was made, including any further information or evidence given to the court: R (Energy Financing Team Ltd) v Bow Street Magistrates' Court; R(Gittins) v Central Criminal Court.

The only basis upon which disclosure may nevertheless be refused by the court under Crim PR 5.7(6) to (9) is if the relevant material is protected by public interest immunity because disclosure would cause substantial harm or serious prejudice to the public interest: R v Chief Constable ex parte Wiley; R (Haralambous) v Crown Court at St Albans; R(Terra Services Ltd) v NCA. The reason provided for refusing to provide the material, namely that the investigation would be 'prejudiced….as Mr Levy has yet to be interviewed' would fall far short of the necessary PII threshold to justify non-disclosure.

I also note from your letter that the DPP's advice was not sought on the application for search warrants. This is contrary to what Mr Levy was led to believe by Detective Superintendent Richardson, and contrary to what we understand was the position. We would be grateful for details of the extent to which the DPP was informed of the prospective warrant applications (on account, of course, of LPP, we do not seek details of any advice that he may have given).

I note your assurances that the RGP has not so far downloaded or copied any of the material taken from Mr Levy, and would not do so for 7 days from the date of your letter pending a legal challenge. I also understand from the Attorney General that you have given a further undertaking to the effect that that material would not be accessed until after the conclusion of the process under which Mr Levy is to provide a written statement. We are grateful to you for these assurances. We would ask, however, that you give a further assurance that the RGP thereafter refrains from examining the seized material without giving 21 days' notice, so that we may, if appropriate, seek legal relief in advance of the RGP gaining access. Such a further elapse of time would also allow a disclosure application, to which reference is made above, to be determined. We are plainly unable to reach a final view on the full extent of a challenge to the warrants without this information. The seized material cannot be examined until the court has ruled on the propriety and validity of your objection to disclosure, and we are given a reasonable period thereafter to consider our position in light of all or any of the information that is ordered to be disclosed.

Finally, we acknowledge, and are grateful for, your confirmation that Mr Levy is to provide a written statement. However, I note that your letter states that, following the provision of a written statement, the RGP will reconsider whether it would 'require further written particulars or the need to interview Mr Levy' (under caution). I am concerned about this. As you know, an interview under caution may only take place where there are grounds to suspect the interviewed person of the commission of an offence. Mr Levy, I presume, is not now so

Hassans
international Law Firm

suspected (otherwise he would not have been offered the opportunity of instead providing a written statement), but were he to become so, and to be interviewed under caution, he would then have lost, in relation to the pre-existing statement, the procedural protections that the law allows for suspected persons, and the statement would be potentially admissible against him. I would be grateful if you would confirm that he will not be interviewed under caution at a later stage.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours sincerely,

Lewis Baglietto

Dear Mr Baglietto,

Re - Mr James Levy QC

Thank you for your letter dated 20th May 2020, the contents of which are noted. Given some of the matters of law raised in your letter I have sought advice from the DPP.

I do not propose to repeat the RGP's position regarding the legality of the search warrant, suffice to say that our position remains that the warrant was properly and lawfully obtained.

You are correct to say that the RGP has objected to the disclosure of the documents used in support of the application of the warrant and that continues to be the RGP's fundamental position regarding full provision of all material. Notwithstanding this, I have instructed my officers to consider, if possible, making available a redacted version of those documents which may satisfy you regarding the basis upon which the application was made. Additionally, you have had made available to you substantial information in the pre-interview disclosure information. I hope that this combined will make the application to the Magistrate unnecessary. However, I must reiterate that any application for full disclosure of the documents will be resisted on the basis previously set out. Our view is that our objection is encapsulated within the Criminal Procedure Rules provisions identified by you in your letter.

As already explained, the DPP's advice was not sought in relation to whether a warrant should be applied for or how it would be executed. Such matters are operational in nature. The DPP's advice was however sought at various times in relation to status of all persons subject to the investigation. In this regard we remain convinced that the RGP's actions were lawful.

I note your request for further assurances from me regarding the examination etc of the material voluntarily provided by your client. In this regard, I can assure you that the material will not be examined without my giving you 7 days notice in advance of our intention to do so. This will give you ample opportunity to take whatever action you may deem necessary in the event that you are put on notice given that already 8 days since the items were handed over voluntarily.

Whilst on the matter of the material provided, I note that you have failed to respond to the point raised in earlier correspondence, namely that the material was provided voluntarily by your client and the warrant was not executed. On that basis I would be grateful if you would clarify the relevance of the challenge of the warrant. You will appreciate that this is an important issue for a number of reasons and clarity is required. Any suggestion that Mr Levy was coerced in to acting against his will and under threat of the execution of a warrant is strongly denied and will be apparent from any viewing of the Body Worn Video footage that was taken at the time.

Finally, for the avoidance of doubt, your client continues to be a suspect in this investigation. Your client has been given an opportunity to provide a prepared statement which may assist in the RGP's enquiries and clarify any involvement he may have had in the matter under investigation. Needless to say, the RGP must reserve the right to interview Mr Levy under caution at any time and it is a matter for you to advise your client on the effect of any statements he may or may not provide to the RGP. I must repeat that notwithstanding the above the RGP have an open mind and will review our position as and when evidence becomes available to us.

Yours sincerely

Dear Michael –
Please see below my intended response to Lewis Baglietto which has been drafted in consultation with Chris.

STARTS

On that basis I would be grateful if you would clarify the relevance of the challenge of the warrant. You will appreciate that this is an important issue for a number of reasons and clarity is required. ~~Is your position now that Mr Levy did not hand over the material voluntarily and that the warrant was in fact executed? Is your client now withdrawing his offer to voluntarily provide the emails and correspondence etc that he offered to provide to Supt. Richardson? I must request an urgent response to this point and we must reserve our position to execute the warrant if your client is now resiling from his position of cooperation.~~ Any suggestion that Mr Levy was coerced in to acting against his will and under threat of the execution of a warrant is strongly denied and will be apparent from any viewing of the Body Warn Footage that was taken at the time.

Finally, for the avoidance of doubt, your client continues to be a suspect in this investigation. Your client has been given an opportunity to provide a prepared statement ~~if he so chooses~~ which may assist in the RGP's enquiries and clarify any involvement he may have had in the matter under investigation. Needless to say, the RGP must reserve the right to interview Mr Levy under caution at any time and it is a matter for you to advise your client on the effect of any statements he may or may not provide to the RGP. Further to our email correspondence on the 7th and 8th August, I'd be very grateful if you could find time to meet regarding Mr Caine Sanchez. As previously stated, I am interested in the below matters with a view to obtaining a witness statement if possible.

1) The role / responsibilities of Mr Sanchez (in particular with regards to the NSCIS system);
2) Who he reported to (in particular with regards to the NSCIS system);
3) His level of authority over the NSCIS system (i.e. Did he have complete autonomy?);
4) Whether he had the power to disregard instructions issued by the Chief Minister on the 4th October 2018 (via Peter Canessa) if he felt it necessary to do so;
5) A copy of the Official Secrets Act signed by Mr Sanchez;
6) A copy of the IT security police signed by Mr Sanchez.

Many thanks for your assistance.

Dear Mark,

I am just leaving St Petersburg and have still at least 10 days left of annual leave. Has Mr Sanchez therefore been officially arrested etc? The interdiction I issued was temporary pending further developments.

On the questions you raise I will certainly need to be in Gibraltar to address these properly as I would need to consult a number of people in this respect. If you can afford to wait, then I would happily do this for you as from late next week, when back in Gibraltar, even though still on leave. If not, I would have to delegate this sensitive issue to my acting Chief Secretary, Richard Montado, in copy.

Please revert at your earliest convenience; I do check emails daily but intermittently as I am cruising the Baltic States

Darren

Dear Mark,

I am just leaving St Petersburg and have still at least 10 days left of annual leave. Has Mr Sanchez therefore been officially arrested etc? The interdiction I issued was temporary pending further developments.

On the questions you raise I will certainly need to be in Gibraltar to address these properly as I would need to consult a number of people in this respect. If you can afford to wait, then I would happily do this for you as from late next week, when back in Gibraltar, even though still on leave. If not, I would have to delegate this sensitive issue to my acting Chief Secretary, Richard Montado, in copy.

Please revert at your earliest convenience; I do check emails daily but intermittently as I am cruising the Baltic States

Best,

Darren

Attn: Inspector Mark Wyan

Dear Sirs,

Re: The NSCIS Platform

We refer to our Client's arrest on 14 May 2019 and his subsequent voluntary second interview on 17 July 2019.

We have brought to your attention guidance issue UK Crown Prosecution Service as regards the primary offence for which our client was charged, namely the common law offence of 'Misconduct in Public Office'. That guidance cautions that this offence is to be used sparingly and in limited circumstances hence the reason why we asked you to consult the DPP.

Nearly 4 months have elapsed since our client's arrest and it seems that you are still not in a position to charge or release him from police bail so it is likely that his bail will be extended well into 2020. In the meantime, my client continues to be suspended from work with his reputation tarnished and suffering from stress and anxiety as a result of having these serious allegations hanging over his head.

Our client is a man of impeccable record who has always been held in high esteem in the public service for his honesty and competence. He continues to be dumbfounded by his arrest for what is, at its highest, an employment issue between him and his employer. Rest assured that once he is released from bail or, if charged, once he is acquitted, he will demand an explanation as to what has led to his pre-mature arrest.

Be that as it may, and given that the RGP take extremely seriously all matters relating to the NSCIS Platform, our client wishes to volunteer the following report for you to investigate.

The NSCIS platform, its underlying modules and relevant hardware were sold by Blands to HMGOG. Accordingly, all NSCIS related intellectual property belongs to HMGOG. This position is consistent with HMGOG policy that it is necessary for it to own all software which it pays to have developed. We are instructed that all other software projects developed by Blands for HMGOG, namely the ETB, Education and DSS systems were also sold to HMGOG on this basis.

In respect of the NSCIS, raw data is captured and generated by HMGOG owned hardware. This data belongs to HMGOG and our Client is the data controller appointed by HMGOG for this purpose. We are instructed that our Client is also the designated super user of the NSCIS platform. There are three designated administrative users, which comprise one individual from each of the three law enforcement agencies, being the RGP, HM Customs and BCA. As super user, our Client oversees all NSCIS system activity and exercises control over the administrative users; the three administrative users are limited to activity within their own law enforcement agencies. The effect of this set-up is that no third party can access the NSCIS platform, data or source code without Mr Sanchez's prior approval.

It has come to our Client's attention in the course of this investigation that the Bland Group commissioned a forensic audit of the NSCIS platform and source code by PwC and Infosec in October 2018. This audit was conducted in breach of the Data Protection Act 2004 as it was carried out without our Client's consent as the NSCIS system and data controller. We are instructed that no other HMGOG officer or Minister, other than the Chief Secretary, can authorise access to the NSCIS platform and data. We understand that the Chief Secretary has had little to no involvement with regards to the NSCIS platform and that he at no point consulted our Client with regards to any request by Blands. As far as our Client is aware, the Chief Secretary did not authorise access by the forensic team to NSCIS data and code. In the circumstances, our Client considers that the audit team, through Bland Group, has had unauthorised access to Gibraltar's national security data and NSCIS source code. This may well constitute a criminal offence under the relevant legislation and we trust that the RGP will investigate this thoroughly.

We have copied in the Chief Secretary, Director of Public Prosecutions and Heads of the relevant law enforcement agencies to this letter as under the relevant legislation they may be required to take necessary action against the breach of data and security by Bland Group.

Yours faithfully,

Phillips

My name is Darren Grech and I am the above-described person. I am currently employed as Chief Secretary by Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar (HMGoG).

The first time I became aware of the matter under investigation was at a meeting called by the Chief Minister at the request of the Commissioner of the Royal Gibraltar Police. That meeting was held on 13 May 2019.

In answer to police questions I can say the following:

Mr Caine Sanchez is employed as a Higher Executive Officer (HEO) within HMGoG. Mr Sanchez's role was that of Principal Secretary to the Deputy Chief Minister. My understanding is that, as Principal Secretary, he was tasked to deal with Brexit-related matters, in particular Brexit contingencies. In addition, it is my understanding that he had [redacted] for the National Security Central Intelligence System ("NSCIS").

The contents of this document will be processed in strict compliance with the Royal Gibraltar Police's policy on Data Protection, which has been compiled in accordance with the provisions of the Data Protection Act 2004

To the best of my knowledge, his immediate line manager within the government was the Deputy Chief Minister, to whom I believe he reported directly for all Brexit-related matters. However, as regards the NSCIS platform, my understanding is that Mr Sanchez [redacted]

I have been made aware that on 4 October 2018 the Chief Minister (through his Principal Secretary, Peter Canessa) instructed Mr Sanchez not to allow Thomas Cornelio further access to the NSCIS platform.

Given that this was an instruction originating from the Chief Minister, Mr Sanchez was required to comply with it. In my view, Mr Canessa's position or rank vis-a-vis Mr Sanchez is immaterial in that Mr Canessa was conveying an instruction on behalf of the Chief Minister, whose capacity to issue such an instruction is not in question.

At the request of the Royal Gibraltar Police, I now tender in evidence:

Exhibit DG/1, a copy of a Letter of Appointment (dated 13 August 2010) confirming the promotion of Mr Sanchez to HEO. Paragraph 4 of this document states that "The appointment is subject to Government Security Instructions, Accounting Instructions; Stores Instructions; Departmental and General Orders and the Information Technology Security Policy."; and

Dear Commissioner

The Financial Secretary has brought to my attention the email and letter that he has received today from you.

He has also shown me the reply that he will be sending to you.

In my capacity as Chief Secretary of HM Government of Gibraltar I can confirm that ownership of the NSCIC platform is contested between the Government and Bland Limited.

It is the Government's firm view that it has ownership over the said platform.

Indeed, the Government has always viewed ownership of the platform as forming an integral part of the services for which it pays a considerable amount of money to Bland Limited under the arrangements that have existed.

In your letter to the Financial Secretary you have asked for a Witness Statement on the question of ownership of the platform. I am sending this letter now in order to clarify the Government's position immediately. I will provide you with the Witness Statement during the course of next week. I trust this will be acceptable.

Furthermore, I would be grateful if any further questions that the RGP may have on this matter are addressed directly to me as the single interlocutor for the RGP.

Your sincerely

Dear Darren,

Re: Op Delhi – Hacking of NSCIS Platform

Thank you for your response to my letter and for clarifying the position of HMGoG asserting ownership of the NSCIS platform.

With regards to the witness statement, the investigating team will require as much detail as possible on the subject of ownership. This will necessitate not only the assertion that HMGoG are the legal owners of the platform, but also the basis of that belief, as well as any evidence in support of that position. My officers will assist you if you have any questions about the statement. In this regard please contact Detective Inspector Mark Wyan mark.wyan@royalgib.police.gi

As the police investigation comes to a close, we now have a much clearer picture of the role played by Caine Sanchez and evidence that the investigators argue amounts to criminal misconduct, a view which is shared by the Director of Public Prosecutions. Given the extent of his apparent criminality I would be happy to meet with you and outline the evidence against him. This may assist should there be a need to the issue of interdiction.

I should be grateful if were able to have your statement by the end of this week please.

Yours,

Ian McGrail

SUPPLEMENTARY WITNESS STATEMENT

This statement (consisting of 7 pages each signed by me) is true to the best of my knowledge and belief and I make it knowing that if it is tendered in evidence I shall be liable to prosecution if I have wilfully stated in it anything which I know to be false or do not believe to be true.

My name is Darren Grech. I am currently employed as Chief Secretary by Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar (HMGoG).

I am making this Supplementary Witness Statement further to the first Witness Statement I made dated 21 January 2020.

This Supplementary Witness is made pursuant to a letter I received from the Commissioner of Police, Mr Ian McGrail OTM MSc, dated 14 April 2020. I now tender in evidence "Exhibit DG/3" a copy of the said letter.

In that letter, the Commissioner has requested that I provide "as much detail as possible on the subject of ownership" of the NSCIS platform. The Commissioner stated that this "will necessitate not only the assertion that HMGoG are the legal owners of the platform, but also the basis of that belief, as well as any evidence in support of that position".

Office of the Chief Secretary
HM Government of Gibraltar • 6 Convent Place • Gibraltar GX11 1AA
t +350 20051752 f +350 20040922 e darren.grech@gibraltar.gov.gi w gibraltar.gov.gi

The purpose of this Supplementary Witness Statement is to provide such information.

I would like to state from the outset, that ever since receiving the Commissioner's letter, I have asked for a search to be carried out of all relevant documents and material that may be held by HMGoG on this matter. I have, for now, refrained from contacting Mr Caine Sanchez for this purpose. Those documents and material are still being amassed for me and I expect to have them shortly. I therefore produce this Supplementary Witness Statement on the basis of the information which I have been able to obtain thus far. I reserve my position to complement this information once any further material is provided to me.

In light of the foregoing, in answer to the Commissioner's request I can say the following:

The Bland Group has a wide commercial relationship with HMGoG. This includes an arrangement for the provision of reporting and security services by OSG Limited, a company in the Bland Group, at the various entry points into Gibraltar (the "Services"). That arrangement existed before I took office as Chief Secretary. To the best of my knowledge it has existed for around five to six years.

I have asked to be shown a copy of the written contract between HMGoG and OSG Limited/Bland Group pursuant to which the latter provides the Services to the former. I have been informed that no such contract exists and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true.

It appears to me to be relevant to start by saying that both parties agree that there is a dispute as to the ownership of the NSCIS platform. For instance, in an email dated as recently as Monday 2 March 2020 sent at 20:02 hrs by HMGoG's Financial Secretary to Mr Nicholas Gaggero of the Bland Group, the Financial Secretary stated as follows:

> "As you know at present there is a level of dispute between us as to ownership of the NSCIC system that has been developed for Government. I prefer not to go into the detail save to say that agreeing to the statement of work would effectively signify our agreement with the ownership of the Intellectual Property. This would have an impact not just on this module of work but by extension to the whole NSCIS system".

Mr Gaggero replied almost immediately, at 20:35 hrs, as follows:

> "I understand. Let me take this offline and come back to you tomorrow with a proposal to overcome this issue".

That exchange originated in an email sent by Mr Gaggero to the Financial Secretary dated Thursday 20 February 2020 in which Mr Gaggero made a proposal for the provision by the Bland Group of a further service to HMGoG, namely, a mobile passport scanning application for Gibraltar's law enforcement agencies. Attached to Mr Gaggero's email was a draft Statement of Work which had a proposed clause on "Intellectual Property" which provided that "[t]he compiled final system as well as the source code will remain the intellectual property of Bland Group". It is this that the Financial Secretary contested, and which Mr Gaggero accepted as being contested, in their email exchange of Monday 2 March 2020.

I now tender in evidence "Exhibit DG/4" a copy of the said emails of Thursday 20 February 2020 and Monday 2 March 2020.

Two matters appear to me to be clear from the foregoing:

- there is no written contract between HMGoG and OSG/Bland Group that could have clarified the question of ownership of the NSCIC platform; and
- there is a very clear disagreement between the parties on the question of ownership.

Thus, although there has clearly been an arrangement between HMGoG and OSG/Bland Group whereby the latter has been providing the Services to the former, and even if one were to consider that that arrangement constitutes an implied or oral agreement between the parties, on which I do not express any view, the stark reality is that, as the exchange of emails of Monday 2 March 2020 between the Financial Secretary and Mr Nicholas Gaggero shows, both parties agree that there exists a dispute as to the ownership of the NSCIS platform.

I would like to point out that HMGoG officials I have consulted are unanimous in the view that they never had any doubt that HMGoG was indeed the owner of the NSCIS platform.

For instance, I have been informed and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true, that in or around September 2013 HMGoG purchased from the Bland Group the so-called "Frontier Monitoring Project" or "FMP" system. This consisted of a CCTV and ANPR system to monitor movements at the border which was required by HMGoG for the purposes of compiling data on queuing times at the border. This was for the purposes of an investigation being conducted by the European Commission on border delays applied by Spain. The FMP system captured data on flow at the border. That arrangement was subsequently extended to cover other entry points in Gibraltar. This led to an iterative process whereby the system was repeatedly expanded and redesigned and became what is in place today, namely, the NSCIS system. In particular, I have been informed and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true, that HMGoG was intrinsically involved in the redesign and development of the platform; that all key decisions in relation to the platform were taken by HMGoG; that the decisions concerning the addition of users of the platform were taken by HMGoG; that the cameras used for the collection of the data are all owned by HMGoG; that at all times HMGoG has had complete control over the data; that the data was being used by HMGoG, and that OSG knew fully well that the data was being used by HMGoG, for sharing with third parties including law enforcement agencies in Gibraltar and elsewhere, and not least the European Commission. Indeed, that was the very purpose for the original need of the platform.

I have further been informed and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true, that HMGoG pays OSG/Bland Group a sum of approximately £66,693.75 per month for the operation of the NCSIS platform. This appears to me to be a very considerable amount of money which, it seems to me, confirms that HMGoG was paying in consideration for, inter alia, full ownership of the NSCIS platform otherwise that sum appears to me to make very little sense.

For the sake of completeness, in an email sent to me dated 25 October 2019, HMGoG's Data Protection Officer, Mr Tito Garro, attached what appears to me a standard template draft contract proposed by the Blands Group in the context of regularising the relationship between HMGoG and the Blands Group for the future. It appears to me that the context of this correspondence was the continued disagreement between the parties on the question of ownership of the NSCIS platform. I now tender in evidence "Exhibit DG/5" a copy of the said template. I do not believe that this template does anything other than, in effect, confirm the existence of such disagreement. Needless to say, HMGoG never accepted or signed it.

I am clearly not privy to what arguments OSG/Bland Group have put forward to the Royal Gibraltar Police to allege ownership of the NSCIS platform, let alone the detail of that argument, the basis of their belief or any evidence that they have put forward to support their assertion. In light of what I truly believe to be the true position on that matter, as set out in this Supplementary Witness Statement, such assertions cannot be based on any written contract nor, indeed, on any written or oral evidence and HMGoG strongly contests such assertions.

Furthermore, I have been advised by the Government Law Offices that, in the absence of a written contract setting out the position on ownership in clear and unambiguous language, it is indeed very difficult for OSG/Bland Group to make such an assertion.

Finally, I would like to place on record that on Thursday 30 April 2020, the Attorney General forwarded to me an email he had received from Mr Robert Fischel QC who is acting for Messrs Cornelio, Perez and Asquez. Mr Fischel's email contains a letter of that same date addressed to the Commissioner and addressing the issue of ownership of the NCSIS platform. I can confirm that I have read that letter but that the contents of this Supplementary Witness Statement, which had been largely drafted before I saw Mr Fischel's letter, have not been influenced by it.

Dear Darren,

Re: Op Delhi – Hacking of NSCIS Platform

Thank you for your response to my letter and for clarifying the position of HMGoG asserting ownership of the NSCIS platform.

With regards to the witness statement, the investigating team will require as much detail as possible on the subject of ownership. This will necessitate not only the assertion that HMGoG are the legal owners of the platform, but also the basis of that belief, as well as any evidence in support of that position. My officers will assist you if you have any questions about the statement. In this regard please contact Detective Inspector Mark Wyan mark.wyan@royalgib.police.gi

As the police investigation comes to a close, we now have a much clearer picture of the role played by Caine Sanchez and evidence that the investigators argue amounts to criminal misconduct, a view which is shared by the Director of Public Prosecutions. Given the extent of his apparent criminality I would be happy to meet with you and outline the evidence against him. This may assist should there be a need to the issue of interdiction.

I should be grateful if were able to have your statement by the end of this week please.

Yours,

Ian McGrail
Commissioner of Police

Dear Nicholas,

Thank you for the attached.

The body of the email sets out what you had indicated to me informally and based on this we were keen to progress this matter. However having read the Statement of Work I am unable to sign it or indeed say I am in agreement with this.

As you know at present there is a level of dispute between us as to ownership of the NCIS system that has been developed for Government. I prefer not to go into the detail save to say that agreeing to the statement of work would effectively signify our agreement with the ownership of the Intellectual Property. This would have an impact not just on this module of work but by extension to the whole NCIS system.

I thought we had an understanding to remain neutral on this specific point until wider matters presently under investigation are resolved and brought to a logical conclusion.

You will therefore appreciate that we cannot proceed with this on this basis.

I remain available to discuss these issues with you.

Kind regards

SUPPLEMENTARY WITNESS STATEMENT

This statement (consisting of 7 pages each signed by me) is true to the best of my knowledge and belief and I make it knowing that if it is tendered in evidence I shall be liable to prosecution if I have wilfully stated in it anything which I know to be false or do not believe to be true.

My name is Darren Grech. I am currently employed as Chief Secretary by Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar (HMGoG).

I am making this Supplementary Witness Statement further to the first Witness Statement I made dated 21 January 2020.

This Supplementary Witness is made pursuant to a letter I received from the Commissioner of Police, Mr Ian McGrail OTM MSc, dated 14 April 2020. I now tender in evidence "Exhibit DG/3" a copy of the said letter.

In that letter, the Commissioner has requested that I provide "as much detail as possible on the subject of ownership" of the NSCIS platform. The Commissioner stated that this "will necessitate not only the assertion that HMGoG are the legal owners of the platform, but also the basis of that belief, as well as any evidence in support of that position".

t +350 20051752 f +350 20040922 e darren.grech@gibraltar.gov.gi w gibraltar.gov.gi

The purpose of this Supplementary Witness Statement is to provide such information.

I would like to state from the outset, that ever since receiving the Commissioner's letter, I have asked for a search to be carried out of all relevant documents and material that may be held by HMGoG on this matter. I have, for now, refrained from contacting Mr Caine Sanchez for this purpose. Those documents and material are still being amassed for me and I expect to have them shortly. I therefore produce this Supplementary Witness Statement on the basis of the information which I have been able to obtain thus far. I reserve my position to complement this information once any further material is provided to me.

In light of the foregoing, in answer to the Commissioner's request I can say the following:

The Bland Group has a wide commercial relationship with HMGoG. This includes an arrangement for the provision of reporting and security services by OSG Limited, a company in the Bland Group, at the various entry points into Gibraltar (the "Services"). That arrangement existed before I took office as Chief Secretary. To the best of my knowledge it has existed for around five to six years.

I have asked to be shown a copy of the written contract between HMGoG and OSG Limited/Bland Group pursuant to which the latter provides the Services to the former. I have been informed that no such contract exists and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true.

It appears to me to be relevant to start by saying that both parties agree that there is a dispute as to the ownership of the NSCIS platform. For instance, in an email dated as recently as Monday 2 March 2020 sent at 20:02 hrs by HMGoG's Financial Secretary to Mr Nicholas Gaggero of the Bland Group, the Financial Secretary stated as follows:

> "As you know at present there is a level of dispute between us as to ownership of the NSCIC system that has been developed for Government. I prefer not to go into the detail save to say that agreeing to the statement of work would effectively signify our agreement with the ownership of the Intellectual Property. This would have an impact not just on this module of work but by extension to the whole NSCIS system".

Mr Gaggero replied almost immediately, at 20:35 hrs, as follows:

> "I understand. Let me take this offline and come back to you tomorrow with a proposal to overcome this issue".

That exchange originated in an email sent by Mr Gaggero to the Financial Secretary dated Thursday 20 February 2020 in which Mr Gaggero made a proposal for the provision by the Bland Group of a further service to HMGoG, namely, a mobile passport scanning application for Gibraltar's law enforcement agencies. Attached to Mr Gaggero's email was a draft Statement of Work which had a proposed clause on "Intellectual Property" which provided that "[t]he compiled final system as well as the source code will remain the intellectual property of Bland Group". It is this that the Financial Secretary contested, and which Mr Gaggero accepted as being contested, in their email exchange of Monday 2 March 2020.

I now tender in evidence "Exhibit DG/4" a copy of the said emails of Thursday 20 February 2020 and Monday 2 March 2020.

Two matters appear to me to be clear from the foregoing:

- there is no written contract between HMGoG and OSG/Bland Group that could have clarified the question of ownership of the NSCIC platform; and
- there is a very clear disagreement between the parties on the question of ownership.

Thus, although there has clearly been an arrangement between HMGoG and OSG/Bland Group whereby the latter has been providing the Services to the former, and even if one were to consider that that arrangement constitutes an implied or oral agreement between the parties, on which I do not express any view, the stark reality is that, as the exchange of emails of Monday 2 March 2020 between the Financial Secretary and Mr Nicholas Gaggero shows, both parties agree that there exists a dispute as to the ownership of the NSCIS platform.

Indeed, that was the very purpose for the original need of the platform.

I have further been informed and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true, that HMGoG pays OSG/Bland Group a sum of approximately £[redacted] per month for the operation of the NCSIS platform. This appears to me to be a very considerable amount of money which, it seems to me, confirms that HMGoG was paying in consideration for, inter alia, full ownership of the NSCIS platform otherwise that sum appears to me to make very little sense.

The contents of this document will be processed in strict compliance with the Royal Gibraltar Police's policy on Data Protection, which has been compiled in accordance with the provisions of the Data Protection Act 2004

That exchange originated in an email sent by Mr Gaggero to the Financial Secretary dated Thursday 20 February 2020 in which Mr Gaggero made a proposal for the provision by the Bland Group of a further service to HMGoG, namely, a mobile passport scanning application for Gibraltar's law enforcement agencies. Attached to Mr Gaggero's email was a draft Statement of Work which had a proposed clause on "Intellectual Property" which provided that "[t]he compiled final system as well as the source code will remain the intellectual property of Bland Group". It is this that the Financial Secretary contested, and which Mr Gaggero accepted as being contested, in their email exchange of Monday 2 March 2020.

I now tender in evidence "Exhibit DG/4" a copy of the said emails of Thursday 20 February 2020 and Monday 2 March 2020.

Two matters appear to me to be clear from the foregoing:

- there is no written contract between HMGoG and OSG/Bland Group that could have clarified the question of ownership of the NSCIS platform; and
- there is a very clear disagreement between the parties on the question of ownership.

Thus, although there has clearly been an arrangement between HMGoG and OSG/Bland Group whereby the latter has been providing the Services to the former, and even if one were to consider that that arrangement constitutes an implied or oral agreement between the parties, on which I do not express any view, the stark reality is that, as the exchange of emails of Monday 2 March 2020 between the Financial Secretary and Mr Nicholas Gaggero shows, both parties agree that there exists a dispute as to the ownership of the NSCIS platform.

I would like to point out that HMGoG officials I have consulted are unanimous in the view that they never had any doubt that HMGoG was indeed the owner of the NSCIS platform.

For instance, I have been informed and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true, that in or around September 2013 HMGoG purchased from the Bland Group the so-called "Frontier Monitoring Project" or "FMP" system. This consisted of a CCTV and ANPR system to monitor movements at the border which was required by HMGoG for the purposes of compiling data on queuing times at the border. This was for the purposes of an investigation being conducted by the European Commission on border delays applied by Spain. The FMP system captured data on flow at the border. That arrangement was subsequently extended to cover other entry points in Gibraltar. This led to an iterative process whereby the system was repeatedly expanded and redesigned and became what is in place today, namely, the NSCIS system. In particular, I have been informed and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true, that HMGoG was intrinsically involved in the redesign and development of the platform; that all key decisions in relation to the platform were taken by HMGoG; that the decisions concerning the addition of users of the platform were taken by HMGoG; that the cameras used for the collection of the data are all owned by HMGoG; that at all times HMGoG has had complete control over the data; that the data was being used by HMGoG, and that OSG knew fully well that the data was being used by HMGoG, for sharing with third parties including law enforcement agencies in Gibraltar and elsewhere, and not least the European Commission. Indeed, that was the very purpose for the original need of the platform.

I have further been informed and, to the best of my knowledge, I believe this to be true, that HMGoG pays OSG/Bland Group a sum of approximately £[redacted] per month for the operation of the NCSIS platform. This appears to me to be a very considerable amount of money which, it seems to me, confirms that HMGoG was paying in consideration for, inter alia, full ownership of the NSCIS platform otherwise that sum appears to me to make very little sense.

For the sake of completeness, in an email sent to me dated 25 October 2019, HMGoG's Data Protection Officer, Mr Tito Garro, attached what appears to me a standard template draft contract proposed by the Blands Group in the context of regularising the relationship between HMGoG and the Blands Group for the future. It appears to me that the context of this correspondence was the continued disagreement between the parties on the question of ownership of the NSCIS platform. I now tender in evidence "Exhibit DG/5" a copy of the said template. I do not believe that this template does anything other than, in effect, confirm the existence of such disagreement. Needless to say, HMGoG never accepted or signed it.

I am clearly not privy to what arguments OSG/Bland Group have put forward to the Royal Gibraltar Police to allege ownership of the NSCIS platform, let alone the detail of that argument, the basis of their belief or any evidence that they have put forward to support their assertion. In light of what I truly believe to be the true position on that matter, as set out in this supplementary Witness Statement, such assertions cannot be based on any written contract nor, indeed, on any written or oral evidence and HMGoG strongly contests such assertions.

Cont. of statement of: Darren Grech

Furthermore, I have been advised by the Government Law Offices that, in the absence of a written contract setting out the position on ownership in clear and unambiguous language, it is indeed very difficult for OSG/Bland Group to make such an assertion.

Finally, I would like to place on record that on Thursday 30 April 2020, the Attorney General forwarded to me an email he had received from Mr Robert Fischel QC who is acting for Messrs Cornelio, Perez and Asquez. Mr Fischel's email contains a letter of that same date addressed to the Commissioner and addressing the issue of ownership of the NCSIS platform. I can confirm that I have read that letter but that the contents of this Supplementary Witness Statement, which had been largely drafted before I saw Mr Fischel's letter, have not been influenced by it.

Dear Darren,

Re: Op Delhi – Hacking of NSCIS Platform

Thank you for your response to my letter and for clarifying the position of HMGoG asserting ownership of the NSCIS platform.

With regards to the witness statement, the investigating team will require as much detail as possible on the subject of ownership. This will necessitate not only the assertion that HMGoG are the legal owners of the platform, but also the basis of that belief, as well as any evidence in support of that position. My officers will assist you if you have any questions about the statement. In this regard please contact Detective Inspector Mark Wyan mark.wyan@royalgib.police.gi

As the police investigation comes to a close, we now have a much clearer picture of the role played by Caline Sanchez and evidence that the investigators argue amounts to criminal misconduct, a view which is shared by the Director of Public Prosecutions. Given the extent of his apparent criminality I would be happy to meet with you and outline the evidence against him. This may assist should there be a need to the issue of interdiction.

I should be grateful if were able to have your statement by the end of this week please.

Yours,

Ian McGrail

The body of the email sets out what you had indicated to me informally and based on this we were keen to progress this matter. However having read the Statement of Work I am unable to sign it or indeed say I am in agreement with this.

As you know at present there is a level of dispute between us as to ownership of the NCIS system that has been developed for Government. I prefer not to go into the detail save to say that agreeing to the statement of work would effectively signify our agreement with the ownership of the Intellectual Property. This would have an impact not just on this module of work but by extension to the whole NCIS system.

I thought we had an understanding to remain neutral on this specific point until wider matters presently under investigation are resolved and brought to a logical conclusion.

You will therefore appreciate that we cannot proceed with this on this basis.

Subject: NSCIS

Dear Chief Secretary ,

I am writing to you with regards to the ongoing police investigation concerning the National Security Central Intelligence System (NSCIS) and for which I am grateful for your continued assistance to the team.

I am aware that you have now provided the investigating team with an initial statement, dated the 21st January 2020, and a second statement, dated the 4th May 2020 (which is currently being transposed onto an official template). I understand the first deals with Mr Sanchez and an instruction given by the Chief Minister on the 4th October 2018, whilst the second asserts ownership of the NSCIS platform by HMGoG.

In addition to your statements the investigating team have obtained a statement from the Financial Secretary, Mr Mena, which deals with a decision made by Mr Sanchez to withhold payments to Bland Limited in respect of the NSCIS platform, and a subsequent report which was provided to him on the 16th April 2019. A further statement has also been provided by Mr Canessa, the Principal Secretary to the Chief Minister, again dealing mainly with the instruction which was given to Mr Sanchez on the 4th October 2018.

I am informed by Inspector Wyan that in light of your statement confirming that the ownership of the NSCIS platform is in dispute, he asked whether you would consider making a formal complaint, on behalf of the Government, about the conduct of the suspects subject to the investigation. Your secretary has responded to Inspector Wyan stating that the Government had already filed a complaint. This unfortunately is not the case and in actual fact we were advised in writing last week during one of the suspect's interviews under caution, that even they were aware that no complaint had been made against them.

Unfortunately, there is nothing in any of the statements provided which, as purported owners of the NSCIS platform, makes an official complaint in respect of the computer misuse and related offences which the evidence suggests may have been committed. As you will no doubt appreciate, the investigation is a very serious one and relates to individuals who are suspected of attempting to sabotage a national security platform. Without a formal complaint by HMGoG, as purported owners, this may significantly impact the ability of the police to prosecute this important matter.

Given the above, I would be grateful if you could confirm to Superintendent Richardson or Inspector Wyan the position with regards to taking action against the suspects, and whether you would be willing to provide a statement outlining this position.

Best wishes

Richard

14th August 2020

Dear Commissioner Ullger

Thank you for your email of 13th July 2020 regarding the making of a formal complaint, on behalf of the Government, about the conduct of suspects subject to the investigation regarding the National Security Central Intelligence System (NSCIS).

At the outset, I should like to apologise both for the delay in getting back to you and for any confusion regarding whether a complaint has been made, formally or otherwise.

To be clear, my understanding is that both the Government and Bland were cited as complainants in relevant search warrants, that the Chief Minister had separately indicated to the Royal Gibraltar Police the Government's status as a complainant, and that nothing further was needed.

Be that as it may, let me state on behalf of Government that it is willing to be a formal complainant in this matter if it has not been considered so up until this point. The Government's position as a complainant is as a result of information provided to it by the Royal Gibraltar Police itself, as well as Bland, such that the Government believes that wrongdoing may have been committed against it in connection with NSCIS.

I trust that this letter, together with the witness statements that have been provided to you and which you cite in your email, now suffice to constitute a formal complaint. However, if greater or different formality is needed in order for the Government to be considered an official complainant, please do let me know.

Yours sincerely

Dear Giselle,

In his the letter to the Commissioner of Police on the 14th August the Chief Secretary confirmed that, on behalf of HMGoG, he wished to make a formal complaint in relation to the NSCIS investigation. In order to formalise the complaint we will require a short additional statement. I have therefore drafted a statement of complaint based upon his letter (see attached).

I would be very grateful if you could ask the Chief Secretary to review the attached statement and amend it as he sees fit. Once signed I will arrange for an officer to collect.

Please let me know if you require any additional information.

Kind Regards,

Mark

14th August 2020

Dear Commissioner Ullger

Thank you for your email of 13th July 2020 regarding the making of a formal complaint, on behalf of the Government, about the conduct of suspects subject to the investigation regarding the National Security Central Intelligence System (NSCIS).

At the outset, I should like to apologise both for the delay in getting back to you and for any confusion regarding whether a complaint has been made, formally or otherwise.

To be clear, my understanding is that both the Government and Bland were cited as complainants in relevant search warrants, that the Chief Minister had separately indicated to the Royal Gibraltar Police the Government's status as a complainant, and that nothing further was needed.

Be that as it may, let me state on behalf of Government that it is willing to be a formal complainant in this matter if it has not been considered so up until this point. The Government's position as a complainant is as a result of information provided to it by the Royal Gibraltar Police itself, as well as Bland, such that the Government believes that wrongdoing may have been committed against it in connection with NSCIS.

I trust that this letter, together with the witness statements that have been provided to you and which you cite in your email, now suffice to constitute a formal complaint. However, if greater or different formality is needed in order for the Government to be considered an official complainant, please do let me know.

Yours sincerely

25th September 2020

Dear Commissioner

I am writing to you in relation to the charges advanced against Civil Servant, Mr Caine Sanchez in the investigation conducted by the Royal Gibraltar Police in respect of the National Security Central Intelligence System ('NSCIS').

This letter is further to my letter of the 14th August 2020 in which I confirmed to you, for the reasons set out therein (and based solely (i) on the information contained in your email to me of 13th July 2020 and; (ii) the information you verbally relayed to me in our later meeting), my decision that Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar ('the Government') was willing to be a complainant in respect of the offences alleged against Mr Sanchez and other defendants (Cornelio and Perez). You had clarified in your email that the Government was not previously 'formally' a complainant.

The media has reported that the charges have now been put to the defendants in this case, including Mr Sanchez. Reports have also confirmed that one of the charges against Mr Sanchez, arising from the Government's complaint, is that of misconduct in public office. (Incidentally, the public statement from the RGP suggests that the Government's complaint/s predate my communication to you of the 14th August 2020. I understand, from media inquiries to the Government Press Office that this is an issue that has been raised by Counsel for the defendants with various media organisations.)

In the circumstances, I would be grateful to urgently receive from you details of the facts alleged against Mr Sanchez, the key aspects of how the RGP alleges that the said offence is made out and any documentary evidence in support of the charge/s which stand in in the name of the Government as complainant against him. I require this information in order that:

1. I can confirm to you (with the benefit of careful consideration of the evidence the RGP's investigation has, with the Government's cooperation, uncovered), my position that the complaint should proceed in the name of the Government;

Office of the Chief Secretary

t +350 20051752 f +350 20040922 e darren.grech@gibraltar.gov.gi w gibraltar.gov.gi

2. The Council of Ministers can ratify my decision for the Government to proceed to be a complainant in this sensitive matter and with the benefit of the same careful consideration of the evidence in respect of the Government's role as complainant; and

3. His Excellency the Governor can confirm, or otherwise determine, the re-instatement of the interdiction of Mr Sanchez also with the benefit of the same careful consideration of the evidence available at this stage. In respect of this latter aspect of this matter, I will also be writing to Mr Sanchez to see his explanations. I will be suspending him from all duties (as he initially was pending the outcome of your investigations) until I have received those explanations and the relevant decisions are made about interdiction.

Thank you for your continued assistance in respect of this matter. As you will know, I am advised that this is the first instance that the offence of misconduct in public office has been charged in Gibraltar. I therefore want to ensure that the Government acts and has acted entirely properly in the manner in which we make decisions about being / continuing to be a complainant. Additionally, I must also ensure that Mr Sanchez is dealt with properly, in keeping with General Orders and all his other rights, in the context of his employment as an officer of the Government.

In light of the above, I shall very much look forward to hearing from you at your very earliest convenience.

Given the references at 2 and 3 above, I am copying His Excellency the Governor and the Chief Minister into this correspondence.

Yours sincerely

Dear Chief Secretary,

RE: R v Cornelio, Perez and Sanchez

I write to you in connection with the police investigation regarding the National Security Centralised Intelligence System (NSCIS).

During the course of the investigation the defendants have provided police with voluntary statements in defence of their actions. As investigators police have a statutory duty to follow all reasonable lines of enquiry, including those that may undermine the prosecution or assist the defence. In order to comply with our statutory obligations we are ensuring that witnesses capable of verifying the defences put forward are contacted.

Please find below a list of questions that have been drafted for your attention. The purpose of the questions is to guide you to the issues that are considered important in light of the prosecution evidence and submissions made by the defence. They are as follows:

1. In the event that HMGoG wished to cancel the NSCIS contract with Bland, would this contract always be required to go out to tender? If so, could you please explain the tender process including, if relevant, why some contracts may be excluded from the tender process?

2. Could you please explain the HMGoG software ownership policy? Was/is there a policy of HMGoG always owning software that it paid to develop? Are there now or have there been any exceptions to this?

3. As a Bland employee, Thomas Cornelio was vetted to access the NSCIS platform. Did this vetting expire once he terminated working with Bland on the 1st September 2018? If not, for how long would this vetting remain valid?

4. For the purpose of disciplinary action, can the terms 'trading or commercial activity' as specified in paragraph 6.4.1(a) of Government General Orders be defined?

5. Is there is a HMGoG data storage policy in relation to the storage of data collected by the NCSIS Platform? If so please provide a copy of this.

6. To your knowledge, during 2018, did any officer of HMGoG instruct Thomas Cornelio to keep data or a copy of the source code related to the NSCIS platform safe, to ensure services could run independently of Bland?

7. To your knowledge, did any officer of HMGoG request that Thomas Cornelio maintain the NSCIS platform following the termination of his consultancy period with Bland (post 31st August 2018)?

8. To your knowledge was Bland and/or Thomas Cornelio given complete autonomy over the day-to-day functioning of the NSCIS Platform? Were there any agreed instructions or established protocols in place?

9. To your knowledge, does HMGoG restrict which Bland employees have access to the NSCIS platform?

Further to the evidence already provided to police we would be grateful if you could respond to these questions with a view to incorporating them into an additional witness statement. Where you are unable to answer any questions, such as those that fall outside your knowledge, we would be most grateful if you could direct us to an appropriate officer of HMGoG.

Given that the defendants have already appeared before the Supreme Court we should be grateful for a reply at your earliest convenience.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or require clarification.

Kind Regards,

Mark

I am sorry to say I have completely lost track of time on this. As you know, I had wanted to provide the statement before the end of the year, but the negotiations for the Framework Agreement became all consuming and requiring 20 hour days. Additionally, as you know, the COVID emergency has also kept me completely involved without reprieve. I know that you are aware I have to had one day off these past months, not even Christmas Day. You will be one of the few in Gibraltar who will understand that, as I know you have been working at the same pace on matters of your responsibility. I will seek to now finalise my work on this statement in the next 7 to 14 days. I think, hopefully, that after my evidence to the House of Lords this evening, I should be able to meet that timeline.

With very best wishes, as ever,

Fabian

Dear Commissioner,

Thank you for your email below, receipt of which I acknowledge.

As you will be aware, I am in the most complex stage of the negotiations of our future relationship with the European Union. For that reason, and although you will be pleased to note that I have already started my work to respond to the questions set out by your colleagues in the attachments to your email, I am unable to tell you how quickly I will be able to finalise it. SECOND SUPPLEMENTARY WITNESS STATEMENT

This statement (the 'Second Supplementary Witness Statement') (consisting of 3 pages each signed by me) is true to the best of my knowledge and belief and I make it knowing that if it is tendered in evidence I shall be liable to prosecution if I have wilfully stated in it anything which I know to be false or do not believe to be true.

My name is Darren Grech. I am currently the Chief Secretary of Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar ('HMGoG').

I make this Second Supplementary Witness Statement further to my Supplementary Witness Statement of 4th May 2020 (the 'Supplementary Witness Statement') and my first Witness Statement of 21st January 2020 (the 'First Witness Statement').

I make this Second Supplementary Witness Statement following an email that I received from Chief Inspector Mark Wyan (the 'Chief Inspector') on 25th November 2020 at 16:09 (the 'Email'). I now tender in evidence 'Exhibit DG/6' a true copy of the Email.

In the Email, the Chief Inspector requests from me answers to '...a list of questions that have been drafted for your attention. The purpose of the questions is to guide you to the issues that are considered important in light of the prosecution evidence and submissions made by the defence.'

The purpose of this Second Supplementary Witness Statement is to provide answers to the questions asked by the Chief Inspector to the best of my knowledge and belief and where those questions fall outside my knowledge, I endeavour to direct the Royal Gibraltar Police (the 'RGP') to an appropriate HMGoG officer and/or HMGoG department. I would like to clarify at the outset that numerous of the questions put to me by the Chief Inspector fall outside my knowledge and capacity as Chief Secretary.

I produce this Second Supplementary Witness Statement on the basis of the information that has been made available to me thus far. I reserve my position to complement this information in the light of any new material provided to me after the production of this Second Supplementary Witness Statement.

For greater ease of reference, I set out below the Chief Inspector's questions in bold below followed by my answers to each question.

1. 'In the event that HMGoG wished to cancel the NSCIS contract with Bland, would this contract always be required to go out to tender? If so, could you please explain the tender process including, if relevant, why some contracts may be excluded from the tender process?'

A: Matters relating to HMGoG's tender process are dealt with by HMGoG's Procurement Office. I believe that the Procurement Office will be able to provide the names of the relevant HMGoG officers that conduct the tender process. For the avoidance of any doubt, I do not have any knowledge whether the NSCIS contract would always be required to go out to tender in the event that HMGoG wished to cancel the NSCIS maintenance contract with Bland Ltd or whether some contracts may be excluded by HMGoG from the tender process.

2. 'Could you please explain the HMGoG software ownership policy? Was/is there a policy of HMGoG always owning software that it paid to develop? Are there now or have there been any exceptions to this?'

A: Matters relating to HMGoG's software ownership policies are dealt with by HMGoG's Information Technology & Logistics Department (the 'ITLD') and the relevant HMGoG Minister. I believe that the ITLD will be able to provide the names of any relevant HMGoG officers that manage HMGoG software ownership policies.

3. 'As a bland employee, Thomas Cornelio was vetted to access the NSCIS platform. Did this vetting expire once he terminated working with Bland on 1st September 2018? If not, for how long would this vetting remain valid?'

A: I do not have any knowledge whether Thomas Cornelio was vetted by HMGoG to access the NSCIS Platform, whether this vetting expired once Mr Cornelio terminated working with Bland Ltd, how long such vetting would have remained valid and/or which of HMGoG's Department had responsibility over such matters. I am aware that on 4th October 2018, the Chief Minister (through his Principal Secretary, Peter Canessa) instructed Caine Sanchez not to allow Thomas Cornelio further access to the NSCIS Platform.

4: 'For the purpose of disciplinary action, can the terms 'trading or commercial activity' as specified in paragraph 6.4.1(a) of Government General Orders be defined?'

A: The terms 'trading or commercial activity' as specified in General Order 6.4.1(a) are not defined in General Orders. In my view, a plain interpretation of the terms 'trading or commercial activity' suggests that it may be defined as a wide-ranging expression that likely includes any form of gainful business activity.

5: 'Is there is a HMGoG data storage policy in relation to the storage of data collected by the NCSIS Platform? If so please provide a copy of this.'

A: The appointment of HMGoG employees is usually subject to the Government of Gibraltar Information Technology Security Policy Version 01.2007 (the 'HMGoG Security Policy'). I now tender in evidence 'Exhibit DG/7' a true copy of the HMGoG Security Policy. I do not know whether the HMGoG Security Policy applies in relation to the storage of data collected by the NCSIS Platform. HMGoG's data storage policies and matters arising therefrom are dealt with by the ITLD. I believe that the ITLD will be able to provide the names of any relevant HMGoG officers that manage HMGoG's data storage policies in relation to the storage of the data collected by the NSCIS Platform.

6: 'To your knowledge, during 2018, did any officer of HMGoG instruct Thomas Cornelio to keep data or a copy of the source code related to the NSCIS platform safe, to ensure services could run independently of Bland?'

A: I am not aware of any HMGoG officer who instructed Thomas Cornelio to keep data or a copy of the source code related to the NSCIS Platform safe to ensure services could run independently of Bland Ltd or otherwise. As I stated in my First Witness Statement, I am aware that on 4th October 2018, the Chief Minister (through his Principal Secretary, Peter Canessa) instructed Caine Sanchez not to allow Thomas Cornelio further access to the NSCIS Platform.

7: 'To your knowledge, did any officer of HMGoG request that Thomas Cornelio maintain the NSCIS platform following the termination of his consultancy period with Bland (post 31st August 2018)?'

A: I am not aware of any officer of HMGoG who requested that Thomas Cornelio maintain the NSCIS Platform following the termination of his consultancy period with Bland Ltd. As I stated in my First Witness Statement, it is my understanding that Caine Sanchez had complete autonomy in respect of the NSCIS Platform.

[redacted]

9: 'To your knowledge, does HMGoG restrict which Bland employees have access to the NSCIS platform?'

A: I am not aware whether HMGoG restrict which Bland Ltd employees have access to the NSCIS Platform. Unfortunately, most of the questions put to me by the Chief Inspector fall outside the scope of my responsibilities and capacity as Chief Secretary and, therefore, I do not have knowledge on many of the matters raised in the Chief Inspector's Email. Notwithstanding the foregoing, where the Chief Inspector has asked a question that falls outside the scope of my responsibilities, I have endeavoured to direct the RGP to an appropriate HMGoG officer and/or HMGoG department.

Dear Chief Secretary,

RE: R v Cornelio, Perez and Sanchez

I write to you in connection with the police investigation regarding the National Security Centralised Intelligence System (NSCIS).

During the course of the investigation the defendants have provided police with voluntary statements in defence of their actions. As investigators police have a statutory duty to follow all reasonable lines of enquiry, including those that may undermine the prosecution or assist the defence. In order to comply with our statutory obligations we are ensuring that witnesses capable of verifying the defences put forward are contacted.

Please find below a list of questions that have been drafted for your attention. The purpose of the questions is to guide you to the issues that are considered important in light of the prosecution evidence and submissions made by the defence. They are as follows:

1. In the event that HMGoG wished to cancel the NSCIS contract with Bland, would this contract always be required to go out to tender? If so, could you please explain the tender process including, if relevant, why some contracts may be excluded from the tender process?

2. Could you please explain the HMGoG software ownership policy? Was/is there a policy of HMGoG always owning software that it paid to develop? Are there now or have there been any exceptions to this?

3. As a Bland employee, Thomas Cornelio was vetted to access the NSCIS platform. Did this vetting expire once he terminated working with Bland on the 1st September 2018? If not, for how long would this vetting remain valid?

4. For the purpose of disciplinary action, can the terms 'trading or commercial activity' as specified in paragraph 6.4.1(a) of Government General Orders be defined?

5. Is there is a HMGoG data storage policy in relation to the storage of data collected by the NCSIS Platform? If so please provide a copy of this.

6. To your knowledge, during 2018, did any officer of HMGoG instruct Thomas Cornelio to keep data or a copy of the source code related to the NSCIS platform safe, to ensure services could run independently of Bland?

7. To your knowledge, did any officer of HMGoG request that Thomas Cornelio maintain the NSCIS platform following the termination of his consultancy period with Bland (post 31st August 2018)?

8. To your knowledge was Bland and/or Thomas Cornelio given complete autonomy over the day-to-day functioning of the NSCIS Platform? Were there any agreed instructions or established protocols in place?

9. To your knowledge, does HMGoG restrict which Bland employees have access to the NSCIS platform?

Further to the evidence already provided to police we would be grateful if you could respond to these questions with a view to incorporating them into an additional witness statement. Where you are unable to answer any questions, such as those that fall outside your knowledge, we would be most grateful if you could direct us to an appropriate officer of HMGoG.

Given that the defendants have already appeared before the Supreme Court we should be grateful for a reply at your earliest convenience.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or require clarification.

Kind Regards,

Mark

Executive Summary of Policy Statements

Information Security Policy The information security policy provides a proper strategic direction. This direction has been adopted by, is propagated and will be maintained by the Government.
Overall Organisational Security Everyone associated with the Government of Gibraltar has a role in information security. By clearly defining roles and responsibilities relating to information security, the Government can ensure that proper protection of information assets occurs. Security within the Government depends on cooperation and a multi-disciplinary approach. All employees and persons contracted by the Government are responsible for maintaining a secure environment. Management will provide guidance to create this secure environment through this security policy, approving roles and responsibilities, and providing consistent coordination of security efforts across the organisation.
Asset Classification and Control All Government of Gibraltar information assets must be accounted for and controlled in the proper manner. This applies to both physical and logical assets. These assets are crucial to the Government and must be protected by the proper controls to minimise any risk of harm, disruption of services, or disclosure of confidential information. All information, both electronic and hard copy must be classified per the definitions described in the asset classification and control standards. The classification of information will provide a level of criticality, sensitivity, and protection standards. It will also provide the basis for the level of controls needed to protect the information and/or system.
Personnel Security Employees are the Government of Gibraltar's most valuable assets. They need to assist in creating a secure workplace environment. Controls must be in place in departments to communicate changes in personnel (hiring, transferring, or terminating) and computing resource requirements to the ITLD. These changes must be acted upon in a timely manner.
Physical and Environmental Security Physical security measures must be in place to ensure the physical security and integrity of building facilities and computer centres. Protection measures must be appropriate to the classification level of the assets and information processed, stored, and handled within all Government of Gibraltar facilities.

Communications and Operations Management

Communications and operational management of information resources and systems are essential to maintaining a high level of service. Therefore, security requirements must be developed and implemented to maintain control over communications and operations.

Operational procedures and responsibilities for maintaining proper access, control and availability of systems must be included in all operations functions. All communications and exchanges of information, either within Government of Gibraltar facilities and systems or external to the Government, must be secured in a proper manner commensurate with the information asset value.

Access Control

Government of Gibraltar's information resources are essential to its success. Therefore, access to all information resources will be granted in a controlled manner driven by business requirements. Employees will be explicitly granted access to information or systems. There is no implicit right of access.

The process to manage access to information must include:
- proper documentation, management and responsibilities of all users
- development and implementation of access control mechanisms, both technical and non-technical, to protect unauthorised access to information resources within networked information and application systems
- proper monitoring of access and use of information resources
- proper controls for any mobile access to Government of Gibraltar information.

Controls must be developed, implemented, monitored and maintained to prevent any compromise of the confidentiality, availability and integrity of Government of Gibraltar information resources.

Acceptable Use Policy

In today's business environment, computers, networks, and telephones are pervasive and an essential part of doing business. Therefore, proper use and protection of Government of Gibraltar resources and information is essential for business operations. It is each user's responsibility and obligation to ensure that all computing and communications resources are used only for its intended business purpose and that information contained or transmitted via these resources are protected from unauthorised use, appropriation, or corruption.

Systems Development and Maintenance

The design of the Government of Gibraltar infrastructure, business applications, and end-user applications must support Government of Gibraltar's overall security requirement as documented by the Security Policy. These requirements must be incorporated in each step of the system development life cycle including all design, development, maintenance, and operations phases.

Security and control requirements must be:
- determined during any system design,
- developed within the system architecture, and

- implemented in the final system deployment.

Furthermore all development and support processes for these systems must also support the security requirements as outlined in the security policy.

Business Continuity Management

A Business Continuity Plan will include processes and procedures to recover from any business disruption, regardless of the cause. It is the responsibility of all management to assist in the development and support of this plan. This BCP Management process will:
- Analyse and assess the business impact and likelihood of threats to business functions and information systems;
- evaluate and recommend strategies for the reduction or transfer of risk (including appropriate insurance, where available);
- develop the BCP strategy consistent with the organisation's overall business and security strategy;
- regularly test, review, and update all procedures relating to the BCP; and
- ensure business continuity planning is integrated into departmental functions and daily operations.

Compliance

The Government complies with all rules and regulations as applicable by law. This includes any criminal or civil law, statutory, regulatory, or contractual obligation made on behalf of the Government of Gibraltar. Any security requirements incorporated in these laws, including protection of Government of Gibraltar proprietary information and client/customer data, are essential to maintain compliance.

In addition, the Government of Gibraltar's security and controls environment is subject to continued and periodic reviews and assessments. It is the responsibility of all individuals associated with the Government of Gibraltar to assist in the continued compliance with both security requirements and regulations (e.g. EU directives).

Exceptions to Policy

In instances where there is a justifiable business need to perform actions that are in conflict with Government of Gibraltar policy standards, management will consider providing a waiver for these exceptions. The Government of Gibraltar recognizes that policies cannot be created and enforced which address 100% of all business issues. Exceptions are designed to facilitate new Government of Gibraltar business, or to address areas where technological changes are not addressed by current policies. However, it is the responsibility of management to understand and mitigate risks.

Any exceptions will be reviewed on a periodic basis dependent on the level of risk involved in the exception and the level of mitigating controls implemented to manage the risk of the exception.

In cases of conflict, the provisions of General Orders take precedence over the provisions of this policy.

3.1.20 Record:
Refers to any information generated as a result of a procedure or used in accordance with a procedure that has retention requirements. The Records sections of this document will describe what the record is, who is responsible for maintaining it, where it will be kept and for how long.

3.1.21 Remote Access:
Connecting to the Government of Gibraltar's networked computing resources from an off-site location over a public switched network.

3.1.22 Responsibility:
For purposes of this document, responsibility refers to the person or persons that are accountable for carrying out the prescribed procedures.

3.1.23 Risk Assessment:
The process of weighing the cost/benefit of securing an information asset relative to the value of that asset to the Government. There are a number of measures that can be employed to protect information assets; however, the cost-effectiveness of these measures must be carefully evaluated.

3.1.24 The Official Secrets Acts:
This document must be read along with the Official Secrets Acts, which refers to the Official Secrets Act, 1911, as amended by the Official Secrets Act 1920.

3.1.25 Third Party Services:
For the purposes of this document, third party services include, but are not limited to, data storage and data processing services, hardware/software vendors, business consultants and security personnel. Third party services also include the types of services that cannot be provided internally such as internet service providers.

3.1.26 Third Party Service Provider:
For the purpose of this document, a third party service provider is a provider of third party services, as defined above.

3.1.27 Vendor:
For the purpose of this document, a vendor is a person or Government that provides products or services to the Government of Gibraltar.

2: Information Security Policy

1. Purpose and scope

The Government of Gibraltar's Information Security Policy is intended to provide management with direction and support, establish an implementation framework for security, and ensure compliance of information security within the Government.

2. Policy statement

The information security policy provides a proper strategic direction. This direction has been adopted by, is propagated, and will be maintained by the Government.

3. Information security policy document

3.1 Information security policy document

3.1.1 This document must be read and interpreted (both literally and in spirit) in conjunction with the Official Secrets Act.

3.2 Information security policy review and evaluation

3.2.1 The Information Technology and Logistics Department (ITLD) is the sponsor for the information security policy responsible for enforcement and evaluation of the information security policy.

3.3 Non-compliance with security policy

3.3.1 For Government of Gibraltar employees, contractors and third parties, disciplinary action resulting from violation of the security policy will be consistent with the severity of the incident, as determined by an investigation. Disciplinary actions may include, but are not limited to, loss of access privileges to data processing resources, dismissal of consultants, cancellation of contracts, termination of employment, or other actions as deemed appropriate. Disciplinary actions are coordinated through the Human Resources Department.

3: Overall Organisational Security

1. Purpose and Scope

This policy defines the various roles and responsibilities that are found throughout the Government organisation pertaining to the protection of information resources. This policy applies to all employees and non-employees associated with the Government of Gibraltar.

2. Policy Statement

Everyone associated with the Government of Gibraltar has a role in information security. By clearly defining roles and responsibilities relating to information security, the Government can ensure that proper protection of information assets occurs.

Security within the Government depends on cooperation and a multi-disciplinary approach. All employees and persons contracted by the Government are responsible for maintaining a secure environment. Management will provide guidance to create this secure environment through this security policy, approving roles and responsibilities, and providing consistent coordination of security efforts across the organisation.

3. Information Security Infrastructure

3.1 Authorisation process for information processing facilities

3.1.1 All information processing facilities must be approved and authorised by the Information Technology and Logistics Department (ITLD). All facilities must undergo a risk assessment and each facility must meet the organisational security requirements determined by the ITLD. Any deviation or non-compliance issue resulting in this review must be addressed and resolved within an appropriate time scale as determined by the ITLD.

3.1.2 All departments, in consultation with the ITLD, must submit an inventory of all hardware and software currently deployed or in testing and/or development. This inventory will be checked against current Government of Gibraltar accepted technologies. If any component is incompatible, a project must be scheduled to address modifications.

3.1.3 All personal information processing devices (e.g., employee owned computers or personal digital assistants (PDAs)) must be approved and authorised by the ITLD management if the personal devices are used to store and/or, process Governmental information or otherwise interact with the Government's information or systems.

3.1.4 All personal information processing devices (e.g., employee owned computers or personal digital assistants (PDAs)) will be held to the Government's security standards. Proper controls must be employed to protect Government information and systems and any device must conform to the Government's security policy and technical standards.

it ld

3.2 Co-operation between organisations

3.2.1 Security contacts to appropriate external parties must be maintained. This includes Information Service Providers, telecommunications companies, trade organisations, and any other external organisation. All communications between the Government and third party enforcement agencies must be maintained in confidentiality.

3.3 Independent review of Information Security

3.3.1 The Government's security policy, standards, and security environment will be reviewed periodically. This review of the information security environment will be performed in accordance with standards set by the ITLD. The review will provide assurance on policy and standards content as applicable to the Government, as well as the communication and implementation of the policy. Determining this assurance is the responsibility of the ITLD.

3.4 Information Security Co-ordination

3.4.1 The ITLD group will provide security related services to the various groups within the Government, including management of the overall Information Security program, and coordination of efforts between technical and business persons responsible for information and related security.

The ITLD is responsible for:
- setting and documenting the security responsibilities of the organisation;
- maintaining the Government's Security Policy, standards, and technical controls for the organisation, including the review of policy and standards on a regular basis;
- determining and supporting proper methodologies and processes for security;
- communicating security basics to the general user population, including formalising and implementing a Security Awareness program;
- developing, identifying, and documenting technical security controls for technologies deployed by the Government, including the monitoring of systems vulnerabilities documented by vendors and external security organisations;
- monitoring compliance and enforcement of the Government's Security Policy;
- managing and investigating any security incidents or violations of Government security and assisting other Government groups with the handling of violations; and
- security testing and product evaluation of security elements of technologies, systems, or applications deployed within the Government.

3.5 Information Security Responsibilities

3.5.1 Individual departments (via a Responsible Departmental Officer) will assume accountability for all information, not the ITLD, although the latter may be consulted extensively on all security related matters.

Responsibilities include, but are not limited to:
- Assigning initial information classification levels;
- Periodic reviews to ensure current information classification meets the current business need;
- Ensuring security controls are in place commensurate to the classification;
- Ensuring that information is labelled according to its classification regardless of the media;
- Verifying the currency of access rights;
- Determining security access criteria to departmental data;

itld

- Communicating to the ITLD back-up requirements for the information they possess; and
- Taking appropriate action on security violations, in consultation with the ITLD.

3.5.2 An Information User is any employee, vendor, contractor, or other authorised person who uses the information in the course of their daily work.

User responsibilities include, but are not limited to:
- Maintaining the confidentiality of operating system and application passwords;
- Reporting suspected security violations to the ITLD;
- adhering to the Government's information security policies, standards, and technical controls; and
- Using Government information and information resources for responsible and for authorised purposes.

3.5.3 The Gibraltar Audit Office may assist the ITLD in the identification of security threats and vulnerabilities throughout the Government of Gibraltar. When these risks are communicated to the various Government Departments by the ITLD they must ensure that appropriate countermeasures are addressed.

3.5.4 An Information Security Specialist is an internal (e.g. member of the ITLD) or external person focused on providing security advice. These individuals provide knowledge and experience, outside security resources and information, including but not limited to:
- providing input into new system deployments and implementations;
- providing support during any security incident;
- providing input from outside sources to maintain relevance to the current security industry; and
- providing input for new security technologies.

3.5.5 Departmental heads are responsible for designating a Responsible Departmental Officer (RDO) for all electronic information possessed or used by that Government Department. RDOs must determine the individuals with rights to access and utilise the data. All persons utilising Government of Gibraltar data must comply with the control requirements set by the RDO.

3.5.6 An Information Custodian is any employee, vendor, contractor, or other authorised person who has the responsibility for maintaining and/or supporting organisational information.

RDOs may delegate data maintenance and ownership responsibilities to Information Custodians. When RDOs choose to delegate, service level agreements must be drafted between the RDO and the Information Custodian to communicate expectations and responsibilities. The RDO may designate one or more information custodians based on the level of delegated responsibilities. The Information Custodian must provide the following:
- proper service levels for the RDO;
- assistance to the RDO in determining the best technical solutions; and
- operationally provide assurance for the confidentiality, availability, and integrity of information.

3.6 Information Security Steering Committee

3.6.1 The Information Systems Security Steering Committee shall be comprised of senior managers or their delegates from each of the Government of Gibraltar's major departments, including representatives from the ITLD.

This committee will meet at least bi-annually to:
- review the current status of Government of Gibraltar's information security;
- review and monitor security incidents within the Government;
- approve and subsequently review information security projects;

it, ltd

- approve new or modified information security standards; and
- perform other necessary high-level information security management activities.

3.7 Specialist in information security advice

3.7.1 Key personnel shall be identified to manage and support the Information Security function within the Government. There are typically three types of positions that are required to effectively manage and support the ITLD's information security function:
- Chief Information Security Officer (CISO),
- Departmental Security Officers (DSO) who are part of the ITLD, and
- Departmental Liaison Officers, who are part of the departments and are responsible for coordinating IT issues with the ITLD.

3.7.2 A CISO is the individual responsible for managing and directing the Government-wide information protection program. Specific CISO responsibilities include:
- Developing and maintaining the security policy, standards, guidelines, and procedures;
- Managing an appropriate data, application, and platform classification program including the identification of data and departmental personnel with accountability over applications ("owners");
- Overseeing or approving change and problem management activities;
- Ensuring the coordination of all organisational security related functions (e.g., physical security, personnel security, and the security of information stored in non-electronic form);
- Identifying information protection goals and objectives within the scope of a strategic plan;
- Identifying key information security program elements;
- Identifying key organisational information security initiatives and standards (e.g., virus prevention, use of security monitoring tools);
- Developing and managing an information security program budget;
- Ensuring the timely publication of approved information security related policies and procedures;
- Coordinating information security decisions with facility security regarding emergency conditions, including facilities and human resources issues;
- Reporting on a regular basis to the relevant Minister(s); and
- Supervising information security staff.

4. Security of Third Party Access

4.1 Identification of risks from Third Party access

4.1.1 The Government of Gibraltar has set a minimum requirement that third party service providers adhere to the same access restrictions as internal users. Access to information must be limited to meet work efficiency requirements. Exceptions are at the discretion of the ITLD, including both physical access to the Government's facilities and logical access to the Government's information systems.

4.1.2 All non-Government personnel that require access to the Government's information resources must have a Government employee sponsor them. Access will not be granted until written authorisation is obtained from the sponsor. The sponsor will be held responsible for all actions taken by the sponsored.

4.1.3 Third party employees, consultants, or contractors working directly for Government of Gibraltar shall sign a Non-Disclosure Agreement regardless of physical location (e.g., on-site, remote). This agreement shall be completed prior to issuing access to the Government's network accounts, or access to any Government data.

4.1.4 All contract personnel shall be informed in a written statement of the importance of information security. For third party service providers, a blanket confidentiality agreement must be signed and retained. The Government employee responsible for the contract must ensure that vendors sign Non-Disclosure and/or Confidentiality Agreements.

4.1.5 The Government's Non-Disclosure Agreements shall be re-signed after any modification to existing third party contracts.

4.1.6 Where there is a business need for third party connection, a risk assessment shall be carried out to determine security implications and control requirements. An adequate controls strategy shall be agreed upon and defined in a contract with the third party.

4.1.7 All Government of Gibraltar network connections to third party networks must be configured using a firewall design approved by the ITLD.

4.1.8 Vendors requiring remote access to the Government of Gibraltar information systems shall have this access provided on a need basis. Maintenance ports and modems should be disabled until they are required for use. If a vendor requires access for maintenance purposes, the opened ports must be disabled upon completion.

4.1.9 All inbound connections from external organisations must be limited to specific hosts and specific applications on these hosts. If possible, these specific hosts and applications must be physically or logically segmented from live (production environment) Government networks. External parties are not permitted unlimited access to the Government computers or networks.

4.2 Security requirements in third party contracts

4.2.1 Managers must request background information for unknown vendors that may include customer referrals.

4.2.2 The group responsible for the selection and approval of third party services and a representative from the ITLD must approve all contracted information services agreements.

4.2.3 The manager responsible for contracts with outside data processing services must specify security requirements and potential actions to be taken for violations in the contracts.

4.2.4 Ownership of software developed by outside personnel (e.g., contractors) must be defined in the contract agreement.

4.2.5 Third party access may also involve other participants. Contracts conferring third party access must include allowance for designation of other eligible participants and conditions for their access.

4.2.6 All contracts must include a "Right to Audit" clause ensuring Government of Gibraltar personnel and/or an authorised representative may physically and logically evaluate a third party's control environment.

5. Outsourcing

5.1 Security requirements in outsourcing contracts

5.1.1 The manager responsible for contracts with outside data processing services must specify security requirements and potential actions to be taken for violations in the contracts.

5.1.2 All outsourcing contracts must include the following:
- agreements on acceptable security controls and policies;
- determination of acceptable service levels and availability;
- the right for Government of Gibraltar to audit outsourcer's environment for security controls surrounding Government of Gibraltar's data and systems;
- documentation of physical and logical controls employed by outsourcer to protect the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of Government of Gibraltar data and equipment;
- determination of all legal requirements including privacy and data protection; and
- agreement that outsourcer must test and maintain system security on an on-going basis.

5.1.3 The vendor is responsible for immediately informing the manager responsible for the contract of any security breaches, including unauthorised access to or compromise of Government data or resources. Any Government employee who is aware of security violations by vendors must report them to the ITLD.

4: Asset Classification and Control

1. Purpose and Scope

This policy defines the requirements for information asset classification and controls. An asset is defined as any tangible item owned or controlled by the Government of Gibraltar. This includes both logical (e.g. intellectual property and data) and physical assets (e.g. equipment). This policy applies to all employees and non-employees associated with Government.

2. Policy Statement

All Government of Gibraltar information assets must be accounted for and controlled in the proper manner. This applies to both physical and logical assets. These assets are crucial to the Government and must be protected by the proper controls to minimise any risk of harm, disruption of services, or disclosure of confidential information.

All information, both electronic and hard copy must be classified per the definitions described in the asset classification and control standards. The classification of information will provide a level of criticality, sensitivity, and protection standards. It will also provide the basis for the level of controls needed to protect the information and/or system.

3. Accountability for Assets

3.1 General Standards

3.1.1 The ITLD, in consultation with the departmental heads, must compile and maintain a data repository catalogue or high-level description of all major Government of Gibraltar information assets. This catalogue must be reviewed and updated annually. The catalogue must contain descriptive asset information (e.g., data type, logical locations/associated applications or systems, physical location (if applicable), RDO, data custodial responsibilities, information classification, and a criticality level).

3.1.2 ITLD must also compile and maintain a data repository catalogue on all third party software related assets (e.g., application software, development tools, and all third party purchased software). This catalogue must be reviewed and updated annually. The catalogue should contain descriptive asset information (e.g., vendor, logical locations/associated applications or systems, physical location (if applicable), RDO/responsible party, data custodial responsibilities, information classification, and a criticality level).

Departmental managers are required to assist ITLD in maintaining this catalogue and should communicate any changes or additions to the Information Catalogue.

3.1.3 All production information possessed or used by a particular organisation or department within Government of Gibraltar must have a designated RDO.

itld

3.1.4 During personnel workspace location changes or facility changes, all applicable asset inventory control documentation must be updated to reflect the changes made.

4. Information Classification

4.1 Information Classification Guidelines

4.1.1 Senders of information must ensure intended recipients of that information have the right to know before transferring the information. The right to know principal can be equated to a justifiable business case. If the user needs access to the information to fill a bona fide business need then that user will be given access.

4.1.2 Government of Gibraltar information in any format (e.g., hard copy, disk, tape) must be protected by all employees, contractors, and vendors at the level commensurate with its value as determined by its information classification. These standards mitigate the risk that information of different classification levels be inadvertently combined and released. Correctly classified information with proper controls can be instituted to manage the dissemination of information throughout the organisation.

4.1.3 In order to properly protect information assets all information must be classified into one of the four categories as defined by the Government of Gibraltar Security Policy:
- "secret",
- "confidential",
- "internal use only", and
- "public".

By classifying data, departments can determine the appropriate resources needed to protect the information. The objective is to dedicate greater resources to the information that needs that greatest amount of protection and minimise the impact on the business process.

4.1.4 Sensitive information in electronic form requires special procedures during storage to protect it from accidental or malicious disclosure. All employees must ensure any sensitive information is protected from improper disclosure.

4.1.5 Information cannot be downgraded to a lower classification without undergoing a formal declassification effort sponsored by the RDO. The RDO must determine if any information can be moved to a lower classification based upon the definitions of the classifications. Alternatively, RDOs must determine if an information asset's classification should be raised based upon the definitions.

It is the RDO's responsibility to monitor information assets and continuously review the information's classification.

4.2 Information Labelling and handling

4.2.1 All media must be labelled with its information classification (i.e., "public", "internal use only", "confidential", or "secret"). Media of different classifications must be stored in separate containers or drawers to ensure that inadvertent integration of information from different classifications does not occur.

4.2.2 Electronic information classified "public" can be stored on any Government of Gibraltar computer system. Efforts must be made to separate public and "secret" information.

4.2.3 All "confidential" and "secret" data must be marked at the top and bottom of every page with the classification of the information contained in the document.

Electronic documents must have the classification label in the header and footer of each page. Hard copy documents must be stamped with the classification or a physical label must be applied.

4.2.4 All "confidential" and "secret" documents must have a cover page identifying the classification of the information.

4.2.5 Information labelled "secret" must be secured in one of the following ways:

- Hard Copy information must be kept in an access controlled room and locked when unoccupied. Only authorised personnel should be given access to the room. Non-authorised individuals (e.g., cleaning staff, visitors) must be accompanied in the room. Hard Copy information can also be stored in locked file cabinets with limited access if a secured room is not available.

- Electronic information must be encrypted using a Government of Gibraltar Information Security Organisation approved method when stored on any media (e.g., hard drive, floppy, tape, compact disc).

4.2.6 Media containing "secret" level information must be stored in a locked container or room designated for the storage of such information (e.g., computer hard drives). Instead of physical locking of the media, "secret" information may be protected by approved encryption techniques.

5: Personnel Security

1. Policy Purpose and Scope

This policy defines the security standards that must be applied in regards to personnel. Standards regarding personnel must be followed to ensure that employees are readily identifiable while employed and that access is revoked in a timely manner when an employee is transferred or the appointment is terminated. Additional standards must be followed to ensure the continued awareness of all personnel to their security responsibilities and proper action in reporting incidents.

This policy applies to all Government of Gibraltar employees, contract staff and vendors.

2. Policy Statement

Employees are the Government of Gibraltar's most valuable assets. They need to assist in creating a secure workplace environment.

Controls must be in place in departments to communicate changes in personnel (hiring, transferring, or terminating) and computing resource requirements to the ITLD. These changes must be acted upon in a timely manner.

3. Security in job definitions and resourcing

3.1 General Responsibilities

3.1.1 All employees, contractors, vendors, and persons with access to Government of Gibraltar facilities and information must abide by the standards as documented in the Government of Gibraltar security policy and include security as one of their core job responsibilities.

3.1.2 The Human Resources Department will as far as possible facilitate secure and confidential information handling policies when introducing new individuals to the Government (through induction lectures involving ITLD etc). All new employees must receive a copy of the information security policies and/or security awareness materials appropriate for their position and role within the Government and acknowledge in writing that they understand their responsibilities as stated in the policies.

3.1.3 The Human Resources Department must immediately notify the ITLD upon the resignation or termination of employees. Upon notification of transfer or termination, the appropriate ITLD contact must ensure that the user ID access is revoked or modified. Upon notification of transfer or termination, any items issued to the employee or vendor such as laptop computers, keys, ID cards, software, data, documentation, manuals etc. must be returned to their manager or the Human Resources Department, as appropriate, in consultation with the ITLD.

3.2 General Standards

3.2.1 All users are responsible for making themselves familiar with and understanding Government of Gibraltar's Security policies and procedures. Employees must agree in writing to accept and abide by the standards set forth in the policies. Any questions on specific details of the policies should be directed to the ITLD.

3.2.2 Proper security responsibility is part of the terms and conditions of employment. Violation or disregard for the responsibilities and standards documented in the Government of Gibraltar Security Policy will be grounds for disciplinary actions.

3.2.3 Before receiving their first computer account, all users must sign a statement that they are aware that actions on Government of Gibraltar networks may be monitored and that they give their consent to the monitoring.

3.2.4 Information stored on or passed through Government computer communications hardware is not considered private. Users of this equipment must not have expectations of privacy of any data or information. Electronic mail and voice mails are specifically covered under this policy.

3.2.5 Security responsibilities are extended beyond the premises of the Government of Gibraltar with regard to Government of Gibraltar information. Therefore, employees must maintain confidentiality of information outside work, in home-working or remote access situations.

3.2.6 It is not the intention that ITLD security officers should casually browse all email and voicemail. However, management has the right to examine any such information without prior specific consent of, or notification to, the employee if it is believed that the employee is misusing Government equipment.

4. User Training

4.1 General Responsibilities

4.1.1 It is the responsibility of the Government of Gibraltar's ITLD to promote constant security awareness to all information system users. The security awareness program consists of awareness training and continuous awareness briefings.

4.2 Security Awareness Training

4.2.1 The ITLD actively considers issuing/putting up security advice/warnings for all users who may be affected by security issues. Security advisories include warnings on specific risks including issues such as viruses, social engineering, new technical vulnerabilities and Government of Gibraltar specific risks and countermeasures.

4.2.2 Security awareness comes only through constant exposure to security issues. To meet that objective the awareness program includes, but is not limited to, the following elements:
- Custom video presentations
- Commercially available security videos
- Commercially prepared newsletters
- In-house written newsletters
- Presentations
- Security awareness days
- Posters

- Items such as key fobs, specially printed 'post-it notes', etc., all prepared with a special message or slogan emphasising the user's participation in the security process etc.

4.2.3 All users must be briefed on Information Security Awareness annually, particularly focussing on the amendments. A written summary of the basic information security measures must be provided to each member of staff and a signed copy must be kept on file in the employee folder.

4.2.4 Components of security awareness training include, but are not limited to:

- User ID and password requirements
- PC security, including virus protection, reporting and elimination
- High level overview on the Information Classification programme and the appropriate handling (and destruction) of the information of the different classifications
- Awareness of social engineering techniques employed by hackers
- ITLD's role in Information Security Administration
- Internet access guidelines
- E-mail use guidelines
- Information security monitoring processes in use and compliance programmes
- Whom to contact for additional information

5. Responding to Security Incidents and Malfunctions

5.1 General Responsibilities

5.1.1 If a security incident is suspected or noticed by any employee, the employee must immediately notify the relevant Departmental Liaison Officer (DLO).

5.1.2 If a virus is suspected on a system, the user must disconnect the system from the network immediately, notify the DLO, and work with them to remove the virus prior to any re-connection to network services. It is the responsibility of the user, with appropriate technical assistance, to ensure that the virus has been successfully removed before resuming communications on Government of Gibraltar networks.

5.1.3 If an employee suspects a security weakness or notices an area of exposure to Government of Gibraltar security, the employee must notify the DLO. The employee is forbidden to test the security weakness without the cooperation and involvement of Information Security.

5.2 General Standards

5.2.1 The ITLD must document all reports of security incidents. Information Security must also include a process to review all incidents, document "lessons learnt" and coordinate training and learning sessions for applicable areas within Government of Gibraltar.

5.2.2 For Government of Gibraltar employees, contractors and third parties, disciplinary action resulting in violation of the security policy will be consistent with the severity of the incident, as determined by an investigation. Disciplinary actions may include, but are not limited to, loss of access privileges to data processing resources, dismissal of consultants, cancellation of contracts, termination of employment, or other actions as deemed appropriate. Disciplinary actions are coordinated through the Human Resources Department.

6: Physical and Environmental Security

1. Policy Purpose and Scope

This policy defines the physical security standards for Government of Gibraltar facilities and the information assets located within those facilities. This policy establishes standards that must be followed in order to maintain a minimum level of physical protection for these assets.

This policy applies to all employees and non-employees associated with the Government of Gibraltar.

2. Policy Statement

Physical security measures must be in place to ensure the physical security and integrity of building facilities and computer centres. Protection measures must be appropriate to the classification level of the assets and information processed, stored, and handled within all Government of Gibraltar facilities.

3. Secure Areas

3.1 Employee Relocations

3.1.1 During any relocation of an employee's workspace, the relocating employee must ensure all information assets are protected during the moving process. This includes, but is not limited to, computer and hard copy files.

3.2 Delivery and Loading

3.2.1 Personnel responsible for receiving deliveries of materials must exercise appropriate supervision, so that physical security is not compromised.

3.3 Physical entry controls

3.3.1 All employees and visitors must be authorised for physical entry into Government of Gibraltar facilities. Access rights to all areas must be reviewed on an ongoing basis.

3.3.2 All employees and visitors must comply with any Government guidelines pertaining to identification badges (wherever applicable). It is the responsibility of the department managers and employees to ensure that all employees are in compliance with these procedures.

3.3.3 Physical access to all computer rooms must be tightly controlled. Doors must be locked at all times with only authorised personnel having the combination or key.

3.3.4 Authorised personnel must not allow unknown or unauthorised individuals into restricted areas without escort. Any unrecognised and unescorted personnel within a computer room must be immediately challenged to determine the reason for their presence. Personnel without a valid reason for being in the computer room must be escorted out of the computer room immediately.

3.4 Removal of property

3.4.1 Employees or contractors must not remove property off Government of Gibraltar premises, without prior authorisation. All individuals must be aware that spot checks can take place. All equipment that is removed must be logged out and logged back when returned.

3.5 Securing offices, rooms and facilities

3.5.1 All critical computer rooms and data centres must be monitored 24 hours a day. This monitoring can be by cameras, alarmed doors and windows, people manning the centres, or a combination of the above.

3.5.2 Buildings that house Government computers or communications systems must be protected with physical security measures that prevent unauthorised persons from gaining access.

3.5.3 Computer room access must be limited to only those people with a valid business reason for access. Access must be reviewed on an ongoing basis and revoked immediately once it is no longer needed.

3.5.4 Any hazardous or combustible materials must be stored at a safe distance from any secure area as per any Government safety regulations and manufacturer specifications.

3.5.5 All doors and windows must be locked when unattended and comply with any Government safety regulations.

3.5.6 Computer facility rooms must not be used for general printing, faxing, storage of computers, parts of computers or stationary.

3.5.7 Computer facility rooms must not be shared with third parties.

3.5.8 Backup and recovery media and facilities must be located at a safe distance from main facilities. The backup facilities must be at a distance that would protect it from damage from any incident at the main site.

3.6 Working in secure areas

3.6.1 Any third party access granted to a 'secure area' must be strictly controlled and monitored. All parties with access to the area must be authorised and logged. This includes support services such as cleaning or waste removal.

4. Equipment Security

4.1 Cabling security

4.1.1 Ethernet ports or network cabling must be protected from physical tampering.

4.1.2 All power and telecommunications equipment and cabling must be protected against deliberate or accidental interruption of service. This includes protecting control boxes, cables, wiring hubs and other equipment from fire, vandalism, interception of communications or disruption of service.

it ltd

4.1.3 All Government of Gibraltar network connections must be removed and/or deactivated when a site is being vacated.

4.2 Equipment Maintenance

4.2.1 All equipment must be correctly maintained to provide availability and protect the integrity and confidentiality of information. In accordance with manufacturer's specifications, equipment should be monitored and inspected. Only authorised maintenance personnel are allowed to perform repairs and all repairs or service work must be recorded. If equipment must be sent offsite for repairs, the confidentiality and integrity of any information must be ensured.

4.3 Equipment location and protection

4.3.1 All Government of Gibraltar equipment must be located in such a way as to minimise risks or threat. This includes, but is not limited to:
- threats of theft or vandalism
- risk of fire, explosion, smoke, chemical agents
- loss of services such as power, communication or water
- any other physical threat.

4.3.2 Smoking, drinking and eating in computer processing rooms is strictly prohibited.

4.3.3 Computer equipment must be housed in an environment equipped with fire detection and prevention measures.

4.3.4 Rooms adjacent to the computer facility room must not be used for purposes that may involve high risks (i.e. storage space, electricity room).

4.3.5 The walls surrounding critical computer facilities should be non-combustible and resistant to fire for at least one hour.

4.3.6 To minimise theft and water damage, servers and other IT equipment and communications facilities must be located above the ground floor in buildings, wherever feasible.

4.3.7 All computer equipment must operate in a climate-controlled atmosphere at all times. Backup ventilation plans should be provided in the computer rooms.

4.3.8 Procedures must exist for facilities management to monitor and test fire suppression system test equipment at least every 6 months and document the test results.

4.3.9 All computer room personnel must be trained in the use of any automatic fire suppression systems, the use of portable fire extinguishers, and in the proper response to smoke and fire alarms.

4.4 Laptop Travel Standards

4.4.1 Employees that travel with a laptop computer must not check-in the laptop as luggage when travelling. The laptop must always be hand carried in the briefcase or a carrying case.

4.4.2 Employees that travel with a laptop or other Government of Gibraltar equipment or information, including briefcases must be cautious and keep the items with them at all times.

it'ld

4.4.3 When the laptop is left unattended, employees must always physically secure it using cable locks or other approved techniques, where appropriate.

4.5 Power supplies

4.5.1 To avoid power failures, a suitable electrical power supply must be provided in such way that Single Points of Failure can be avoided. Based on business criticality, the use of a back-up generator should be considered. In addition, recovery procedures must be documented to ensure proper fallback or fail over processes. These procedures should be part of the disaster recovery plan.

4.5.2 Uninterruptible Power Supplies (UPS) must be used for equipment supporting critical business operations to orderly close down or allow systems to continue running. UPS equipment will be checked on a quarterly basis to ensure it has adequate capacity and tested in accordance with the manufacturer's recommendations.

4.6 Secure disposal or re-use of equipment

4.6.1 Any Government of Gibraltar information processing equipment that is to be disposed of, or reused, must undergo a cleansing process before release. The cleansing process must consist of destruction of the information residing on equipment; validation of the process and testing of the process to ensure no data is left on the equipment.

If the equipment stored information is classified as 'secret' or extremely confidential and/or proprietary, the equipment must be physically destroyed beyond repair or restoration before being disposed of.

4.7 Security of equipment off-premise

4.7.1 Management must authorise any equipment used to process Government of Gibraltar information. Also, security standards documented within the Government of Gibraltar security policy still apply to all Government of Gibraltar equipment and information regardless of location.

5. General Controls

5.1 Clear desk policy

5.1.1 All confidential information must be properly archived into secure file cabinets, closets or storage rooms after use. If the confidential information is not to be either used or archived, it must be shredded.

5.1.2 Employees must collect all printed documents (printers, faxes, photocopies) in a timely manner. Printers, faxes and photocopiers must be checked regularly (at least every day after business hours) for prints that are not collected. The items must be secured until the proper owners of the documents are available.

5.1.3 All information on whiteboards or work boards must be wiped after use.

5.2 Clear screen policy

5.2.1 A PC must not stay logged on while unattended. In this case, access to the PC or terminal must be temporarily blocked, e.g. through the keyboard protection facility or screensaver password.

5.2.2 Where necessary and possible, measures must be taken ensuring that after a specific period of time, to be determined in advance, during which the user has not used the PC or terminal:
- the PC or terminal will be logged off automatically, or
- the screen will turn dark, to preclude the possibility of further use without the password being re-entered.

5.3 General Standards

5.3.1 All mail points, both incoming and outgoing, photocopiers and fax machines must be protected from unauthorised access. Care must be taken during off hours to protect against improper usage of these resources.

7: Communications and Operations Management

1. Policy Purpose and Scope

The purpose of this policy is to reduce the risk of errors occurring during systems processing by the careful control of system operations. This policy applies to all employees of the Government of Gibraltar, especially those in an operational function relating to information systems.

2. Policy Statement

Communications and operational management of information resources and systems are essential to maintaining a high level of service. Therefore, security requirements must be developed and implemented to maintain control over communications and operations.

Operational procedures and responsibilities for maintaining proper access, control and availability of systems must be included in all operations functions. All communications and exchanges of information, either within Government of Gibraltar facilities and systems or external to the Government, must be secured in a proper manner commensurate with the information asset value.

3. Operational Procedures and Responsibilities

3.1 Documented operating procedures

3.1.1 Documented and maintained information systems procedures (including procedures for handling systems and application errors, as well as system restart and shutdown procedures) must be used and considered as formal documentation. As such, technical service managers must authorise any changes within the documents. These documents must contain specific instructions on processing and handling information.

If service or application involves any external parties, all contact information for operational or technical difficulties must be included in the documentation.

3.2 External Facilities Management

3.2.1 All operational processes performed by external or third parties must be assessed for security exposures and appropriate risks and procedures must be developed.

3.3 Operational Change Control

3.3.1 All non-emergency changes to Government of Gibraltar computer networks must follow the approved standards. This includes any changes to networking devices or software, cabling, communication lines or similar devices.

3.3.2 Only those persons authorised by the ITLD are allowed to make emergency changes to Government of Gibraltar networks. These changes must be clearly and completely documented and approved within 24 hours of resolution of the problem.

3.3.3 The roles and responsibilities for individuals involved in the change control process must be clearly defined and properly segregated.

3.3.4 Production source code should not be directly changed (where feasible), in response to an emergency change. Instead, a controlled temporary version or a patch must be created and executed until the production source can be changed and the executable updated.

3.3.5 Change requests must be adequately documented via the approved change request form. The change request form must contain the following information:

Determined by the Requestor:

- Nature and business justification for the change
- Nature of defect (if applicable)

Determined by the Developer:
- Estimated resource requirements necessary to complete the change
- Testing required
- Back-out procedures
- Systems impacted
- User contact

3.3.6 The RDO must approve change requests. If the request involves incorporating data from a different application, the RDO of that application must also approve the request. Any significant changes should be approved by the Head of Department.

3.3.7 All emergency requests must be documented in an incident or trouble log. An automated audit trail of the emergency activity must also be generated which logs all activity including the user id making the change, time and date, the commands executed, the program and data files affected, etc. The person making the emergency change must also provide a written description of what was done to address the emergency to their manager.

3.3.8 System and application software backup must be performed before system upgrades and/or maintenance occurs.

3.4 Security Incident Management

3.4.1 Once incidents have been reported to the appropriate parties the incident must be escalated for investigation. Security incidents will be investigated by the ITLD to determine the severity of the incident. Security violations will be followed by corrective action by management.

3.4.2 The ITLD is responsible for following up on the reported issues in a timely and confidential manner.

3.4.3 Non-emergency computer incidents are violations of the Government of Gibraltar Information Security Policy that do not involve an active risk to Government resources or systems.

3.4.4 A summary record of each incident must be maintained.

3.4.5 The ITLD can be called in to assist in other computer related incidents such as inappropriate use of system resources, employee misconduct or other situations. The ITLD can assist in these types of investigations by assisting in the collection of electronic evidence and/or technical investigative processes, for internal purposes only (e.g. disciplining an employee).

3.4.6 The ITLD must maintain a database or records containing information about violations of Government Information Security policies and will report on these violations. All records of policy violations shall be accessible to appropriate senior management, but will not be available to other staff.

In cases where the violation is clearly illegal with intent, notification to senior management must be immediate. In cases where the intent is not clear, the violator shall be advised to correct the violation. A repeat violation must be reported immediately to management and the appropriate disciplinary action will be taken based on the severity of the infraction.

3.4.7 For external incidents or threats, action must be taken to ensure evidential integrity (including electronic evidence) is maintained and the appropriate legal action can be taken, if deemed necessary.

3.5 Segregation of duties

3.5.1 The following IT duties must ideally be performed by separate groups/employees, wherever feasible:

- IT management
- Software development
- Program promotion/migration
- Systems operations / daily administration
- Application and end-user administration
- Helpdesk / support
- Network management

Exceptions to this standard (e.g. due to limited staff availability within the ITLD), must be reviewed by management and authorised.

3.6 Separation of Development and Operational facilities

3.6.1 Ideally, separate, controlled environments must exist for development, staging, system integration and user acceptance testing, and production source and production executable code. If separate production and development environments are not feasible, then the development environment will be created from the production environment by locking the latter against modification by the programmers.

4. System Planning and Acceptance

4.1 Capacity planning

4.1.1 All information systems must meet anticipated capacity requirements. It is the responsibility of the system's development and operational teams to determine anticipated hardware requirements and capacity and monitor system capacity performance. This includes, but is not limited to:
- disk usage and size
- network traffic load
- load balancing

- necessary processing power
- necessary memory requirements

4.2 System Acceptance

4.2.1 The ITLD must ensure that the criteria for acceptance of new systems is clearly defined and agreed upon. The controls should take into consideration:
- the performance and computer capacity requirements
- contingency planning
- testing procedures and methodologies
- documented security and controls procedures
- manual procedures
- determination of impact to overall Government of Gibraltar security and technical architecture
- training requirements for operational and user support
- adherence to the Government's Development and Maintenance standards

5. Protection against malicious software

5.1 General Responsibilities

5.1.1 The ITLD will make the best efforts to determine the origin of the virus infection and whether any other Government of Gibraltar computers have been infected. This insures that the total problem is addressed and computers are not constantly being re-infected.

5.1.2 User possession or development of viruses or other malicious software is prohibited. Non-compliance with this Information Security Policy can result in disciplinary action and legal action.

5.1.3 E-mail attachments and files downloaded from the Internet must be scanned before execution. External storage media (floppy disks, etc.) that have been out of the control of the user must be scanned before use.

5.1.4 The ITLD must approve all executable files before use.

5.2 General Standards

5.2.1 The virus screening software must be enabled on all computers and updated every 30 days. It is the responsibility of the end user to ensure this process is running on their assigned laptops or desktops, even if not connected to the Government network.

5.2.2 Virus scanners and/or detection programs must be installed on all information systems as part of the start-up process. These programs will be updated regularly to scan for new strains of viruses. Where it has been determined that virus scanners cannot be used, the system administrators are responsible for documenting the reason and developing a strategy to migrate to configurations that can support virus filters.

5.2.3 PCs must be scanned on each boot, and the anti-virus software must remain memory resident throughout the computing session. The complete hard drive must be scanned at least weekly.

6. Housekeeping

it ltd

6.1 Fault Logging

6.1.1 ITLD Operational personnel must log all reports of errors or problems with information processing or communication systems. Open errors or issues must remain open until satisfactorily resolved. Also, these logs must be archived and available for independent verification.

6.2 Information back-up

6.2.1 Tape backups of all critical applications must be sent off-site to a remote location daily for essential information and periodically (based on back-up schedule) for normal data.

6.2.2 Each department must ensure that all information related to their work on Government of Gibraltar servers is backed up consistently. Each department must work with the ITLD to ensure that all information is backed up and available to be restored in the case of an emergency.

6.2.3 Each department must have documented backup and recovery procedures. The Departmental Head and the ITLD must approve these procedures.

6.2.4 The ITLD must consider off-site backup rotation and retention schedules for each application that they support, based on requirements set forth by the RDOs. This schedule must reflect the risk assessment of the information being stored.

6.2.5 Users must backup critical files on their PCs by transferring or duplicating files onto the local area network server, which is backed up on a scheduled basis.

6.2.6 The ITLD must ensure that quarterly restoration testing of tape backups are performed. Ideally, restoration testing must be performed with live production backup data on the test systems in the test environment only, where possible/feasible.

6.2.7 If backups are performed at the server or host level, the backup schedule of the most critical application determines the backup frequency of the server.

6.2.8 Electronic messages, like all other network information, must be periodically backed-up and retained by automated devices, where feasible.

7. Network Management

7.1 Network Controls

7.1.1 Network managers must ensure proper operational network controls are implemented. This includes:
- documented roles and responsibilities for network operations
- procedures for management of equipment, both local and remote
- proper data integrity controls when data is passed over public network or communication lines
- proper availability for network operations and services
- consistent and optimised controls

8. Media Handling and Security

8.1 Disposal of Information

it, ld

8.1.1 All employees must use proper destruction methods when disposing of Government of Gibraltar information. The proper destruction method for paper copies of Confidential or Executive information is shredding or incineration. It is the responsibility of the user to ensure proper destruction methods are used or the information is disposed of in secure disposal containers.

8.1.2 Any external firm responsible for disposing of "secret" or "confidential" information must be held to the standards of Outsourcing contracts. This includes Confidentiality agreements, proper security controls and verification of controls.

8.1.3 Electronic information storage devices (hard drives, tapes, floppies, CDs, etc) must be disposed of in a manner commensurate with the information classification stored there.

8.2 Information handling procedures

8.2.1 Government of Gibraltar information must only be generated in hard copy to the extent necessary to complete normal business operations. Copies of information must be kept to a minimum to better facilitate control and distribution. When not in use, "secret" and/or "confidential" information must be stored in locked drawers, cabinets, or rooms specifically designated for that purpose and that are accessible only by authorised individuals.

8.2.2 Physical access to magnetic tape, disk, and documentation libraries must be restricted to employees whose job responsibilities require access. This authorisation list for access to media must be reviewed periodically for appropriateness.

8.2.3 Any data or media waiting to be distributed or produced must be secured to a level consistent to its sensitivity. This includes, but is not limited to:
- printer spools on systems
- printed materials awaiting distribution
- printed materials awaiting pickup for external delivery services
- media, such as backup tapes, awaiting pickup for offsite storage

8.2.4 Manufacture specifications must be met when storing any electronic media such as floppy disks, hard drives or CD-ROMS.

8.2.5 Recipients of data must be clearly marked. Any media sent via interoffice mail, courier, or other means, must be clearly labelled with the appropriate recipient information.

8.3 Management of removable computer media

8.3.1 All media, including paper and digital media, must be stored in a secure manner. This includes physical security to prevent theft, and environmental control to prevent media degradation.
Any computer media leaving the organisation's facilities must be authorised by appropriate management prior to leaving. Media containing sensitive organisational information should be accounted for with an audit log.
If the media's content is no longer required it must be erased prior to removal from site.

9. Exchanges of information and security

9.1 E-Mail Standards

9.1.1 Electronic mail (e-mail) messages must be considered to be the same as formal, written Government memoranda. As such, email messages are considered part of Government records and subject to monitoring, auditing and discovery acts. Therefore, when composing e-mail messages, users must comply with all policies regarding the use of inappropriate language.

9.1.2 Government of Gibraltar electronic mail systems must not be used to:
- send chain letters
- forward security related messages not originating from the Government of Gibraltar's ITLD or engage in any illegal, unethical or improper activities
- further any non-Government business or provide a "chat" forum on non-official matters
- disseminate internal mail addresses to external mailing lists.

9.1.3 The use of 'auto-forward' rules to send Government of Gibraltar business e-mail to a non-Government of Gibraltar computer is forbidden.

9.2 Information & software exchange agreements

9.2.1 Controls must be established over information and software exchange with Third Parties in order to ensure:
- Confidentiality of the information is maintained;
- The intellectual property contained within the information/software is safeguarded;
- The integrity of the information is maintained.

9.3 Publicly available systems

9.3.1 There must be a formal authorisation process before information is made publicly available. This includes publicly available web sites. Software, data and other information that requires a high level of integrity and made available on publicly available systems, must be protected by appropriate technical security standards.

9.3.2 Modification in the use of cgi, asp or other web server utilities must be considered as software development and must also adhere to the change management policies.

9.3.3 Appropriate disclaimers must accompany all publicly accessible information on web servers/websites.

9.3.4 Anonymous file transfers or receiving file attachments from unknown sources, are not permitted; uploading from the internet to the web servers shall only take place under authorisation control. Appropriate disclaimers must accompany downloading facilities.

9.4 Security of electronic office systems

9.4.1 Printers and copiers must not be left unattended when 'secret' or 'confidential' data is being printed or copied. Persons monitoring these processes and/or having access to these devices must be authorised to examine the data being printed.

9.4.2 Where telephone systems are used to transmit or store confidential organisational data (for example conference calls and recorded telephone conversations), the media used to store and/or transmit this must be subject to access controls.

9.4.3 "Secret" data must be printed only on printers approved and designated for this level of data. This requirement applies to each individual printer and not to entire printer classes.

9.4.4 Fax machines must not be left unattended when 'confidential' or 'secret' data is being faxed. Persons monitoring these processes and/or having access to these devices must be authorised to examine the data being printed. Any unneeded hard copies of information classified as "Confidential" must be disposed of properly. This includes waste copies generated from printing, copying, or faxing.

9.4.5 Information sent via fax and email must include a Government of Gibraltar Fax message or cover page with a disclaimer that the information sent is for the use of the intended recipient only.

8 Access Control

1. Policy Purpose and Scope

This policy defines control requirements for access to Government of Gibraltar's information resources. This policy applies to employees and non-employees associated with Government of Gibraltar who access or administer access to information resources.

2. Policy Statement

Government of Gibraltar's information resources are essential to its success. Therefore, access to all information resources will be granted in a controlled manner driven by business requirements. Employees will be explicitly granted access to information or systems. There is no implicit right of access.

The process to manage access to information must include:
- proper documentation, management and responsibilities of all users
- development and implementation of access control mechanisms, both technical and non-technical, to protect unauthorised access to information resources within networked information and application systems
- proper monitoring of access and use of information resources
- proper controls for any mobile access to Government of Gibraltar information.

Controls must be developed, implemented, monitored and maintained to prevent any compromise of the confidentiality, availability and integrity of Government of Gibraltar information resources.

3. Business requirements for access control

3.1 Access Control Policy

3.1.1 Users must obtain permission from the RDO and demonstrate a justifiable business case to access data. Authorisation must be documented via the approved access request form, which must be retained for historical purposes. RDOs will grant access on a need to know basis, as required by job functions.

3.1.2 Access rules must be explicitly documented for mandatory or optional access rights. If profiles are used, each profile must include documentation for access that is mandatory or optional.

3.1.3 The default permissions on any files created must restrict access to the general users of the system. System administrators must ensure the operating system restricts "global" access on any new files created and permission to extended groups of users must explicitly be allowed.

3.1.4 Access controls must explicitly state the rules and rights of the user. All user access must be driven by business requirements. The requirements for access must be communicated to all concerned persons including Users, Information Custodians, Service providers, and ITLD. All access must provide a consistent relationship between information classification and the rights, privileges, and access of the user.

3.1.5 Applicable legislation or regulatory restrictions (e.g. Data Protection Legislation, when applicable) must be considered when creating or issuing access to Government of Gibraltar data or systems. Any system covered under legislation must include the legislative restrictions within the access process.

3.1.6 Where possible, user access must be profiled based upon job description, duties or function. The use of profiles assists in management of user access and provides consistency.

4. User access management

4.1 Review of user access rights

4.1.1 All special or privileged access to systems (such as administrative or supervisor accounts) must be reviewed on an ongoing basis.

4.1.2 The departmental liaison officers are responsible for reviewing system privileges on a periodic basis and must promptly request ITLD to revoke all privileges no longer required by users. Reviews must be performed on an ongoing basis due to the ever-changing business environment and the importance of the data. It is the responsibility of ITLD to ensure that departmental liaison officers are provided with the proper reports to review current user access.

4.1.3 Access rights must be reviewed on an ongoing basis.

4.2 User Account Privilege and Rights Management

4.2.1 The RDO must work with the ITLD to remove access to information as soon as that access is no longer needed. It is the responsibility of the RDO to see that access privileges are aligned with the needs of the department and are assigned on a need to know basis and proper access lists are communicated to ITLD.

4.2.2 Authorisation for privileged access must be received from RDOs prior to access being given.

4.2.3 Any special privileges granted to users on technical platforms (e.g., administration accounts for operating systems, databases or applications or accounts that can override system or application controls) must be based upon function and job necessity. These privileges must only be allocated on a need-to-have basis for technical support or operations processes.

4.2.4 Upon termination or resignation of any employee, it is the responsibility of the employee's departmental management to promptly review any paper or computer files of the employee. The manager must also assign proper ownership of the information to relevant persons as well as determine proper disposal of unneeded files.

4.2.5 Development of technical solutions must be sought to avoid the need for unnecessary or extensive privileged access.

4.2.6 All users that have access to privileged accounts must have their own personal accounts for normal business use. Therefore, system administrators and employees with access to the privileged accounts must use their personal accounts for conducting non-privileged activities.

4.3 User Account/Password Management

4.3.1 User accounts that have not been accessed for 90 days will automatically be disabled. ITLD must inform the RDO of inactive accounts at regular intervals.

4.3.2 All access to computer systems must be controlled by an authentication method involving a minimum of a Username/Password combination. The Username/Password combination must provide verification of the user's identity.

4.3.3 To the extent feasible, new users will be forced by the system they are accessing to change their initial password to one that meets Password standards.

4.3.4 Users must be forced to change passwords every sixty (60) days. The ITLD, shall, to the extent feasible, enforce this through technical means by deploying password aging on systems. Users will not use cyclical passwords. For example, users cannot add a numeric at the end of the password in sequence. Users should try to use various password schemes as outlined in the other Password Standards.

4.3.5 For users with similar duties, user groups or role based access controls (RBAC) will be used to assign permissions and accesses to the individual accounts.

4.3.6 Users will generally be limited to one user ID for access to any systems, except in special circumstances authorised by the ITLD. Government of Gibraltar account naming standards must be followed across all systems. Any deviations from this, including application or special use accounts, must be approved by the ITLD.

4.3.7 Where technically feasible, systems must use password history techniques to maintain a password history of users. The history file must contain the last 13 passwords of users and store them in encrypted form.

4.3.8 All users of Government computer systems must be supplied with a unique user ID that is valid throughout the user's employment. Unique user IDs may not be reused for other individuals even after termination of the original employee.

4.3.9 Unless authorised to the user, systems must not allow users to log in more than once on the same system.

4.4 User registration

4.4.1 Computer system administrators must create initial passwords that are a minimum of six (6) characters in length and are comprised of letters, numbers, and special characters, with at least one uppercase letter.

4.4.2 Initial passwords must not be easily associated with Government of Gibraltar or the user (e.g., social security number, employee number, address, numerical equivalent of name)

4.4.3 User registration and de-registration procedures must be implemented when granting access rights for all information systems.
These procedures must be documented and include:
- proper authorisation from RDOs to gain access to systems or information resources;
- sign off and verification that access granted is the same as the access requested; and
- maintaining a record of all user registration history.

it ltd

5. User Responsibilities

5.1 General Responsibilities

5.1.1 Screensavers on all PCs and servers must be implemented. The screensaver must activate after 5 minutes of inactivity.

5.1.2 All activity performed under a user ID is the responsibility of the employee assigned to that user ID. Therefore, users must not share their account information with others or allow other employees to use their account to perform any actions. Also, users are forbidden to perform any actions under any user ID other than their own.

5.1.3 Passwords must never be stored in clear text. Therefore, users must not hard code any username/passwords in scripts or clear text files such as system shell scripts, batch jobs or word processing documents.

5.2 Password Standards

5.2.1 Computer users must create passwords that are a minimum of six (6) characters in length and be comprised of letters, numbers, and special characters to the extent possible. An ideal password is created from a pass phrase. For example the phrase "security is vital to the Government and me" might result in the password of "siv2tGam!" by using the first letter of each word in the phrase, substituting the number 2 for "to", using an uppercase "G" and adding the exclamation mark.

5.2.2 Passwords must not be easily associated with the Government of Gibraltar or the user (e.g., social security number, employee number, address, numerical equivalent of name, family names, pet names). Also, passwords should not be based upon month/year combinations such as "jan07" or "april2007".

5.2.4 User ID must be explicitly assigned to an individual. No group or shared accounts are permissible. The Departmental Heads and the ITLD must approve exceptions to this standard.

6. Network Access control

6.1 External Network Connectivity

6.1.1 All Government of Gibraltar network connections to the Internet must be firewalled to prevent unauthorised entry to the Government of Gibraltar network. The ITLD must approve all external connections.

6.1.2 All connections between Government of Gibraltar networks and the Public Internet must be proxied by an application proxy. Only connections originating from within the Government of Gibraltar network are allowed through the firewall. Some inbound traffic may be necessary for connections that originate inside Government of Gibraltar due to technical requirements. These connections must be addressed on a service-by-service basis and must be approved by ITLD.

6.1.3 Access originating from the Internet into the Government of Gibraltar network is not allowed without some form of token or certificate based unique authentication.

it ltd

6.1.4 The Government of Gibraltar internal network addressing scheme must not be visible to external connections.

6.1.5 To eliminate many of the vulnerabilities inherent with TCP/IP, routers, and firewalls must not accept external connections that appear to be coming from internal addresses.

6.2 General Standards

6.2.1 Servers with protocols that allow packet forwarding or re-routing must be configured to disallow this function. For example, 'IP forwarding' and the 'passive' feature of FTP will be disabled.

6.2.3 Only TCP/IP based protocols must be allowed to cross Government of Gibraltar network boundaries unencrypted.

6.3 Policy on use of network services

6.3.1 All internal and external network connections must be compliant with the Government policies on network services and access control. Therefore, it is the responsibility of ITLD to determine the following:
- What elements of the network may be accessed;
- The authorisation procedure for gaining access; and
- Controls to protect the network.

6.3.2 Network services on systems must be disabled unless a specific business reason for the service is needed and documented. Risks associated with the network service must be determined and resolved prior to implementation of the service. Some services are strictly forbidden including TFTP and IRC/Chat.

6.4 Remote Access

6.4.1 Systems providing remote access to the Government's system resources must use Enhanced Authentication. Remote users must need a user-ID, a password and another authentication method for access.

6.4.2 All remote access points into the Government of Gibraltar's environment must be assessed and approved by the ITLD. The use of non-authorised modems or remote access solutions is strictly forbidden and a violation of the Government of Gibraltar security policy. Therefore, no unauthorised modems or remote access software may be used without the express written consent of the ITLD.

6.5 Segregation in networks

6.5.1 Full unrestricted connections of different networks are not allowed. Separation of networks, dependent on information class, must be implemented to increase the level of security provided during information transport/storage, including remote access points. Where technically feasible, strict routing architectures must be used to limit remote access to specific necessary points in the network.

7. Operating system access control

7.1 General Standards

7.1.1 For high security environments it may be necessary to limit session initiation to specific terminals or locations. In this case, unique device identifiers must be associated with the approved connection points or direct connection to a server may be required.

7.1.2 Users with access to super user or privileged accounts must use their normal account to log into systems. Administrators must then switch the current account to the privileged account.

7.1.3 Users given command line access to systems must, where feasible, be limited to the access or service needed. This may include restricted shells, application menu restrictions, and the like.

7.1.4 All users must have a unique user id. The use of shared accounts or guest accounts must be subject to authorisation. Each user account must have an associated password known only to the approved owner. Additional security can be added to the process by the use of, for example, smart cards and biometrics.

7.2 Limitation of connection time

7.2.1 Key applications must be subject to access time limitation, wherever feasible. The operating window must be structured around only those times identified as necessary for completion of the business process. At all other times access to the application must be disabled/suspended.

7.3 Password management system

7.3.1 DSOs must perform password testing at appropriate intervals (e.g. monthly) to ensure proper passwords are being used. This includes the use of password cracking tools. This process must be controlled in the strictest manner and subject to explicit supervision.

7.3.2 All computers, databases, or applications that store user account and password information must be secured in the strictest manner. Access to the user account base must be restricted to only authorised administrators. This access must be reviewed on an ongoing basis along with a technical review of the host/server/user store.

7.4 System Inactivity

7.4.1 Systems sessions that are not active for thirty (30) minutes must be automatically terminated, where feasible. For systems that cannot automatically terminate connections, password protected screensavers, or terminal locks must be activated. Users must not attempt to circumvent the use of these controls.

7.4.2 PCs/laptops and Servers, when applicable, must be configured with a password protected screen-saver. The screen-saver must require the entry of a password after a PC/laptop or Server console has been left idle for 5 minutes.

7.4.3 Systems must force users off after two (2) hours of inactivity. The user should have to log back into the system.

7.5 System Logon Standards

7.5.1 Upon three (3) consecutive authentication failures, users must be locked out of the resource in which they are attempting to gain access to and will have to have their account manually reset.

7.5.2 Before being given the opportunity to log onto a computer facility, intended users must be presented with a login banner. This provides users a chance to terminate the login before accessing a computer for which they are not authorised. This also provides the Government of Gibraltar legal grounds to prosecute unauthorised access.

7.5.3 Every login banner on Government of Gibraltar computers must include a special notice which includes:

(1) the system is to be used only by authorised users
(2) by continuing to use the system, the user represents that he/she is an authorised user
(3) use of this system constitutes consent to monitoring

7.5.4 Identification of the Government, network, location, or host must not appear prior to a successful login.

7.5.5 Systems must be configured to not give any information on an unsuccessful login. This includes identifying which portion of login sequence (user-ID or password) was incorrect.

7.6 Use of system utilities

7.6.1 Any utilities that enable system administrators to perform low-level maintenance tasks on a system must:
- Be stored off-line if not required on a daily basis;
- Have access restricted to a very limited group of authorised users; and
- Include logging facilities to record their use.

8. Application Access Control

8.1 Information access restriction

8.1.1 All users must only be provided with the minimum level of access required to perform their duties. This should be achieved using a combination of:
- Logical security within an application
- Limiting the availability of unauthorised options
- Restricting access to command line driven navigation
- Restricting application content and functionality
- Limiting file permissions, e.g. read-only
- Control of output distribution

8.2 Sensitive System Isolation (ISO/IEC 17799 9.6.2)

8.2.1 Based on information class, networks may require separation. Where very sensitive information is processed, a system must be physically segregated with no direct connection to other networks or systems holding less critical data.

9. Monitoring system access and use

9.1 Clock Synchronisation

9.1.1 System clocks must be synchronised to an agreed standard to ensure the accuracy of audit logs. A procedure must be implemented to ensure that any 'drift' must be corrected.

9.2 General Responsibilities

9.2.1 System administrators must perform system monitoring as part of their daily work routine. This includes, but is not limited to, monitoring system usage and performance, processing, user access and overall system services.

Automated tools may be used for this as long as they have been tested extensively and accepted by the ITLD.

9.3 Monitoring System Use

9.3.1 ITLD System Administrators must ensure that monitoring tools are installed in order to log activity and security violations against critical production data. Only authorised individuals with prior management approval will use network or screen monitoring software or hardware.

9.4 System Event Logs

9.4.1 User access activity records must be kept for those users that access information classified as "confidential" or "secret". The RDO must review these records on a monthly basis and these records must be maintained in accordance with the guidelines set by any applicable Government Records Management Program.

9.4.2 All security relevant events must be logged on any computer or communications system handling confidential or executive information, including but not limited to, login failures, data modifications, use of privileged accounts, changes to access models or file permissions, modification to installed software, or the operating system, changes to user permissions, or privileges or use of any privileged system function.

9.4.3 Security logs must be retained for a minimum of 3 months. Access to security logs during this time must be allowed for only authorised persons. Logs should be retained on read-only media if possible.

10. Mobile computing and telenetworking

10.1 General Responsibilities

10.1.1 Users who work with Government of Gibraltar information from home must understand what security threats exist in their home office environment and take appropriate measures to ensure the security of the information in that environment.

10.1.2 Remote control software such as pcAnywhere or Carbon Copy is strictly prohibited from use on Government of Gibraltar computing resources without the express written consent of the ITLD.

10.2 General Standards

10.2.1 All of the Government of Gibraltar policies applicable for in-office operations still apply when working from home when home equipment is used for Government work. This includes, but is not limited to, standards outlined in the security policies.

10.3 Remote Access

10.3.1 Additional security measures must be implemented to protect data held on or accessed via remote devices, e.g. laptop computers, and mobile communication devices. All laptop computers must include:
- Encryption of storage media (when possible)
- PowerOn passwords
- Devices for physically securing mobile equipment
- Protection of data being transmitted to / from the mobile device, e.g. VPN, SSL or PGP
- Additional logical authentication controls to gain access to networks, e.g. SecureID Tokens

Additionally, mobile or remote users must be trained specifically in security measures to be taken for remote access.

10.3.2 Users must use Government of Gibraltar configured computers to access or connect to the Government networks. Home PCs, personal laptops or other non-Government of Gibraltar computers are prohibited.

10.3.3 Only users that have a justifiable business case for remote access will be authorised for that access by the RDO.

10.3.4 All dial-in/dial-out access ports must be strictly controlled. Any user who requires an individual analog line for dial-in/dial-out must obtain approval for the Information Security Organisation. Dial-up lines should be configured to "dial-out" only, to the extent possible. Dial-in access to Government of Gibraltar resources must be restricted to the centrally administered and approved dial-in solution.

9: Acceptable Use Policy

1. Policy Purpose and Scope

This policy defines the appropriate use of computing and communications resources. This policy addresses the information stored on or transferred via computers, networks, telephones or other communications devices, as well as the usage and protection of the physical assets themselves. This policy applies to all employees and non-employees associated with Government of Gibraltar.

2. Policy Statement

In today's business environment, computers, networks, and telephones are pervasive and an essential part of doing business. Therefore, proper use and protection of Government of Gibraltar resources and information is essential for business operations. It is each user's responsibility and obligation to ensure that all computing and communications resources are used only for its intended business purpose and that information contained or transmitted via these resources are protected from unauthorised use, appropriation, or corruption.

3. Acceptable Usage of Internet

3.1 General Standards

3.1.1 Internet connectivity will be granted to users with valid business purposes and proper justification and authorisation. Public and workstation Internet access must be re-authorised periodically to ensure that Internet access is still required. The ITLD is responsible for approving any new information servers. A viable business justification is necessary before an information server is put into production. Additionally, it is necessary to evaluate the security risks associated with utilising such a server.

3.1.2 Internet access is made available to Government of Gibraltar employees to provide resources for activities directly related to the discharge of responsibilities of the Government. This level of access is expected to enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of Government work production. Refer to the Non-Business Acceptable Use standard within this policy for details regarding personal use of the Internet.

3.1.3 Users must be familiar with the risks associated with accessing the Internet. This includes the lack of confidentiality or integrity of any information accessed or sent via the Internet.

3.1.4 Users must not disseminate any data classified as Internal Use Only, Confidential or Secret over the Internet.

3.1.5 Users must not use Government addresses to post information on public Internet sites that are not approved.

3.1.6 Proper approval is necessary before moving new information to the information servers. A Webmaster must be delegated and is responsible for moving approved information to the information server. Normal Government change control procedures will be followed.

3.1.7 Information and/or application servers will not be implemented if the security risks outweigh the benefit of providing such access via the Internet.

3.1.8 Authorised users must use the Government-provided LAN hardware and software as a gateway to the Internet.

3.1.9 The ITLD must approve all web servers and electronic bulletin boards. The Media Director or any other authorised person must approve information placed on these web servers or bulletin boards.

3.1.10 Any information posted to discussion groups bearing the Government of Gibraltar's address must only reflect the Government of Gibraltar's positions and will be approved by the ITLD or relevant Head of Department.

3.1.11 Users must be aware that when browsing the WWW, each web server can obtain information relating to the individual, the computer that he/she was using, and the other web locations that have been visited during this browsing session. Therefore, discretion must be used in determining which web sites to visit from a Government of Gibraltar computer.

3.1.12 Information transferred from the Government of Gibraltar's email address will be treated with the same standards as information on Government of Gibraltar's letterhead. Internet use will be monitored periodically. If there is reason to believe misuse or violations are occurring, the Government of Gibraltar may review the contents of Internet communications.

4. Non-business use of Government resources

4.1 General Standards

4.1.1 While Government of Gibraltar assets are intended primarily for business use, a small amount of non-business use of Government resources is anticipated and is acceptable. ITLD is responsible for determining at what point non-business use becomes "abuse" and/or affects job performance. These exceptions will be kept to a minimum and must not cause Government of Gibraltar to need additional resources or network bandwidth. None of these exceptions include use for private commercial enterprises or personal gain.

4.1.2 Telephones and voice mail may be used for minor personal business as long as it does not distract from Government of Gibraltar work.

4.1.3 Personal e-mail may be sent/received from Government of Gibraltar computers as long as it does not distract from Government work. All e-mail must be in good taste and comply with all policies regarding the use of inappropriate language and topics.

4.1.4 Non-business use of the World Wide Web (WWW) can be used on a limited basis as long as it does not distract from Government of Gibraltar work. Sites that could be considered offensive are strictly prohibited.

10: Systems Development and Maintenance

1. Policy Purpose and Scope

This policy includes all standards relating to systems development and maintenance.

This policy applies to all employees responsible for design, development, maintenance, and operations of Government of Gibraltar's information systems.

2. Policy Statement

The design of the Government of Gibraltar infrastructure, business applications, and end-user applications must support Government of Gibraltar's overall security requirement as documented by the Security Policy. These requirements must be incorporated in each step of the system development life cycle including all design, development, maintenance, and operations phases.

Security and control requirements must be:
- determined during any system design.
- developed within the system architecture, and
- implemented in the final system deployment.

Furthermore all development and support processes for these systems must also support the security requirements as outlined in the security policy.

3. Security requirements of systems

3.1 Change Control

3.1.1 The ITLD must retain all change request forms, program change test plans, and testing results consistent with Government of Gibraltar Record Retention standards.

3.1.2 Testing procedures must be properly documented on the change request forms. If problems are noted during the testing process, the developer must document the problem, make appropriate modifications in the development environment, and submit it for retesting.

3.2 General Standards

3.2.1 System default settings must be reviewed prior to installation to determine potential security holes. Settings that could potentially compromise security must be changed prior to the system being placed in a production environment.

3.2.2 Since they are well known to the computer community, all vendor supplied default passwords must be changed prior to the system being placed in a production environment.

3.2.3 Network services should only be enabled for documented business reasons. This includes TCP/IP services such as FTP, HTTP and Telnet. Administrators must disable any services that are not required. Services that are enabled must be subjected to a "risk assessment" process to identify the security risks associated with enabling the service.

it, ltd

3.3 Security requirements analysis & specification

3.3.1 For all systems developed within or for Government of Gibraltar, security requirements must be determined prior to the application development phase. During the system design phase, RDOs and the ITLD must determine the proper control environment of the application. These requirements must include, but are not limited to:
- Access control,
- Authorisation,
- System criticality,
- Information Classification,
- System availability, and
- Information Confidentiality and Integrity.

4. Security in application systems

4.1 Application Development and Testing

4.1.1 The developer must supervise unit testing in the testing environment. Testing procedures must be properly documented on the change request forms. The Developer's Manager must perform an independent review of unit test results. The Developer's Manager must evidence formal sign-off of the test results on the change request form.

4.1.2 All significant modifications, major enhancements, and new systems must be integration tested prior to installation of the software in production. System stress testing and volume testing must be performed, and in some cases, parallel testing will be required. Integration testing must be conducted in a separate, independently controlled environment.

4.1.3 During integration testing, logical access restrictions must ensure that developers have no update access and the code being tested cannot be modified without written consent from the user. Copies of production data or pre-designed test datasets must be used for testing purposes.

4.1.4 During acceptance testing, logical access restrictions must ensure that developers have no update access and that the code being tested cannot be modified without the written consent of the user. If problems are noted, the user will document the problem. The developer must make appropriate modifications in the development environment and submit it for retesting.

4.1.5 All significant modifications, major enhancements and new systems must be acceptance tested by the appropriate users prior to installation of the software in production. The user acceptance plan will include tests of all major functions, processes, and interfacing systems. Testing procedures must be properly documented on the change request forms.

4.2 Control of internal processing

4.2.1 To prevent the corruption of data by processing errors or by malicious acts, validation checks must be built in to key applications.

4.3 Input data validation

4.3.1 All applications requiring data input must include data validation checks. These checks include:
- Error detection (e.g., hash totals and missing values);
- Checks for invalid characters or inconsistent data (e.g., text in number fields); and
- Logical inaccuracy (e.g., impossible dates or contradiction).

4.3.2 All data must be reviewed on a periodic basis for:
- Accuracy (e.g., using exception reports);
- Unauthorised changes (e.g., comparing data to hard copy input documents); and
- Currency comparison with other data sources (e.g., re-requesting the data from the data subject).

4.4 Message authentication

4.4.1 In all instances where key or sensitive data is transmitted from one system to another, message authentication must be enabled. Message authentication detects unauthorised changes to the content of transmitted messages

4.5 Output data validation

4.5.1 Where information is outputted from a computer system, checks must be performed to ensure it is:
- Complete via reconciliation controls;
- Correct via plausibility checking or sample checking; and
- Private information that is only available to the appropriate recipient.

5. Cryptographic controls

5.1 Digital signatures

5.1.1 The authenticity and integrity of electronic documents can be verified using digital signatures.

5.2 Encryption Policy

5.2.1 Data labelled 'public' does not require encryption.

5.2.2 Data labelled 'secret' must be encrypted whenever it is transmitted over any network, computer, or telephone.

5.2.3 Data labelled "confidential" must be encrypted whenever it travels over any network not completely under the control of Government of Gibraltar.

5.3 Key Management

5.3.1 Cryptographic keys must be managed and protected effectively with the use of standards, policies and other methods. This protection must include:
- the creation and issuing of keys,
- the confidentiality of private keys,

it'ld

- the integrity of public keys,
- revocation of keys,
- recovery of lost keys,
- the archiving of old keys,
- destruction of no longer needed keys, and
- compliance with any and all legal requirements as required by local jurisdiction.

5.4 Policy on the use of cryptographic controls

5.4.1 Assessments of risks and existing controls must be performed before cryptographic protections are implemented on a system. This will determine the level of cryptography that may be needed.

6. Security of system files

6.1 Access control to program source library

6.1.1 Libraries/directories containing application source code must be secured from unauthorised access using the following controls:
- Source code must not be stored on operational systems (when possible);
- Access controls developed to prevent IT staff from gaining access to source code in an uncontrolled manner;
- Implementation of change control procedures;
- Separation of live source from development source libraries;
- Authorisation for updating program source libraries; and
- Archives maintained from previous versions.

6.2 Protection of system test data

6.3.1 Where operational data is copied to a test system, it must be subject to a similar level of control as the live version. The controls must include:
- Authorisation,
- Deletion after testing has been completed,
- Audit log maintained of activity and personnel, and
- Access controls to ensure confidentiality is maintained.

7. Security in development and support processes

71 General Standards

7.3.1 All new or modified software must be adequately tested and approved consistent with Government of Gibraltar's Change and Problem Management standards before deployment into Government of Gibraltar's production environment.

7.4 Technical review of operating system changes

7.4.1 All operating system releases must be checked for functionality and security. Implementations must include back-out planning and review of security controls.

11: Business Continuity Management

1. Policy Purpose and Scope

A business continuity plan (BCP) is a comprehensive set of business strategies and actions designed to minimise the impacts of a business interruption and to facilitate the return to normal levels of operation and service delivery This policy describes the core processes that need to be addressed to create a functional Business Continuity Plan and applies to all employees.

2. Policy Statement

A Business Continuity Plan will include processes and procedures to recover from any business disruption, regardless of the cause. It is the responsibility of all management to assist in the development and support of this plan. This BCP Management process will:
- Analyse and assess the business impact and likelihood of threats to business functions and information systems;
- evaluate and recommend strategies for the reduction or transfer of risk (including appropriate insurance, where available);
- develop the BCP strategy consistent with the organisation's overall business and security strategy;
- regularly test, review, and update all procedures relating to the BCP; and
- ensure business continuity planning is integrated into departmental functions and daily operations.

3. Aspects of business continuity management

3.1 Business continuity & impact analysis

3.1.1 A risk assessment or strategy plan shall be determined to assist in the development and approach of the business continuity plan. The risk assessment shall identify all key systems, critical business functions, and the threats to those assets. The threats include, but are not limited to:
- natural disasters,
- fire,
- loss of critical infrastructure services such as power, communications or water,
- deliberate or accidental damage to equipment or data,
- strikes or labour disruptions,
- system failures,
- security breaches, and
- deliberate or accidental disclosure of confidential or proprietary information.

The likely impact of these threats shall be determined for each asset, including a damage analysis and priorities for recovery. The plan must clearly define recovery time objectives and minimum acceptable recovery resources.

3.2 Business continuity planning framework

3.2.1 Management must create a standard framework for all Business Continuity Plans. A consistent format must be published and communicated to BCP owners.

3.3 General Standards

3.3.1 Each department must develop a business continuity plan consistent with organisational guidelines. Without a properly documented and tested plan, the Government of Gibraltar will be unable to ensure that all departments can re-establish normal and complete business operations in a timely manner.

3.3.2 At a minimum, contingency plans must be tested on an annual basis. Significant changes to the business should alter the contingency plan and be reviewed and tested. In complex organisations with sophisticated plans, testing must be more regular. Tests must be documented and the results reported to the RDOs and any other committee that is designated by Government of Gibraltar Management.

3.4 Writing & implementing continuity plans

3.4.1 All Business Continuity Plans must restore or maintain business operations in the required time following any interruption of service or disaster. Therefore, the following elements must be included in the plan:
- documentation of all roles, responsibilities, and agreements regarding actions during execution of the BCP including internal personnel or any external party agreements;
- documentation of explicit procedures for restoration of resources (e.g., all major services and systems, manual backup process documentation, logistics and action plans);
- training and education schedule for all affected or involved personnel;
- testing and updated schedule for the plan; and
- recovery and after-action reporting process.

3.4.2 All Business Continuity Plans must have a designated owner of the plan and process. The responsibility of the BCP owner includes maintenance and testing of the plan, development of execution criteria, and requirements and determination of activation status.

3.4.3 Management must approve all Business Continuity plans prior to implementation and rollout. The plan must contain all necessary documentation, have approval by affected departments, and meet all necessary requirements as determined by management.

3.4.4 All continuity plans must have a testing schedule. BCPs considered critical by management will be tested on a periodic basis. The management and the BCP owner will determine the process of testing. This test may include a full execution of plan including change-over of production operations or simulations of plan to include contingencies and variations.

3.4.5 All BCP plans must have a training and education schedule and requirements for all affected personnel.

3.4.6 All BCP plans must have a maintenance schedule. Each BCP must be reviewed at least on an annual basis or as determined by the BCP Owner.

12: Compliance

1. Policy Purpose and Scope

This policy defines the actions necessary to maintain compliance to all rules and regulations as applicable by law.

This policy applies to all employees and non-employees associated with the Government of Gibraltar.

2. Policy Statement

The Government of Gibraltar complies with all rules and regulations as applicable by law. This includes any criminal or civil law, statutory, regulatory, or contractual obligation made on behalf of the Government of Gibraltar. Any security requirements in organisation in these laws, including protection of Government of Gibraltar proprietary information and client/customer data, are essential to maintain compliance.

In addition, the Government of Gibraltar's security and controls environment is subject to continued and periodic reviews and assessments. It is the responsibility of all individuals associated with the Government of Gibraltar to assist in the continued compliance with both security requirements and regulations (e.g. EU directives).

3. Compliance with legal requirements

3.1 Data protection & privacy of personal information

3.1.1 A Privacy or Data protection officer must be designated to ensure compliance with all legal regulations regarding personal information.

3.1.2 Compliance with local regulations for data protection and privacy must be obtained. This includes the gathering, securing, and dissemination of personal information via any media, including information processing systems, and physical and verbal communications.

3.2 Identification of applicable legislation

3.2.1 Departments are responsible for determining specific requirements and responsibilities for controls or other activities arising from legislation, and then to ensure compliance.

3.3 Protection of Intellectual Property

3.6.1 Computer software developed by or for the Government of Gibraltar is the property of the Government of Gibraltar. This policy must be conveyed to all third parties who develop software or applications for the Government of Gibraltar's use to prevent any dispute about ownership of the software once the project is complete. Software developed by Government of Gibraltar employees on Government time is considered the property of the Government of Gibraltar.

3.4 Software Licenses

3.4.1 Purchase and use of third party software must comply with third party licensing agreements. These agreements may detail specific user restrictions (e.g., number of copies allowed to be installed, the number of machines the software can be installed on, or the number of concurrent users of the software allowed at any one time). Customer support levels (on-site or by telephone) may also be specified within the agreement.
The use or copying of purchased software to be used on a computer other than a computer for which it is licensed, is strictly prohibited.

3.4.2 All users of software on Government of Gibraltar Information Systems must strictly abide by copyright laws and restrictions detailed by the software manufacturer.

3.4.3 ITLD must perform periodic reviews of software usage on Government of Gibraltar PC's, laptops, and servers to ensure all computer resources are in compliance with licensing agreements. All software found in violation must be removed immediately. Parties responsible for loading and/or using non-compliant software will be subject to corrective actions by Management.

3.5 Third Party Software

3.5.1 Information Systems and Information Security must approve all shareware and freeware for use on Government of Gibraltar computer resource to ensure inefficient, unsecure, or malicious code is not present in the software.

4. Reviews of security policy and technical compliance

4.1 General Responsibilities

4.1.1 The ITLD shall assign review activities to parties to maintain compliance with Government of Gibraltar security policies. Situations resulting in non-compliance to the policies must be reported to the appropriate management function. Review activities include, but are not limited to:
- system self-assessments,
- third party testing,
- internal compliance testing, and
- procedure reviews.

4.2 Remote Access

4.2.1 Periodic reviews must be conducted to identify unauthorised dial-up lines. This will include reviews of phone Government records and/or "war-dialing" attempts to identify rogue modems which may exist on the Government of Gibraltar computing network.

4.3 Technical compliance checking

4.3.1 Operational systems must be checked at regular intervals for their technical compliance. This includes checking compliance of all technologies, both hardware and software, to security implementation standards as detailed in the Government of Gibraltar Security Policy and technical control documentation.

5. System Audit Considerations

5.1 Protection of system audit tools

5.1.1 All tools (e.g., software, applications, documentation, work papers) required for system audits must be protected from potential threats as outlined by the Government of Gibraltar Security Policy.

5.2 System audit controls

5.2.1 All system audit activities (by GAO or their agents) must be reviewed for proper audit planning and execution, including but not limited to:
- minimizing any disruption or interruption of business operations;
- agreeing on all audit activities and objectives with management;
- limiting scope of assessment to a controlled environment ensuring no improper access is given to perform the audit tasks;
- identifying resource and skill needs for any technical tasks; and
- logging all audit activities and providing documentation of tasks performed, audit procedures, findings, and recommendations.

13: Exceptions to Policy

1. Purpose and Scope

This policy defines the procedures that will be followed by personnel to identify any exceptions to policies that must occur in order to successfully complete business operations. It outlines the documentation that must be completed as well as the approvals that must occur before the exception to policy will be allowed.

2. General Orders

If there is a conflict between anything contained in this policy and the Government's General Orders, the provisions of General Orders shall take precedence over the provisions of this policy.

3. Exceptions to Policy Statement

In instances where there is a justifiable business need to perform actions that are in conflict with Government of Gibraltar policy standards, management will consider providing a waiver for these exceptions. The Government of Gibraltar recognizes that policies cannot be created and enforced which address 100% of all business issues. Exceptions are designed to facilitate new Government of Gibraltar business, or to address areas where technological changes are not addressed by current policies. However, it is the responsibility of management to understand and mitigate risks.

Any exceptions will be reviewed on a periodic basis dependent on the level of risk involved in the exception and the level of mitigating controls implemented to manage the risk of the exception.

4. Procedures for Requesting Exceptions to Policies

4.1 Guidelines

4.1.1 Requests for exceptions to policies must have a justifiable business case documented and must have the necessary approvals to be considered valid. Exceptions must be approved and signed by the RDO, Department Head and by the ITLD. Once approved, exceptions to policy will be valid for a period of one year at which time the exception must be re-evaluated and re-approved.

4.1.2 If policy exceptions potentially circumvent existing internal controls then mitigating or compensating controls must be implemented and followed.

Dear Chief Secretary,

RE: R v Cornelio, Perez and Sanchez

I write to you in connection with the police investigation regarding the National Security Centralised Intelligence System (NSCIS).

During the course of the investigation the defendants have provided police with voluntary statements in defence of their actions. As investigators police have a statutory duty to follow all reasonable lines of enquiry, including those that may undermine the prosecution or assist the defence. In order to comply with our statutory obligations we are ensuring that witnesses capable of verifying the defences put forward are contacted.

Please find below a list of questions that have been drafted for your attention. The purpose of the questions is to guide you to the issues that are considered important in light of the prosecution evidence and submissions made by the defence. They are as follows:

1. In the event that HMGoG wished to cancel the NSCIS contract with Bland, would this contract always be required to go out to tender? If so, could you please explain the tender process including, if relevant, why some contracts may be excluded from the tender process?

2. Could you please explain the HMGoG software ownership policy? Was/is there a policy of HMGoG always owning software that it paid to develop? Are there now or have there been any exceptions to this?

3. As a Bland employee, Thomas Cornelio was vetted to access the NSCIS platform. Did this vetting expire once he terminated working with Bland on the 1st September 2018? If not, for how long would this vetting remain valid?

4. For the purpose of disciplinary action, can the terms 'trading or commercial activity' as specified in paragraph 6.4.1(a) of Government General Orders be defined?

5. Is there is a HMGoG data storage policy in relation to the storage of data collected by the NCSIS Platform? If so please provide a copy of this.

6. To your knowledge, during 2018, did any officer of HMGoG instruct Thomas Cornelio to keep data or a copy of the source code related to the NSCIS platform safe, to ensure services could run independently of Bland?

7. To your knowledge, did any officer of HMGoG request that Thomas Cornelio maintain the NSCIS platform following the termination of his consultancy period with Bland (post 31st August 2018)?

8. To your knowledge was Bland and/or Thomas Cornelio given complete autonomy over the day-to-day functioning of the NSCIS Platform? Were there any agreed instructions or established protocols in place?

9. To your knowledge, does HMGoG restrict which Bland employees have access to the NSCIS platform?

Further to the evidence already provided to police we would be grateful if you could respond to these questions with a view to incorporating them into an additional witness statement. Where you are unable to answer any questions, such as those that fall outside your knowledge, we would be most grateful if you could direct us to an appropriate officer of HMGoG.

Given that the defendants have already appeared before the Supreme Court we should be grateful for a reply at your earliest convenience.

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions or require clarification.

- Due to a further statement having been received, further questions have now arisen. I will need a further statement from yourself to clarify the points raised. The questions are as follows:

1. We understand that Caine Sanchez was interdicted pursuant to Government General Orders. Can you confirm on what date he was interdicted and by who ?

2. Were you the direct line manager / head of Dept of Caine Sanchez?

3. As per your email to DC 211 Currer dated 15/03/2021 you stated "If you have any questions on Mr Sanchez's provisional interdiction and the subsequent lifting of the same, please email these directly to me as I was responsible for those decisions". In respect of this, we understand that pursuant to Government General Orders:

Paras 7.2.3 If a head of department considers it necessary that an officer should be interdicted under General Order 7.2.1 he may do so provisionally and at the same time report the matter to the Governor through the Human Resources Manager for confirmation or otherwise.

Did you report the matter to the Governor in accordance with para 7.2.3 of GO ? – para 7.2.3

If so when was the Governor informed ? – para 7.2.3

What was the outcome? – para 7.2.3

How many types of interdiction are outlined in Government General Orders ? Is it correct to say that all interdictions are formal and provisional ?

Para 7.2.8 The decision to interdict an officer will be communicated to him in writing by the Human Resources Manager and a proper record will be placed in his personal file. The decision and details of the level of pay awarded will also be communicated to the Head of Department, the Industrial Relations Officer and the Principal Auditor.

Why did the HRM not communicate the decision in writing to provisionally interdict to Mr Sanchez as set out in para 7.2.8 of GO ?

When did Human Resource Manager communicate in writing the decision to provisionally interdict to Mr Sanchez? para 7.2.8

Please confirm:

- Who decided to lift the interdiction?

- Given that the alleged offences were committed by virtue of his role in the Service what considerations did you take account of in order to conclude that the public interest could be safeguarded from the offences of Conspiracy to Defraud and Misconduct in Public office which Sanchez is charged with?
- When was such a decision taken?

Kind regards,

Dear Christian

I write in relation to R v Perez, Cornelio and Sanchez.

Please note that on having carefully considered the position as it relates to Mr Caine Sanchez, and for the reasons that I set out below, I, on behalf of Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar ("HMGoG"), no longer consider that I have a basis on which to continue to be a complainant against Mr Sanchez in this matter.

As you know, to date, I, on behalf of HMGoG, have stood as a complainant against Mr Sanchez solely and exclusively on the basis of the Royal Gibraltar Police's (the "RGP") various assurances and evidence briefings, principally to me, in relation to the offences with which Mr Sanchez has been charged.

By virtue of a letter that I sent to the Commissioner of Police (the "Commissioner") on 25th September 2020, and two letters of 6th November 2020 and 19th November 2020 that Isolas sent to you on my behalf, I requested details of the facts alleged against Mr Sanchez, the key aspects of how the RGP alleges that the offences are made out and any documentary evidence in support of the charges which stand in the name of the Government as a complainant against Mr Sanchez. You will recall that the purpose of my request was so that:

1. I could confirm to the Commissioner (with the benefit of careful consideration of the evidence the RGP's investigation has, with HMGoG's cooperation, uncovered), my position that the complaint should proceed in the name of HMGoG.

2. The Council of Ministers could ratify my decision for HMGoG to proceed to be a complainant in this sensitive matter and with the benefit of the same careful consideration of the evidence in respect of the HMGoG's role as complainant.

HM Government of Gibraltar • 6 Convent Place • Gibraltar GX11 1AA
t +350 20051752 f +350 20040922 e cs@gibraltar.gov.gi w gibraltar.gov.gi

3. His Excellency the Governor could confirm, or otherwise determine, the reinstatement of the interdiction of Mr Sanchez also with the benefit of the same careful consideration of the evidence available at that stage.

4. HMGoG could act entirely properly, in keeping with General Orders and all Mr Sanchez's other rights, in the context of his employment as an officer of HMGoG.

Regrettably, for the reasons provided in the Commissioner's letter to me of 29th September 2020, and your letters to Isolas of 10th November 2020 and 20th November 2020, you declined to provide me with any of the information that I requested. You will recall that I was even willing to accept '...at the very least, a written summary of the information that has already been provided to [me] by virtue of the evidentiary briefings...' (letter of 19th November 2020 from Isolas to the Director of Public Prosecutions). This suggestion was also rejected. Given that I had been briefed on various occasions on the evidence against Mr Sanchez, I am still at a loss to understand the reasons for the refusal to provide me with, at a minimum, a summary of the information on which I had already been briefed. Please note that, at this juncture, I would have to insist on receiving the information and documentation that I requested in my letter to the Commissioner of 25th September 2020 should you wish to review your position and provide me with the said information and documentation.

In the circumstances, and as a result of not having been provided with any of the information and documentation requested in respect of the charges brought against Mr Sanchez, I, on behalf of HMGoG, no longer consider that I have a basis on which to continue to be a complainant against Mr Sanchez.

I note from the Commissioner's letter to me of 29th September 2020 that 'regardless of any complaint or otherwise from HMGoG, the position as it stands is that Mr Sanchez has already been charged and the matter will proceed unless the DPP or AG is of the view that it is not in the public interest to proceed...'. As I have previously noted, I reiterate that I have never stated otherwise, and I know that whether or not the prosecution proceeds is, of course, a matter entirely for you and for the Attorney General. In this respect, you can continue to count on my support as may be required by the RGP's investigations, including in providing additional witness statements.

I trust that the above is clear but please do not hesitate to contact me should you require anything further.

Yours sincerely

Dear Mr Grech,

RE: Mr Caine Sanchez

I trust this email finds you well.

I have been informed by the OCPL that on the 17th October 2021 they received an email from those acting for Caine Sanchez together with the attached document. The document is addressed yourself and includes explanations from Mr Sanchez in respect of his actions relating to the NSCIS platform. It is thereby relevant to the ongoing judicial proceedings. It is my understanding that this document is now being relied upon by the defence in support of representations they are making to the prosecution.

There are some concerns that Mr Sanchez [being a defendant in a criminal matter] contacted you directly [and not via his legal advisor] in relation to an investigation in which you are a witness. Moreover, he pointed you to specific details of witness statements which form part of the criminal proceedings.

In the circumstances I would be grateful if you could confirm whether you have received any other communication from Mr Sanchez that may be relevant to the current proceedings. Moreover, given that the document is purportedly dated the 13th April 2021, I would respectfully ask you to confirm whether the document [or any other sent to you by Mr Sanchez] had any bearing on your decision to withdraw your complaint against him in your letter to Mr Rocca QC of the 8th June 2021.

Kind regards,

Mark

PRIVATE AND CONFIDENTIAL

DO NOT SHARE

Dear Darren

As you are aware I was arrested and subsequently charged on various criminal charges connected to the National Security Central Intelligence System (NSCIS).

I am writing to you as I was the person responsible for the establishment and maintenance of the NSCIS and feel compelled to point out certain issues to you, given that there existed, and continues to exist, a plethora of serious data protection deficiencies that need to be addressed.

It is clear beyond any doubt that my position and role within the Civil Service was that of the Data Controller for the NSCIS. I was the Principal Secretary to the Office of the Deputy Chief Minister and Head of the government department with responsibility for the establishment, maintenance and operation of NSCIS, including its confidentiality, integrity and availability.

This was correct at the outset when establishing the NSCIS for the purposes of border queue information gathering for EU lobbying/statistical purposes, and which processing is governed by the GDPR and Part II of our Data Protection Act 2004 (DPA04).

It was also correct subsequently, when NSCIS use was later on expanded to cover Law Enforcement Processing purposes, and which processing is governed by Part III of our DPA04.

For ease of reference our DPA04 defines what a Data Controller is both in terms of Part II (GDPR processing) and Part III (Law Enforcement Processing). In summary, it is the person or competent authority who:

(a) determines both the purpose and the means of the processing, or (b) processes personal data pursuant to an enactment.

I refer to your first Witness Statement of 21st January 2020, when speaking in general terms of my NSCIS role: you stated that I had "complete responsibility for the NSCIS" and that I "did not report to anybody". As such I would have had "complete autonomy in this area."

The role of Bland Ltd (Bland) on the other hand, was limited to that of a Data Processor and no further.

A Data Processor, as defined in the DPA04, is the person or entity which processes personal data on behalf of (emphasis added) a Data Controller.

Bland were engaged by me at the outset to set up the NSCIS on behalf of the Office of the Deputy Chief Minister, including purchasing hardware in order to fit the specific operational needs of the NSCIS as specified by me

I also engaged Bland to write up the operating software of the NSCIS, and to operate and maintain the NSCIS on behalf of my department.

These tasks necessarily required giving Bland access to personal data within the NSCIS for the exclusive purpose of fulfilling their operational and maintenance duties, thereby bringing their processing into scope of the GDPR and DPA04 and their role as a Data Processor.

It is also important to understand that Bland did not have any authority to process any NSCIS personal data for itself –it neither determined "the purpose" or "the manner" of any processing - and to the extent that Bland were authorised to process any NSCIS personal data it was required to do so on my instructions and at my request for the sole purposes of fulfilling their operational and maintenance duties which they were carrying out at my request on my behalf.

To illustrate our respective and distinct roles further, as part of my Data Controller tasks, I had the sole responsibility of considering requests for the disclosure of NSCIS footage from local law enforcement bodies or third parties. (Such requests were more common at the outset when processing under the NSCIS was limited to information gathering for EU lobbying/statistical purposes.)

In any event, all such disclosure requests were made exclusively to me for consideration. Only if I thought appropriate, would I then authorise Bland to release the relevant footage to the requesting party.

In other words, in the context of such disclosure requests, law enforcement bodies (and any anyone else asking for NSCIS footage) were required to approach the Data Controller for permission, and only when authorised by the Data Controller, would such data be disclosed via the Data Processor upon the Data Controller's specific instructions to the Data Processor.

Furthermore, because of the sensitive nature of personal data processed within the NSCIS, I stipulated specific access controls so that only individuals authorised by me (including Bland employees) were allowed to be given varying degrees of access to NSCIS data or the system itself.

My approval was conditional on a vetting procedure. This involved running a Police check on any proposed individual to whom access was being considered, which was then followed up with a face-to-face interview with me.

I had the final and only say on whether to approve or deny access (as well as the actual level of access) to the NSCIS and its data following that interview.

In addition, where I had agreed to grant access, it was a prerequisite for such individuals to sign an Official Secrets Act Confidentiality Undertaking .

As mentioned above, over time, the scope of the NSCIS grew to include law enforcement purposes and it evolved into a user interface which connected various modular systems used by the office of the Deputy Chief Minister, other government departments and law enforcement bodies in Gibraltar.

This meant granting direct viewing and retrieval permissions of NSCIS data to local law enforcement bodies, including the RGP, the BCA, Port Authority, and HM Customs (each a 'Recipient').

Note all Recipients also became Data Controllers in their own right, but only in respect of the NSCIS information they each used and had specific access to, and which was limited to, and relevant for, their respective and unique processing requirements as determined by me having regard to their individual operational needs.

It is important to understand that none of these Recipients were Data Controllers of the NSCIS itself; none of them had access to back codes of the operating software; and none of them had administrator privileges. The control over all such privileges were retained exclusively by me at all times.

Further, my department remained the Data Controller with responsibility for the system itself, retaining overall control over its access, as well as its operation, maintenance, confidentiality, integrity and availability.

To the extent that any codes or admin privileges were granted by me to Bland it was done in order for them to be able to carry out maintenance duties and ensure the system's operability. For the avoidance of doubt Bland had no authority to forward such codes or privileges to third parties – and even within their own organisation access (and the extent of access) was limited to individuals specifically authorised by me in line with my established access controls.

It is also worth mentioning that the additional use of the NSCIS for law enforcement purposes complicated the technical aspect of the platform given the diverse operational requirements of each of these different Recipients, and the requirement for a high degree of interoperability with other databases and modules such as Interpol.

As a result, the software needed to power this additional use became, and is, fairly volatile. It needs regular and constant management and updates, which if not done, undermines the ongoing availability and integrity of NSCIS data.

As part of Bland's maintenance duties, they were responsible for updating the software to ensure its continued availability and integrity and thus remaining fit for purpose.

It is only now, after my arrest, and in the absence of any prior training, that I have had the benefit of data protection advice and I now appreciate some of the obligations imposed on Data Controllers and Data Processors when processing personal data – both from a GDPR perspective - and also from a law enforcement perspective.

While a full analysis of the applicable rules is simply not possible in a letter such as this, I remain concerned at the total lack of a compliant data protection framework with regards to the NSCIS.

To assist I have therefore set out in Table A some of the pressing data protection obligations which fall on Data Controllers from a high level perspective.

Nevertheless, I also urge a full review of all processes, procedures and agreements associated with the NSCIS to ensure a full compliance program with both the GDPR and Part III of the DPA04.

In a nutshell, you will need to conduct a GDPR and DPA04 gap analysis and then bridge areas of non-compliance by introducing appropriate policies and procedures including, organisational and technical measures.

The reason for this is because data protection law requires Data Controllers and Data Processors to be able to demonstrate compliance (under the key principle of "accountability") by having proper policies and documented procedures in place. Failure to have such policies and documents in place is a fundamental breach of data protection legislation.

Note however none were ever implemented as far as the NSCIS itself is concerned, and this needs to be remedied with immediate effect.

In addition, I also wish to highlight some serious irregularities and actual breaches of applicable data protection legislation specific to the NSCIS.

1. Breach of access controls by Bland and/or their employee

As stated above any person engaged to work on the NSCIS would need to have been approved by me as the system's Data Controller after Police vetting, interview and signing of Official Secrets Act Confidentiality Declaration.

Bland was fully aware of this following a meeting at No 6 Convent Place on 25 July 2018 between Jonathan Galliano, Thomas Cornelio and myself in which I explicitly set out these strict access controls.

In addition, such instructions were repeated by me in writing[1].

Notwithstanding these clear instructions, Jonathan Galliano, an employee of Bland, accessed the NSCIS backend master databases and modified system data without having been approved by me in order to obtain an elevated user account that would provide him with administrative access to all data within the NSCIS system.[2]

It is unknown whether Mr Galliano was acting of his own volition or on the instructions of his employers.

Regardless, it is clear that such unauthorised access was entirely unlawful and contrary to my clear and explicit written instructions and in breach of both the GDPR Art 28(3)(a) and (b), the standards required by Art 32 in terms of security and ss.66 and 75 Chapter 4, Part III of the DPA04 in the context of law enforcement purposes.

In addition, I refer you to s.175 of the DPA04 which makes it a criminal offence for a person to knowingly or recklessly obtain personal data without the consent of the controller.

2. The unauthorised and unlawful use of Sub Processors by Bland in respect of NSCIS contrary to the provisions of GDPR Art 28, and s.68 of Chapter 4, Part III of the DPA 04 for Law Enforcement Processing, and in direct contravention of the Data Controller's existing access controls and procedures:

A Data Processor may only engage the services of a Sub Processor in accordance with GDPR Art 28, and s.68 of Chapter 4, Part III of the DPA04 for Law Enforcement Processing purposes.

In particular:

- the Processor is required to obtain the Data Controller's prior written consent before a Sub Processor can be engaged, or in the case of a general authorisation, the processor must notify the Data Controller if it proposes to add to or replace any Sub Processors;
- the Processor needs to impose at least the same data protection obligations on a Sub Processor as stipulated by GDPR Art 28, and s.68. of Chapter 4, Part III of the DPA 04. As such, a Processor must ensure in respect of any Sub Processor that:
    - the Sub Processor does not process personal data except on instructions from the Data Controller
    - persons authorised to process the personal data have committed themselves to confidentiality or are under an appropriate duty of confidentiality

[1] See my email to Jonathan Galliano of 9 August 2018
[2] See email from Mr Galiano to Mr Cornelio on 7 October 2018

- the Sub Processor takes appropriate security measures.

From the evidence available, it is clear that Bland breached these provisions on at least 3 separate occasions and deliberately ignored my access controls as follows:

i. Infosec/Red Maple Technologies – Bland engaged the services of Infosec/Red Maple Technologies to work on the NSCIS in or around 12 October 2018 without my knowledge or consent[1].

Furthermore, Bland gave unlawful access to the NSCIS (and as a consequence access to NSCIS personal data including all servers and equipment) to employees of Infosec/Red Maple Technologies without going through, and in breach of existing access controls specified by me with regards to Police vetting, interview and the signing of Official Secrets Act Confidentiality Declaration.

Known Infosec/Red Maple Technologies employees who were given access without my prior approval are Robert Stemp and a Mr/Mrs Mason.

Further, having read Robert Stemp's statement of 20th April 2019, it is evident that Infosec/Red Maple Technologies have been running the NSCIS without my prior knowledge or consent since October 2018 in breach of the rules relating to Sub Processors.

Also, the fact that the system was being remotely accessed[2] would have likely required a Data Protection Impact Assessment (DPIA) to assess and mitigate any identified risks given the sensitivity of the data processed by the NSCIS and the increased risks presented by remote access compared to physical access.

ii. PWC – were similarly engaged by Bland to work on the NSCIS in or around 15 October 2018, again without my knowledge or consent[3].

Bland gave PWC access to the NSCIS and given the scope of PWC's engagement[4], PWC would also have had to have additionally been given access to the system's codes and NSCIS related data, including personal data.

As with Infosec/Red Maple Technologies, Bland did not follow all the existing access controls specified by me and unlawfully gave access to the NSCIS and its personal data to PWC employees. I know that Jonathan Holmes, Oliver Smith and Ronan Magee arrived in

[1] See Witness Statement of Jonathan Galliano dated 8 December 2019
[2] See Witness Statement of Robert Stemp dated 20 April 2019

Gibraltar on 15th October 2018[7] and worked on the system for a period of 5 days. Thereafter they worked remotely per PWC's own report of 23 April 2019.

As with Infosec/Red Maple Technologies, a DPIA should have been considered with regards to remote accessing of the system as per GDPR Art 35 and s.73 of the DPA04.

Additionally, and as a separate point, I refer to Peter Canessa's witness statement of 29 August 2019 in which he stated "on 6th November 2018, I received an update on the NSCIS matter from John-Paul Payas, General Manager of OSG, a subsidiary company of Bland. He informed me that James Gaggero had sought the assistance of accountancy and audit firm Pricewaterhouse Coopers (PWC) who had produced a report. I requested that the Chief Minister be appraised of this report."

It is unclear if Mr Canessa, or anyone else within the Office of the Chief Minister, had actually authorised the PWC report or their work generally on the NSCIS.

However, for the avoidance of doubt, I was the only person with the requisite authority to be able to properly authorise a particular processing in respect of the NSCIS. The PWC report was not so authorised.

Further to the extent that the PWC Report required its authors to have access to NSCIS Personal Data, such processing would have been in breach of GDPR Art 28, and s.68 of Chapter 4, Part III of the DPA04 for Law Enforcement Processing purposes which require Sub Processors to only process personal data on the written instructions of the Data Controller.

In addition, the fact that the General Manager of OSG and not Bland was calling to provide Mr Canessa with an update shows that information relating to the NSCIS was clearly being shared within the Bland group. To the extent that this information contained personal data this would likely have been a further breach of data protection obligations and certainly increased the risk associated with the processing itself.

iii. Black Marble – were also engaged by Bland in or around November 2018[8]. As part of that engagement access to NCIS was given as well as to HMGOG codes containing credential details, allowing connection and access to NSCIS including sensitive and personal data.

As with Infosec/Red Maple Technologies Limited and PWC no prior consent was sought or notice was given to me in respect of their engagement and Bland did not follow all the access controls in place with regards to vetting, interview process and Official Secrets Act Confidentiality Declarations.

3. Unlawful access to NSCIS data and a Computer located in the Customs Building

I refer to Peter Canessa's witness statement of 29th August 2019. He says he authorised access to a computer within the Customs Building which was linked to the frontier cameras (and thus part of the NSCIS) to an unknown individual who was put through to him by the Chairman of Bland Group Mr James Gaggero, during a telephone call.

Mr Canessa said this happened when he was at home and after taking a call on his mobile from Mr Gaggero who passed him on to an unknown individual.

Mr Canessa, who was, and is, the Principal Private Secretary to the Chief Minister said "I authorised this access however informed him to tell anyone that challenges him that he is conducting routine maintenance, nothing else."

As stated at the outset of this letter, the government department with overall responsibility for the NSCIS and its Data Controller was the Office of the Deputy Chief Minister.

S.199 of the DPA04 confirms that for the purposes of the GDPR and the DPA04 each government department is to be treated as a separate person from other governments departments.

Therefore, the NSCIS' Data Controller is and was at all material times the Office of the Deputy Chief Minister of which I was head of department and ultimately responsible for.

Mr Canessa, who did not form part of the Office of the Deputy Chief Minister, acted ultra vires in purporting to authorise access to the NSCIS.

Further the access given to this individual without my prior knowledge or consent and contrary to existing access controls is in clear breach of both GDPR and Part III of the DPA04 and demonstrates the lack of adequacy of appropriate security measures in place with regards the NSCIS generally, in breach of GDPR Art 32 and s.75 of Chapter 4 of Part III of the DPA04 in the context of Law Enforcement Processing.

In general, the appointment of Sub Processors by Bland without the prior knowledge or consent of the NSCIS' Data Controller is nothing short of scandalous.

At least in once instance, the actual day to day operation of Gibraltar's National Security Central Intelligence system was farmed out by the Data Processor to a third party unknown to the system's Data Controller in breach of applicable data protection legislation

Other third parties were also routinely given access to the NSCIS and its data by Bland, all in breach of applicable data protection legislation and with little or no regard to established access control protocols put in place by the system's Data Controller.

Lastly, the fact that Mr Canessa, without authority, was able to bypass my office and provide access to a computer system containing personal data used for law enforcement processing to a person he did not even know (on the mere basis of a phone call) is frankly astonishing and requires the immediate review of all security access controls which are clearly inadequate for system of this nature.

These are serious and repeated data protection irregularities; they need to be put right with immediate effect.

Furthermore, as you might appreciate, as the Data Controller with overall responsibility of the NSCIS, it was entirely within my own capability to provide access to third parties of my own choosing without having to consult or notify Bland or indeed anyone else.

In April 2019 I decided to give Mr Cornelio read only access to the NSCIS. This meant that his actions on the system's interface would be entirely auditable in contrast to the type of access Bland gave to Infosec/Red Maple Technologies, PWC and Black Marble as well as Mr Galliano, whose actions were not traceable and in breach of s.71 of Chapter 4, Part III of the DPA04 which requires a controller or processor to keep a log whenever the system is accessed for audit purposes related to law enforcement processing.

The reason for granting Mr Cornelio access was very straightforward and needs to be put in context.

At the time, I received multiple reports from Recipients, namely HM Customs and BCA that the system was not functioning as required. In other words, the availability of the NSCIS was failing.

The RGP by contrast did not report any issues with the NSCIS even though at the time the APIS Air, APIS Maritime, ANPR, Passport Scanning and other systems (all of which comprised the NSCIS) were either not working properly or were offline.

It came to my attention that for about eight months it was simply not possible to check passengers at the Port through the NSCIS platforms as a result of the lack of availability of service on the NSCIS. No interpol or wanted persons checks could be provided and this was extremely concerning as ultimately, I was responsible as the systems Data Controller for its availability and integrity.

Note that both availability and integrity are data protection obligations under GDPR Art 32 (Security of Processing) and Ss.75(2)(c) and(d) of the DPA04 for Law Enforcement Processing.

Furthermore, at this time I was being put under pressure from the Chief Financial Secretary to settle Bland's outstanding retainer fees with regards to the NSCIS. Bland were usually paid monthly but I had not authorised payment of their fees as I had been receiving increasing reports of the NSCIS not being fit for purpose.

However, given the internal pressure I was being put under to pay, I decided that it would be in the public interest for me to at least try to find out what exactly was going on with the NSIC, in particular whether Bland had actually been doing the job I was being asked to pay them for doing.

It was then that I decided to engage Mr Cornelio's services. I had previously worked with him, vetted him, and authorised his access to NSCIS and knew that he knew the NSCIS system "inside out" and that he might be able to tell me fairly quickly what the situation was.

I therefore gave him the read access codes for him to see if he could appraise me of the current situation and what the problems were. I maintain this was entirely proper and correct in the circumstances.

There are other data protection breaches of which I am aware regarding Bland and Red Maple who have been subcontracted by Bland to deliver GoG projects such as the DSS Platform, ETB Platform and the Education Platform.

The delivery of these platforms all require access to sensitive government data about our citizens, and to my knowledge, no appropriate data protection documentation is in place, as well as instances of Bland access codes being passed on to Red Maple employees.

I therefore urge you to review all these matters and hope this letter provides you with an insight into the NSCIS that you might otherwise not be aware of and allows you to ensure that appropriate steps to deal with them.

Yours sincerely

Caine Sanchez

Dear Darren

I have responded to Giselles separate email re availability to have a meeting either on the 10th or 11th.

I will definitely make myself available for that, but my only concern is that a meeting that close to the deadline does not give us a lot of room to manoeuvre and compile evidence. [redacted]

Is there no availability before those dates, perhaps this Thursday?

I have managed to speak with the contact point at Blands, and he is willing to provide information about the set-up, this should hopefully help me in providing a better response to the GRA.

The GRA have phoned me back and stated that we would need to officially write to them to seek an extension and provide reasons to justify why this extension is required. They have also told me that having other matters on our plate is not a sufficient justification (i.e.: Brexit and the elections). However, I believe that I could argue that my interaction with Blands today will produce more information, which if they are minded to give us more time, would allow for the provision of a better response to their inquiries, ultimately helping them in their investigation. I will email them now along these lines and seek the extension.

I will let you know as soon as I hear back from them. Hopefully it will buy us more time, and also hopefully the Blands information is useful; this should place us in a much better position than what we have been in thus far.

Thanks and best

Tito I fully recognise this is critical; I find myself in quick sand at the moment: chairing interview boards today, tomorrow and Monday for HEO; an election on Thursday with the precursors to this to work through; and generally a mountain of work and not enough hours. If you can obtain an extension I would be forever grateful - pulling the plug now under a caretaker Government is not advisable either. Obviously if we can't we would have to find the time to meet - but us meeting does not solve the problem. Let me know please. D

Dear Nicholas,
Thank you for the attached.
The body of the email sets out what you had indicated to me informally and based on this we were keen to progress this matter. However having read the Statement of Work I am unable to sign it or indeed say I am in agreement with this.
As you know at present there is a level of dispute between us as to ownership of the NCIS system that has been developed for Government. I prefer not to go into the detail save to say that agreeing to the statement of work would effectively signify our agreement with the ownership of the Intellectual Property. This would have an impact not just on this module of work but by extension to the whole NCIS system.
I thought we had an understanding to remain neutral on this specific point until wider matters presently under investigation are resolved and brought to a logical conclusion.
You will therefore appreciate that we cannot proceed with this on this basis.

Financial summary:

- We propose to remove £[redacted] from the monthly NSCIS global invoice for the existing mobile scanning solution
- Software development: £[redacted]

Office of the Financial Secretary
HM Government of Gibraltar

8 April 2020

Ian McGrail OTM MSc
Commissioner of Police
Royal Gibraltar Police
New Mole House
Rosia Road
Gibraltar

Dear Commissioner,

I refer to your letter of today, for which I thank you.

I would like to clarify from the outset that, as Financial Secretary, my involvement in this matter, as is clear from the Witness Statement I have provided, is in relation to financial matters, as indeed it is for all financial matters concerning HM Government of Gibraltar.

In my reply of 25 October 2019 to Detective Inspective Wyan's email of 22 October 2019 I sought to confine myself to the financial matters that were in issue. I did not, and still do not, consider it appropriate for me to make statements on matters that go beyond that, especially in the context of a matter that I had not been involved in from the beginning. So it was with a view to being cautious and proper that I confined myself in my reply to state what I considered was relevant for me to state and within my capacity as Financial Secretary.

I did go to see the Chief Secretary upon receiving Detective Inspective Wyan's email and discussed it with him. I assumed that the question of ownership would then be addressed to or by him, as the relevant competent officer within the Government.

As it transpires, the RGP never received a reply from the Government to the question as to whether the Government asserts ownership of the NSCIC platform.

I have brought this matter to the attention of the Chief Secretary who will be replying to you separately.

I would like to thank you for the opportunity to explain the nature of my reply of 25 October 2019.

Yours sincerely,

Albert Mena
Financial Secretary

Dear Ian,

Re: Thomas CORNELIO, John PEREZ and Edward ASQUEZ

As I am sure you are aware I represent the above-named three persons and refer to Superintendent Richardson's email dated 22 April 2020.

As previously advised, my clients do not accept that there is a dispute as to the ownership of the FMP/ NSCIS as suggested by Detective Inspector Wyan in his email of 11th February 2020. The FMP/ NSCIS has at all times since its inception belonged to HMGoG. As more particularly set out below, all associated software and hardware was sold by Blands to HMGoG on a module by module basis, with any such agreements negotiated and finalised by Mr Perez (who Mr Gaggero acknowledges had complete autonomy to run the business and negotiate and enter into agreements on Blands' behalf) directly with HMGoG on the collective understanding that the system belonged to HMGoG. This position has also been confirmed by Mr Caine Sanchez who was as you know, responsible for negotiating the agreements on HMGoG's behalf.

Chronology of events

1. Frontier Queue CCTV website

In December 2012 Blands entered into an agreement with HMGoG to develop the Frontier Queue CCTV website with all required hardware for £[redacted] together with a monthly maintenance fee of £[redacted] which covered web site maintenance costs, and web hosting fees on behalf of HMGoG. This agreement was negotiated by Mr Perez in his capacity as Blands CEO directly with HMGoG.

2. Interpol Passport Control

In May 2013 the Interpol Passport Control module was sold to HMGoG for a one-off fee of £[redacted] The sale agreement was negotiated by Mr Perez directly with Andrew Bonfante, then CEO of the Borders and Coastguard Agency, John Rodriguez, Collector of Customs, and Caine Sanchez on behalf of HMGoG.

I am instructed that during this period my clients were clearly informed by Mr Eddie Yome, then Commissioner of Police, that only HMGoG owned the software and would be allowed to access and receive information from the Interpol FIND & MIND systems which was the basis of this module.

3. Passport Scanner Maintenance

In June 2013, Blands entered into an agreement with HMGoG for passport scanner maintenance which stated that "The Borders & Coastguard agency is now in possession of an automated tool..." [emphasis added] and carried a recurring fee of £850.00 per month. The agreement was negotiated by Mr Perez directly with Andrew Bonfante on behalf of the BCA and Caine Sanchez on behalf of HMGoG. The monthly maintenance covered:

i. Any outages related to the Interpol Passport Scanner software.

ii. Any bugs/malfunctions as a direct result of the software.

iii. Any outages caused by hardware malfunction. Any hardware outside of warranty was to be replaced and installed but charged to HMGoG.

iv. Regular system updates to keep up with Interpol service releases. Maintenance included unlimited upgrades to the system in order to keep current with Interpol releases.

v. Assistance within 24 hours of notice in a service affecting scenario.

vi. For a service affecting scenario not brought about by the system but by the Government network or any other third party, Blands were to liaise directly with this external entity in order to provide a solution.

A copy of the final draft of this agreement is attached as Annex 1.

4. Schengen Visa system

This module was sold to HMGoG for a one-off fee of £[redacted] in June 2013. This fee was payable 25% on project approval, 25% on presentation and approval of the database schema, 25% on presentation of the graphical user interface and 25% payable on project completion and handover to the BCA. [emphasis added] The agreement also carried a recurring maintenance fee of £[redacted] per month which included unlimited support to any system malfunctions pertaining to system errors. This agreement was negotiated and agreed by Mr Perez directly with both Andrew Bonfante on behalf of the BCA and Caine Sanchez on behalf of HMGoG.

A copy of the agreement is attached as Annex 2.

5. Europe ID card integration system

This module was sold by Blands to HMGoG for £[redacted] in July 2013. The fee was payable 50% payable upon project approval and 50% payable upon project completion and handover to the BCA. [emphasis added] Maintenance was offered free of charge as it fell within the Passport Scanner Maintenance Agreement.

The agreement for the sale of the Europe ID card integration system was negotiated and agreed by Mr Perez directly with Andrew Bonfante on behalf of the BCA and Caine Sanchez on behalf of HMGoG.

A copy of the agreement is attached as Annex 3.

6. FMP Agreement

The Frontier Monitoring Project ("FMP") provided HMGoG with a centralised user interface to manage all the platforms delivered for HMGoG to date as well as new projects such as ANPR and the management of frontier queue times.

The FMP was completed and sold to HMGoG for £[redacted] on or around 30 September 2013. The sale price included the total cost for the development of the system, the sale of all hardware and software required for the project together with a £[redacted] monthly maintenance fee which was broken down into £[redacted] for the maintenance of 3 ANPR cameras and £[redacted] for software maintenance on a 24/7 support basis. The FMP Agreement was for a minimum term of 36 months and expired on or about September 2016. The FMP Agreement was negotiated and finalised by John Perez directly with Andrew Bonfante on behalf of the BCA and Caine Sanchez on behalf of HMGoG. It was signed by Nicholas Gaggero, then Head of Operations, for and on behalf of Blands, a copy of the Agreement is attached hereto as Annex 4.

7. Custom EU, GOG FMP Reporting Tool

The Custom EU, GOG FMP Reporting Tool was developed by Blands and sold to HMGoG for [redacted] in March 2014. The agreement also carried a maintenance fee of £[redacted] per month consisting of £[redacted] for server hosting fees and £[redacted] for 24/7 technical support and system maintenance. Mr Sanchez approved the quote provided on 20 March 2014 (see attached as Annex 5).

Ms Jenella Olivera from Blands' Accounts Department confirmed on 21 May 2014 that the amount of £22,693 had been invoiced to HMGoG on 31 March 2014 and that Blands "began the monthly maintenance invoicing of £[redacted] in April 2014..." [emphasis added] (see attached as Annex 6).

These agreements are reflected in 2014 HMGoG statistics:

On 25 October 2013 Andrew Bonfante of BCA approved an additional module for a people counting solution to be added to the FMP. The quote specified that all costs were for the development, deployment and installation of the system (see attached as Annex 7). The module was sold on or around October 2013 for a one-off cost of £[redacted] including hardware and software development and configuration. 9. Frontier Queue hotline system

A frontier queue hotline system was approved by Andrew Bonfante on 19 December 2013 (see attached as Annex 8). The system was developed and sold to HMGoG on or around that date for a one-off cost of £[redacted] for hardware together with £[redacted] per month for 24/7 support and monthly cloud-based server hosting. The installation of an additional People Counter camera at the frontier exit point was also approved on the same financial terms as the first one by Andrew Bonfante.

10. Eastgate ANPR system

In June 2014 the Eastgate ANPR system was sold to HMGoG for a total of £[redacted] and a monthly maintenance fee of £[redacted] The monthly maintenance fee consisted of £[redacted] for ANPR and CCTV maintenance and £[redacted] for a required VDSL connection. The sale agreement stated that the monthly maintenance fee would be added to the existing FMP Agreement. The sale was negotiated by Mr Perez directly with Mr Sanchez on behalf of HMGoG.

11. 30 June 2014 Budget Speech by the Chief Minister, The Hon. Fabian Picardo QC

"As part of the Government's programme to make use of information and communication technology more generally, the Agency has been engaged together with other Law Enforcement partners and Government IT contractors in the setting up of a modern fit for purpose IT infrastructure platform for the frontier. The Frontier Management Project will be available to the public very soon; it will enable us to access real time frontier queue information including cameras, statistics and an improved and digitised frontier queue hotline service. In addition, the Agency is also developing its online presence with an interactive webpage which amongst other things will enable visitors to apply for visa waivers online, thus 1100 improving the visitor experience." (emphasis added)

12. 30 June 2014 Budget Speech by the Deputy Chief Minister, The Hon. Dr Joseph Garcia

"FRONTIER MONITORING PROJECT

The House will know that the Government has set up a website in order to monitor the frontier delays. This has proved an extremely useful tool for persons who want to cross the border into Spain. We also know that the European Commission itself use it to monitor border flow.

The website was launched on the 7th December 2012 which is about a year after we came into office. In the time since then, there have been over twelve million page views. The current average stands at about one million hits per month which equates to about 32,000 page views every day.

This system is being upgraded to a new one using the latest available technology. This is known as the Frontier Monitoring Project (FMP). The House will see that this is provided for in the Estimates.

The FMP system will give up to date information on queuing time, flow rates and camera imaging. Historical data going back 2-3 years will also be available. This will allow a correlation to be made between the length of the queue and key political events that Spain may not like. The system will allow registered users to receive information on queuing times at pre-set regular intervals via email or whatsapp. This means that it can be programmed to send information on the queues, for example, from 5.00pm - 7.00pm on weekdays for people returning home from work.

It can also be programmed to supply information on a one-off basis for someone who does not cross the border regularly. The system will give the user the optimal time to cross in either direction because it works using the flow rate of cars across the land frontier.

The system has the capability to detect suspicious activities. This gives it a law enforcement capability through the use of ANPR (Automated Number Plate Recognition). Law enforcement agencies will be able to track down any particular vehicle from Devils Tower road to the frontier loop area. It will also allow for quicker response times for traffic management purposes." (emphasis added)

13. Renaming of FMP to NSCIS

In October 2014, the FMP became known as the NSCIS to reflect the upgrades purchased by HMGoG and the system's law enforcement capabilities. The NSCIS, however, remained the same system as the FMP which had been sold to HMGoG in 2013 with the addition to the user interface of the new modules which had been sold to HMGoG since the inception of the system.

14. HMGoG Annual Accounts 2014-2015

The following is set out in Page 17 of the 2014-2015 HMGoG Annual Accounts:

"Subhead 5 – Other Projects (zl) Frontier Monitoring Project
Original Estimate - £100,000 Actual Expenditure - £818,249

The Principal Secretary, Operations, Deputy Chief Minister's Office explained that the subhead was initially intended solely to monitor the flow at the border. However, the system was subsequently upgraded to include crime detection and prevention to assist the law enforcement agencies, at a substantial increase in costs." (emphasis added).

The complete document can be found at the following link: https://www.gaa.gov.gi/wpcontent/uploads/2018/12/Government.of_.Gibraltar.Annual.Accounts.2014-15.pdf

15. APIS Air system

In October 2015 an Advanced Passenger Information system for aviation ("APIS Air") was sold to HMGOG for £[redacted] and carried a £[redacted] per month maintenance fee. The agreement was negotiated by Mr Perez directly with Mr Sanchez on behalf of HMGoG.

16. Draft Software Maintenance Agreement

On or around 22 October 2015, a Master Software and Development Agreement ("MSDA") was drafted by Blands' UK in-house lawyer, David Arthur. The concept was based on a generic cover from a standard template from Practical Law. The draft contained schedules where it was proposed to set out the various software programs developed for HMGoG which Blands was proposing to retrospectively own and licence back to HMGoG. It was intended that this agreement include the systems developed and sold by Blands to the DSS, ETB and Education Departments as well as the FMP/NSCIS. The document was incomplete and very much a draft; the Schedules were never completed and only included the following headings: 1. Department of Social Security; 2. Employment Services; 3. Borders and Coastguards Agency; 4. Department of Education and 5. Deputy Chief Minister's Office. A copy of the MSDA is attached as Annex 9.

The draft MSDA was forwarded by Abigail Carroll (then COO of Blands) to Mr Cornelio on 8 October 2015 for his comments. Mr Cornelio replied on 9 October 2015 emphasising that "...I am not convinced that encapsulating all projects under one contract makes sense for us ...I am very concerned at what the outcome may be." (a copy of this correspondence is attached as Annex 10).

I am instructed that Mr Perez, clearly acting in Blands' best interests, discussed the proposed draft with Mr Sanchez at a meeting in 2015. I am further instructed that Mr Sanchez's position was abundantly clear in that he reiterated that the FMP/NSCIS had been sold to HMGoG and at all times was and continued to be owned by HMGoG.

Mr Perez subsequently attempted to discuss the matter with the then Chief Secretary, Ernest Gomez, to see if he had a different view. On 26 October 2015 Mr Perez emailed Mr Gomez as follows:

"...I would very much like a 30 minute meeting with you to discuss contractual capture of projects delivered by Bland Ltd to the Government of Gibraltar.

As you may be aware we have supported a number of Government lead initiatives designing bespoke software where necessary and whilst there is related correspondence we would like to engage in proper contractual arrangements.

I would very much like to discuss this face to face with you, please let me know if (date/time) is good for you to meet..." (copy of email is attached as Annex 11).*

17. NSCIS Meeting

On the 14 January 2016 an NSCIS meeting was held at the Rock Hotel with the following individuals in attendance: Caine Sanchez, Eddie Yome, Edgar Lopez (Detective Inspector GCID), Sean Perera (Detective Inspector Intelligence), Paul Chipolina (Inspector as Staff Officer), Bob Sanguinetti (Captain of the Port), Joseph Molinari (Duty Manager BCA), Aaron Chipol (Senior Immigration Office BCA), Ernest Pallas (Assistant Collector of Customs), John Paul Payas, Daniel Bosano, Mr Cornelio and Mr Perez.

Mr Perez had prepared an agenda which he had emailed in advance to all those in attendance, which included as the fourth item in the agenda, the handover of NSCIS to HMGoG/law enforcement agencies (see Annex 12).

18. Facial Recognition system

On 28 February 2016 Mr Perez emailed the Chief Minister to provide him with an update on the NSCIS as follows:

"I write to update you on the progress that has been made since we last met regarding our National Security project which you personally started about 2 years ago... in relation to the acquisition of intelligence hardware/software programmes in this financial year (which were in principle approved), I need your authority to please authorise the purchase of the last of our facial recognition systems (Border/Port – Operational) for the Gibraltar International Airport (GIA). In addition to 2x ANPRs (£[redacted] to be deployed at the North Mole. This will allow us to complete our "membrane of capabilities" in relation to our main points of entry, thus addressing our 2 remaining areas of concern." (emphasis added).

On 31 May 2016 Mr Perez wrote to the Chief Minister again seeking his authority to purchase the two ANPR cameras for the North Mole referred to in his email of 28 February 2016. The Chief Minister replied saying "At £[redacted] the answer would be yes. But is there additional monthly cost? Copying Albert Mena so we are all always on the same page." Copies of these email exchanges are attached as Annex 13.

In 2016, the facial recognition system (with appropriate hardware) at all the points of entry in Gibraltar was sold to HMGoG at a one-off cost of £[redacted] with a monthly maintenance fee of £[redacted]. An annual licence fee of £[redacted] was also to be paid to a UK based company, HRS, who provided the facial recognition service on a licence. The agreement was negotiated by Mr Perez directly with both Mr Bonfante on behalf of the BCA and Mr Sanchez on behalf of HMGoG.

19. HMGoG Annual Accounts 2015-2016

The following is set out in the 2015-2016 Accounts:

Page 10

"Head 2 – No.6 Convent Place
Subhead 2 Other Charges – (25) Frontier Monitoring Expenses
Original Estimate - £200,000 Actual Expenditure - £629,424

The Chief Secretary informed me that originally the cost charged to this subhead related to the statistical information gathered for the EU Commission. However, the system now operates a law enforcement side which includes intelligence gathering of licence plates, Interpol passport scanners and Schengen processing, people counters, public web portal and the national central intelligence system with the use of facial recognition and vehicle number plate recognition." (emphasis added)

Page 20

"Head 102 – Projects
Subhead 4 – Other Projects (za) (i) Frontier Monitoring Project
Original Estimate - £7,000 Actual Expenditure - £254,579

The Principal Secretary, Operations, Deputy Chief Minister's Office informed that the increase in expenditure under this capital subhead was as a result of proposed changes to the EU Schengen Border Code which meant that if Gibraltar wanted to stop systematic checks done by Spain, the Government of Gibraltar needed to increase its security systems at the land frontier. This meant the inclusion of passport and ID scanners, automatic number plate recognition systems and facial recognition systems amongst other infrastructure works that were required. The Principal Secretary added that, as a result, Government managed to alleviate the issue and the EU were happy with the changes made. The Principal Secretary said that at the time Cabinet verbally approved for these works to be done with immediate effect thus resulting in the extra expenditure under this I&DF subhead." (emphasis added)

20. APIS Maritime system

In 2017 an Advanced Passenger Information system for maritime was sold to HMGOG for £70,000 and carried a £2,400 per month maintenance fee. The agreement was also negotiated by Mr Perez directly with Mr Sanchez on behalf of HMGoG.

21. Port ANPR system

In January 2018 the Port ANPR system was sold by Blands to HMGOG for a total of £18,002.75 with a maintenance fee of £200 per camera as per the FMP

Agreement. The agreement was negotiated by John Perez directly with Caine Sanchez on behalf of HMGoG.

22. Blands' Report and Financial Statements for year ending 2017

Please see below extract from Bland Limited's audited Report and Financial Statements prepared by Grant Thornton for the year ending 2017. It is noteworthy that neither the FMP/NSCIS nor any software assets / intellectual property rights are listed by them as assets:

23. Management Accounts

Commissioner Ian McGrail

Please see below relevant extracts from Bland Ltd Management Accounts for May 2018, two months prior to Mr Cornelio and Mr Perez's resignations. 24. Correspondence between Mr Cornelio and Mr Gaggero in August 2018

In an email to Mr Gaggero on 8 August 2018, Mr Cornelio emphasised that:

"...4. Just for clarification, with respect to your quote that I mentioned, "what has been built by Bland is owned by Bland", the words that I said were: "whatever I have done during my time with Blands belongs to Blands". In turn, however, Blands sold my work on to the Government of Gibraltar as it was a requirement on their part that they owned the code. To this effect, the code for all of these systems resides on Government servers..." (emphasis added).

Mr Gaggero replied on 9 August 2018, stating inter alia:

"..I completely agree with you on the fact that if a software program developed by Bland Ltd is sold to GoG, then GoG undoubtedly owns the software code. It is very clear to me that the Education, ETB and DSS systems have been sold to GoG..."

Mr Cornelio subsequently replied stating:

"...regarding the sale of NSCIS, this platform was sold and invoiced to the GOG on a module by module basis. I recall quoting for each individual module and sending it for invoice to our accounts department. I am unsure why you would differentiate ownership of NSCIS to the other platforms that were sold to the GOG on the same terms." (emphasis added)

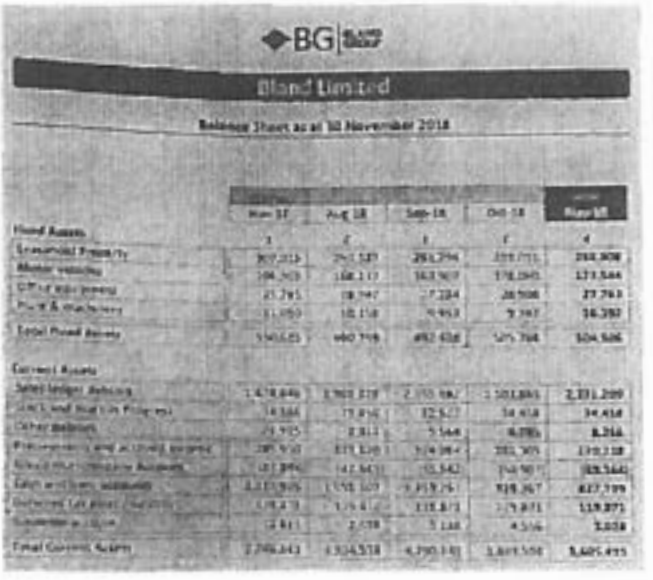
In his reply, Mr Gaggero stated:

"...in respect of the NSCIS, as you are aware, we take a different position and whilst we are content for you to come to an arrangement with GoG for the continued support and maintenance of that platform, our position in this respect and indeed in respect of the other platforms should not be taken as a waiver of Bland's rights over the NSCIS platform. Given the importance of that platform, we suggest that any communication in respect of NSCIS should occur after my meeting with the Chief Minister on Monday. In the meantime I confirm you will continue to have unfettered access as requested by Mr Caine Sanchez."

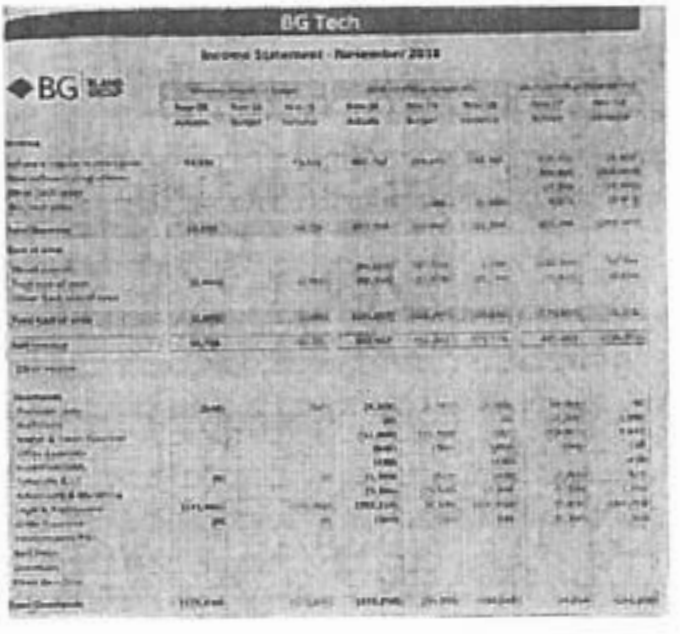
Copies of the relevant correspondence are attached as Annex 14.

25. Bland Ltd Managerial Accounts 30 November 2018

Please see below extracts from Bland Ltd Management Accounts for November 2018, four months after Mr Cornelio and Mr Perez's resignations. Again, there is no mention of any software assets or intellectual property rights listed as an asset:



By this stage, as Mr Cornelio and Mr Perez have previously advised, Wavelecx had been discontinued and replaced by BG Tech as Mr Gaggero had no interest in continuing with it. The Income Statement for BG Tech continued to list "Software regular maintenance", not licences, as monthly revenue. The relevant extract is set out below:



26. Press conference by the Chief Minister, The Hon. Fabian Picardo QC on 23 April 2020

In a live broadcast on 23 April 2020, the Chief Minister said as follows:

"Additionally, we may also bring into use other technologies which we already have in place in Gibraltar, like our GIS system or our NSCIS systems being brought in to play to work together." (emphasis added)

This is a clear statement on ownership by the Chief Minister. It is important to note that the GIS system was also developed in conjunction with external IT contractors, namely Near Technologies and Dominion Global, and the software is owned by HMGoG which again illustrates HMGoG's policy to own all software which it pays to have developed.

For the avoidance of doubt, the full transcript and video of the press conference can be found on the HMGoG official website: https://www.gibraltar.gov.gi/press-releases/press-conference-23rd-april-2020-5834. The relevant excerpts of the Chief Minister's speech can be heard from minute 6:03 to 6:30 in the full video.

Conclusion

I would respectfully suggest that the evidence herein provided clearly demonstrates that the proprietary rights to the FMP/NSCIS belongs to HMGoG and that my clients and relevant HMGoG Ministers and officials, reasonably and genuinely believed that this was the case. The Chief Minister's comments during the press conference on 23 April 2020 puts the question of ownership beyond all reasonable doubt. Blands' alleged ownership of the system was only raised by Mr Gaggero following Mr Cornelio and Mr Perez's resignations in an attempt to obtain royalties from either HMGoG or 36 North and it is submitted for the purpose of misleading, deliberately or otherwise, the RGP. It is evident from the documents provided that Mr Gaggero had little or no understanding or indeed involvement in the running of the day-to-day business let alone the agreements which were entered into with HMGoG regarding the sale of the FMP/NSCIS and its modules. It is also to be remembered that the civil proceedings originally commenced by Mr Gaggero have in fact been discontinued.

I would yet again emphasise my understanding that HMGoG, as proprietary owners of the FMP / NSCIS and all data contained within the system, have not made a complaint about any of my clients' conduct. The complaint made by Mr Gaggero against my clients is therefore clearly unsustainable and, in the circumstances, I would respectfully request that they be released.

Darren Grech
Office of the Chief Secretary
No. 6 Convent Place
Gibraltar

Dear Chief Secretary,

Thank you for your letter dated 25th September 2020, the contents of which I note. I have copied this reply to the same parties as are addressed in your letter. Additionally, having considered the issues raised by you, I have discussed them with Director of Public Prosecutions [DPP] and sought his advice, thus copying him in to this correspondence, given that he also has conduct of this matter post-charge.

I should start by pointing out that our understanding concurs with your own as expressed in your letter to me on the 14th August 2020. Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar's [HMGoG] complaint was made verbally at a meeting at No 6 Convent Place, on the 13th May 2019, when the former Commissioner of Police briefed representatives of the Government and the administration including yourself. During this meeting, it was made clear that HMGoG wished to be considered a complainant. Given the seriousness of what had become known, it was decided that Mr Sanchez would be recalled from London immediately to answer the allegations. Following his arrest, he was, as we understand it, subsequently interdicted.

Your letter makes reference to the Royal Gibraltar Police's [RGP] Press release and you comment that 'the RGP suggests that the government's complaint/s predate my communication to you of the 14th August 2020....' This is in fact our understanding of the sequence of events as articulated above. For this reason, we consider the press release to be accurate.

In seeking to obtain a third statement from you in your capacity as Chief Secretary, the RGP was simply seeking to obtain evidence in the conventional manner that may be put before a court. A witness statement was signed by you on 21st January 2020, and this was followed up by a supplementary statement on 4th May 2020. The position was further clarified by your letter of the 14th August 2020, already referred to above.

If our understanding is incorrect as regards the timing and/or making of the complaint, I would be grateful for your clarification. Equally, if your position is now that you wish to withdraw your complaint I respectfully request that you advise us soonest. I should point out however, that it is not necessary for there to be a complainant in order to proceed with a charge of Misconduct in Public Office. Accordingly, regardless of any complaint or otherwise from HMGoG, the position as it stands is that Mr Sanchez has already been charged and the matter will proceed unless the DPP or AG is of the view that it is not in the public interest to proceed, or the AG enters a nolle prosequi.

It is of note that the charges do not stand in the name of the Government of Gibraltar as a complainant. Furthermore, your assertion that this is the first instance that the offence of Misconduct in Public Office has been charged in Gibraltar is incorrect. There are a number of other instances of such charges being laid and prosecuted which have led to convictions.

Turning now to your request, it is unprecedented for such a request to be made by a complainant at all, let alone for the purpose of deciding whether to provide a (further) statement 'formalising' a complaint. Furthermore, I am aware that in addition to the briefing previously mentioned on 13th May 2019, that the former Commissioner of Police and other senior police officers briefed you as to Mr Sanchez's alleged misconduct on the 30th April 2020. I have discussed this with the DPP and acting on his advice we do not consider it appropriate or indeed proper to disclose documentary evidence in the manner requested.

The RGP, in close consultation with the Office of Criminal Prosecutions and Litigation have concluded, that based on all the available evidence, there is a realistic prospect of conviction and on that basis have charged Mr Sanchez.

I should also highlight my concern regarding your seeking the views of Mr Sanchez in relation to this matter. Any communication with, including any response to the allegations made against Mr Sanchez are likely to be relevant to the investigation and therefore disclosable. This may lead to other lines of inquiry that the investigating team would need to consider.

I trust that I have answered as much as I am able to and made our position clear.

I am also conscious that any further discussion between us has the potential to adversely affect the prosecution of this case, which not only concerns Mr Sanchez but others too. The defendants have recently appeared before the Supreme Court for a second time and remain on court bail. It is therefore important that any outstanding enquiries are completed expeditiously.

I am happy to discuss further if you have any queries.

I return Wednesday evening and will spend Thursday reading over the full version I intend to hand over on Friday.

During one point in our numerous exchanges in the past 11 months, you asked me not to despair; that you were at the point of having my matter sorted out. I respectfully ask that you give my matter the attention it merits and that you respond to this communication with the news that it has been finally sorted. Any other response that you provide would be unsatisfactory given the inordinate amount of time that you have been dealing with this. I remain extremely worried with the way I am being treated by you.

Please accept this email as a gentle nudge that my matter still remains unresolved by you.

Would you be kind enough to advise me whether the agreement we reached back in June 2020 still stands? Conversely, please confirm if your position and assurances over the past 10 months have changed, and if so, what has driven you to that change. I know that I have mentioned this before in previous emails, but I take this opportunity to remind you again that on two occasions, at the point of my retirement, the Governor told me that he would ensure that I was treated fairly and with respect at all times. I sincerely feel that I am not being treated fairly on this matter which as you well know preceded any other issue relating to my early retirement.

I look forward to your response.

It is now 10 months since I first raised the matter with you and it still remains unresolved despite the repeated assurances that you have given me that you would indeed ensure to abide to the agreement we reached on my retirement in June 2020.

In previous emails you have told me that the matter was practically resolved but then all went cold. You kept telling me not to worry and to trust you - that you were still on my case. 10 months down the road and I am still in limbo. Surely, this is not such an administrative burden on you not to be able to resolve it after so many months!

I look forward to hearing from you.

Dear Darren,
I hope this email finds you well.

It is regarding my family's get-together last night, which you attended, and the fact that you blanked me out as if I was invisible, that I write to enquire why you have behaved like that towards me. I can only assume that it has to do with the fact that the matter of my personal and social security status which you undertook to resolve over a year ago actually remains unresolved - that you have not responded to my latest emails of 1st & 8th March 2022 and 8th April 2022 - and that out of a sense of embarrassment/shame you felt it best to blank me out completely. It even caught the attention of my uncle, who is like a father to me, and who you effusively said good night to whilst I was sitting next to him.

I remind you of the many assurances you provided me that you would arrange for my tax and social security issue to be sorted as per our agreement in June 2020, pledging me to trust you and asking me not to despair as you would indeed deal with it. I suppose that trust has to be earned and the fact that you have still not resolved my situation after over 12 months has indeed caused me to despair. Neither have you answered the very simple and straightforward questions I have put to you concerning this same matter. It is for this reason that I urge you to do the right and honourable thing; keep to your word and to the agreement we reached on the day before I applied to retire from the RGP.

I look forward to hearing from you .

Darren Grech, Chief Secretary
HM Government of Gibraltar
No. 6 Convent Place
Gibraltar

For the attention of Mr Darren Grech

Dear Sir

Re: Inquiry into the Retirement of the Former Commissioner of Police ("the Inquiry") – Darren Grech

We draw your attention to Legal Notice No.34 of 2022 in the Second Supplement to the Gibraltar Gazette on 4 February 2022 ('Attachment A'), which gave notice that Her Majesty's Government of Gibraltar ('the Government') has commissioned an Inquiry under the Commissions of Inquiry Act 1888 ('the Inquiry').

Sir Peter Openshaw DL, a retired judge of the High Court of England and Wales, has been appointed as Commissioner for the purposes of the Inquiry. The Commissioner is appointed pursuant to section 3(1) of the Commissions of Inquiry Act 1888 ('the Act'), which states that:

> "The Government may, whenever he (sic.) shall deem it advisable so to do, issue a commission under his (sic.) hand and the public seal appointing one or more commissioners to inquire into any matter in which an inquiry would, in the opinion of the Government, be for the public welfare."

Stephen V. Catania of this firm has been instructed as Solicitor to the Inquiry, and will be principally assisted by Sunil G. Chandiramani and Jemma-Louise Emmerson also of this firm. Julian Santos of 5RB has been appointed as Counsel to the Inquiry.

Under the same Legal Notice, the Commissioner is appointed to inquire, as he shall in his absolute discretion consider appropriate, into:

First Floor Suites, 39 Irish Town, P.O. Box 466, Gibraltar, Tel: +350 200 72150, Fax: +350 200 74986, Email: attlev@gibraltar.gi, www.attiaslevy.gi

> "the reasons and circumstances leading to Mr Ian McGrail ceasing to be Commissioner of Police in June 2020 by taking early retirement" ('the Terms of Reference').

The Commissioner is required to "ascertain the facts and report to the Government on" the Terms of Reference.

Pursuant to section 8 of the Act, the Inquiry may require by summons the attendance of any person whose evidence may be material to the subject matter of the Inquiry, and/or to produce all such books, papers and writings as "may appear necessary for arriving at the truth of all matters".

Background: Evidence Gathering and First Preliminary Hearing

In April 2022, we sought evidence from individuals and bodies who had a statutory role in Mr McGrail's retirement through the provisions of the Police Act 2006. We have now received accounts from those individuals and bodies. An additional request for information was made thereafter.

On 22 June 2022, the first preliminary hearing for the Inquiry was held at the Garrison Library ('the First Preliminary Hearing'). The primary purpose of the First Preliminary Hearing was to attend to procedural and administrative matters in respect of the Inquiry in preparation for the main hearing. A transcript of the First Preliminary Hearing is available on the Inquiry website.[1]

We are continuing to widen our investigation for the Inquiry; seeking evidence and/or documents from other individuals and bodies whose evidence in the judgment of the Commissioner may be material to the subject matter of the Inquiry, in accordance with section 8 of the Act.

Request for Information and Evidence

We therefore request you to cooperate with the Inquiry by preparing and producing:

1. A statement under oath providing an account of your interactions with the individuals and bodies listed below, on matters relevant to the Terms of Reference of the Inquiry:
    a. Ian McGrail, Former Commissioner of Police
    b. Fabian Picardo QC MP, the Chief Minister ('the Chief Minister')

[1] http://coircomp.gi.e documents

c. Michael Llamas QC, Attorney General ('the Attorney General')
d. Christian Rocca QC, Director of Public Prosecutions ('the DPP'), or any employee of the Office of Criminal Prosecutions and Litigation
e. Nicholas Pyle, Deputy Governor ('Mr Pyle')
f. Lt. General Ed Davis, former Governor of Gibraltar
g. The Magistrates' Court (either the Clerk or Deputy Clerk to the Magistrates' Court, the Stipendiary Magistrate or the Justices of the Peace)
h. Albert Mena, Financial Secretary
i. Neil Costa, former Minister for Justice
j. Dr Joseph Garcia, Deputy Chief Minister
k. Samantha Sacramento, Minister for Justice
l. Lloyd DeVincenzi, Solicitor General
m. Any member of the Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office
n. Dr Joseph Britto, Chairman of the Gibraltar Police Authority, or any other member of the Gibraltar Police Authority
o. Maurice Morello, Chairman of the Gibraltar Police Federation, or any other member of the Gibraltar Police Federation
p. Paul Richardson, former Superintendent
q. Superintendent Mark Wyan (formerly Detective Inspector)
r. James Gaggero, Chairman of Bland Group Limited
s. James Levy QC CBE
t. Lewis Baglietto QC or any other partner, associate or employee of Hassans International Law Firm
u. Sir Peter Caruana QC, formerly instructed on behalf of Bland Group

2. Any documents (including but not limited to electronic documents such as emails, word documents, PDFs and SMS, WhatsApp or other instant messages) in your possession or control relevant to the matters in paragraph (1) above. All electronic documents are to be provided in their native format with the original metadata preserved.

At this stage, we consider that the following topics are relevant to the Terms of Reference of the Inquiry for the purposes of the present request for information and evidence:

A. The Royal Gibraltar Police ('RGP') investigation into the suspected hacking/sabotage of the National Security Centralised Intelligence System ('NSCIS'), known as "Operation Delhi"; and/or

B. The RGP's investigation into James Levy QC CBE as part of the investigation referred to in A above, including the RGP's execution of search warrants at Mr

Levy's home and office on 12 May 2020, and any subsequent discussions, correspondence, submissions, evidence or complaints about the same; and/or

C. The negotiation of Mr McGrail's retirement package.

It should be noted that the questions above are non-exhaustive and we may consider further follow-up questions if necessary based on the responses and any other material that we may receive from other sources in due course.

In requesting your cooperation, we draw your attention to sections 8(2) and 10 of the Act, which provide that:

(a) where a person attends before the Inquiry pursuant to a summons, they must answer questions put to them by the Commissioner and produce all books, papers and writings required by the summons. This is subject to the proviso that: "no statement by any person in answer to any question put by such commissioners shall, except in cases of indictment for perjury committed in such answers, be admissible in evidence in any proceeding civil or criminal." (Section 8(2))

(b) more generally, "No person who shall give evidence upon any inquiry under this Act shall be liable to any civil proceedings or criminal prosecution for or in respect of any statement or discovery made by such person concerning any matter connected with such inquiry, and no person shall be excused from answering any question put to him by the commissioners on the ground of any privilege, or on the ground that the answer to such question will tend to incriminate such person." (Section 10)

Please provide us with the requested documents by 24 August 2022. We would be willing to consider reasonable requests for additional time, if so required.

Next steps

As stated above, the First Preliminary Hearing for the Inquiry took place on 22 June 2022. It is anticipated that a second preliminary hearing will take place between 19–20 September 2022, commencing at 10am in the Garrison Library ('the Second Preliminary Hearing').

A draft agenda for the Second Preliminary Hearing has been published on the Inquiry website.[2] As you will see, the said draft agenda includes the finalisation of the provisional list of issues in preparation for main hearing, which is due to take place in March 2023.

[2] https://coirs.comp.gi/wp-content/uploads/2022/06/Agenda-Preliminary-Issue-Hearing_14.06.22.pdf

It is therefore imperative that we receive the requested documents from you by the deadline referred to above in order that we can, amongst other things, compile the provisional list of issues in good time prior to the Second Preliminary Hearing.

In the meantime, if you have any queries or concerns please do not hesitate to contact us.

Yours faithfully

Dear Darren -
I hope you have had a good start to the year and that pressures at work have somewhat eased off for you to see to my matter.

I first raised the issue of my tax and social insurance status with you in May 2021. You provided me with repeated assurances that you would resolve the situation for me in accordance with the agreement we entered back in June 2020. You will accept from our email exchanges that you have stated on a number of occasions that the matter was practically resolved, yet I have not heard anything from you confirming it.

Could you please confirm to me that what we agreed is being respected?

I look forward to hearing from you.

Dear Darrren
It has been 41 days since your last corresponded with me saying you would revert shortly.

I did not receive a response from you on 2nd November and neither did you acknowledge my further chaser on 23rd November 2021.

What is happening Darren? What am I supposed to out make of your repeated assurances, promises that you would revert with the matter resolved and your pledge for me to trust you?

I know you hold a very demanding post which is why I have exercised the utmost of patience, but please Darren, why are you treating me like this?

Sincerely

Dear Darren -

A further 21 days have now gone by since my last correspondence to you on 2nd November 2021 which was in response to your consistently very short apologetic stance to excuse the lack of progress in resolving my personal tax and social insurance matter dated the same day.

Your response on this day was "Dear Ian, I hope you are well; I am truly sorry for the delay. We should revert shortly". I responded to your email a few moments later expressing my discontent with the manner I was being treated, more so when what I am chasing you about is something you had acknowledged months back. I also enquired from you whether your position in this regard had changed and if it had I was respectfully asking you why this was the case - Conversely, I asked you to confirm what we had discussed back in June 2020 if this was not the case.

Not only have you not responded to my last email, the fact that you stated you would revert shortly but still haven't after 21 days worries me a great deal.

I reiterate my pledge to you as Chief Secretary of HM Government of Gibraltar: What have I done not to be treated fairly in terms of the arrangements reached with you at the time of my retirement? Why can't I get straight forward and clear answers to the questions I am posing you? Do I merit this disdain after 36 loyal years of public service? Surely you will have to agree that it is not me who is being the unreasonable one here.

I look forward to hearing from you and receiving closure once and for all.

Ian

Mr Darren Grech
Chief Secretary
HM Government of Gibraltar
No 6 Convent Place
Gibraltar:

11th October 2021

Dear Chief Secretary,

Re:- My personal tax and social insurance status

Our e-mail exchanges of diverse dates between 11th May and 13th September 2021 refer.

Throughout this correspondence you have repeatedly given me assurances that the matter that I raised with you regarding my tax and social insurance status would be resolved. In our last exchange on the 13th September, following my request to meet you face to face, you advised me that you had spoken to the Chief Minister and that he had asked that I refer this matter to him. Under the circumstances I do not consider it appropriate to re-open discussion and agreements which had already been reached between you and I with the Chief Minister.

Aside from my misgivings as explained above, the Chief Minister has given public notice that he is currently fully focussed on the Brexit discussions and this is another reason why I think it would be inappropriate to try and engage with Mr Picardo. As Chief Secretary of the Government of Gibraltar, I am sure that you will want to avoid involving the political government in a matter which relates to arrangements/entitlements which you have acknowledged. Your asked me to pledge my trust in you and I did.

I look forward to receiving closure on this matter which as you too have acknowledged is taking an inordinate amount of time to resolve. You will no doubt appreciate the obvious implications viz-a-viz my Old Age Pension, when the time comes, if this is not resolved as per our agreement.

With anticipated thanks.

Yours faithfully,

Ian McGrail

Dear Darren,

Have you any news on my matter? I am conscious that our last communication was 5 weeks ago. I am resisting any despair because you have reassured me that it WILL be sorted but then again I cannot help but feel concerned.
Kind regards

Darren - many thanks. I will await to hear from you.

Nearly 4 months have now flown by from when I was meant to have had my tax and SI status amended as per arrangements when I retired. I take it that you will be applying the change retrospectively to 4th May 2021?

I honestly didn't expect this was going to be such an elaborate procedure considering that there is precedence to my circumstances.

Best wishes.

By way of update I attach a letter from the Income Tax Office dated 11th May which I have only received in the mail today informing me that my application for Essential Credits has not been approved. As you know, the implications of this non approval is that my pension will remain taxable until I attain the age of 60 which is contrary to what we agreed on my retirement.

I know you are waiting for the Director of Social Insurance, Nicholas Richardson, to return from leave next week to action the conditions we agreed for my retirement but I nonetheless wanted to share with you the correspondence I have received from the Tax Office. Evidently the matter will not be resolved in time for the payment of this month's pension but I trust it will be resolved as soon as possible when Mr Richardson returns to work.

For your information I have also attached a copy of my warrant of appointment, issued by HE The Governor under section 3.2 of the Police Act 2006 (itself a statutory instrument) which highlights the term of office as four years and which by default confirms that my compulsory retirement age was not 60 years as is being interpreted by the Tax Office.

As you copied Nicholas Richardson in our last exchange I have done likewise in the hope that the matter is expedited on his return to the office.

Chief, just a thought but a possible way around it could be to have Mr McGrail become a voluntary contributor so that this does not affect his OAP and have GoG reimburse him for the cost (approx £13 per week); and whilst his pension is taxable GOG pay him the value of the amounts deducted in tax as a monthly ex-gratia payment. The net effect would be the same as the intended arrangement but would on paper be in line with the legislation. This may be easier, more streamlined and less risky than amending the pensions act itself?

On 26 May 2021, at 14:55, (DSS) Richardson, Nicholas <nicholas.richardson@gibraltar.gov.gi> wrote:

Good afternoon Chief,

I have looked into the below and the position from the Income Tax Office – Contributions Section is in my view correct.

Under the Social Security (Insurance) 1955-14 - SOCIAL INSURANCE (CONTRIBUTIONS) REGULATIONS

11.A(1) in reference to credits for persons aged 60 or over or having attained statutory retirement age:

11A.(1) This Regulation applies to any person who

(a) has attained the age of 60 years but not the pensionable age, or

(b) has retired at age 55 by operation of law, (My emphasis)

(c) is not entitled in respect of the same week to a credit under any other provision of these regulations.

The law referred to above, would in this case be the Pensions Act 1961-13, which governs Civil Service Pensions.

Under Compulsory Retirement 8.(1), the Act states;

The Governor on the advice of the Government may require an officer to retire from the public service under the Government

(a) at any time after he attains the age of fifty five years; or

(b) in special cases at any time after he attains the age of fifty years.

(2) In the case of any fire officer, police officer, (my emphasis) prison officer, customs officer or port officer the Governor, on the advice of the Government, may require such officer to retire from the public service under the Government at any time after he has attained the age of fifty years and retirement shall be compulsory for every such officer on attaining the age of fifty - five years (my emphasis) Provided that the Governor shall, in exceptional circumstances and on the recommendation of the Government, increase the compulsory retirement age in this subsection with respect to a particular police, fire, prison, customs or port officer or officers.

However, the Act goes on to define a Police Officer under the "Interpretation" as;

"Police Officer" includes all members of the civil police force other than the Commissioner of Police (my emphasis) The same is true of the respective heads of the Port, Prison and Fire services;

"Port Officer" means an officer of the Gibraltar Port Authority of a marine grade, other than the Captain of the Port

"Prison officer" includes all members of the prison service other than the Superintendent of the Prison.

"Fire Officer" includes all members of the fire service other than the Chief Fire Officer

Therefore, neither the age of 55, nor the powers of the Governor to exceptionally increase the compulsory age as stipulated at 8.(1) (2) above, apply to the Commissioner of Police. As a result he cannot be considered to have retired at age 55 by "operation of the law" as stated under 11.A(1) of the Social Insurance (Contributions) Regulations above. The CoP normal retirement age would therefore be 60 and not the compulsory retirement age of 55. I can confirm that I have cross checked this against Mr Louis Wink's and Mr Eddie Yome's insurance records (both previous CoP) and that the same applied.

I note that a set of circumstances were agreed prior to his retirement; however, I regret to inform you that I have no scope within the legislation for discretion on my part.

It may be possible to amend the Pensions Act, but this would be outside of my remit. I would recommend a steer / advice from the Principal Auditor on any changes being considered to the Act as it will have an effect on the heads of other services as highlighted above.

Please do not hesitate to contact me if I can be of any further assistance. (please note my landline is down and is reported; I am available on mobile/WhatsApp if you want to discuss the above.)

Best regards

> I have been informed by the Social Insurance Contributions Section at the Tax Office that I do not qualify for Essential Credits because I was a head of department and I retired before the compulsory retirement age of 60. This is technically incorrect as in my case I was serving under a Governor's warrant for a term of 4 years [my contract] and therefore my compulsory retirement age would not have been 60 but rather 56. You will agree that my situation as commissioner of police under a specific contract is completely different to that of another head of department and you will be aware that there is precedent for this.

With regards to my tax status I have been informed by PAYE that my code will be amended so that I do not pay tax on my occupational pension. However, the very kind lady attending to me mentioned this would still need approval from SI contributions section and Treasury. Given the position of SI contributions section mentioned above I am concerned that the same interpretation of the compulsory retirement age will be applied to me on this matter too.

You will recall during my final e-mail exchanges with you on 8th June 2020 that I made certain requests on the conditions for my early retirement. These conditions I had also discussed with Nick Pyle who was the interim Governor at the time. He relayed these conditions to you and an exchange of emails between you and I ensued. Of the 5 conditions I put forward you did not accept one and partially accepted another one, i.e. the claim for payment until end of contract and my legal fees. The other conditions were accepted. One of these related to my pension where I asked that this be worked out based on my salary at the time. Under this condition I also expressed my understanding that my pension would be taxable until I attained the age of 55. There was tacit approval from you on this and based of this agreement I worked out my pension/gratuity package for my future income.

It is evident that the compulsory retirement age being referred to by SI contributions section is not applicable to my case for the reasons already alluded to above. I respectfully ask that you impart the conditions of my early retirement to the SI contributions and PAYE sections respectively so that they can action accordingly.

Look forward to hearing from you.

Best wishes

Ian

Importance: High

Good afternoon Chief,

I have looked into the below and the position from the Income Tax Office – Contributions Section is in my view correct.

Under the Social Security (Insurance) 1955-14 - SOCIAL INSURANCE (CONTRIBUTIONS) REGULATIONS

11.A(1) in reference to credits for persons aged 60 or over or having attained statutory retirement age:

11A.(1) This Regulation applies to any person who

(a) has attained the age of 60 years but not the pensionable age, or

(b) has retired at age 55 by operation of law, (My emphasis)

(c) is not entitled in respect of the same week to a credit under any other provision of these regulations.

The law referred to above, would in this case be the Pensions Act 1961-13, which governs Civil Service Pensions.

Under Compulsory Retirement 8.(1), the Act states;

The Governor on the advice of the Government may require an officer to retire from the public service under the Government

(a) at any time after he attains the age of fifty five years; or

(b) in special cases at any time after he attains the age of fifty years.
